Diane Johnson receives Chamber education award

by Heidi Hiiks

Diane Johnson

Five year ago, a young pastor and his family received a call to Zion Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls. For the pastor's wife, it meant moving back to her hometown, a community she loved and so even with three children, the woman set out to show the community how she felt.

"I love the community of Thief River Falls," said Northland Community College vocal instructor Diane Johnson. "It's a wonderful place to raise a family. One of the things I like about coming back to my home community is that growing up, I was given so much from this community. Now I have the opportunity to give back. And it is time for me to give back and enrich the future generations of this community."

Diane received the 1997 Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Education award for higher education at the annual Chamber banquet for all the school and community activities in which she has done just that — enriched the lives of the community now and for the future generations.

Diane has worked at Northland Community and Technical College for the past three years as the private voice instructor. Her students perform in recitals quarterly.

"Music," says Diane, "is the language of the soul. It enables me to express myself about the greatest gift I have — love. I try to teach my students to express their souls through their music. In that way they can give back part of that which has been given to them. Recitals are a wonderful medium to do this."

Diane has also served as the vocal clinician the past three years for the Chorale Festival held at Northland as well. The past two years, the Music department has presented Faculty recitals and she has also participated in these. She feels the role of a music teacher goes beyond that of the performance stage, however.

"The music teachers I had in this community," she says, "were tremendous role models for me as people as well as musicians. They gave me strength of character and enriched my values. I hope to be able to do that for my students."

She has a large private music practice with students in both piano and voice. These students participate in Christmas and spring recitals and one or more service-oriented recitals.

"I think it's important to a community to have experiences in all areas," says Diane. "It doesn't mean everyone has to be a professional musician to perform. It's important to me that my students understand this. It's important to give all people opportunities to perform, to experience the feeling that they can do these things. And to do so while providing entertainment for a group such as Valley Home or some organization is a wonderful way to share your gifts."

Diane also notes that performing offers people the experience of expanding themselves as humans and of participating.

"Too often in our society," she notes, "we watch. We watch television. We watch movies. We watch athletic games. Those things are fine, but if we only watch, that carries over to our attitude about life in general. People need to become active, to become a part of making a community great!"

If making a community great means being involved, then Diane is working diligently at helping make Thief River Falls great. Diane has also been very involved in the community from being the overall coordinator and music director of the Community Arts Council Madrigal Dinners, being a soloist in a variety of events, being the director of Zion's Kids Praise music group, being the director of and participating in several Christmas and Easter programs, being director of Sunday School music, being the director of a middle school religious musical, being a cast member of the musical Annie, being a member of the Masterworks Chorale, being a member of the National Federal of Junior Music Clubs, and being Vice-President of the Thief River Falls Community Arts Council. In fact, Diane was instrumental in reorganizing and revitalizing this organization. Diane certainly didn't need something else to do, but as she says, "I saw a need for performance activities for all ages in the community, so I just had to get involved — to get something started again." In less than six months, the Community Arts Council has provided several performance opportunities and has plans for many more.

When asked about her future plans and goals, she notes, "My future is in my children. It's my job to give the best I can to my children and to enrich the lives of my students. I don't believe I was put here on earth for me to become a notable performer. I believe my purpose is to lead the next generation."

Pesticide applicator workshops planned

To assist private pesticide applicators with their certification, a series of training workshops has been scheduled throughout the Northern Lites Extension Cluster February 4-7.

Farmers, producers and others who apply restricted use pesticides must be certified according to federal mandates. Seven training sessions throughout northwestern Minnesota counties have been arranged and private applicators are urged to attend the session most convenient for them.

"It's important to note that all users (applicators) need to be certified in order to apply products classified as restricted for use," states Ray Thompson, Marshall county extension educator.

"Private pesticide licenses are valid for a three-year period and expire on March 1 of the third year. Minnesota pesticide dealers require a current certification number of the person applying the restricted use pesticide before a purchase can be made."

Schedule of workshops includes the following:

Tuesday, February 4—10 a.m., Pennington county courthouse meeting room in Thief River Falls, and 1:30 p.m., community hall in Red Lake Falls;

Wednesday, February 5—9:30 a.m., public library in Roseau; and 1 p.m., federal building in Baudette,

Thursday, February 6—9:30 a.m., First American Bank in Warren; and 1:30 p.m., Kittson county courthouse in Hallock;

Friday, February 7—9:30 a.m., community center in Middle River.

Extension educators from the Northern Lites Cluster will provide the two-hour training workshop which will assist applicants to complete the certification test.

Northwest Airlines to interview here for more mechanics

Upturn in demand for aviation mechanics has put a more positive twist on demands for the staff at the aviation program of Northwest Community and Technical College.

For a time the staff had to deal with many graduates of the airframe and powerplant technology course who were ready for work but unable to find jobs in the Upper Midwest region. That situation has now reversed and there are more jobs available than workers to fill them.

Indicative of the turnaround is the plan by Northwest Airlines to devote as much of Saturday, March 1, as necessary to interview potential employees at the aviation instruction building at the Thief River Falls regional airport.

"We have advised our students who will be graduating from the program in the near future about the interview session," states Susy Dowers, placement director at NCTC.

"But we are concerned that past graduates of the program who are at home, in school or have taken other employment but are still interested in utilizing their training in the aviation industry become aware of the openings that are now available."

Dowers said that she could place from 25 to 50 mechanics in Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin or North Dakota at the present time and "hundreds" willing to relocate to anywhere in the United States.

Northwest Airlines is looking for mechanics for its Twin Cities facilities and possibly for transfer to Duluth, Dowers said. Starting salary is expected to be about $15 per hour plus benefits. The company plans to hire hundreds of mechanics in 1997. Persons interviewed March 1 may be hired immediately or become part of a potential employee pool which the airline can use as an employment base to hire throughout the year.

For those who would like to interview with Northwest, applications should be completed and appointments made by Thursday, February 13. Application forms are available from Dowers by calling 681-0780 or stopping at her office on the main NCTC campus, or by contacting Lynn McGlynn, administrative support person at the regional airport, phone 681-0829.

The February 13 deadline is being imposed so that Northwest can be notified of the number of applicants and bring a sufficient number of personnel to complete the interview process on March 1.

Dowers added that all graduates of the program in the past year have received jobs in aviation and that she has more jobs available than people to fill them.

Basler Turbo Conversions of OshKosh, WI, is also planning to hire additional personnel and has offered to send a plane to pick up any group of five trained mechanics and fly it to Wisconsin for a tour of the facilities and job interviews. A number of graduates of the Thief River Falls program have been hired by Basler.

Students can enter the two-year aviation program at the start of any academic quarter. Spring quarter will begin March 10.

DNR lacks funding for another year of state deer feeding

Deep snow and severe winter conditions across most of northern and western Minnesota have prompted the Department of Natural Resources to increase monitoring of deer, and to begin planning for possible emergency feeding programs later this winter. However, DNR officials said that there are no funds available for deer feeding without a special appropriation from the Minnesota Legislature.

"The $268,000 available in our budget for deer feeding for the two-year biennium that ends June 30, 1997, was spent feeding deer in northwestern Minnesota last year," said Tim Bremicker, DNR Wildlife Section chief.

Bremicker noted that an additional $750,000 that was appropriated from the state Game and Fish Fund for deer feeding last winter was also expended for feeding in northeastern forested areas. That legislation also included a provision that dedicates 50 cents from each deer license to a permanent deer feeding account starting July 1, 1997.

"We expect that this will eventually generate approximately $250,000 per year for deer feeding in future years, but those funds will not be available until next winter," said Bremicker. He added that the $750,000 must eventually be repaid to the state Game and Fish Fund from this dedicated deer feeding account.

There are two feet or more of snow across a very large area of western and northern Minnesota. Wildlife managers are increasing efforts to assess the condition of deer in the hardest hit areas, but these efforts are limited. "Our funding limits the amount of aerial survey work and other herd monitoring that is necessary to assess the status of deer populations and deer health, especially during a winter like this," Bremicker said.

The DNR is currently preparing an evaluation of the 1996 deer feeding program. The report, which was required by the legislation that provided the $750,000 deer feeding appropriation last winter, will examine the costs and benefits of the 1996 feeding program and make recommendations for future state feeding efforts.

Ski Pass Funds Trails

Cross country skiers help themselves when they purchase a Minnesota cross country ski pass, according to the Department of Natural Resources. Proceeds help develop and maintain more than 200 public ski trails extending for 2,000 miles, all for $5 per year. Although additional costs may be encountered at some locations, such as the cost of a state park sticker, the ski pass has been offered at the same price for 12 seasons.

Ski pass must be carried by skiers ages 16 to 64. Passes are available at $5 per year for an individual, $7.50 for an annual husband/wife ski pass, $14 for an individual three-year pass, and $21 for a three-year husband/wife option.

The ski pass generates about one-third of what is needed to develop, brush and groom public ski trails, according to Paul Nordell of the DNR Trails and Waterways unit.

Ski passes can be obtained at more than 300 locations statewide, including all state parks, county auditor's offices, and many sporting goods outlets.

The passes, which be be billed on a number of major credit cards, may be ordered over the phone by calling the DNR Information Center toll-free in Minnesota at 1-800-766-6000.

Cost of fishing license may go up...

DNR lobbies for a fee increase

Difficult combination of rising costs and rising demand is threatening the state's ability to adequately protect and manage its valuable fisheries. As a result, according to information recently released by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, anglers will face a tough choice in the spring of 1997: support a $3 fishing license fee increase, or accept further reductions in fisheries management.

"It's up to Minnesota anglers," says Roger Holmes, director of the DNR Division of Fish and Wildlife. "If they agree that a license fee increase is necessary, then we'll be able to maintain Minnesota's excellent quality of fishing into the future."

Holmes says that a fee increase wouldn't come a moment too soon. A total of 22 fisheries positions have been eliminated since 1992, reducing fisheries management such as surveys, stocking, and habitat improvement of 50,000 hours per year.

"That's 50,000 hours of essential fisheries work that isn't getting done," Holmes says. "Without a fee increase, we can't make up for any of that lost work or do the new activities requested by anglers. Instead, we'll have to continue making reductions."

Holmes adds that if license fees don't increase, the DNR Fisheries Section budget will remain dangerously close to the red, and local fisheries offices will lack funds for much needed local projects.

Minnesota's fisheries management program wouldn't collapse without a $3 license fee increase, but there would be consequences – ones that would erode the quality of fishing for anglers and their children.

"In terms of cuts, we're down to the bone," Holmes says. "Without a fee increase, additional projects, such as lake aeration systems, lake reclamation, and habitat improvements just can't happen."

A reasonable increase in license fees that would keep Minnesota fisheries management financially sound for six years (based on current inflation estimates) would be $3, increasing the cost of a fishing license from $13 to $16. Any amount less than that would require another increase in three or four years.

Because angler support for the fee increase is essential, DNR officials have recently begun distributing information packets to local fisheries workers, who will take the agency's message to local fishing groups and conservation clubs in coming weeks. "We've found that once people understand how Minnesota fisheries got into this dilemma and what's at stake, they support the license fee increase," says Holmes.

Primary cause for the budget shortfall is inflation, says Holmes. Though only averaging 3 percent per year, the cumulative effects of inflation since the last license fee increase ($1 in 1991) have eroded the agency's purchasing power. Over the years, fishing licenses have increased every five to six years to make up for inflationary increases in operating costs.

"With inflation, a fisheries management expense of $100 in 1991 costs us $120 today," pointed out Holmes. "We're being asked to do more fish management with less money."

Holmes adds that ongoing surveys by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service show that more than $900 million is spent on fishing in Minnesota each year. "It's more than just fishing at stake here," he said.

Each year anglers spend more than $900 million on fishing-related recreation in Minnesota. The money is spent on boats, travel expenses, and fishing equipment. But little items add up, too. For example, anglers spend $4.7 million each year just on ice and $34 on bait. Fishing is the foundation of Minnesota's tourism industry. Each summer, hundreds of thousands of anglers from throughout the U.S. are lured to Minnesota by the state's reputation for clean water, wild surroundings, and superb fishing. Resort owners, from mom-and-pop operations to luxury resorts, rely in part on the state's high quality of fishing for their livelihood.

The license increase has the support of several major fishing conservation organizations, including the Minnesota Sportfishing Congress, Trout Unlimited, Minnesota Trout Association, and the Minnesota Bass Federation. The groups have told Gov. Carlson's office that they support a fee increase if at least 75 percent of the money goes to projects directly benefiting fish populations and fish habitat.

"A license fee increase is long overdue," says Frank Schneider Jr., treasurer of the Minnesota Sportfishing Congress and formerly president of that group and of Muskies, Inc. "Helping fisheries management keep pace with inflation by paying an additional $3 a year for a license is a good deal when you consider the value of Minnesota's fisheries to anglers and the state's economy."

The DNR Fisheries Section is made up of 317 employees in six regional offices and 28 local offices. The organization operates 17 hatcheries and has an annual budget of $16.7 million.

Diane Johnson receives Chamber education award

by Heidi Hoks

Five year ago, a young pastor and his family received a call to Zion Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls. For the pastor's wife, it meant moving back to her hometown, a community she loved and so, even with three children, the woman set out to show the community how she felt.

"I love the community of Thief River Falls," said Northland Community College vocal instructor Diane Johnson. "It's a wonderful place to raise a family. One of the things I like about coming back to my home community is that growing up, I was given so much from this community. Now I have the opportunity to give back. And it is time for me to give back and enrich the future generations of this community."

Diane Johnson

Diane received the 1997 Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Education award for higher education at the annual Chamber banquet for all the school and community activities in which she has done just that — enriched the lives of the community now and for the future generations.

Diane has worked at Northland Community and Technical College for the past three years as the private voice instructor. Her students perform in recitals quarterly.

"Music," says Diane, "is the language of the soul. It enables me to express myself about the greatest gift I have — love. I try to teach my students to express their souls through their music. In that way they can give back part of that which has been given to them. Recitals are a wonderful medium to do this."

Diane has also served as the vocal clinician the past three years for the Chorale Festival held at Northland as well. The past two years, the Music department has presented Faculty recitals and she has also participated in these. She feels the role of a music teacher goes beyond that of the performance stage, however.

"The music teachers I had in this community," she says, "were tremendous role models for me as people as well as musicians. They gave me strength of character and enriched my values. I hope to be able to do that for my students."

She has a large private music practice with students in both piano and voice. These students participate in Christmas and spring recitals and one or more service-oriented recitals.

"I think it's important to a community to have experiences in all areas," says Diane. "It doesn't mean everyone has to be a professional musician to perform. It's important to me that my students understand this. It's important to give all people opportunities to perform, to experience the feeling that they can do these things. And to do so while providing entertainment for a group such as Valley Home or some organization is a wonderful way to share your gifts."

Diane also notes that performing offers people the experience of expanding themselves as humans and of participating.

"Too often in our society," she notes, "we watch. We watch television. We watch movies. We watch athletic games. Those things are fine, but if we only watch, that carries over to our attitude about life in general. People need to become active, to become a part of making a community great!"

If making a community great means being involved, then Diane is working diligently at helping make Thief River Falls great. Diane has also been very involved in the community from being the overall coordinator and music director of the Community Arts Council Madrigal Dinners, being a soloist in a variety of events, being the director of Zion's Kids Praise music group, being the director of and participating in several Christmas and Easter programs, being director of Sunday School music, being the director of a middle school religious musical, being a cast member of the musical Annie, being a member of the Masterworks Chorale, being a member of the National Federal of Junior Music Clubs, and being Vice-President of the Thief River Falls Community Arts Council. In fact, Diane was instrumental in reorganizing and revitalizing this organization. Diane certainly didn't need something else to do, but as she says, "I saw a need for performance activities for all ages in the community, so I just had to get involved — to get something started again." In less than six months, the Community Arts Council has provided several performance opportunities and has plans for many more.

When asked about her future plans and goals, she notes, "My future is in my children. It's my job to give the best I can to my children and to enrich the lives of my students. I don't believe I was put here on earth for me to become a notable performer. I believe my purpose is to lead the next generation."

Pesticide applicator workshops planned

To assist private pesticide applicators with their certification, a series of training workshops has been scheduled throughout the Northern Lites Extension Cluster February 4-7.

Farmers, producers and others who apply restricted use pesticides must be certified according to federal mandates. Seven training sessions throughout northwestern Minnesota counties have been arranged and private applicators are urged to attend the session most convenient for them.

"It's important to note that all users (applicators) need to be certified in order to apply products classified as restricted for use," states Ray Thompson, Marshall county extension educator.

"Private pesticide licenses are valid for a three-year period and expire on March 1 of the third year. Minnesota pesticide dealers require a current certification number of the person applying the restricted use pesticide before a purchase can be made."

Schedule of workshops includes the following:

Tuesday, February 4—10 a.m., Pennington county courthouse meeting room in Thief River Falls; and 1:30 p.m., community hall in Red Lake Falls;

Wednesday, February 5—9:30 a.m., public library in Roseau; and 1 p.m., federal building in Baudette;

Thursday, February 6—9:30 a.m., First American Bank in Warren; and 1:30 p.m., Kittson county courthouse in Hallock;

Friday, February 7—9:30 a.m., community center in Middle River.

Extension educators from the Northern Lites Cluster will provide the two-hour training workshop which will assist applicants to complete the certification test.

Northwest Airlines to interview here for more mechanics

Upturn in demand for aviation mechanics has put a more positive twist on demands for the staff at the aviation program of Northwest Community and Technical College.

For a time the staff had to deal with many graduates of the airframe and powerplant technology course who were ready for work but unable to find jobs in the Upper Midwest region. That situation has now reversed and there are more jobs available than workers to fill them.

Indicative of the turn-around is the plan by Northwest Airlines to devote as much of Saturday, March 1, as necessary to interview potential employees at the aviation instruction building at the Thief River Falls regional airport.

"We have advised our students who will be graduating from the program in the near future about the interview session," states Susy Dowers, placement director at NCTC.

"But we are concerned that past graduates of the program who are at home, in school or have taken other employment but are still interested in utilizing their training in the aviation industry become aware of the openings that are now available."

Dowers said that she could place from 25 to 50 mechanics in Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin or North Dakota at the present time and "hundreds" willing to relocate to anywhere in the United States.

Northwest Airlines is looking for mechanics for its Twin Cities facilities and possibly for transfer to Duluth, Dowers said. Starting salary is expected to be about $15 per hour plus benefits. The company plans to hire hundreds of mechanics in 1997. Persons interviewed March 1 may be hired immediately or become part of a potential employee pool which the airline can use as an employment base to hire throughout the year.

For those who would like to interview with Northwest, applications should be completed and appointments made by Thursday, February 13. Application forms are available from Dowers by calling 681-0780 or stopping at her office on the main NCTC campus, or by contacting Lynn McGlynn, administrative support person at the regional airport, phone 681-0829.

The February 13 deadline is being imposed so that Northwest can be notified of the number of applicants and bring a sufficient number of personnel to complete the interview process on March 1.

Dowers added that all graduates of the program in the past year have received jobs in aviation and that she has more jobs available than people to fill them.

Basler Turbo Conversions of OshKosh, WI, is also planning to hire additional personnel and has offered to send a plane to pick up any group of five trained mechanics and fly it to Wisconsin for a tour of the facilities and job interviews. A number of graduates of the Thief River Falls program have been hired by Basler.

Students can enter the two-year aviation program at the start of any academic quarter. Spring quarter will begin March 10.

DNR lacks funding for another year of state deer feeding

Deep snow and severe winter conditions across most of northern and western Minnesota have prompted the Department of Natural Resources to increase monitoring of deer, and to begin planning for possible emergency feeding programs later this winter. However, DNR officials said that there are no funds available for deer feeding without a special appropriation from the Minnesota Legislature.

"The $260,000 available in our budget for deer feeding for the two-year biennium that ends June 30, 1997, was spent feeding deer in northwestern Minnesota last year," said Tim Bremicker, DNR Wildlife Section chief.

Bremicker noted that an additional $750,000 that was appropriated from the state Game and Fish Fund for deer feeding last winter was also expended for feeding in northeastern forested areas. That legislation also included a provision that dedicates 50 cents from each deer license to a permanent deer feeding account starting July 1, 1997.

"We expect that this will eventually generate approximately $250,000 per year for deer feeding in future years, but those funds will not be available until next winter," said Bremicker. He added that the $750,000 must eventually be repaid to the state Game and Fish Fund from this dedicated deer feeding account.

There are two feet or more of snow across a very large area of western and northern Minnesota. Wildlife managers are increasing efforts to assess the condition of deer in the hardest hit areas, but these efforts are limited. "Our funding limits the amount of aerial survey work and other herd monitoring that is necessary to assess the status of deer populations and deer health, especially during a winter like this," Bremicker said.

The DNR is currently preparing an evaluation of the 1996 deer feeding program. The report, which was required by the legislation that provided the $750,000 deer feeding appropriation last winter, will examine the costs and benefits of the 1996 feeding program and make recommendations for future state feeding efforts.

Ski Pass Funds Trails

Cross country skiers help themselves when they purchase a Minnesota cross country ski pass, according to the Department of Natural Resources. Proceeds help develop and maintain more than 200 public ski trails extending for 2,000 miles, all for $5 per year. Although additional costs may be encountered at some locations, such as the cost of a state park sticker, the ski pass has been offered at the same price for 12 seasons.

Ski pass must be carried by skiers ages 16 to 64. Passes are available at $5 per year for an individual, $7.50 for an annual husband/wife ski pass, $14 for an individual three-year pass, and $21 for a three-year husband/wife option.

The ski pass generates about one-third of what is needed to develop, brush and groom public ski trails, according to Paul Nordell of the DNR Trails and Waterways unit.

Ski passes can be obtained at more than 300 locations statewide, including all state parks, county auditor's offices, and many sporting goods outlets.

The passes, which be be billed on a number of major credit cards, may be ordered over the phone by calling the DNR Information Center toll-free in Minnesota at 1-800-766-6000.

Cost of fishing license may go up...

DNR lobbies for a fee increase

Difficult combination of rising costs and rising demand is threatening the state's ability to adequately protect and manage its valuable fisheries. As a result, according to information recently released by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, anglers will face a tough choice in the spring of 1997: support a $3 fishing license fee increase, or accept further reductions in fisheries management.

"It's up to Minnesota anglers," says Roger Holmes, director of the DNR Division of Fish and Wildlife. "If they agree that a license fee increase is necessary, then we'll be able to maintain Minnesota's excellent quality of fishing into the future."

Holmes says that a fee increase wouldn't come a moment too soon. A total of 22 fisheries positions have been eliminated since 1992, reducing fisheries management such as surveys, stocking, and habitat improvement of 50,000 hours per year.

"That's 50,000 hours of essential fisheries work that isn't getting done," Holmes says. "Without a fee increase, we can't make up for any of that lost work or do the new activities requested by anglers. Instead, we'll have to continue making reductions."

Holmes adds that if license fees don't increase, the DNR Fisheries Section budget will remain dangerously close to the red, and local fisheries offices will lack funds for much-needed local projects.

Minnesota's fisheries management program wouldn't collapse without a $3 license fee increase, but there would be consequences – ones that would erode the quality of fishing for anglers and their children.

"In terms of cuts, we're down to the bone," Holmes says. "Without a fee increase, additional projects such as lake aeration systems, lake reclamation, and habitat improvements just can't happen."

A reasonable increase in license fees that would keep Minnesota fisheries management financially sound for six years (based on current inflation estimates) would be $3, increasing the cost of a fishing license from $13 to $16. Any amount less than that would require another increase in three or four years.

Because angler support for the fee increase is essential, DNR officials have recently begun distributing information packets to local fisheries workers, who will take the agency's message to local fishing groups and conservation clubs in coming weeks. "We've found that once people understand how Minnesota fisheries got into this dilemma and what's at stake, they support the license fee increase," says Holmes.

Primary cause for the budget shortfall is inflation, says Holmes. Though only averaging 3 percent per year, the cumulative effects of inflation since the last license fee increase ($1 in 1991) have eroded the agency's purchasing power. Over the years, fishing licenses have increased every five to six years to make up for inflationary increases in operating costs.

"With inflation, a fisheries management expense of $100 in 1991 costs us $120 today," pointed out Holmes. "We're being asked to do more fish management with less money."

Holmes adds that ongoing surveys by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service show that more that $900 million is spent on fishing in Minnesota each year. "It's more than just fishing at stake here," he said.

Each year anglers spend more than $900 million on fishing-related recreation in Minnesota. The money is spent on boats, travel expenses, and fishing equipment. But little items add up, too. For example, anglers spend $4.7 million each year just on ice and $34 on bait. Fishing is the foundation of Minnesota's tourism industry. Each summer, hundreds of thousands of anglers from throughout the U.S. are lured to Minnesota by the state's reputation for clean water, wild surroundings, and superb fishing. Resort owners, from mom-and-pop operations to luxury resorts, rely in part on the state's high quality of fishing for their livelihood.

The license increase has the support of several major fishing conservation organizations, including the Minnesota Sportfishing Congress, Trout Unlimited, Minnesota Trout Association, and the Minnesota Bass Federation. The groups have told Gov. Carlson's office that they support a fee increase if at least 75 percent of the money goes to projects directly benefiting fish populations and fish habitat.

"A license fee increase is long overdue," says Frank Schneider Jr., treasurer of the Minnesota Sportfishing Congress and formerly president of that group and of Muskies, Inc. "Helping fisheries management keep pace with inflation by paying an additional $3 a year for a license is a good deal when you consider the value of Minnesota's fisheries to anglers and the state's economy."

The DNR Fisheries Section is made up of 317 employees in six regional offices and 28 local offices. The organization operates 17 hatcheries and has an annual budget of $16.7 million.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

Pioneers emerge from unusual finish with win over Spartans

A bizarre finish might have tainted the victory just a bit, but Northland coach Mark Dannhoff wasn't about to look a gift horse in the mouth Monday as the Pioneers shot eight free throws in the final 3.7 seconds, and made five of them, to pull out a 78-74 Minnesota Community College Conference men's basketball victory over stunned Fergus Falls.

It was the first of two regular season match-ups between the defending MCCC state champion Spartans and the defending Northern Division champion Pioneers. And it was a dandy – ultimately decided when the coach who was recently recognized for accumulating the most wins in league history and the best player on the court, a Dave and Jason Retzlaff father/son combination, were slapped with back-to-back technical fouls in the final moments of a one-point basketball game.

The end went like this: Fergus Falls' Jason Retzlaff – the player – executed one of his many jaw-dropping twisting drives to the basket to put the visitors up 74-73 with 8.4 seconds to play.

Northland rushed the ball down the court, with Jason Retzlaff picking up the Pioneers' Hassan Jihad as he crossed midcourt. A foul was called as they reached the top of the key – a call that probably surprised most and floored the Spartans. Jason Retzlaff's reaction bought him a technical. That's when Dave Retzlaff – the coach – stepped on to the court as he voiced his concern, which produced another technical.

Net result: two free throws for the foul call, and two more sets of free throws for the technicals, plus possession of the ball out of bounds following the free throws.

Jihad made his free throws and was supplanted at the line by Kenta McGaughy for the technicals. He hit the first pair, but missed the next two. That made it 77-74, and when Jon Hager was quickly fouled on the in-bounds play, he made one of two free throws to clinch it with 2.9 seconds on the clock.

It was the first loss of the year for the Spartans, who came into the game 12-0 overall and 4-0 in the Northern Division. The Pioneers, after losing three straight MCCC road games, improved to .500 on both counts – 7-7 overall and 3-3 in the Northern Division, where they are involved in a tight race for a state tournament spot.

"That's not the way you want it to end in the sense of the technical foul calls," admitted Dannhoff, "but we'll take it. The kids played their hearts out. I'm unbelievably proud of them."

That Northland was even in the game at the end was a surprise considering the Pioneers' start that included turnovers on four of their first five possessions and nine turnovers in the first six minutes that put them in a 9-0 hole.

But they recovered, and caught the Spartans at 25-25 with 5 1/2 minutes left in the first half following back-to-back baskets by John Harris.

A 3-point shot from the side by Hager put Northland on top for the first time, 28-27 with 5:04 left, and a 7-0 run that included four free throws by Jason Shufner, a short jumper by Hager and a free throw by Harris, sent the Pioneers into half with a 35-33 edge.

Northland, up by as many as 10 points, did not surrender the lead until Jim Schlieman scored on a wide-open back door play that put the Spartans ahead 72-71 with 1:46 to play.

Two free throws Pioneers' Ikenna Martin had Northland back on top 73-72 with 1:19 left. The score didn't change until those final hectic seconds.

"We were a little nervous at the start," acknowledged Dannhoff, "and part of that was because they wanted it so bad. But they hung in there, settled down and played some good basketball. Everybody came in and did what we asked them to do. It was a great win for our kids."

Jason Retzlaff, the 6-3 freshman from Fergus Falls High School, finished with a game-high 28 points. Schlieman, a 6-4 freshman from Lac Qui Parle Valley, netted 22. Jihad, a strong 6-3, 240-pound sophomore from Detroit, MI, had a 25-point night to lead the Pioneers.

From the field, Northland was 26-for-64 (41 percent) and Fergus Falls was 32-for-66 (48 percent), but the Pioneers made up for that deficit with a 19-for-27 free throw night, compared to a 5-for-8 Fergus Falls figure at the line.

TRF girls edge Crookston

Thief River Falls converted free throws into a 65-64 overtime win over Crookston Saturday in girls high school basketball.

The Prowlers, beaten by the Pirates 63-46 earlier this season, had a busy – and productive – 24-for-34 night at the line to improve their record to 8-8.

"We went at them offensively and drew some fouls," explained Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "We're real pleased with the win. We played under control. We were patient."

It was close throughout. Thief River Falls led 15-12 at the end of the first quarter, fell behind 27-24 at halftime and trailed 45-41 through three quarters. It was tied 52-all at the end of regulation time. The Prowlers made 7 of 8 free throw attempts in overtime to win it, with Kim Stenseth going 4-for-4 at the line in the extra session en route to a game-high 27 points.

Nicole Kopari joined Stenseth in double figures with 17 points. They both finished with 11 rebounds. Carrie Kildahl and Sara Knutson scored 12 points each to lead the visiting Pirates.

"Everyone played well for us," noted Loe. "We played eight kids, and they all did a nice job. Defensively I thought we played very well. We put pressure on them and came up with some steals."

Thief River Falls was 25-for-64 from the field (39 percent). Crookston went 20-for-62 from the floor (32 percent) and 12-for-19 at the line. The Prowlers had a 37-26 rebound edge. The Pirates wound up with more turnovers, 21-19.

The game was postponed from Friday because of the weather.

NCTC women top Fergus Falls

Northland didn't play particularly well, but the Pioneers did play well enough to win a 67-56 Minnesota Community College Conference women's basketball match-up with Fergus Falls Monday in Thief River Falls.

"It was ugly," said Northland coach Rick Nikunen. But it was a win that pushed the Pioneers' record to 10-3 overall and 4-2 in the Northern Division, where the Pioneers are among the teams chasing Central Lakes' division-leading 4-0 record. Fergus Falls fell to 7-5 and 2-3.

The two teams were never separated by more than four points in a first half that ended in a 26-26 tie on two free throws by the Spartans' Stacy Lill with 31 seconds left.

"Fergus Falls played very, very well in the first 20 minutes," said Nikunen. "They had a better effort than we did in the first half. They had us back on our heels."

Northland finally took the lead for good with a 9-0 run that ended with a Jenny Smith jumper for a 45-41 lead with 10:40 to play.

The Pioneers doubled a four-point edge to 57-49 on a drive by Adria Olson and then a rebound basket by Naomi Wilebski with 4:56 left, then sealed it with six unanswered free throws over a two-minute span – two by Olson, singles by Ali Hietala and Smith, then a pair by Paula Hovda – that made it 65-53 with 1:33 on the clock.

"We didn't change anything at halftime, other than our defense," explained Nikunen. "They just did a better job running the offense in the second half. They knew they had to pick it up and they did."

A balanced Northland attack included Olson and Wilebski with 14 points each, Sugden 13 off the bench that included 3-for-4 shooting from 3-point range, and Hovda with 10. Lill led Fergus Falls with a game-high 15 points.

Northland's 49 percent 24-for-49 shooting from the field included a 58 percent 15-for-26 second half. Fergus Falls was 24-for-60 (40 percent). The Pioneers had a 15-for-23 night at the line, where the Spartans were 7-for-10. Northland had one more rebound than Fergus Falls, 32-31; the Spartans had one more turnover than the Pioneers, 20-19.

"Defensively we did a much better job in the second half," noted Nikunen. "We tried some gimmick defense in the first half. I don't know what I was afraid of. We should have stuck with a plain old man-to-man – it's what we do best. That's what we did in the second half, and we did a good job with it."

Rebounds, turnovers add up

■ Thief River Falls boys lose 66-45 to Otters

Fergus Falls overcame an early 10-point deficit to beat Thief River Falls 66-45 Saturday in a boys high school basketball game played on the Otters' court.

The Prowlers jumped out to a 13-3 lead, but it was a short-lived edge. Fergus Falls led 19-17 at the end of the first quarter, had a 29-21 halftime advantage and then broke it open with a 52-28 third quarter spread.

"We started out well, but then we started making mistakes," reported Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke. "We just didn't play a very good ball game."

Rebounds and turnovers had a major impact in the outcome of the game. The Prowlers were beat on the offensive boards 18-4 in getting out-rebounded 34-22, and they turned the ball over 31 times, compared to the Otters' 15 turnovers.

The Prowlers shot 46 percent from the field, but because of the rebounds and turnovers, they were limited to 18-for-39 shooting. The Otters shot 44 percent – a couple of percentage points below the Prowlers, but they were 27-for-62.

Thief River Falls was also a quiet 4-for-5 from the free throw line. Fergus Falls' 8-for-20 free throw shooting kept the final from being even more one-sided.

Brent Ness led Fergus Falls with 15 points. Jeremy Swanson was the only Thief River Falls scorer in double figures, netting 10 points.

The two teams were scheduled to play Friday, but were delayed a day by the weather.

Thief River Falls is 4-8.

Wolfpack pulls away from Nordics at end

Marshall County Central boys high school basketball team got through three quarters in pretty decent shape, but ran into final-period trouble Saturday that led to a 49-35 loss at the hands of Kittson Central.

The Nordics spotted the visiting Wolfpack a 13-8 first quarter lead, came back to gain a 20-20 tie at halftime and were down just 30-28 at the end of the third quarter. But they were just 1-for-8 from the field while being out-scored 19-7 over the final eight minutes.

"We played fairly well, particularly in the two middle quarters," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "But we just seem to hit those streaks where we can't score, and that's what happened to us in the fourth quarter."

It was the ninth straight loss for the 3-11 Nordics.

The Nordics shot 35 percent from the field (14/40) and made 6 of 13 free throws. The Wolfpack shot 40 percent from the floor (18/45) and went 12-for-26 at the line. Marshall County Central out-rebounded Kittson Central 34-25.

Recognition program planned for 1987 MCC state tournament team

A program honoring the Marshall County Central girls high school basketball team that won Sub-Section 32A and Section 8A titles en route to a sixth place finish at the 1987 Class A Minnesota state high school basketball tournament will be held Friday prior to the Nordics' boys basketball game that night against Grygla-Gatzke.

The pre-game recognition program will be followed by a post-game gathering.

Jenny Smith of Northland (white jersey) and Becky Ward of Fergus Falls battled for possession of the basketball during Monday's Minnesota Community College Conference women's game in Thief River Falls. The Pioneers beat the Spartans 67-56.

Trevor Lee was looking for a rebound, but the Thief River Falls forward was out of luck as East Grand Forks goalie Wade Holtmen held on to a glove save during the Tuesday (Jan. 21) Section 8A high school hockey game at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. The Green Wave edged the Prowlers 2-1.

Strong start propels Pioneers past Itasca

Northland made short work of Itasca Friday in a 73-26 Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division women's basketball match-up in Thief River Falls.

The Pioneers jumped out to a 20-4 lead and were up 38-12 at halftime.

"We had a good first seven-eight minutes," noted Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We came out with a lot of intensity and took control right away."

Northland scoring was split among a dozen players, led by Jenny Smith with 11 points and Adria Olson with 10.

The Pioneers were 28-for-72 from the field (38 percent) and 12-for-23 at the free throw line. The Vikings made just 11 of 65 field goal attempts (17 percent) and were 4-for-5 at the line.

With Tammy Nerby grabbing 11 and Naomi Wilebski and LaVonne Nelson both pulling down 10, Northland out-rebound Itasca 67-38. The Vikings wound up with 21 turnovers; the Pioneers had 17.

Barry keeps TRF close to Spuds

Highly-ranked Class AA high school hockey power Moorhead, coming off one-sided wins over Warroad and Grand Rapids, had a tougher-than-expected time putting away struggling Thief River Falls in a Saturday match-up at the Moorhead Sports Center won by the Spuds won 4-2.

It was close because Thief River Falls coach Brian Barry came up with 59 saves.

"I thought we played well," said Thief River Falls coach Pat Cullen. "We got some outstanding goaltending, and we had some good chances."

Moorhead out-shot Thief River Falls 63-21, but Barry kept it close, especially over the final two periods when he was busy making 46 saves while his counterpart, Moorhead goalie Jason Gregoire, was turning aside just nine shots.

Thief River Falls began the scoring just 17 seconds into the game on a goal by Wade Chiodo. But Moorhead led 3-1 by the end of the first period. It was 4-1 before the Prowlers' Chad Nordhagen completed the scoring at 9:52 of the second period.

The Prowlers have lost six straight and are 2-12-1 for the year, but Cullen has been encouraged by his team's play of late, including the final period of a 5-1 loss to Roseau and the complete-game efforts in a 2-1 loss to East Grand Forks plus the setback at Moorhead.

"We've played seven good periods in a row," noted Cullen.

Eagles' unbeaten status ends

Unbeaten status of Grygla-Gatzke ended at 10 games Friday when the Eagles lost a 64-52 boys high school basketball decision at Roseau.

The Rams started with a 17-8 first quarter lead and had a 27-19 halftime advantage. The Eagles closed within 39-38 at the end of the third quarter, but couldn't overtake the Rams.

It was still a four-point game with a minute to play before the winners lengthened their lead down the stretch.

"Roseau played a good ball game," pointed out Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "They took the game to us. It seemed like it was an up-hill battle for us all night. We didn't convert when we had some chances."

Mott Sjulstad of Roseau and Shaun Verbout of Grygla-Gatzke shared game-high scoring honors with 22 points each.

Grygla-Gatzke was 20-for-52 from the field (38 percent) and 9-for-18 at the free throw line. Roseau enjoyed a 58 percent 23-for-43 shooting night from the floor and converted on 17 of 25 free throw chances. The Rams also had a 23-16 rebound edge. The Eagles topped the turnover charts 12-10.

Kittson Central is winner over MCC girls team, 73-29

Kittson Central out-scored Marshall County Central 44-8 in the two middle quarters Monday en route to a 73-29 girls high school basketball victory.

The host Wolfpack turned a 12-5 first quarter lead into a 36-9 halftime cushion and opened up a 56-13 third quarter gap.

"We played a good, aggressive first quarter," said Marshall County Central coach Jerald Hogen, "but then we started to run with them. And they run better than we do."

It was the tenth loss in 11 starts for the Nordics.

Emily Dahl of Kittson Central led all scorers with 15 points. The Nordics' Brandi Olson scored 12 of her team-high 14 points in the fourth quarter.

Marshall County Central was 12-for-36 from the field (33 percent) while Kittson Central went 31-for-71 (44 percent). The Nordics were 3-for-4 at the free throw line, where the Wolfpack had a 10-for-14 night. The winners finished with a 36-22 rebound advantage.

Gators switch to zone to shut off Wolverines

Full court pressure normally employed by Badger/Greenbush-Middle River press wasn't producing the desired results, prompting a switch to a zone the Thursday (Jan. 23) girls high school basketball game against Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke. The move worked. The Gators won 44-32 to go 11-3 for the year. The Wolverines fell to 5-8.

"Their guards are good," pointed out Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "We pressed for the first quarter, but we couldn't get the turnovers, so we went to a zone. I think it was probably the first time we played zone since early December, but it was pretty effective."

The two teams were tied at 10-10 through one quarter, but the Gators' defense did not give up another double-figure quarter the rest of the way.

Another strong performance by the Gators' bench played a key role in the outcome as Kara Kuznia came in and went 4-for-5 from the field and 2-for-2 at the free throw line for a team-high 10 points, and Joanna Johnson was a perfect 4-for-4 from the floor.

Jenny Nelson of the Wolverines led all scorers with 18 points, but season-long scoring leader Jenny Johnson was held to just four points.

"They (Gators) play good defense," noted Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Mike Gast. "We actually got good shots, but we just couldn't hit them."

The Gators were 17-for-44 from the field (39 percent) and 10-for-12 at the free throw line. The Wolverines went 12-for-28 from the floor (25 percent) and 8-for-14 at the line. The winners had a 27-24 rebound edge.

Area deer harvest totals announced

The 1996 firearms deer season in northwest Minnesota recorded a total of 43,385 registered deer – a 31 percent decline from 1995, according to wildlife managers with the Department of Natural Resources. Statewide, the 1996 firearms season registered a total of 138,100 deer – a 30 percent decline from the 198,000 deer registered in 1995, but still the eighth-highest harvest on record.

Statewide record harvest of 229,000 was set in 1992, including a record-high 67,918 deer registered in the northwest region. The 1995 total of 62,808 registered deer was the second-highest harvest recorded in the northwest, and the 1996 harvest was the tenth-highest on record.

DNR northwest region includes 21 counties in northwest and west-central Minnesota, in the northern portions of hunting Zones 2 and 4, and a narrow slice along the western edge of Zone 1. Antlerless permits in the Zone 2 and 4 portions of the northwest region were reduced by an average of 16.5 percent from 1995, with most of the reduction coming in Zone 2. Antlerless permits were eliminated in all but six of the 53 permit areas in Zone 1 due to increased deer losses in northeast Minnesota during the severe winter of 1995-96. By protecting does in these areas, the population will recover more quickly in the next couple of years, according to DNR personnel. Statewide, antlerless permits were reduced by 23 percent from 1995.

Reduced population was reflected in the harvest of bucks and fawns. In the northern portion of Zone 2, for example, there were 23 percent fewer adult bucks and 46.5 percent fewer fawns registered, compared to 1995.

Weather conditions during opening weekend – including cold temperatures, high winds and snow – caused many hunters to spend less time in the field, and may have contributed to the reduced harvest. All 11 DNR northwest deer-registration areas reported fewer deer registrations compared to 1995 totals – from eight percent at Glenwood to 51 percent at Bemidji.

1996 Northwest Region Deer Harvest

■ Thief River Falls - 2,006, down 39 percent from 1995. Record harvest was 7,092 in 1985.

■ Thief Lake - 1,797, down 35 percent from 1995. Record harvest figure is combined with Thief River Falls numbers.

The sun was out and it was high noon, but the only thing running hot was the action at the 19th Annual Goodridge JC's 100 Saturday. The number of entries were down possibly due to bitter cold. The winner of the Pro 400 division was Kirk Hibbart of Goodridge.

$42,000 spent in snow removal

Between January 3 and 12, local governmental units in Pennington County have expended an estimated $42,000 in snow removal.

Friday, Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe submitted the estimate to several governmental agencies, including Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), following the determination that Pennington County should be included in a disaster declaration in Minnesota.

Sheriff Moe explained that the estimate included costs submitted by all of the townships, the cities of Thief River Falls, Goodridge, and St. Hilaire, and Pennington county. The cost for the nine days included between January 3 and 12 are for snow removal, overtime and extra fuel costs. He said it doesn't include the cost for sand or salt or repairs to equipment.

Moe said he isn't sure how the estimate compares with other nearby counties. He said several townships have completely exhausted their budgets for snow removal, and three more months like this will put a strain on everyone's budget. In addition, he wouldn't be surprised to see an estimate of around $100,000 by the end of the month, because conditions during the first nine days were different than they are now. As he was making this prediction, winds were picking up again on Friday following an additional four to five inches of snow in the area. He noted that many of the ditches are filled with snow and under those conditions, travel on county roads and highways become hazardous, and road crews will be busy with snow removal once again.

The disaster declaration really doesn't add to the authority of the sheriff. Moe said everyone is pretty busy out there. As a matter of public safety, several areas have been identified as hazards. Some roads and highways have been reduced to one lane of traffic because of the snow and snow around several intersections pose hazards. Those areas need to be cleared of snow and pushed back, he said. But Moe believes the highway and street departments are addressing those problems as fast as they can. He said those departments only have so much equipment.

On Friday, Sheriff Moe submitted the disaster estimate to Minnesota Association of Counties, League of Minnesota Cities, FEMA, State Emergency Management, and Minnesota Association of Townships.

Moe isn't expecting any other assistance. He said FEMA will be inspecting the records and reimburse the county for 75 per cent of the cost. The state will reimburse the county for 15 per cent, and 10 per cent will be up to local government. The disbursement, when funds arrive, will be the same to each governmental agency.

The vehicles collided in the intersection. Damages were estimated at $800 to the Finseth vehicle, and $600 to the Derosier vehicle. Derosier is being cited for failure to yield. There were no injuries.

On January 27 at 1:30 a.m. police received a report of an accident at the parking lot on the northeast side of Northland Community and Technical College. Joni Marie Larson, Thief River Falls, was driving a car south, and Michael David Jacobs, Roseau, was driving a car north. Larson was leaving the parking lot, and Jacobs was entering the parking lot when the vehicles collided due to icy conditions. Damages were estimated at $600 to the Larson vehicle and $800 to the Jacobs vehicle.

Illegal operation. Following a citizen's complaint being filed with police, Kimberly Jo Kalinoski, Thief River Falls, was cited for permitting illegal operation of a snowmobile. A 12-year-old male faces a charge of illegal operation of a snowmobile.

Contributing. On January 23 Brent Alden Kragness, 19, Thief River Falls, was cited for contributing to the delinquency of a minor following an investigation into an incident last week in which several minors were cited for consumption under age. The charges against Kragness, however, stem from renting three rooms and allowing the minors to occupy the rooms. Two of the rooms were subsequently found to have alcohol containers in them. Kragness was found by an officer to be in the one room that did not have any alcohol containers. Alcohol found in the rooms was confiscated, as no one was of age to be in possession of alcohol. The alcohol was disposed of.

Driving while intoxicated. On January 25 at 10:53 p.m. police arrested 30-year-old Michael Gene Cullen, Goodridge, for gross driving while intoxicated and refusal to test.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

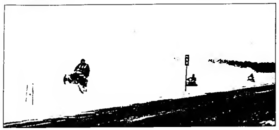
The Second Se



Jaycees Annual Goodridge Snowmobile race Saturday provided racers with a difficult challenge. Cold temperatures and rough surfaces tested riders and sleds.

Employment growth in Upper Midwest slows

For the second consecutive year, Upper Midwest employment growth has slowed, and according to the Minneapolis Fed's regional forecasting models, that slowing is expected to continue through 1997.

District employment growth is foreseen dropping to 1.2 per cent between fourth quarters 1996 and 1997 — the trend rate is 2.5 per cent — with growth decelerating across the region.

Forecasting models indicate a slackening in the employment growth of the national economy as well, and reveal that the district's fall-off has been somewhat greater than the nation's. One explanation is that labor availability is restraining hiring more in the district than in the nation.

The Minneapolis Fed's regional forecast is premised on a slowing in the national economy. In the United States, non-farm employment grew 2.1 per cent between third quarters 1995 and 1996, and its growth is expected to slow to 0.8 per cent in 1997 and then rise to 1.7 per cent in 1998.

Looking ahead through 1998, the models offer a degree of optimism. Accelerated job growth in Minnesota, Montana, South Dakota and Wisconsin is expected to increase the district's employment growth rate from 1.2 per cent through fourth quarter 1997 to 1.9 per cent by fourth quarter 1998 — although that is still below the district's 2.5 per cent average.

In Minnesota, between third quarters 1995 and 1996, Minnesota's non-farm employment grew 1.9 per cent, below its 2.8 per cent historical average. Growth is expected to slow further to 1.6 per cent in 1997 and then jump to 2.3 per cent in 1998. Growth in construction and in the various service sectors accounted for much of the state's recent employment gains.

Minnesota's unemployment rate rose slightly, from 3.7 per cent in third quarter 1995 to 3.9 per cent in third quarter 1996, 1.2 percentage points below its long-term average. Over the next two years, it is expected to drop to 3.4 per cent in fourth quarter of 1998.

The complete forecast will appear in the January 1997 issue of the fedgazette, a quarterly business and economics publication of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis.

Wetlands, Pines and Prairie holds banquet

Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary is gearing up for its annual banquet. The event is an important fund-raiser for the Sanctuary.

The organization has been involved in several projects including, repairing hiking trails, restoring the old barn into a usable classroom/meeting room facility, updating the water system, and improving habitat for wildlife. It also continues to offer outdoor education programs to school groups and others in the area.

Last year, over 60 business owners in a seven-county region helped sponsor the annual banquet. The Sanctuary is extending an invitation to sponsor the banquet again. The event will be held April 8, 1997 at the American Legion Clubrooms in Warren beginning at 6:30 p.m. Sponsorship levels begin at $15. Sponsors will receive a limited edition 1997 Friend of The Sanctuary mug, a listing in the banquet program and the satisfaction of helping to promote environmental education for all age groups in the region.

Highlights of the banquet will include a buffalo dinner, displays, a special program, music and prize drawings.

"Beautiful City" author gets Chamber Appreciation Award

Janet Haak Aarness

by Heidi Hoks

Community members still talk about "Beautiful City," the musical that was created especially to commemorate the events the past 100 years as part of the Thief River Falls Centennial celebration. It was an inspiring piece that made people proud. In recognition of this contribution to the community as well as others, the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce awarded the author and director of this play, Janet Haak Aarness, the 1997 Chamber of Commerce Community Appreciation Award on Saturday, January 25, at the annual Chamber Banquet.

Janet has been a member of the community for six years, ever since she came to take the position of Theater and Speech professor at Northland Community and Technical College.

"I moved here for the job, not because I knew anyone here. What I found was much more than a position. I found a real welcoming place. People went out of their way to greet me and include me. That's what makes Thief River Falls so unique, so special — the people make you feel a part of the community right away. I remember hoping I'd be able to contribute something to the community in return for what they had done for me."

And contribute she did. This past year, she not only wrote, but also directed the Centennial musical "Beautiful City." No small feat considering she did it during and after her second pregnancy. She notes she doesn't remember much of the writing, but does remember that researching it was fun.

"I liked the fact there were 'off' characters in Thief River Falls' past — the Mechims, the kissing bandit. That made it fun and colorful. And in spite of all that, the city grew and prospered and became the inclusive place it is today." She also said the research gave her a perfect opportunity to read some of the works of Gretchen Beito. "It was important to me to see that someone had the foresight to record women's lives in the area," she says, "and to produce a book geared toward children that made learning the history of our city fun. Books like these will perpetuate the history of this city long past our lives and keep it alive and vibrant." She also noted that her research was made all the more exciting and pleasurable because of the response of the people that she queried regarding the history. "When I went to people to ask for help, it was never a 'yes' or 'no' but a 'how much.' The friendliness and helpfulness of the community in this project have made it really enjoyable for me," she says.

Directing the musical was the next task at hand and she went to the community to select a wide variety of ages. "A large cast is always a challenge, but to couple that with a mixture of ages in a show is an even greater challenge," she explains. "I hadn't done that to a great extent before so it was a good learning process for me as well." The result of that challenge was an excellent production that had many people doing research about the city on their own afterward.

Since moving here, Janet has directed 10 plays at the college. She always advertises for community members to participate in the productions because the community college philosophy is to extend into and become a part of the community. In theater, she notes that you have an even broader range from which to draw when you use community members' talents and that community members can add an even greater depth to a production.

She also notes that theater is important for a community as a whole. "Our society is getting more and more disjointed or separated with all the conveniences we've created," she says. "We can sit at home with telephones, computers and the tv and we never have to leave the home and interact. Without that interaction are we really human?" Theater stresses the humanness of us all. It bridges the distance between a cast and its audience and allows the two to collaboratively create. It bonds them in an experience that can enlighten, entertain and inspire.

She also notes that theater provides those participating in it life lessons that go far beyond the entertainment value — lessons in cooperation, goal setting, time management and responsibility to others.

She also believes in the idea of theater as a means of participation in the community. She states that people's involvement in community activities is vital for a community to thrive. She, herself, has sung in her church choir, participated in community writing events, announced at games, served on the Women's History Committee and more. She has had to pull back recently with the birth of her children and to prioritize her time. When she directs a play, for example, she spends virtually all her waking hours at the theater and uses time in between plays to reacquaint herself with her family. However, she also wants to become more involved soon in community events, because, as she puts it, "It's imperative that my children see the importance of community involvement by my example. People have a responsibility to their community and I want to impart that to my children."

What else would she want to impart to the community? After a few moments thought, Janet says, "I want people to have dreams and to keep striving for them. Even those day-to-day dreams are important. With our harsh climate, it's sometimes easy to lose sight of our dreams and concentrate on shoveling out the snow or the like, but we need to keep goals and vision a priority for the community. Since people make up the community, we as a people need to stay focused on the greater goal. We need to realize the importance of our dreams. I think that's the biggest lesson I learned after writing about the city of Thief River, in "Beautiful City". This is a town with a vision, a town built on the dreams of our ancestors. We need to keep those dreams alive."

Happy Birthday Kathleen

There was a surprise birthday party for Kathy Juneau on Monday January 13th. It was a great birthday breakfast held at the River Road Casino rural Thief River Falls. The casino had a private area and table set up just for the party. After a great breakfast and birthday song, Kathy opened her cards and gifts. Attending her party was husband Ron, daughter Kelly, son-in-law Dave, granddaughter Alyse, Edna Hyde (coordinator for the party), Goodwin and Lucille Kvasager, Art and Alma Hanson, Ruth Wilkens, Esther Walters, Bunny DuChamp, Amelia Eskeli and Fern Eskeli. Then after some fellowship and a few games the group all went to the home of Bunny DuChamp where she served the most luscious birthday cake and coffee. To my family and friends I say, "Thank you for making my birthday so special. Love and God Bless you all!"

Monday afternoon, Ron and Kathy Juneau visited at the home of Herb and Betty Dorosiet of rural Red Lake Falls.

Well, another bad week of cold, snow and wind so many group and family gatherings were canceled, keep warm.

MPCA to seek comment about federal permits

Minnesota Pollution Control Agency has placed copies of two draft National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) General Feedlot Permits on public notice for 30 days.

The permits are intended for feedlots with 1,000 or more animal units. One steer equals one animal unit, one finishing hog equals .4 animal unit and one dairy cow equals 1.4 animal units.

MPCA officials said that during this 30-day notice period, which started January 6 and continues through the close of business Feb. 7, the public is invited to comment in writing on the draft general permit.

The two draft general permits will help producers reach compliance with the Federal Clean Water Act and state water quality regulations, the MPCA said. One of the draft permits contains groundwater monitoring requirements that apply to existing feedlots that currently conduct groundwater monitoring and to some new or expanding feedlots fitting criteria for groundwater monitoring. The second permit does not require ground water monitoring.

The draft general permit also applies to feedlots with between 300 and 999 animal units and has the potential to discharge to state waters through man-made conveyances. Producers in this category are also encouraged to comment on the draft permits.

All comments received by the close of business on February 7 will be considered in the final determination of the NPDES general feedlot permits. Copies of the draft general permit and the public notice were sent to more than 600 permittees and more than 1,000 other interested parties.

To obtain copies of the draft permits, public notices, fact sheets or other supporting material, call 612-296-3890. Persons with questions may call the MPCA at 612-296-8456.

Winter safety means being alert to hazards

Thinking ahead and being alert to possible problems can contribute greatly to winter safety, according to Otter Tail Power Company safety director Don Larson.

Among his suggestions are being aware of and avoiding power lines when using aluminum roof rakes to remove snow; keeping an eye on roof vents to be sure they are not closed by ice or snow; and be extra careful in using ladders or working on roofs which can be very slippery.

Frozen or snow-covered sewer and gas vents can result in deadly methane gas collecting in the home. Larson also advised city and other snow removal crews or individuals to be aware of proper clearances when piling snow beneath electrical lines.

For homeowners with heat pumps, Larson suggested clearing ice and snow from heat pump coils by tapping the casing on the pump to ensure maximum operating efficiency.

Viking

Corey Hogberg of Thornton, CO, spent his holiday vacation with friends and relatives in the Viking, Newfolden and Thief River Falls area. Sure it's wonderful to get snow in Colorado but up here it was the thing even when outdoors ice skating that made one appreciate the warmth of the indoors. Grandpa and Grandpa Sustad took Corey to Grand Forks where he met his friend Jack who then took him to Fargo ND, where he was houseguests before leaving for Colorado on Thursday.

Jenny Sustad and her girlfriends enjoyed an evening in Grandpa's barn where they had a pizza party, watched their videos and also welcomed in the New Year and locked in for the night. Thursday morning they were all breakfast guests of Grandma and Grandpa Arnold and Evelyn Skjervon were visitors Sunday night at the Gordon Skjervon home. Also Dan, Kathy and Terry Olson.

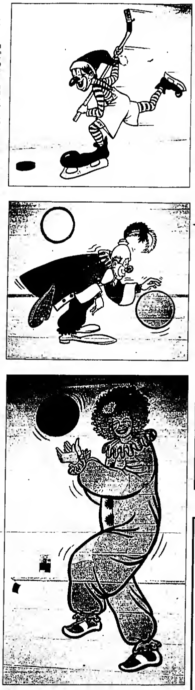
The Tom Price family went to Strathcona Sunday evening at the Harvey Hanson home.



Among the clown murals done by Roseau area artist Marv Espe at Challenger elementary school are those pictured above. Funds for the murals in the hallway outside the gymnasium were provided by the family of the late Tippi Benson, school social worker, who collected clown art and memorabilia. The figure in the bottom photo illustrates the costume worn by Tippi when she participated in clown routines. Espe began work on the project during the Christmas and New Year holidays. It is now complete and the public is invited to view it at any time the building is open.

DON'T WAIT FOR THE BIG MELTDOWN!!

THE ACCUMULATION OF SEVERAL FEET OF SNOW THIS WINTER PRESENTS TWO HAZARDS THAT MAY BE EASILY OVERLOOKED.

1.) Many roofs are not sturdy enough to support the extra weight and are in danger of collapse.

2.) The ice builds up from partial thawing and re-freezing and pushes the shingles up. Consequently, the water backs up under the shingles, causing interior damage to ceilings and walls.

Your home is one of your most valuable assets. PROTECT YOUR INVESTMENT by removing the excess snow buildup before any damage can occur.

Lacing up for a physical education session at Challenger elementary school last week were these students preparing for their first instructional session on roller skating. The school made arrangements with a St. Paul firm to provide the skates and an instructor to teach the initial basics of skating. At the end of about a 10-day period, parental and student input will be sought, the program evaluated and a decision made as to whether the program will be continued.

Degree of confidence was transformed into a variety of skating techniques at Challenger elementary school last week as the physical education department held the first session of its roller skating program. Dual Standard Prevails....

For those readers who thought a dual standard exists for the public and private sector only in Minnesota, take heart in the fact that government operates pretty much the same across our country. Whether it is local or state or federal, government has a tendency to believe its needs are different than those of private parties and it doesn't have to play by the same rules.

Vermont columnist Martin Harris Jr. pointed out some examples of the dual standard in one of his columns. He mentioned Charles Griffith as being in major legal difficulty because he enlarged a pond on his farm. He stated that "....Vermont's environmental regulators, compiling a steadily growing record of approving various forms of environmental destruction when needed for projects they favor, while concurrently bringing down the heavy hand of the law on people like Mr. Griffith."

Harris cites the previous dual standard examples:

• The city of Burlington uses the latest re-interpretation of the Public Trust Doctrine to deny the Central Vermont Railroad the permits for redevelopment of its lakefront railyard. "That's filled land, still a lake," quoth the city, whose own plans for the same acreage include condominiums and shops, not fill removal and cattail restoration.

• The state of Vermont sets its own rules aside to downgrade a few hundred feet of the Ottauquechee River so that nearby ski developments can dump treated sewage effluent into it. Meanwhile, home and business owners in most of Addison county can't use mechanical sewage treatment systems because all nearby streams are Class I and can't legally receive treated effluent from a point discharge.

• The federal government, acting through the Army Crops of Engineers, raises no protest when first a federally subsidized housing development, than a shopping center parking lot and now a county courthouse are approved for construction in what used to be a downtown Middlebury swamp (excuse me, that's wetland).

"Is this the same Corps of Engineers that sent hapless Bill Ellen to jail for six months for dumping two truckloads of fill in a Maryland location originally approved by a Corps of Engineers bureaucrat? Yes," writes Harris. He continues:

"It's also the same defenders of wetlands in Vermont who have, as they should, protected wetlands across the state from private-sector urbanization. When they want to urbanize, however, it's a different story.

"....The state of Vermont approves design of the Chittenden County Circumferential Highway across wetlands in Williston and Essex. Now vehicles roll where cattails once grew.

"Down in West Rutland, Charles Griffith is under orders from the Agency of Natural Resources 'to restore to original condition' his enlarged pond, cattails and all.

"Griffith's real crime isn't enlarging a pond, after all, that's increasing a wetland. He's being punished because he's not part of the in-group. A mere farmer (and a private-sector land exploiter at that), he has neither the project size nor the political connections which could have gotten him any pond enlargement permit he might have wanted.

"Only a few miles away, where the brand new Route 4 crosses almost a mile of Otter Creek wetlands on mountains of fill to meet Route 7, a megabucks developer hardly had to tap-dance at all before getting the permits he needs to build a shopping mall on acreage meeting wetlands designation criteria.

"All this dual standard behavior is part of a long tradition in Vermont's environmentally-minded bureaucracy.

"More than 20 years ago, when the green planners envisioned canoe and hiking trails on the banks of Otter Creek, it was the rural private landowners who felt the brunt of the attack." Harris continued. "Heavy industry in Center Rutland, busy urbanizing its own Otter Creek swamp acreage for parking lots and pre-engineered buildings, was carefully spared any environmental demands by these guardians of our ecology.

"That seems to be a pretty effective working rule for environmental movements everywhere, and Vermont is no exception. Focus the demands on small landowners who are ill-equipped to fight back. It's a major tactical error, they're learning, to take on the big boys.

"....Vermont isn't the only state playing the dual standard game. In Oregon, for example, private-sector owners of historically designated buildings are forbidden, under pain of fines and imprisonment, to alter or demolish their own property.

"State government in Salem, however, doesn't bind itself by the rules it imposes on the hapless citizenry. It renovates or demolishes old state-owned buildings as it wishes to provide for bigger and better office space.

"Maybe that's OK. What could be more important than growing the state bureaucracy?"

Federal Regulatory Monster Unregulated

While Congress has made several efforts over the past few years to level the mountains of paperwork the federal bureaucracy requires of those it regulates, much of its effort has been for naught as the agencies ignore their requirements.

Some regulation, of course, has a worthwhile purpose and may even be beneficial to the public as a whole. At the same time, there are needless regulations which perpetuate the bureaucracy and succeed only in creating cost without benefit. Such a program is asbestos removal, which is allowed to continue despite evidence that it causes more damage than it prevents.

Some attempts to curb the abuses have met with resistance. When the House of Representatives enacted the Job Creation and Wage Enhancement Act in March of 1995, it was assailed by advocates of big government as detrimental to the environment, consumers and workers. The Act—which would have required federal agencies to use risk assessment and cost-benefit analysis to justify new rules, provided for greater public participation in rulemaking and made the regulatory agencies more accountable by allowing their actions to be reviewed by the courts—was prevented from coming to a vote in the Senate.

Although some reforms were enacted, many agencies reportedly are thumbing their noses at those laws. The U.S. Department of Agriculture said it did not have to submit timber salvage guidelines for review by Congress even though Congress' General Accounting Office said it did. The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) is moving ahead with its controversial repetitive motion rule that could be a regulatory nightmare. In all, more than 4,500 new rules and regulations are reportedly in the federal pipeline and the cost of new rules issued in 1996 alone is expected to be more than $11.6 billion a year.

It is presently estimated that the annual cost of federal regulations on society is $668 billion or nine percent of the Gross Domestic Product. Americans spend more than 6.8 billion hours annually filling out forms, answering survey questions and compiling records that the government may or may not actually use.

With all of the impositions on private business and individuals, it should not be too much to expect that government also live by the rules its makes.

Baby Born!

Erick and Melissa Nelson are the proud parents of a little son Cole Montgomery born on January 3, 1997, at Riverview Hospital in Crookston. He weighed 3 pounds 12 ounces and was 17 inches long. We are happy for Cole that he was born the first week instead of the third week in January. Cole has many relatives in the Fosston, Lengby and Gully area that are very thankful for his safe arrival in this cold and stormy season. Relatives are grandparents Chet and Deb Nelson of Fosston, Lloyd and Linda Godtland, maternal great-grandparents Kenneth and Evelyn Bergerson of Gully, James and Mavis Godtland of Lengby. Paternal great-grandparents Emily and Norman Lorentson of Fosston, Bernice Handricks of Crookston. Maternal great-great grandmothers Mable Bergerson of Gully and Mabel Strande of Fosston. Cole won't have to worry that there will be any shortage of people wanting to hold and rock him. Welcome Cole and congratulations Melissa and Erick!

We hear another native son has passed away, Jarle Leirfallom, 83. Jarle was born 12 miles northwest of Gully in 1914. Jarle's father Rev. Sivert Leirfallom served congregations in that area, but also would hitch up his team of broncos to a sleigh, get in, bundle up in many robes, besides a coon skin fur coat and drive over to near Pinewood to take care of a congregation over there. When Jarle was 8 years old the family moved to Everett, WA. Jarle came back to Minnesota and attended St. Olaf College at Northfield. He earned his Masters Degree in Social work and public administration from Columbia and Syracuse Universities in New York. He received a Rockefeller Foundation Grant and supplemented the cost of his education with work as a professional wrestler in New York. Leirfallom served as director of Minnesota Public Welfare Commission for 11 years under Gov. C. Elmer Anderson, but was replaced when Gov. Orville Freeman was elected. Jarle was encouraged by G.O.P. organizations to become a candidate for Governor, but being a family man with four children, Jarle removed himself from the race. Jarle and his wife Dorothy ran Leirfallom Nursing Home in White Bear Lake and in North St. Paul from 1957 to 1972. Leirfallom was appointed Conservation Commissioner by Gov. Harold LeVander. A memorial service was held last Wednesday at Advent Lutheran Church at Roseville. Jarle is survived by his wife, 2 sons, Llof and Jail and daughters Linda and Lisa and sisters Auslaug, Alvhild and Frida. I remember Jarle's mother was a good cook and it was fun to visit the family.

Omer M. Nettaberg 79 who was born at Gully in 1917 passed away January 7th. His funeral service was held at the Miller Funeral Home at Fridley with Pastors Duane Juve and Erick Stephen Gulck officiating. Casketbearers were Frendell Nettaberg Jr., Archie Netteberg, Doyle Peck, Daniel Carlson of Fosston, Stuart Kleckner, James Jacobson and Lee Holtatz. Lunch was served after the service by the Kraus/Hertig V.F.W. at Spring Lake Park. He was laid to rest at Old Bethel Cemetery at East Bethel. Omer lived with his parents Olaf and Mable Netteberg just north of Gully along what we usually call the Old Jefferson Highway.

Maja Turanne and Chad Gilbert were visitors and supper guests at her Grandmother Effie Handy's place on Saturday evening. On Monday, Marci and Corey Hanson of St. Cloud and Marty Levine of Eagan visited Effie.

Christmas Eve supper guests at the Wendt and Cathy Senger home were Bob, Joan, Ryan and Ross Senger, Larry Senger, Gay, Doreen and Sarah Bronvold. Later that evening, Amy Senger and Danny Berg visited at Wendt and Cathy's home. On Christmas Day, Cory Moy and Debbie Swano visited with Wendt and Cathy.

Mark Lee, who is a heavy equipment operator at Arvada, CO, spent ten days during the holiday visiting his parents Dick and Nancy Lee and other friends and relatives in the Gully and Plummer area.

FROM THE NEW CITY

THE NEWS, HENRY W. LEE, EDITOR — JANUARY 28, 1897
THIEF RIVER FALLS, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA

Thief River Falls: Village or City?

The situation of our village requires something more than a man up a tree to enlighten the decent men in the village, or shame the gang, and we ask in all seriousness 'Let us reason together.' An attempt has been made to reorganize our village, there are doubtless many people who mean to be fair, that think this attempt has been successful. There are others at least equally fair minded who do not believe it. At least one lawyer has denounced the attempt from the beginning, one who has no interest in the matter except to see justice done. He pointed out the illegality of the attempt and publicly cited the law to sustain his position. P. O. Berg, who claims to be a fair minded man, heard the law, read and heard the comments thereon, asked questions and expressed great surprise at the answers; he seemed more than half convinced that the proceedings in which he was involved were illegal. The next step in the matter was to submit the case to the Attorney General. On the one side he was asked to test the matter in court and on the other he was 'horse shedded' not to do it. Ira C. Richardson was sent to St. Paul to tell him it was all right, that no one was 'kicking' except James Meehan Jr. and that he would not have 'kicked' if he had been elected. Abusive newspaper articles were sent to him and without doubt other suggestions were made to him in order that the legality of the proceedings should not be passed upon by the courts. When the Attorney General refused to allow an action to be brought in the name of the State, it left the people remedy-less. The matter could not be tested except by some individual upon his own responsibility and expense. The village officers, or such of them as had not been bought up, refused to sit and the village became disorganized. H. W. Lee refusing to recognize the legality of the new council, brought suit in the District Court to recover for services and money expended for the village, he pleaded its disorganization and demanded redress. The 'gang' again had an opportunity to test their status in court but again they declined; their attorney attempted, or pretended to answer the complaint, but did not appear in behalf of the village or any one else, he did not deny anything stated in the plaintiff's complaint. Lars Backe attempted to swear to the answer by stating that he had been recorder in the village for two years before it was dissolved (as the village has never been dissolved, his verification was a nullity.) The answer was endorsed and returned. No attempt was made to file it in court, or to bring the court's attention to it, and after a full trial the court found that the village of Thief River Falls was disorganized and ordered judgement for the plaintiff, and that the county treasurer pay the judgement, see section 966 R. S. When a report of these proceedings reached the 'gang' they made a great outcry, asserted that a great wrong had been done and sent a man to Crookston. What for? To play seven up? To tell the newspapers that Thief River Falls was a city? Or to ask Judge Ives if his answer was good? A thing no lawyer would do. Did the Judge tell him if he wanted the matter opened up to proceed in a proper manner and he would hear it? The gang cannot 'horseshed' Judge Ives as they did Childs. Are all the businessmen of this place sheep or geese? Are they willing to be taxed by a lot of men who dare not test their right to tax them in court? Men who resort to all sorts of tricks to maintain their position and abuse the only men who dare stand for law and justice."

ST. HILAIRE, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA — FEBRUARY 3, 1897

From Newspaper Files Of One Hundred Years Ago

News Items

"It is now Red Lake county.

"February started in with a thaw.

"A few more loads of wood could be used to good advantage at this office.

"The farmers will hold a seed grain meeting in the village hall this afternoon.

"Don't you make no mistake you are in Red Lake county now and that settles it.

"The Supreme Court filed a decision February 1st to the effect that Red Lake county is legal. Columbia and Mills [counties] are pronounced illegal.

"The ice harvest has commenced in dead earnest this week and a good crop is in sight. The ice on the river is frozen to the thickness of three feet and the chances are good for another foot.

"The seed grain meeting held at Thief River Falls recently, was a success, bringing upwards of two hundred farmers there. Ira C. Richardson was appointed as a delegate to go to St. Paul to assist in the furtherance of the seed wheat project for the farmers in need.

"If the groundhog proverb is any criterion, we will have an early spring. He had no earthly show of seeing his shadow yesterday. Mr. Groundhog, there are quite a few keeping tab on you to see how you stack up with Hicks."

Bachelor's Ball

"The St. Hilaire Bachelors did themselves proud as was anticipated by all their friends at their Second Annual ball, Friday evening, January 29. The weather was all that could be expected in the way of being fine, and according to prediction and expectation the hall was crowded to its utmost capacity in the way of dancing people. The dancing began at nine o'clock with a grand march, headed by Mr. Parker and Miss LaFraniere of Thief River Falls, Prof. Barnes of the same city directing the movements. The program was carried out to a letter until Landlord Arthur announced supper with his regrets that all could not be seated at one table. The Bachelors gave way to the visitors from the neighboring villages for the first appearance in the dining hall and according to their statements, to a little of the best repast they have ever had the honor of partaking. In their way was palatable edibles, neatly and invitingly served. The inner man was so well appeased, the dancing was resumed with merriment and joyous feeling, the resounding of the harp strings and merry laughter continued until five o'clock, when Prof. Barnes announced the next of the program was the "Home Sweet Home" waltz. At such an early hour it would be expected that not many would be inclined to respond to a call, but that waltz was participated in by most all the dancers with as much pleasure as if it were the first on the program. The visitors then took their departure, 'wishing many happy returns' (which was not very well appreciated by some of the serious ones) and all went on their way home, pronouncing the St. Hilaire Bachelors as royal entertainers.

"To make a good time complete and satisfy the dancers, the Bachelors engaged Prof. Julsot to play until twelve o'clock Saturday night and at nine o'clock that evening the hall was again the scene of merry making with a good audience, all intent on having another good time. The floor was kept warm until the hour of Sunday was drawing near when again the 'Home Sweet Home' waltz was announced by Prof. O'Brien, and now, all feeling as if they had danced themselves plenty, took their departure."

Wylie Gleanings

"Examinations were held at the school house Friday and all did fairly well.

"If you don't enjoy yourself when the St. Hilaire boys give a blow-out, it isn't their fault.

"In order to exercise his team, Sam Leppert hitched up Thursday and gave the school children a ride home, which was greatly appreciated.

"About 9 o'clock p.m. a messenger sent from Red Lake Falls arrived with the glad tidings of the organization of Red Lake county being settled in our favor. They were accompanied with a keg of Minneapolis, a bottle of XXX and a box of cigars and it wasn't long before the Wylie folks were heard singing 'Crookston can't play in our yard.'"

Jan. 30, 1991

Please don't stand by my grave and weep, I'm not there. I'm just asleep.
I'm the gentle winds that blow- the bright and shining glints of snow.
I'm the sunlight on your window pane, the soft and gentle autumn rain.
I touch you in the mornings hush, for I'm the swift uplifting rush.
The quiet birds in circled flight, I'm the stars that shine at night.
So please, don't stand at my grave and cry.
I am not there- I did not die.

IRS will send fewer federal tax packages

In an attempt to reduce waste and duplication, the Internal Revenue Service has stopped sending federal tax packages to people who have their returns filled out by paid tax preparers. As a result, fewer state residents will be receiving the forms in the mail this year.

While the IRS now receives about 2.1 million tax returns from Minnesotans each year, tax packages are being delivered to only 1.25 million taxpayers this year.

Tax professionals typically use their own supply of forms or computer programs to prepare returns. In the past many tax packages have been discarded without being used. The IRS says it costs the federal government almost 38 cents to print and mail each tax package.

Those who do receive the packages will notice few changes, since most changes enacted in 1996 do not take effect until the 1997 reporting year.

One change is that the Social Security number of each dependent born before Dec. 1, 1996, must be entered on the return. A similar requirement applies to working parents who claim the Earned Income Credit for Child and Dependent Care Expenses. A refund will be reduced or delayed if a required Social Security number is incorrect or missing.

Non-citizens legally entitled to work in the U.S. qualify for Social Security numbers. Those who do not qualify, including spouses and dependents, must obtain and use an Individual Tax Identification Number (ITIN) from the IRS.

More self-employed people can now use the simplified Schedule C-EZ instead of the longer Schedule C to report business income and expenses. People who use the TeleFile file-by-phone system may now also elect to have refunds deposited directly into a checking or savings account.

Rep. Jim Tunheim given assignments

State Rep. Jim Tunheim of Kennedy has received his House committee assignments for the 1997 legislative session.

In addition to serving as chair of the Commerce, Tourism and Consumer Affairs Committee, he will serve on the Financial Institutions and Insurance Committee, the full Education Committee and its K-12 Education Finance Division.

"I am very pleased to be appointed to both the education policy and finance committees," Rep. Tunheim said. "I will be an advocate for education in rural Minnesota, and work on initiatives for smaller school districts."

He noted that the state's budget will be put together during the 1997 legislative session. Legislators will decide how much the state spends on everything from education to health and human service programs to roads and bridges.

"The session will last about five months," he said. "Decisions made during this time will impact the state for the next two years. I am pleased that I'll play a role in discussions about how much is spent on K-12 education for the next biennium. Rural Minnesota must be heard, and I plan to bring a common sense voice to this funding committee."

As chair of the Commerce, Tourism and Consumer Affairs Committee, Rep. Tunheim said he will work on legislation that help both business and consumers.

"Minnesota is home to many small businesses, and I would like to see that tradition continue," he said. "This committee also deals with legislation that protects citizens from unfair business practices. For example, last session a bill originated in this committee which made it illegal for telecommunications companies to change a person's long-distance carrier without proper authorization."

The House Financial Institutions and Insurance Committee deals with issues regarding banks and insurance companies. Rep. Tunheim was not a member of this committee at the last session and said he looks forward to the new challenge.

During the 1997 session, Rep. Tunheim can be contacted at the Capitol at 509 State Office Building, 100 Constitution Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55155-1298 or by phone at 1-612-296-9635.

Rash of grain bin deaths causes safety reminders

When a 38-year-old Becker county farmer died inside a grain bin December 12 while unclogging a running auger jammed with icy, caked grain, it was the seventh grain bin fatality in Minnesota in 1996. Over the past 15 years, the average for grain bin fatalities in Minnesota has been just over one per year.

The unusually high number this year has prompted the Farm Safety and Health program of the University of Minnesota's Extension Service to consider causes and issue warnings.

John Shutske, extension farm safety specialist, says there are several possible explanations.

"A tremendous amount of grain was moved early this year as prices climbed during the summer," he pointed out. "Three of the deaths happened prior to this fall's harvest."

One of these three deaths was in Pennington county.

"Also," Shutske continued, "the recent harvest was generally good, resulting in a large amount of grain going into storage again. However, in many cases the quality is not high, so farmers have found themselves in bins more often to check grain quality and to unload bins. Further, with the early onset of winter, it's been tougher to get grain dried and cooled down. Management of the stored grain has been more difficult."

Shutske says another possible factor in the jump in grain-bin deaths is that farmers are more likely to be working alone than in the past. There are more farm spouses working off the farm, and hired farm labor is in short supply in many areas.

"Farmers performing any dangerous job alone are at high risk," he said.

Shutske is also concerned that farmers may not be serious enough about preventing farm deaths and injuries.

"Nearly every Minnesota farmer knows it's dangerous to be inside a bin when equipment is running," he says. "Yet people still take the risk, thinking 'It will never happen to me.' It's similar to parents allowing young children to ride on a tractor fender. This results in the death of children every year, but we continue to see it happen."

Nearly one of every 10,000 farms has been the site of a grain bin fatality this year, Shutske said. "If one of every 10,000 Minnesota households had a family member who drowned in a swimming pool, there would be a huge public outcry," he said.

The Minnesota specialist says grain bins absolutely must be treated as potentially deadly confined spaces. This means understanding the risks and following the appropriate steps to avoid becoming a victim. Simply "being aware" will not prevent tragedy. Shutske makes the following recommendations, based on research in Minnesota and other states:

- Work with at least one partner if there is grain in the bin. Bins are considered "confined spaces" that require special procedures for safe entry. These procedures include the use of lifelines and harnesses to keep people from being engulfed.
- Never enter a grain bin or wagon when grain is caked or spoiled without first breaking up grain crusts and masses from outside the bin. When you do enter a bin, turn off all unloading equipment and use a padlock to lock out switches so they cannot be accidentally activated. This includes sweep augers used for unloading.
- Even if you have access to a rope or ladder, don't assume you can pull yourself out alone if a dangerous situation arises. Research studies show that flowing grain around the human body exerts several hundred pounds of downward force, making it virtually impossible to pull yourself out of a flowing grain situation.
- Even if the grain is not flowing, you can still suffocate, especially when grain is in poor condition. Grain that's moldy or wet will often clump together in the upper layers. As the bin is unloaded, a large air pocket may form just below the surface. If you walk over the crusted surface, you'll break through and be buried alive under thousands of pounds of grain. Use a long wooden pole to break up clumped grain from above, but be extremely careful not to contact overhead electrical lines.
- If you do find yourself in a bin where flow has started, don't panic. Try to walk to the outer bin wall where flow is slower. You may be able to "walk the bin down." If you're being submerged, use your hands to cover your mouth and nose.
- If someone on your farm has become trapped in flowing grain, shut off powered unloading equipment immediately. Then turn on the aeration fan and call your local rescue squad. The best way to rescue a victim is to rapidly remove the grain by cutting open the bin with special rescue tools.
- Never let children ride on grain wagons or trucks. If the vehicle's unloading gate opens accidentally, the child will be pulled into the flowing mass, and will likely suffocate if wedged in the opening. Also, bin ladders should start high enough off the ground to keep young children out of bins.
- Take every step possible to manage stored grain wisely to prevent problems that might increase the need to enter the bin frequently. Grain quality management begins at harvest, but includes close monitoring and supervision throughout the storage period. For more information on stored grain management, contact your local Minnesota Extension Service office.

Authors program at public library

Friends of the Library in Thief River Falls will present a special noon authors program on Thursday, January 30, at the Thief River Falls public library. The public is invited to attend free of charge and bring a bag lunch. Coffee will be provided.

Topic for the program is "Human's Nature: Encounters Between People and the Natural Environment." Featured guests will be Minnesota authors Robert Treuer and Louise Mengelkoch of the Bemidji area.

The event is part of a series called "Minnesota Reads Minnesota Authors on Tour," which brings Minnesota Book Award authors to libraries around the state. The program is supported by the Minnesota Association of Library Friends with funding from the Minnesota Humanities Commission in cooperation with the National Endowment for the Humanities and the Minnesota Legislature.

Robert Treuer's 1977 book The Tree Farm, recently re-published in paperback, was written about his experiences as a tree farmer near Bemidji. His later book, A Northwoods Window, was a Minnesota Book Award nominee in 1991. He still lives and writes on his tree farm and his nature essays appear occasionally in the Minneapolis Star Tribune.

Louise Mengelkoch teaches journalism at Bemidji State University and has written on a wide variety of subjects for magazines and newspapers, including the Bemidji Pioneer, Star Tribune and St. Paul Pioneer Press. She and her husband, Kent Nerburn, are co-editors of the book Native American Wisdom.

For more information contact the Thief River Falls public library at 681-4325.

Richard Dummer herd tops November DHIA

Richard Dummer dairy herd led the Red Lake-Pennington Dairy Herd Improvement Association report for the month of November with average daily production of 73 pounds of milk, 2.2 pounds of butterfat and 2.3 pounds of protein. Eighty-nine percent of the 88-cow herd was in production that month.

In second place was the Mylo Carlson herd of 68 cows, 91 percent of which were in production. The herd averaged 69 pounds of milk, 2.5 pounds of butterfat and 2.2 pounds of protein per day.

Third place herd was from Johnston Farms where production averaged 66 pounds of milk, 2.3 pounds of butterfat and 2.1 pounds of protein despite having only 82 percent of the 68-cow herd in milk.

Other herds in the top 15 included the following with number of cows in the herd, percentage in production and average pounds of milk, butterfat and protein listed respectively:

Gerald and Loretta Visser, 72, 94%, 66, 2.3 and 2.0; Walter Bros. Farm, 167, 87%, 63, 2.2 and 1.9; Northwest Agricultural Experiment Station (large cow herd), 50, 94%, 60, 2.6 and 1.9; Mark Hanson, 56, 88%, 60, 1.8 and 1.8; and Northwest Agricultural Experiment Station (small cow herd), 60, 85%, 59, 2.3 and 1.9;

Also Lyle Swanson, 47, 79%, 59, 2.2 and 1.9; Tom and Diane Kolstoe, 43, 88%, 55, 2.0 and 1.7; Warren Malwitz Dairy, 120, 80%, 54, 1.9 and 1.7; Tom Willett, 49, 82%, 54, 1.9 and 1.7; Wayne Nelson, 44, 84%, 53, 2.0 and 1.7; Randy and Jo Gast, 71, 94%, 53, 2.0 and 1.7; and Greg Zak, 76, 88%, 52, 2.0 and 1.6.

Total milk production is computed to give the dairy farmer a record of the herd's earning power for the month. This production is averaged over all cows in the herd, so the number of dry cows in that month will adversely affect the average.

13 LHS science fair winners qualify for region

Thirteen entries at the second annual Lincoln high school science fair Friday, January 31, earned purple championship ribbons and gained advancement to the regional science fair Saturday, March 15, at Bemidji State University.

There were 76 entries in the science fair this year and coordinator Patti Johnson said there was a marked improvement in the overall quality of entries over last year's initial event.

"There are some really good projects here!" she exclaimed as judging was taking place Friday afternoon in the high school cafeteria. "If the winners are willing to do a little extra preparation to get ready for the regional science fair, we could very well have some state qualifying entries again this year."

Last year Lincoln qualified five students with three projects for the state science fair in Bloomington. This year the state competition will be in Duluth on April 11-13.

Judges for the science fair were Don Fox, Plummer; Gladwin Lynne, Warren; Don Barron, Thief River Falls; and Dick Churchill, Greenbush.

Following judging Friday afternoon, the exhibits were open for public viewing from 6 to 8 p.m. Friday evening. They were also shown to the public from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Saturday when an awards program was conducted. Serving as master of ceremonies for the awards ceremony was Bill Fogarty, science instructor at Lincoln.

A number of special awards donated by community businesses and organizations were presented. Not all winners were purple award recipients.

A list of award donors and recipients includes the following: Pennington Soil and Water Conservation District, Zach Olson; Northland Woodcrafters, Jennifer Gunstrowski; Morning Kiwanis, Julie Chinn and Kristin Naplin; Digi-Key, Bryan Bolstad and Joel Hruby and Nathan Kenner and Matt Trontvet; and Northern State Bank, Jennifer Vad.

Construction report given

Of 11 single family dwellings built in 1996, six were pre-made in some fashion. That's significant, according to Sid Fossum, building inspector for Thief River Falls.

Fossum delivered his annual report on construction in Thief River Falls to the city council Tuesday night. The annual statistics provided a number of interesting observations, including the fact that many of the single family homes are manufactured homes. Fossum said that it also appears to be a statewide trend. Of the 11 homes built within the city limits in 1996, five were spec homes.

Community Development Director Don Stewart also noted that the average cost of construction during the past five years has gone up considerably. At one time, the average construction cost held around $5 million. In the past nine years, the average has been around $9 million.

During 1996 the total cost of construction in Thief River Falls was $7,609,776, a sharp decline from $12,669,905. Although, it was pointed out that much of the construction consisted of taxable property rather than public property.

A total of 256 building permits were issued in 1996. Most of those permits were issued for residential remodeling and additions — 183 for a total construction cost of $1,124,840. A total of 58 permits were issued for non-residential remodeling and additions, totaling $3,398,536. Eleven building permits were issued for new single family dwellings for a total cost of $917,400.

A total of 38 new units were created among multi-family dwellings in Thief River Falls. The units were created by the construction of Southwood Park Town Homes, which has been completed, and Greenwood Terrace, which is in the process of being framed in. Total construction cost was $1,719,000.

Two permits were issued for new non-residential buildings — Black Cat Bar and Grill, which is located south of the Best Western, and the Ag Service Center, which is located near Kmart. Total construction cost was $150,000.

Several additional permits were

Who will use multi-events center?

Ever since the beginning of discussion on the proposed Multi-Events Cultural Center, a key question has been "Who will use the facility?"

Odell Bjerkness, a fund raiser for the project, said emphatically that a recently completed survey shows there is a lot of support for this project in Thief River Falls.

Between May and November, explained Bjerkness, a brief two-page survey was made available at five local institutions with the largest number of employees — Arctic Cat, Digi-Key, Northern State Bank, Thief River Falls Public Schools, and Northland Community and Technical College. A total of 550 people or 20 per cent of the 2,700 employees voluntarily completed the questionnaire. Bjerkness noted that for a survey, the average response rate is between 5 and 10 per cent, so a 20 per cent response rate is considered extremely high. More importantly, however, of those surveyed, 301 (over half) said they would use the aquatic center, 191 would take lessons, 317 would use the Multi-Events Center (track, courts, concerts) and 298 would use the fitness and wellness center.

Bjerkness was pleased with the survey, because the survey was non-promotional and had no attached photos or program plans.

Other highlights from the survey included the following:

- Most of the respondents (361 or 75 per cent) were from Pennington county.
- 308 individuals (67 per cent) live in Thief River Falls townships, the rest live in other locations such as Rocksbury, St. Hilaire, Plummer, Smiley and Warren.
- Most of those who filled out the survey were female — 303 females and 217 males.
- The largest number of people employed were ages 25 to 34 (174), followed by respondents ages 34 to 44 (149). The largest number of employees were from Arctic Cat.
- Most of the respondents were hourly workers (390) compared to 119 who were on salary, which to Bjerkness means that working people were interested in this project.
- 244 or half had children at home.

Program interests of the respondents varied, but the top five programs were volleyball, basketball,

Authors program at public library

Friends of the Library in Thief River Falls will present a special noon authors program on Thursday, January 30, at the Thief River Falls public library. The public is invited to attend free of charge and bring a bag lunch. Coffee will be provided.

Topic for the program is "Human's Nature: Encounters Between People and the Natural Environment." Featured guests will be Minnesota authors Robert Treuer and Louise Mengelkoch of the Bemidji area.

The event is part of a series called "Minnesota Reads: Minnesota Authors on Tour," which brings Minnesota Book Award authors to libraries around the state. The program is supported by the Minnesota Association of Library Friends with funding from the Minnesota Humanities Commission in cooperation with the National Endowment for the Humanities and the Minnesota Legislature.

Robert Treuer's 1977 book The Tree Farm, recently re-published in paperback, was written about his experiences as a tree farmer near Bemidji. His later book, A Northwoods Window, was a Minnesota Book Award nominee in 1991. He still lives and writes on his tree farm and his nature essays appear occasionally in the Minneapolis Star Tribune.

Louise Mengelkoch teaches journalism at Bemidji State University and has written on a wide variety of subjects for magazines and newspapers, including the Bemidji Pioneer, Star Tribune and St. Paul Pioneer Press. She and her husband, Kent Nerburn, are co-editors of the book Native American Wisdom.

Richard Dummer herd tops November DHIA

Richard Dummer dairy herd led the Red Lake-Pennington Dairy Herd Improvement Association report for the month of November with average daily production of 73 pounds of milk, 2.2 pounds of butterfat and 2.3 pounds of protein. Eighty-nine percent of the 88-cow herd was in production that month.

In second place was the Mylo Carlson herd of 68 cows, 91 percent of which were in production. The herd averaged 69 pounds of milk, 2.5 pounds of butterfat and 2.2 pounds of protein per day.

Third place herd was from Johnston Farms where production averaged 66 pounds of milk, 2.3 pounds of butterfat and 2.1 pounds of protein despite having only 82 percent of the 68-cow herd in milk.

Other herds in the top 15 included the following with number of cows in the herd, percentage in production and average pounds of milk, butterfat and protein listed respectively:

Gerald and Loretta Visser, 72, 94%, 66, 2.3 and 2.0; Wolter Bros. Farm, 167, 87%, 63, 2.2 and 1.9; Northwest Agricultural Experiment Station (large cow herd), 50, 94%, 60, 2.6 and 1.9; Mark Hanson, 56, 88%, 60, 1.8 and 1.8; and Northwest Agricultural Experiment Station (small cow herd), 60, 85%, 59, 2.3 and 1.9;

Also Lyle Swanson, 47, 79%, 59, 2.2 and 1.9; Tom and Diane Kolstoe, 43, 88%, 55, 2.0 and 1.7; Warren Malwitz Dairy, 120, 80%, 54, 1.9 and 1.7; Tom Willett, 49, 82%, 54, 1.9 and 1.7; Wayne Nelson, 44, 84%, 53, 2.0 and 1.7; Randy and Jo Oast, 71, 94%, 53, 2.0 and 1.7; and Greg Zak, 76, 88%, 52, 2.0 and 1.6.

Total milk production is computed to give the dairy farmer a record of the herd's earning power for the month. This production is averaged over all cows in the herd, so the number of dry cows in that month will adversely affect the average.

Construction report given

Of 11 single family dwellings built in 1996, six were pre-made in some fashion. That's significant, according to Sid Fossum, building inspector for Thief River Falls.

Fossum delivered his annual report on construction in Thief River Falls to the city council Tuesday night. The annual statistics provided a number of interesting observations, including the fact that many of the single family homes are manufactured homes. Fossum said that it also appears to be a statewide trend. Of the 11 homes built within the city limits in 1996, five were spec homes.

Community Development Director Don Stewart also noted that the average cost of construction during the past five years has gone up considerably. At one time, the average construction cost held around $5 million. In the past nine years, the average has been around $9 million.

During 1996, the total cost of construction in Thief River Falls was $7,609,776, a sharp decline from $12,669,905. Although, it was pointed out that much of the construction consisted of taxable property rather than public property.

A total of 256 building permits were issued in 1996. Most of those permits were issued for residential remodeling and additions — 183 for a total construction cost of $1,124,840. A total of 58 permits were issued for non-residential remodeling and additions, totaling $3,398,536. Eleven building permits were issued for new single family dwellings for a total cost of $917,400.

A total of 38 new units were created among multi-family dwellings in Thief River Falls. The units were created by the construction of Southwood Park Town Homes, which has been completed, and Greenwood Terrace, which is in the process of being framed in. Total construction cost was $1,719,000.

Two permits were issued for new non-residential buildings — Black Cat Bar and Grill, which is located south of the Best Western, and the Ag Service Center, which is located near Kmart. Total construction cost was $450,000.

Several additional permits were

Who will use multi-events center?

Ever since the beginning of discussion on the proposed Multi-Events Cultural Center, a key question has been "Who will use the facility?"

Odell Bjerkness, a fund raiser for the project, said emphatically that a recently completed survey shows there is a lot of support for this project in Thief River Falls.

Between May and November, explained Bjerkness, a brief two-page survey was made available at five local institutions with the largest number of employees — Arctic Cat, Digi-Key, Northern State Bank, Thief River Falls Public Schools, and Northland Community and Technical College. A total of 550 people or 20 per cent of the 2,700 employees voluntarily completed the questionnaire. Bjerkness noted that for a survey, the average response rate is between 5 and 10 per cent, so a 20 per cent response rate is considered extremely high. More importantly, however, of those surveyed, 304 (over half) said they would use the aquatic center, 191 would take lessons, 317 would use the Multi-Events Center (track, courts, concerts) and 298 would use the fitness and wellness center.

Bjerkness was pleased with the survey, because the survey was non-promotional and had no attached photos or program plans.

Other highlights from the survey included the following:

- Most of the respondents (361 or 75 per cent) were from Pennington county,
- 308 individuals (67 per cent) live in Thief River Falls townships, the rest live in other locations such as Rocksbury, St. Hilaire, Plummer, Smiley and Warren.
- Most of those who filled out the survey were female — 303 females and 247 males,
- The largest number of people employed were ages 25 to 34 (174), followed by respondents ages 34 to 44 (149). The largest number of employees were from Arctic Cat.
- Most of the respondents were hourly workers (390) compared to 119 who were on salary, which to Bjerkness means that working people were interested in this project,
- 244 or half had children at home.

Program interests of the respondents varied, but the top five programs were volleyball, basketball,

As hard as the dog tried, however, the walleyes were not cooperating. Despite the lack of fishing success, anglers were in a good mood with temperatures ranging into the upper 20s.

Sno-Fest activities at Goodridge school resulted in a tie for King and Queen of Sno-Fest. The junior and sophomore class tied for the honor of being crowned king and queen. It was the fifth year in a row that the junior class representatives have been crowned king and queen.

softball, badminton and archery. The five most popular choices in the area of fitness and wellness were walking, swimming, weight training, weight loss, and golfing. Many stated they wanted to take formal lessons in swimming, dance, karate, self defense or gymnastics.

When the wellness and fitness center was completed, 298 said they would use this facility and 84 said would not use the facility. When the multi-events center is built, 317 said they would use the facility, and 129 said they would not use the facility.

Some people expressed concern about distance to the facilities, the number of hours open each day to the public and the potential increase in taxes. There was also the concern that the center doesn't become an "elite club" with expensive membership for only a few.

Bjerkness said the joint powers board could say unequivocally, that respondents were very supportive of the center. Both men and women equally support the project, but he said, have decidedly different interests. He also noted there is a great need for indoor recreational facilities for people of all ages because of the long winter season.

A general conclusion from the survey stated that "The Multi-Events cultural facility is critically needed in order to keep the community healthy, provide recreation and cultural activities for people of all ages and to attract and hold employees in Thief River Falls."

Council hears summary report on construction issued including: 29 for manufactured homes, 30 plumbing, 26 connection, one moving, one tank removal, two for demolition, 11 for signs, and two for temporary signs.

Total revenue, which includes work for the City of Warren was $39,401.65.

Fossom concluded his review of the annual statistics by saying that next year looks like another good construction year.

■ The council began its review of bids on the depot projects. Bids were opened last week. Tuesday night, the council allowed Innes Construction to withdraw their bids on the depot projects because of a number of critical errors, which led to some very low bids on the projects.

The council learned that the utilities committee had approved use of electric fund reserves to participate in the financing portion of the Depot Renovation project. The funds would be used in conjunction with other city monies, but it was conditioned as a loan and only "if necessary".

Council Representative Dale Wennberg said he disagreed with the use of those funds because they come from rate payers.

In a somewhat related issue, Ken Schmaltz was the only dissenting vote on the recommendation to approve the city's capital improvements plan for 1997 - 2002. Schmalz said he could not vote for the plan because it included the depot project.

Don Stewart said the total cost figure for the city's capital improvements plan, which is used as a planning tool, was up a little this year. He noted that of the $18 million total, one-third of the money would come from internal funding sources and two-thirds would come from external sources.

■ The council has awarded the low bid for the construction of a pedestrian bridge across the Red Lake river below the dam. The pedestrian bridge would be part of the Riverwalk project. The low bid was for $306,858.89. No city funds are involved in the construction of the project, which has been taken on by the Zehlians.

■ The city council has approved a motion to discontinue paying community service club dues for city employees. There has been considerable discussion on the matter which has been before several committees and the council.

It was explained that five employees have had their service club dues paid for them by the city in the past. Council representatives were concerned that it might be interpreted, among other things, that a few employees were receiving special privileges.

Jean Heinrichs, and Frank Hammerlinck, said they thought the purpose of paying the fees was to promote the city. The intent, said Hammerlinck, who voted against the recommendation, was to have contact with people who could promote the city, and make sure employees were available to answer questions put to them.

Mayor Robert Reese said that if an organization needs someone to present a program, city officials were always available.

City Administrator Roger DeLap noted that there has never been an official policy on record regarding service club dues.

■ The council has approved a variance request for Hugo's, which would allow the grocery story company to build three additions onto the existing building.

■ The council approved the city pay equity implementation report. The city appears to be in compliance with pay equity.

In other business, the council approved an increase in administrative service department fees for special assessment searches to $5 per certificate effective February 1, approved a salary progression raise for John Kinsman, journey lineworker; approved an agreement with MinnKota Power Co-op as it relates to development of a new substation in the city's industrial park, accepted a feasibility report for the Kendall Avenue Improvement; approved a dance application permit for Eric Jensen on February 1, 1997, at the armory from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Mr. Duane's will be closing doors for good

Kim Hicks and Pamela Pals of Mr. Duane's will be closing their doors at the end of the month.

A piece of Thief River Falls history will be closing its doors at the end of the month. Owners of Mr. Duane's have decided that it is finally time to move on and close the women's clothing store.

Mr. Duane's has been open since 1969 when it was started by Duane and Betty Walton. It was then run by Bill and Jean Hogan until 1994 when current owners Kim Hicks and Pamela Pals decided to keep it going.

With Kim expecting her second child in May, Pamela needing a break, a decline in business and their lease expiring, it seemed to be the perfect time to close shop.

"There is a big decline in ladies clothing, and there are an abundance of clothing stores," stated Kim Hicks. She claims that we live in a disposable society and people wear "disposable" clothes. They only wear an item a few times and don't want to spend much money on it.

With over 200 Limited Corporation (Limited, Express, Structure and Victoria's Secret) stores and Marshall Fields closing, it is a sure sign that women's retail and other ends of retail are struggling.

Even with the decline in business, they have still had a lot of very faithful, loyal customers. Kim commented that even their most loyal customers are finding that they no longer have a need for dress clothes because the society has become so casual. You no longer have to wear a suit or dress to work, you can wear blue jeans and a t-shirt.

Even with their final days approaching, Pamela and Kim don't regret for a minute that they decided to take on the business. "I didn't want to look back on life and say 'I wish I'd have done that.' You've got to try or else you'll never know if it will work," admitted Kim. "It gave Pam and I an opportunity to travel to New York."

Both Kim and Pamela, who are sisters, were born and raised in Thief River Falls. They had both moved away and come back. Kim had worked for Mr. Duane's for 12 years when the former owners decided to sell. "Pam and I had lots of evenings of talking. We had always talked about going into business together," stated Kim.

They decided to go for it and took over the business. In their first year of business, they were faced with road construction. "It was tougher than we thought it would be," said Kim. But despite hard times, they remained open, with customers having to enter through their back entrance because of torn-up sidewalks.

Kim and Pamela have hired Sandra Santacruz who works for Paul Brooker Sales International out of Wichita, KS to help them with their closing. Sandra has been around the nation and seen many small store closings. "It's sad to see the small stores go under. But with stores like Walmart and Kmart, they can get it all in one place," she commented.

Looking back, Pam commented "As a customer before we bought the store, I remember the service I received." They made every effort to keep the same service as Mr. Duane's always had. They got to know all of the customers by name and gave each and every one of them personal service.

"I will miss them (the customers) personally. I know everyone by name and when I got something in I knew they'd like, I'd give them a call," stated Kim. "I will miss the people and friendships that I've made," she added.

"With all of my contacts, I am able to talk to many small businesses and they all seem to be expressing some concern," stated Kim referring to their concern of all the small businesses and large corporations closing.

With the tentative closing set for March 1, Kim and Pamela are preparing for their new tasks. Kim will be staying home for awhile after she has her baby. She would like to eventually return to the retail business, but not as an owner. Pamela stated, "I will enjoy being home for a while." She is going to look into working at home.

There is a different style in clothing and the market is changing. It is time for Mr. Duane's to close. Even if they wanted to change their clothing style, it is almost impossible to draw new customers. They would have to open a new store to draw the right crowd of customers for the new styles.

Pamela and Kim are thankful for all of the support and well wishes that have been expressed to them. They don't want people to think that they are closing the store on a sad note. They are very happy with their decision, it has been a learning experience for them. They want their customers to know how grateful they are for all of their years of support and they will never be for one moment regretful of the choices they have made.

ON MY MIND

Happy Birthday To You!

Birthdays are like tulips, daisies, weeds and peonies. They return every year whether we want them to or not. That's good because birthdays give us a reason to splurge on cake and ice cream and eat out at a favorite restaurant.

However, I believe birthday celebrations in a person's life cycle.

When babies are born, parents can't wait to celebrate their child's first birthday. There's a big fuss – presents, birthday cake and relatives galore. It's like no one has ever made it to the tender age of one before. The kid can't figure out what the commotion is about, but it all looks good to him. When he's old enough to watch the videotapes from his first party he'll wonder why he has cake all over his face.

It takes a couple of years before the children really start to catch on to the birthday thing – that it's a good deal; everyone showers them with gifts just because they were born and now they're a year older.

When children are about five years old they start to live for their birthdays. They're making a guest list and present list 364 days before. They've selected the party destination, the food, the favors and they know which of their friends will sit in the backseat of the car on the way to the celebration.

They proudly show how many fingers when someone asks their age. When you're that size, it's an honor to be a year older.

A common question posed to parents of children this age is: How many more days until my birthday? After answering for the millionth time, these are the days you wish birthdays would have never been invented.

Birthdays are festive occasions for many years after that. There's always a reason to celebrate. Age 11 marks the end of the "childhood" years. Sweet 13 initiates a child into the teens. Sweet 16 honors the new driver's license. Age 18 rejoices voting and registering for the draft. Age 20 means they're no longer a teen-ager.

The last joyous birthday celebration, I believe, occurs at age 21. This is the final rite of adulthood; at this age people can do just about anything that's legal.

After age 21, people tend not to announce their birthdays. They shy away from telling people exactly how old they are. After age 21, birthdays come by 10 – like 30, 40, 50 and 60. And at these ages your former friends and relatives go out of their way to remind you of how old you are by decorating the office with black balloons and crepe paper and by making cakes shaped like coffins. They put a silly photo with a silly rhyme in the newspaper. They hire singing telegrams. They give presents designed to cure the ills of old age. They call attention to your birthday, which you don't want to be reminded of.

At this age people don't proudly hold up "so many" fingers to show their age like they did at six years old. They'd have to be a centipede. From about 21 to 60, birthdays are just like any other day. You still have to work. You still have to do the dishes. Birthdays are not a big deal.

But after 60 the real celebrations start again, just like the early days. (What's better, you're now eligible to receive a senior citizen's discount.) Everyone wants to celebrate the milestones: 65, 70, 75, 80, 85 and 90. It's a miracle they lived that long. People reaching these ages can't figure out what the fuss is about, presents, birthday cake and relatives. But, hey, a party's a party.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . "Mutter, Mutter"

I guess talking to oneself is considered to be a sign of old age, but I've been doing it for years - even before I got old - I just didn't notice it as much before as I do now.

Talking to myself was different when there was a houseful of children. Nobody, including me, ever knew whether I was talking to myself or to one of them. Gee, there was always somebody or another around to listen to me so who knew I wasn't speaking to them? Maybe half the time I was - I don't know - maybe that's where I got in the habit of doing it. It was hard to tell, because they never seemed to listen to me whether I was talking to them or to myself.

I've noticed that I try to talk to myself when I think I am alone, often in the basement or my bedroom. "Mutter, mutter," I can be heard while doing the laundry or making my bed. I've also heard myself muttering other places in the house, usually when I am scurrying busily around doing something. Lately I must be really busy, because I seem to be doing it all of the time.

I talk to myself a lot in the kitchen, too. I think it started when I would read the ingredient lists from the recipes aloud, and then became simply a habit whenever I was cooking. Then I started to speak to myself while I was doing the dishes and cleaning up after a meal. I hope no one ever walks into the kitchen while I am digging in the refrigerator, chattering to myself, with my backside sticking out in the room.

The problem is, I hardly even notice when I am talking to myself any more. I must subconsciously notice whether or not there is anyone else in the house, because I don't seem to speak aloud if I know that someone is around. It is, however, extremely embarrassing to find that someone is sitting quietly in the TV room or living room after I have been racing around the house muttering to myself for quite some time.

Sometimes I can save face by saying I was talking to the dog, but this doesn't work very well when the dog is outside. It used to be much easier to excuse my muttering when we had a cat because who knows where a cat is, after all? I think I'm going to get another cat soon . or maybe I could get a talking bird and blame it all on him.

I'm afraid I may begin speaking to myself in public. Sometimes I have caught myself nearly speaking aloud while wandering around a store. I suppose some day it may come to that, too. Perhaps in the future I could carry one of my pets around with me when I go shopping - then I would not only sound eccentric, but look that way too.

Valentine Songs

Valentine's Day is right around the corner and the following songs are fun to sing while decorating cards with your favorite valentine.

(Tune: "Clementine")

Won't you be my valentine,
Be my valentine today?
For you are my special friend
Be my valentine today!

Funny Valentine
(Tune: "Did You Ever See a Lassie?")

Here's a funny little valentine,
a valentine, a valentine.
A happy little heart with a message for you.
It says something special
I bet you can guess it.
My funny little valentine says,
"I love you!"

You Are My Valentine
(Tune: "You Are My Sunshine")

You are my valentine,
My special valentine.
You make me happy
All through the day.
You'll never know, dear,
How much I love you
Be my valentine,
All through the day.

PARENTING TIPS

Learning Skills

Most parents want their children to be good listeners. It is a skill that will help children throughout their whole lives. One way to help your children develop listening skills is to make a game out of it.

If you have a tape recorder, use it to tape familiar sounds around the house and yard. For example, a can-opener, a doorbell, an alarm clock, a dog barking, a bird singing. The idea is for your child to listen and name what he/she hears. It is even fun to have your child accompany you while you make the tape. This way you can give him or her the names of the objects you are recording.

If you don't have a tape recorder, you can still play this game. Gather some noise-making objects. Then sitting behind your child so he/she cannot see you, make a noise and have him/her guess what it is.

(Contributed by the Early Childhood Family Education department of School District 564.)

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

To continue this game, have your child try to recreate the noises he/she hears. This way your child can practice making different sounds.

Law slows down jump to license for teen drivers

Law which went into effect February 1 will require young drivers who have received a permit to wait six months before taking the road test for a Minnesota driver's license. The law applies to novice drivers under the age of 18.

The law is said to be part of the Minnesota Department of Public Safety's effort to improve the quality and skills of young drivers in the state.

"Young drivers are involved in far more traffic crashes than would be anticipated by their numbers in the general population," notes Katherine Burke Moore, director of driver and vehicle services.

"In 1995, one in 10 licensed teenage drivers was involved in a traffic crash. Drivers between the age of 15 and 19 accounted for a larger number of combined injuries and deaths in traffic crashes that year than for any other age group."

Because traffic safety authorities think some of the reasons behind those statistics are young drivers' inexperience behind the wheel and their lack of adequate driving skills, the new legislation is meant to provide novice drivers and their parents with the opportunity to extend the supervised driving period and keep young drivers at a lower risk for a longer period of time.

Hans Heppner
Lincoln High School

It's getting more and more hectic by the second here at Lincoln. The final gasp of the second quarter is nearly spent. Final papers are due this Friday, and the scent of scholarly toil pervades the school hallways. Everywhere students are trying to make up homework for the plethora of snow-days.

Indeed, the snow days were, for a time, appreciated; those long days spent looking out the windows, watching the sky for a sign of what will come next. Just when we thought it was safe to go back to school, we would get swamped with torrents of snow or blasted with arctic winds. Yes, from the inside we all praised the weather. It erased the deadline pressure of the school week, and allowed a chance to catch up on "Days of Our Lives." Then came the last week of this semester when the suspended workload came down. Much accursed were the despicable vacation days then.

As the students at Lincoln whip from place to place like policemen in a Charlie Chaplin movie, the murmur on everyone's lips is a fevered, "It's due Friday!" The horror stories of broken printers and inkless pens circulate freely, distributing more apprehension as the procrastinators come from their caves and tear into their books. However, there are the procrastinators who have lifted the menial job of putting things off to a new and exciting art form-the people who literally wait until the very last possible minute. I know a few such people, the procrastination "artists," but only a few, and none of them by name.

The school's one act play, "The Death of a Salesman," is nearing completion for regionals in Alexandria on Saturday, weather permitting. This also has been harassed by winter storms. Last weekend's sub-regionals were canceled thanks to the last storm providing another week of practice for the beleaguered cast. The extra time was appreciated, a substitute week to make up for the vaunted snow days. So, if you weren't snowed in, and you missed "The Death of a Salesman," last Thursday, you missed an excellent play.

It's time for this article to end, I fear. I have a ten-page research paper due Friday and I have been putting it off forever. I don't think of myself as an average procrastinator. I refer to myself as a "procrastination artist," or stylist, if you please.

Clarification in tax law assists farmers

Farmers who receive deferred crop payments can use the same method for reporting them on their 1996 federal income tax returns as they have in the past, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

"This is good news for farmers who want to comply with the tax law and properly report this income on their returns," said IRS Commissioner Margaret Milner Richardson. "They should complete their 1996 returns as they have been doing in the past, or as they have been directed to do after an IRS audit."

In calculating the alternative minimum tax (AMT), some farmers have been mistakenly using a reporting method which is not permitted under current law. The AMT doesn't apply to everyone. Ordinarily, it only applies to people who have higher incomes or benefit from substantial tax breaks.

The IRS will also make it easier for these farmers to change their accounting method for AMT purposes. The change will begin with the 1997 tax returns to be filed in 1998, will not require payment of a user fee, and will provide audit protection for previous years' returns to those who have not received an audit letter on this issue before today.

In Notice 97-13, the IRS explained that the way deferred contract commodity sales are reported for the AMT is a method of accounting for tax purposes. The law provides that a taxpayer cannot change a method of accounting, even if it's the wrong one, without the prior consent of the IRS.

Farmers will be able to change the way they report deferred contact sales for AMT purposes to the proper method with automatic IRS approval, by attaching Form 3115 to their 1997 tax returns. They will not be required to request individual rulings or pay the normal user fee, the notice said. Farmers who take advantage of the automatic change procedure will be protected from IRS audits on this issue for previous years, unless they are currently under audit for this issues.

Legislation presently before the Congress would change the law on this issue, and both the Treasury Department and IRS have indicated their support for change. If Congress enacts such legislation this year, the IRS will provide guidance to assist farmers in complying with the new law.

Questions on future of CRP program discussed

Landowners with Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) acreage in northwest Minnesota have had a number of questions about possible renewal of contracts when present contracts expire soon.

The following questions and answers have been supplied by Mike Ratzlaff, district conservationist with the Natural Resource Conservation Service and Glenn Schafer, county executive director of the Farm Service Agency, both in Thief River Falls.

Q: Since a present CRP contract cannot be extended when it expires, would the acreage still be eligible for reoffering under another CRP sign-up?

A: Yes, if it meets the criteria for either the continuous sign-up that covers special practices or other CRP practices during a general sign-up. Landowners who want to continue their participation in the CRP must reoffer it either for the continuous or general sign-up process when the contract expires. Acreage subject to expiring contracts, if reoffered, would compete with all other acreage being offered by all landowners. Landowners would be required to sign new contacts for all acreage accepted.

Q: If there is a continuous CRP enrollment period, why must a producer wait for a general sign-up?

A: Continuous sign-up is only for acreage that is to be placed in filter strips, riparian buffers, grassed waterways, field windbreaks, shelterbelts, living snow fences, salt tolerant vegetation, shallow water areas for wildlife and acreage in wellhead protection areas as designated by the Environmental Protection Agency. Acreage offered for any other CRP practices may be offered only during a general sign-up period.

Q: If a producer has more than one CRP contract expiring in 1997, must all acreage be offered for re-enrollment even if the producer wishes to retain only a portion of the CRP?

A: No; a producer could offer any eligible acreage for CRP.

Q: May land rejected when offered for one CRP sign-up be reoffered during a later sign-up?

A: Yes; eligible land could be offered during any CRP sign-up even if it was not accepted previously because it did not rank high enough. The likelihood of acceptance could be increased by bidding less than the maximum payment rate offered for the acreage.

Q: On what will the rate be based?

A: The rental rate would be based on county average cash equivalent rental rates adjusted for site-specific, soils-based productivity factors. An allowance would be made for maintenance at a rate determined by the State Farm Service Agency Committee. Producers should know in advance what the maximum rental rate would be for their county and could bid whatever they choose. They could propose less than the maximum rental rate to increase the likelihood of bid acceptance, through the competitive environmental benefits indexing process.

Q: If a producer does not agree with the maximum payment rate offered for a new CRP contract, could the rate be appealed?

A: Only the soil types and related soil type acreage determinations made by the Natural Resources conservation Service may be appealed. The payment rate formula and the individual soil rental rates used in the formula are uniformly applicable to all CRP applicants within each county and may not be appealed.

Q: What are the proposed eligibility requirements for new CRP contracts?

A: For land to be accepted in the CRP it would need a minimum erodibility index (EI) of 8 (EIs of 8 and above may be considered). Exceptions to this requirement are: (1) cropped wetlands; (2) land in designated conservation priority areas; and (3) certain high priority acreage and practices, including those eligible for the continuous sign-up.

Q: If a CRP contract has expired and the acreage is not enrolled under a new contract, must the producer follow a conservation plan to maintain farm program eligibility, if the acreage is farmed?

A: Yes, if the acreage meets the highly-erodible land definition developed by USDA, in accordance with the requirements of the Food Security Act of 1985, as amended, a conservation plan will be required to retain eligibility for most USDA farm programs.

Q: What are the producer's obligations if the CRP contract has expired and the acreage is not accepted for a new contract?

A: Some CRP acreage that was enrolled is subject to an easement. For acreage subject to a CRP contract only, all CRP obligations cease when the contract expires. For acreage also governed by an easement of 15 to 30 years, use of the acreage will continue to be restricted under the terms of the easement for the remainder of the easement period. USDA will provide these producers with information and technical assistance necessary to farm the land in a productive manner to retain soil quality benefits.

Q: If cropped wetlands are made eligible for the CRP in future sign-ups must the wetlands' function be fully restored when the acreage is enrolled?

A: Restoration would be optional. However, an incentive would be paid, in addition to the normal cost-share payment, if the producer elected to restore the wetland. Restoration of the wetland would increase the likelihood that the contract would be accepted due to enhanced environmental benefits.

Governor's ride set February 7

Participants in the 1997 Governor's Snowmobile Trail Ride will enjoy northwoods beauty as they travel from International Falls through Voyageurs National Park on Friday, February 7. For five years, Governor Carlson has participated in this annual event to highlight the importance of snowmobiling to Minnesota's economy and to showcase the variety of topnotch snowmobile trails in the state. This year, Governor Carlson will be unable to attend due to the recent death of his mother. Lt. Governor Joanne Benson will lead the ride on behalf of the Governor.

The ride is sponsored by the Minnesota Office of Tourism, the Minnesota United Snowmobilers Association (MnUSA), the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), and four snowmobile manufacturers. The event kicks off the MnUSA Winter Rendezvous, February 7-9, the annual meeting and trail ride for this statewide association of 25,000 snowmobilers.

Snowmobile manufacturing, sales and tourism are important to the state's economy. Minnesotans spend an estimated $74 million annually while using snowmobile trails in the state, while non-Minnesotans spend $10.5 million on snowmobile trips in Minnesota. Sales of snowmobile and accessories amount to about $64 million annually.

With the increase in snowmobiling comes increased dangers. As a result, this year's snowmobile ride will highlight the issue of safety. With public concern growing over the rising incidents of snowmobile accidents, Governor Carlson has asked the DNR to identify ways to stem the increase in accidents. In response, the DNR has established a snowmobile safety hotline. This toll-free number can be used to report snowmobilers who are seen speeding, traveling on roadways, operating in a dangerous manner, or appearing intoxicated. Callers witnessing these infractions are asked to dial 1-888-234-1286, and their call will be referred to a law enforcement agency.

Additionally, a special safety demonstration for ride participants has been scheduled prior to the start of the ride. The purpose of the demonstration is to raise awareness and to provide safe riding tips.

Each year the Governor's Snowmobile Ride is hosted by a different community in the state. This year's ride enables the International Falls/Voyageurs National Park area to spotlight its bounty of scenic snowmobile trails.

The ride will be round-trip between International Falls and Crane Lake, with lunch and coffee stops along the route. The event begins with an evening reception Thursday, Feb. 6, in International Falls. About 400 MnUSA members are expected to participate.

For more information on the Governor's Trail Ride or MnUSA Rendezvous, call 218/285-7698.

Clarification in tax law assists farmers

Farmers who receive deferred crop payments can use the same method for reporting them on their 1996 federal income tax returns as they have in the past, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

"This is good news for farmers who want to comply with the tax law and properly report this income on their returns," said IRS Commissioner Margaret Milner Richardson. "They should complete their 1996 returns as they have been doing in the past, or as they have been directed to do after an IRS audit."

In calculating the alternative minimum tax (AMT), some farmers have been mistakenly using a reporting method which is not permitted under current law. The AMT doesn't apply to everyone. Ordinarily, it only applies to people who have higher incomes or benefit from substantial tax breaks.

The IRS will also make it easier for these farmers to change their accounting method for AMT purposes. The change will begin with the 1997 tax returns to be filed in 1998, will not require payment of a user fee, and will provide audit protection for previous years' returns to those who have not received an audit letter on this issue before today.

In Notice 97-13, the IRS explained that the way deferred contract commodity sales are reported for the AMT is a method of accounting for tax purposes. The law provides that a taxpayer cannot change a method of accounting, even if it's the wrong one, without the prior consent of the IRS.

Farmers will be able to change the way they report deferred contact sales for AMT purposes to the proper method with automatic IRS approval, by attaching Form 3115 to their 1997 tax returns. They will not be required to request individual rulings or pay the normal user fee, the notice said. Farmers who take advantage of the automatic change procedure will be protected from IRS audits on this issue for previous years, unless they are currently under audit for this issues.

Legislation presently before the Congress would change the law on this issue, and both the Treasury Department and IRS have indicated their support for change. If Congress enacts such legislation this year, the IRS will provide guidance to assist farmers in complying with the new law.

Questions on future of CRP program discussed

Landowners with Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) acreage in northwest Minnesota have had a number of questions about possible renewal of contracts when present contracts expire soon.

The following questions and answers have been supplied by Mike Ratzlaff, district conservationist with the Natural Resource Conservation Service and Glenn Schafer, county executive director of the Farm Service Agency, both in Thief River Falls.

Q: Since a present CRP contract cannot be extended when it expires, would the acreage still be eligible for reoffering under another CRP sign-up?

A: Yes, if it meets the criteria for either the continuous sign-up that covers special practices or other CRP practices during a general sign-up. Landowners who want to continue their participation in the CRP must reoffer it either for the continuous or general sign-up process when the contract expires. Acreage subject to expiring contracts, if reoffered, would compete with all other acreage being offered by all landowners. Landowners would be required to sign new contacts for all acreage accepted.

Q: If there is a continuous CRP enrollment period, why must a producer wait for a general sign-up?

A: Continuous sign-up is only for acreage that is to be placed in filter strips, riparian buffers, grassed waterways, field windbreaks, shelterbelts, living snow fences, salt tolerant vegetation, shallow water areas for wildlife and acreage in wellhead protection areas as designated by the Environmental Protection Agency. Acreage offered for any other CRP practices may be offered only during a general sign-up period.

Q: If a producer has more than one CRP contract expiring in 1997, must all acreage be offered for re-enrollment even if the producer wishes to retain only a portion of the CRP?

A: No; a producer could offer any eligible acreage for CRP.

Q: May land rejected when offered for one CRP sign-up be reoffered during a later sign-up?

A: Yes; eligible land could be offered during any CRP sign-up even if it was not accepted previously because it did not rank high enough. The likelihood of acceptance could be increased by bidding less than the maximum payment rate offered for the acreage.

Q: On what will the rate be based?

A: The rental rate would be based on county average cash equivalent rental rates adjusted for site-specific, soils-based productivity factors. An allowance would be made for maintenance at a rate determined by the State Farm Service Agency Committee. Producers should know in advance what the maximum rental rate would be for their county and could bid whatever they choose. They could propose less than the maximum rental rate to increase the likelihood of bid acceptance, through the competitive environmental benefits indexing process.

Q: If a producer does not agree with the maximum payment rate offered for a new CRP contract, could the rate be appealed?

A: Only the soil types and related soil-type acreage determinations made by the Natural Resources Conservation Service may be appealed. The payment rate formula and the individual soil rental rates used in the formula are uniformly applicable to all CRP applicants within each county and may not be appealed.

Q: What are the proposed eligibility requirements for new CRP contracts?

A: For land to be accepted in the CRP it would need a minimum erodibility index (EI) of 8 (EIs of 8 and above may be considered). Exceptions to this requirement are: (1) cropped wetlands; (2) land in designated conservation priority areas; and (3) certain high priority acreage and practices, including those eligible for the continuous sign-up.

Q: If a CRP contract has expired and the acreage is not enrolled under a new contract, must the producer follow a conservation plan to maintain farm program eligibility, if the acreage is farmed?

A: Yes, if the acreage meets the highly-erodible land definition developed by USDA, in accordance with the requirements of the Food Security Act of 1985, as amended, a conservation plan will be required to retain eligibility for most USDA farm programs.

Q: What are the producer's obligations if the CRP contract has expired and the acreage is not accepted for a new contract?

A: Some CRP acreage that was enrolled is subject to an easement. For acreage subject to a CRP contract only, all CRP obligations cease when the contract expires. For acreage also governed by an easement of 15 to 30 years, use of the acreage will continue to be restricted under the terms of the easement for the remainder of the easement period. USDA will provide these producers with information and technical assistance necessary to farm the land in a productive manner to retain soil quality benefits.

Q: If cropped wetlands are made eligible for the CRP in future sign-ups must the wetlands' function be fully restored when the acreage is enrolled?

A: Restoration would be optional. However, an incentive would be paid, in addition to the normal cost-share payment, if the producer elected to restore the wetland. Restoration of the wetland would increase the likelihood that the contract would be accepted due to enhanced environmental benefits.

Governor's ride set February 7

Participants in the 1997 Governor's Snowmobile Trail Ride will enjoy northwoods beauty as they travel from International Falls through Voyageurs National Park on Friday, February 7. For five years, Governor Carlson has participated in this annual event to highlight the importance of snowmobiling to Minnesota's economy and to showcase the variety of topnotch snowmobile trails in the state. This year, Governor Carlson will be unable to attend due to the recent death of his mother. Lt. Governor Joanne Benson will lead the ride on behalf of the Governor.

The ride is sponsored by the Minnesota Office of Tourism, the Minnesota United Snowmobilers Association (MnUSA), the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), and four snowmobile manufacturers. The event kicks off the MnUSA Winter Rendezvous, February 7-9, the annual meeting and trail ride for this statewide association of 25,000 snowmobilers.

Snowmobile manufacturing, sales and tourism are important to the state's economy. Minnesotans spend an estimated $74 million annually while using snowmobile trails in the state, while non-Minnesotans spend $10.5 million on snowmobile trips in Minnesota. Sales of snowmobile and accessories amount to about $64 million annually.

With the increase in snowmobiling comes increased dangers. As a result, this year's snowmobile ride will highlight the issue of safety. With public concern growing over the rising incidents of snowmobile accidents, Governor Carlson has asked the DNR to identify ways to stem the increase in accidents. In response, the DNR has established a snowmobile safety hotline. This toll-free number can be used to report snowmobilers who are seen speeding, traveling on roadways, operating in a dangerous manner, or appearing intoxicated. Callers witnessing these infractions are asked to dial 1-888-234-1286, and their call will be referred to a law enforcement agency.

Additionally, a special safety demonstration for ride participants has been scheduled prior to the start of the ride. The purpose of the demonstration is to raise awareness and to provide safe riding tips.

Each year the Governor's Snowmobile Ride is hosted by a different community in the state. This year's ride enables the International Falls/Voyaguers National Park area to spotlight its bounty of scenic snowmobile trails.

The ride will be round-trip between International Falls and Crane Lake, with lunch and coffee stops along the route. The event begins with an evening reception Thursday, Feb. 6, in International Falls. About 400 MnUSA members are expected to participate.

For more information on the Governor's Trail Ride or MnUSA Rendezvous, call 218/285-7698.

New study measures issues in agricultural management

How are the changes in farm programs affecting the financial health of U.S. agriculture? What does it cost to produce corn? To gather reliable, objective information about the financial condition of U.S. agriculture, the Agricultural Resource Management Study will be conducted by the Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service, part of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) and the Minnesota Department of Agriculture.

Agricultural income and expenses, assets and liabilities, cost of producing various commodities, and risk management strategies are some of the topics to be measured during February, March and April 1997. Only 17,000 of the nation's 2 million farm operators will be asked to participate in the study, so every response is critical. Some 850 producers in Minnesota will be included.

"The results of the upcoming survey will be used to assess how the changes in the new Farm Bill will impact producers," said Gene Hugoson, Minnesota Department of Agriculture Commissioner. "We encourage farmers to participate in this study."

The agricultural producers selected to participate in the Agricultural Resource Management study will be making an important contribution to the overall welfare of the U.S. agricultural community.

All study information will be merged and used by commodity analysts, producer organizations and others to benefit Minnesota farmers.

Study participants have an opportunity to set the record straight about financial issues that affect them.

Respondents are helping in the research for improved production, marketing, and profitability of U.S. agricultural commodities.

Results will show how the weather in 1996 affected producers' income and cash flow.

Minnesota farmer operators selected to participate in this year's study will soon be notified by letter and interviewers will visit them personally to collect their reports (at the operator's convenience). USDA will publish national information on the farm financial situation, as well as analysis of commodity production costs and returns in a series of reports in 1997.

Mock trial team wins at Warren

In its first and only regular season trial conducted at the Marshall county courthouse in Warren on Monday, the Lincoln high school mock trial team scored a 180-164 win over Norman County East.

Presiding Judge Brian Rokke, a Warren attorney, scored 93 points for Lincoln and 87 points for Norman County East. Scoring judge John Jeffrey, an attorney from East Grand Forks, gave the Lincoln team a 10-point margin at 87-77.

"The team did a very nice job at this trial," stated Cal Lindberg, teacher coach for the mock trial team. "They increased their aggressiveness from the practice trial we had last week, presented a good number of objections which were sustained, and handled themselves well in both the direct and cross-examinations."

Lincoln represented the plaintiff on Monday and was scheduled to represent the defense in a trial next Wednesday, February 12, against Frazee at Bagley. However, Frazee withdrew from competition and Lincoln will pick up a forfeit for that second trial, thereby gaining automatic advancement into the regional event Saturday, February 22. A site has not yet been determined.

In place of the trial next week, Lincoln's defense team is at Mahnomen today for a "scrimmage" trial against Detroit Lakes. The latter team had an opening in its schedule due to a forfeit by Barnesville.

Placement at the region is based on margin of scoring in the two trials each team is scheduled to have. Lincoln's score will be determined by adding the 16-point margin from Monday's trial to the average margin of the other seven trials being conducted in the region next week.

Judge Dennis Murphy accepts an exhibit from attorney Paul Dehnert during the Lincoln high school mock trial practice last Wednesday in the Pennington county courthouse. Judge Murphy has assisted the local high school team for the past several years by presiding at the practice session and providing constructive criticism and advice.

Attorney Lesley Ihle shows an exhibit to Nikolas Kotz during the Lincoln high school mock trial team's practice trial last Wednesday at the courtroom in the Pennington county courthouse. The team had its first trial of the season Monday against Twin Valley at Warren, winning 180-164, and will next meet Detroit Lakes at Mahnomen in a scrimmage today. The scheduled trial against Frazee at Bagley February 12 was forfeited to Lincoln when Frazee withdrew from mock trial competition this year.

Mock trial team wins at Warren

In its first and only regular season trial conducted at the Marshall county courthouse in Warren on Monday, the Lincoln high school mock trial team scored a 180-164 win over Norman County East.

Presiding Judge Brian Rokke, a Warren attorney, scored 93 points for Lincoln and 87 points for Norman County East. Scoring judge John Jeffrey, an attorney from East Grand Forks, gave the Lincoln team a 10-point margin at 87-77.

"The team did a very nice job at this trial," stated Cal Lindberg, teacher coach for the mock trial team. "They increased their aggressiveness from the practice trial we had last week, presented a good number of objections which were sustained, and handled themselves well in both the direct and cross-examinations."

Lincoln represented the plaintiff on Monday and was scheduled to represent the defense in a trial next Wednesday, February 12, against Frazee at Bagley. However, Frazee withdrew from competition and Lincoln will pick up a forfeit for that second trial, thereby gaining automatic advancement into the regional event Saturday, February 22. A site has not yet been determined.

In place of the trial next week, Lincoln's defense team is at Mahnomen today for a "scrimmage" trial against Detroit Lakes. The latter team had an opening in its schedule due to a forfeit by Barnesville.

Placement at the region is based on margin of scoring in the two trials each team is scheduled to have. Lincoln's score will be determined by adding the 16-point margin from Monday's trial to the average margin of the other seven trials being conducted in the region next week.

In her role as attorney for the plaintiff, Sara Rasmussen questions a witness during the Lincoln high school mock trial team's practice trial last Wednesday in the courtroom of the Pennington county courthouse. At right is Jenna Tsukichi, a witness for the plaintiff in the trial.

Questioning a witness during the Lincoln high school mock trial practice last Wednesday in the Pennington county courthouse is Kate Ihle. Also pictured are team members Paul Dehnert and Lesley Ihle.

Judge Dennis Murphy accepts an exhibit from attorney Paul Dehnert during the Lincoln high school mock trial practice last Wednesday in the Pennington county courthouse. Judge Murphy has assisted the local high school team for the past several years by presiding at the practice session and providing constructive criticism and advice.

Attorney Lesley Ihle shows an exhibit to Nikolee Kotz during the Lincoln high school mock trial team's practice trial last Wednesday at the courtroom in the Pennington county courthouse. The team had its first trial of the season Monday against Twin Valley at Warren, winning 180-164, and will next meet Detroit Lakes at Mahnomen in a scrimmage today. The scheduled trial against Frazee at Bagley February 12 was forfeited to Lincoln when Frazee withdrew from mock trial competition this year.

Program on production of corn at R.L. Falls or Twin Valley

Producers and agri-businesses are invited to corn production meetings called "Quality Corn: A Gold Opportunity". Producers have a choice to attend these simultaneous meetings at the Community Hall in Red Lake Falls, or in Twin Valley on February 12, 1997, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Commercial exhibitors will set up display booths and will be able to help producers with corn production needs.

The educational program is co-sponsored by Pro-Gold and the Minnesota Extension Service. Speakers will cover corn plot data, variety selection criteria for wet milling, what does quality mean in marketing, corn drying and storage tips, weed control and corn borer concerns. A farmers panel will give their view on what works in corn production.

The meeting is open to the public at no cost and is hosted by the Minnesota Extension Service. For more information call the Extension Office in Red Lake Falls at 218-253-2897.

Basking in temperatures which crept up nearly to the freezing mark, these fishermen crowded the ice for the annual Knights of Columbus fishing derby Sunday on the Red Lake river near the Eighth Street bridge. Generally the event falls on one of the coldest Sundays of the winter, making fishing a test of true grit. This year was an exception appreciated by all participants.

Happiness was a two-liter bottle of pop presented to this young lady who was one of the four and five-year-old girls to receive the prize at the Knights of Columbus fishing derby Sunday in Thief River Falls.

Griff Newland weighed in a two-pound northern midway through the Knights of Columbus fishing derby Sunday on the Red Lake river in Thief River Falls. It was the only fish caught to that point in the derby.

There was more action tossing snow chunks in the water than there was in the fishing for this youngster at the Knights of Columbus fishing derby Sunday on the Red Lake river in Thief River Falls.

Concentration was exhibited by this young fisherman Sunday at the annual Knights of Columbus fishing derby on the Red Lake river near the Eighth Street bridge. Warmest weather for the derby in many years made the event enjoyable for the anglers of all ages.

Land O'Lakes Co-op sets up a foundation

Land O'Lakes Inc. officially created and endowed the Land O'Lakes Foundation in December with an initial donation of $2 million dollars. The new foundation will continue Land O'Lakes well-established corporate giving program and will focus on improving the quality of life in rural America. The foundation will begin accepting grant requests April 1.

Land O'Lakes will continue to dedicate two per cent of pre-tax earnings to charitable giving, with 1.5 per cent going to the Foundation and .5 per cent into direct corporate giving.

"As a cooperative enterprise, Land O'Lakes was established 75 years ago with a commitment to agriculture and rural communities and a deep respect for people and the land," Land O'Lakes Board Chairman Stan Zylstra said. "We feel this foundation is a fitting way to honor and continue that heritage by improving the quality of life in communities where our members and employees live and work."

Land O Lakes Foundation grants will be awarded to organizations and programs in communities across the North Central, Northwest and Eastern United States. Approximately 80 per cent of the foundation giving is earmarked for rural communities. Foundation guidelines call for 40 per cent of donations to be focused on human services; 30 per cent to programs serving education and youth; 20 per cent to civic organizations and activities, and 10 per cent to the arts and art organizations.

A five-member board will govern the foundation. Larry Wojchik, general manager of Equity Cooperative of Amery, Amery Lake, WI, will serve as chairman of the board. Lydia Botham, director of test kitchens and consumer affairs at Land O'Lakes, was elected vice chair/secretary. Other employees on the board include Rita Page Reuss, vice president of public affairs, and Judy Kahler, human resources and building services supervisor at Land O'Lakes in Fort Dodge, IA. The fifth board member is George Koch, a Land O'Lakes dairy farmer member from Puposky.

Bonnie Neuenfeldt, who has served as Land O'Lakes director of community relations since 1985, has been appointed executive director of Land O'Lakes Foundation.

For information about Land O'Lakes Foundation, its giving guidelines and grant application procedures contact Land O'Lakes Foundation, Box 64150, St. Paul, MN 55164-0150.

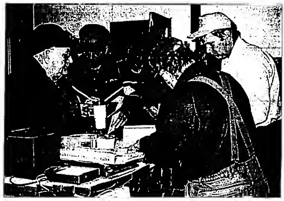
Feeding the deer was given an extra boost by the Thief River Falls chapter of the Minnesota Deer Hunters Association Saturday. More than 100 members and non-members of the association picked up approximately 600 50-pound bags of feed at the Northwest Grain plant on Atlantic Avenue in Thief River Falls. Of the total, 280 bags were provided free of charge by the association. A similar distribution is planned for next Saturday.



To assist those who have been feeding deer this winter, the Thief River Falls chapter of the Minnesota Deer Hunters Association gave away 280 bags of deer feed Saturday morning. Members of the association could receive four free bags of feed if they purchased four or more and non-members could receive two free bags if they purchased two or more. Approximately 600 bags of feed were purchased or given away in a couple of hours Saturday.

Crookston 57-48 winner over Thief River Falls boys...

Early lead stands up for Pirates

Playing from behind most of the night, Thief River Falls was forced to burn up its energy just to stay close, and when it came down to crunch time, the Prowlers' tank was empty Friday as they lost ground at the end of a 57-48 boys high school basketball loss to Crookston.

Thief River Falls managed to be within two at each quarter stop, but the Prowlers were out-scored 16-9 in the fourth quarter. The Pirates turned a 41-39 third quarter lead into a 48-39 spread in the first 2 1/2 minutes of the fourth quarter, and were not challenged the rest of the way.

"We tried to fight back, but it's a lot tougher to play from behind than it is to play with a lead," explained Thief River Falls coach Scott Drekke. "We just ran out of gas at the end."

The visiting Pirates came out strong, beating the Prowlers down the court in jumping out to an early 12-4 lead.

"We didn't get back defensively at the start of the game," noted Brekke. "They were beating us on the fast break."

A quick time-out brought that fact to the Prowlers' attention, according to Brekke. They responded by tightening their defense, and when Michael Morris connected from underway, Anthony Hendricks scored on a drive, and Courtney Skjerven turned a loose ball under the basket into a bucket, the margin was chopped to 12-10.

It was close the rest of the way. Crookston led 21-19 at the end of the first quarter. Skjerven scored off a nifty feed from Hendricks to give the Prowlers their first lead of the night, 26-25, with 4:47 to play in the half, and Skjerven beat the buzzer with a lay-up to keep Thief River Falls within 33-31 at intermission.

It was Skjerven again scoring the final points of the third quarter to make it 41-39, but Crookston's game-turning run at the start of the fourth quarter included a 3-point basket by Nick Brorson, two free throws by Nate Stromberg, and a fast break basket by Stromberg off a Thief River Falls turnover.

Hendricks came up with a short jumper with 5:19 left to make it 48-41, but Brock Olson scored off a rebound and Ryan Westrom added a free throw for a 10-point spread, 51-41, with 3:56 to play, and the Prowlers couldn't muster a comeback.

"Crookston has a good team," pointed out Drekke. "I thought we came back and played hard. that's all you can ask – that the kids come out and play hard every night. Outside of those first couple of minutes, I thought we did."

Stromberg, a 6-1 senior, led the balanced Pirates with 16 points, a figure matched by Hendricks for the Prowlers. Skjerven finished with 13.

Thief River Falls was 21-for-49 from the field (43 percent) and a quiet 3-for-5 at the free throw line. Crookston went 20-for-51 from the floor (49 percent) and connected on 14 of 19 free throws. The Pirates out-rebounded the Prowlers 29-18. Thief River Falls topped the turnover charts 20-17.

It was the second win of the year over the Prowlers for the Pirates, who took a season-opening 61-50 decision.

NCTC holds off Rainy River

Inability to cash in on offensive opportunities, especially at the free throw line, kept Northland from picking up a stress-free Minnesota Community College Conference women's basketball win over Rainy River Friday. Instead, the Pioneers had to sweat out the Voyageurs' game-ending possession before they were able to lay claim to a 52-51 Northern Division win.

Northland led 27-19 at halftime and were up 11 with eight minutes to play. But the Pioneers missed the front end of four bonus free throw opportunities in the final 1:20 as part of a head-shaking 16-for-34 night at the line, and Rainy River capitalized.

Gaining possession with 16 seconds left in the one-point game, Rainy River worked for the final shot, but came up empty-handed.

MCCC Woman's Basketball

■ Northern Division - Central Lakes 7-0, Northland 5-2, Rainy River 4-3, Vermilion 3-3, Fergus Falls 3-3, Itasca 1-5, Mesabi 0-7.

■ Southern Division - Worthington 5-0, Anoka-Ramsey 5-1, Ridgewater 3-3, Bethany 2-2, Rochester 1-5, Riverland 0-6.

"We were in control, but we almost let in slip away," noted Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "It was another case of playing well defensively, but not so well offensively. We turned the ball over, and we were off shooting-wise."

Rainy River scored 14 points off Northland turnovers. The Pioneers came up with just four points off the Voyageurs' mistakes. Rainy River also got 28 points from its bench, compared to 18 for Northland.

Jenny Smith scored 15 points. LaVonne Nelson 12 and Adria Olson 10 for the Pioneers. The Klemetsen – Lora and Lisa – led Rainy River with 20 and 11 points, respectively.

From the field, Northland was 15-for-46 (33 percent) and Rainy River was 11-for-47 (23 percent). The Voyageurs were 8-for-9 at the line and had a 50-44 rebound advantage. They turned it over 19 times; the Pioneers lost it 18 times.

Northland is 11-3 for the year.

Pioneers wind up with split

■ NCTC men down Rainy River; lose to Hibbing

Splitting a weekend Minnesota Community College Conference series at home probably cost Northland a chance to defend its Northern Division title, but it did keep the Pioneers in the thick of the race for a spot in the 1997 MCCC men's state basketball tournament later this month.

Northland handled Rainy River 101-78 Friday night, but lost to Hibbing 86-79 Saturday afternoon. The results left the Pioneers 8-8 overall and a third place 4-4 in the Northern Division, where the top four finishers earn post-season spots.

"I thought we played pretty well overall against Rainy River," said Northland coach Mark Dannhoff. "We turned the ball over in a few spots. Rainy River is very athletic and very quick. They cause you to do some of those things. But our kids fought through those mistakes. They didn't back down when they turned it over."

Rainy River beat Northland 85-70 earlier this season at International Falls.

Hibbing, having lost a 96-95 overtime game at home to Northland in mid-January, turned the tables in the rematch in Thief River Falls.

It was a disappointing performance, according to Dannhoff. "We didn't bother to show up," he said. "We shot so poorly. The kids kept trying to fight back, but we could never get over the hump. But give credit to Hibbing. It was probably their best game of the year. They did all the things they needed to do to win."

Northland has four MCCC games remaining – three of them on the road. The Pioneers will play Vermilion Friday and Mesabi Saturday in Ely and Virginia, respectively. They host Central Lakes on Wednesday, Feb. 12, then finish Northern Division play Monday, Feb. 17, at Fergus Falls.

Nonconference home games remain today (Wednesday) against NDSCS and Friday, Feb. 21, vs UND-Lake Region.

MCCC Men's Basketball

■ Northern Division - Fergus Falls 6-1, Central Lakes 6-1, Northland 4-4, Hibbing 3-4, Vermilion 2-4, Rainy River 2-5, Mesabi 1-5

■ Southern Division - Minneapolis 6-1, Bethany 4-2, Worthington 4-2, Ridgewater 4-3, Anoka-Ramsey 3-4, Rochester 1-5, Riverland 1-6.

by Mike Bellmore,
Journal Staff Writer

When Kris Paulson was an aspiring young volleyball player at Thief River Falls High School in Minnesota, her coach told her she had to be able to jump to be an outside hitter.

At 5-foot-5, she needed that explosiveness in her legs and a solid vertical jump. So she planted herself in the weight room, began working out, and built up that vertical jump.

It was a work ethic that ultimately led to an outstanding two-year stay at Minot State University. And a work ethic that she hopes to transpire into an outstanding career at a volleyball coach.

Devils Lake coach Vicki Coleman says she has no doubts that will happen.

"Kris does very well with our younger kids," Coleman says of her first-year assistant. "She's very positive and relates well to them. She has been just a great addition to our program as we continue to build and that's a credit to our school system for hiring someone of her calibre."

Paulson is teaching fourth grade at Minnie H Elementary School in Devils Lake and was picked from nearly 100 applicants for the job, and among five applicants with volleyball backgrounds.

She brings with her some strong credentials in volleyball from Thief River Falls High School, Brainerd Community College and Minot State.

She still holds some school volleyball records at Minot, including 30 digs in three different matches in one season, according to Coleman.

"That's a huge feat," the Devils Lake coach smiled.

Paulson got an early introduction to her new surroundings when she helped coach at Coleman's summer volleyball camp at the Sports Center.

That enabled her to get to know the kids and gave them an opportunity to know the new coach in their program. It was a nice fit.

"I feel very fortunate to be able to work with Vicki Coleman," Kris said. "She's got a great reputation in volleyball and I can learn a lot from her."

Coleman said the addition of Paulson was another positive step in the process of building and nurturing her volleyball program, which is growing immensely in popularity.

And she said the hiring of quality young coaches like Kris Paulson is a "must" as that process continues. She says the hiring of quality coaches is important.

Kris Paulson

"Kris is really a good one," the Devils Lake coach added. "We've really improved our staff with the addition of her and a few others this year as our program continues to progress."

Paulson said she developed her love for volleyball at a very young age. She never played basketball, but there are days she wishes she had, she smiles.

That love for the game first became evident at Coleman's camp last summer.

"I first got to know the girls then," Kris recalled. "It's really a nice group."

Gators beat Taylor, Rams 63-57

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River limited Megan Taylor to four first-half points, then held off the high-scoring standout and her Roseau teammates in the second half to pick up a 63-57 girls high school basketball win Thursday.

It was just the second loss of the year for the Rams, and their first with Taylor in the line-up. The Iowa State-bound senior who is on the verge of becoming the state's all-time scoring leader, finished with a game-high 22 points as Roseau tried to overcome a 33-18 halftime deficit.

The Gators watched a 48-38 third quarter lead shrink to a single point with two minutes left but were able to control things down the stretch with a foul-drawing slow down game that produced nine fourth quarter free throws.

"That was a good one for us," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "It was a quality win."

Four Gators hit double figures, led by Stefanie Sparby with 15 points, Kara Kuznia 14, Nikki Wahl 13, and Robin Kilen 12.

"We had an exceptional first half," pointed out Neibauer. "We really shot well. Our perimeter people were knocking them down."

The Gators shot 56 percent from the Greenbush floor (23/41). The sharp-shooters included Sparby, who had 12 first half points; Kuznia, who was 7-for-10 from the field, and Kilen, who made 4 of 6 shots.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River also cashed in on 15 of 22 free throws. Roseau went 10-for-13 at the line.

The 12-3 Gators lost to Roseau 61-42 in the 1996-97 season opener.

A title-winning effort by Luke Davis at 160 pounds, a second-place finish by Adam Kuck at 189, and thirds by John Swanson at 119 and Kyle Nelson at 171 highlighted Thief River Falls efforts Saturday at the annual Fertile-Beltrami Northwest Invitational high school wrestling tournament.

"The kids wrestled extremely well," said Thief River Falls coach John Belyea. "As a team, they did real well."

In the finals, Davis turned the tables on Josh Jaenicke of Roseau, who beat him twice this winter, with an 18-8 decision.

Kuck lost a 5-4 title match to Eric Patenoude of Crookston.

Swanson, a seventh grader, carries the best record on the team at 16-4.

Other Thief River Falls places in the Northwest Invitational included a fourth by heavyweight Robert Spry; a fifth by Phillip Hermanson at 125, and a sixth by Sam Lane at 145.

"Before Saturday, we weren't wrestling up to par," said Belyea. "We're just now starting to come around."

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River easily won team honors with 296.5 points, followed by Roseau with 141, Red Lake County Central 138, Detroit Lakes 130.5, Crookston 122, Thief River Falls 114, Mahnomen/ Waubun 97.5, Fertile-Beltrami 83, Warren-Alvarado-Oslo 52.5, Grand Forks Central 12, and East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 6.

The Prowlers close out their 1996-97 regular season schedule Saturday with a late-afternoon home dual against Moorhead. Junior varsity matches start at 3 p.m., with varsity matches scheduled to begin about 4 o'clock.

NCTC player honored

Hassan Jihad, a Northland Community and Technical College sophomore from Redford High School in Detroit, MI, has been listed as the Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division men's basketball Player of the Week in the MCCC news release issued Monday.

Jihad was recognized for his efforts that produced 68 points, 25 rebounds and 12 assists as Northland beat Fergus Falls 78-74 Monday, defeated Rainy River 101-78 Friday and lost to Hibbing 86-79 Saturday.

Listed at 6-4, 220 pounds on the Northland program as a freshman last year, Jihad is an inch shorter and 20 pounds heavier on this year's roster.

He is averaging 15.2 points per game for the 8-8 Pioneers.

Gators lose to Bears

Lake of the Woods completed a regular season sweep of Badger/Greenbush-Middle River Saturday with a 56-54 boys high school basketball win at Badger. The 7-8 Gators began the year with a 59-54 loss at the hands of the Bears in Baudette.

It wasn't a sharp performance on the part of the Gators, according to Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "Mentally, we were out of touch the whole day," he said. "We didn't turn it over that many times, but we made some poor decisions. We took some poor shots."

Tied at 52-52 in the final half-minute of play, one of the Gators' ill-advised shots was rebounded by the Bears, setting up a pair of free throws by Cornelius Marthias.

Another Lake of the Woods rebound set up two more free throws by Rian Berg for a 56-52 cushion. Daryl Wockenfuss came back with a bucket for the Gators, but with just a few seconds left, they never got the ball back in their hands.

Lake of the Woods started with a 19-14 first quarter lead. It was tied 31-31 at halftime, but the Bears opened up a 42-35 third quarter spread.

Both sides had three double figure scorers. For the Bears, Alan Johnson had 13 points, Ed Humeniuk 12 and Berg 11. For the Gators, Jeremy Vacura netted 13 points, while Matt Kujava and Wockenfuss both scored 12.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 22-for-54 from the field (41 percent) and 9-for-12 at the free throw line. Lake of the Woods went 19-for-48 from the floor (40 percent) and 15-for-25 at the line. The Bears had a 30-27 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 18-8.

MCC upset bid fails at Warroad

Struggling Marshall County Central girls high school basketball team watched an upset bid slip away in the fourth quarter of a 67-43 Thursday loss to Warroad in Newfolden.

Coming into the game at 1-11, the Nordics posted a 10-9 first quarter lead, had a 29-27 halftime edge and trailed just 40-39 at the end of the third quarter. But they were outscored 27-4 over the final eight minutes.

"We played a real nice three-fourths of a game," reported Marshall County Central coach Jerald Hagen. "It was probably the best first three quarters of basketball we've played all year."

Trouble started when Mindy Fick fouled out early in the fourth quarter and Kristi Kilen picked up her fifth personal midway through the final period.

"That forced us to play most of the fourth quarter without a big person," explained Hagen. "Then we started to turn it over on the press. We had a two-minute stretch where we were out-scored badly."

Bridgette Boucha and Heather Evans scored 14 points apiece to lead Warroad. Marshall County Central got 12-point production from Brandi Olson and Kilen, who also turned in a strong effort defensively against the 6-2 Evans, noted Hagen.

Marshall County Central was 17-for-44 from the field (39 percent) and 8-for-17 at the free throw line, which included an 8-for-11 first half and an 0-for-6 fourth quarter. Warroad went 25-for-63 from the floor (40 percent) and had a busy 17-for-31 free throw night. The winners had a 30-28 rebound edge. The Nordics topped the turnover charts 19-14.

Crookston rebounding topples RLCC girls 54-40

Crookston doubled Red Lake County Central on the boards 32-16 Saturday en route to a 54-40 girls high school basketball win as part of the University of Minnesota-Crookston Super Saturday line-up.

The Pirates jumped out to a 16-4 first quarter lead then maintained a 23-14 halftime advantage and a 42-31 third quarter edge.

"We got off to a slow start," acknowledged Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "We weren't ready to play. It was a game won on the boards. They're a little too big for us. We've been doing a pretty good job rebounding this year, but not this time."

Carrie Kildahl scored 12 points and Stephanie Boll had 10 to lead the Pirates. Angie Chervestad netted 14 points and Catherine Rosten added 10 for the Mustangs.

Red Lake County Central shot 30 percent from the field (14/46) and made 9 of 14 free throws. Crookston shot 48 percent from the floor (22/46) and sank 8 of 12 free throws.

While visiting relatives in Thief River Falls just days after the Packers' 35-21 Super Bowl victory over New England, Green Bay quarterback Doug Peterson (center) took a moment to stop by the Lincoln High School weight room to meet Prowler coaches Jeff Mumm (left) and Glen Peters. Peterson's sister Cathy is married to David Swenson of Thief River Falls, son of Dale and Geraldine Swenson of the city. Peterson, who played college football at Northeast Louisiana, has been in the National Football League for five years – the first three in Miami and the past two in Green Bay, where he was No. 3 on the Packers' quarterback chart behind Brett Favre and Jim McMahon. He visited Mumm after learning of the passion the Prowlers' football coach, a Wisconsin native, has for the Packers.

Wolverines lose pair of games to Warroad, Roseau

First Warroad, then Roseau handed the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River girls basketball losses over a three-day span.

Saturday, host Warroad won 72-50. Monday, Roseau won 70-31 at Grygla.

The two losses dropped the Wolverines to 6-10.

"We just not clicking on all cylinders," said Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Mike Gast. "We're playing a lot of different people looking for the right combination, and we just haven't found it yet."

Warroad jumped out to a 22-10 first quarter lead and was never headed in a 72-50 win.

Ponies stop Mustangs

Red Lake County Central saw a strong first half effort slip away in the third quarter Friday as the Mustangs lost a 69-48 boys high school basketball game to Warren-Alvarado-Oslo.

The visiting Mustangs trailed just 9-8 and 27-22 at the first two quarter stops, but faced a 47-31 deficit when the third quarter came to a close.

"We played really well defensively in the first half," said Red Lake County Central coach Ryan Sedler.

But the Mustangs couldn't keep the Ponies away from the basket in the third quarter. The Warren-Alvarado-Oslo inside game, coupled with a rash of Red Lake County Central turnovers, created a scoreboard spread that carried through the rest of the night.

It was the seventh straight loss for the 4-11 Mustangs.

MCC victory extends string of Grygla-Gatzke losses...

Nordics snap losing streak

Marshall County Central came out a 64-58 winner over Grygla-Gatzke Friday in a match-up of North Border Conference boys high school basketball teams mired in slumps.

The Nordics' losing streak stretched nine games. The Eagles' mini-slump now covers four games – following a 10-0 season start.

A large crowd was on hand as Marshall County Central observed the tenth anniversary of its 1986-87 state tournament girls basketball team.

"It was a great win," said Nordics coach Ron Ueland. "A lot of people were on hand. It was an exciting night, and we got a win out of it, too."

Grygla-Gatzke opened with a 19-15 first quarter advantage and nursed a 29-28 lead into halftime. Marshall County Central went ahead 45-42 in the third quarter, then made 10 of 16 fourth quarter free throws – including 3 of 4 by Nathan Peterson in the final two minutes – to hold off the Eagles.

Phil Flickinger scored a game-high 20 points for the Nordics. Teammate Mark Augustine contributed 10. The Eagles were led by Shaun Verbout with 18 points, Alex Anderson 13 and Aaron Holthusen 10.

Marshall County Central turned in a 59 percent 24-for-41 shooting performance and went 11-for-19 at the free throw line.

"We made our shots, and we made free throws down the stretch," noted Ueland.

Grygla-Gatzke was 21-for-48 from the field (44 percent) and 13-for-19 at the line. Rebounds were even at 20 apiece. The 4-11 Nordics got by with 23 turnovers; the 10-4 Eagles had 14.

"We're struggling," admitted Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "Marshall County Central played a whale of a game. I don't want to take anything away from them. But we just can't seem to catch a break right now. Our confidence just isn't there."

Bowling is paying off for David Bray

by Mike Lundgren, Sports Editor

Sixteen-year-old David Bray is doing something he loves dearly, and doing it well enough to help cover future college expenses.

Bray is an avid bowler, and his game has climbed to a level that has him competing successfully at scholarship tournaments in Duluth and in the Twin Cities.

He placed second in Jan. 18-19 competition in Duluth, by first advancing through a field of 27 in a qualifying tournament the week before to make the final eight. Averaging 232 in the match-game format, Bray wound up in the finals, televised by Duluth ABC affiliate WDIO, before losing a one-game roll-off 232-181 to a Brainerd bowler.

"I was really nervous," said Bray about his championship showdown.

Still, his efforts netted him $750 in scholarship money.

That was just the second scholarship tournament Bray ever entered. But to prove it was no fluke, he came back two weeks later with a tournament-leading effort in the Twin Cities, where he posted a 203 average. However, the tournament isn't completed yet, so Bray will find out by telephone whether or not his score holds up.

A sophomore at Our Saviour's Christian Academy in Thief River Falls where he is an honor roll student and a soccer/basketball player, Bray has been bowling for seven years. He carries a 197 average in the Saturday Junior League, and usually tries to get on the lanes for practice two or three times per week.

David Bray

Bray gives much of the credit for his bowling success to Gary Kelsch, who has served as his coach over the years, and Tom Greelis, owner/operator at the Family Bowl.

His appetite for the sport, and a part-time job at the Family Bowl, keeps Bray in constant contact with a game that he has fashioned into a scholarship-producing activity that can last a lifetime.

RLCC defense sets up 54-32 win over W-A-O girls squad

Strong first half defense set up a 54-32 Red Lake County Central girls high school basketball win over host Warren-Alvarado-Oslo Thursday.

The Mustangs had a 32-8 halftime cushion.

"We played excellent defense in the first half," pointed out Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto.

The Ponies, who struggled through 21 percent 9-for-42 shooting for the night, made just 2 of 14 first half shots (14 percent) against a Red Lake County Central zone.

Angie Chervestad had a 19-point, 16-rebound game for the Mustangs, and Ami Tvedt nailed three treys in a 12-point effort.

Red Lake County Central went 21-for-49 from the field (43 percent) and 9-for-16 at the free throw line, where Warren-Alvarado-Oslo made 13 of 28. The winners had a sizeable 37-17 rebound advantage, but they also had more turnovers, 24-16.

It was the second win of the week for the 5-9 Mustangs.

Scheef, Huskies edge F/C with a last second shot

Jim Scheef hit nothing but net with a 3-point shot in the final seconds Friday to give Goodridge a dramatic 37-34 boys high school basketball win over Fisher/Climax.

It was a low-scoring defensive struggle that didn't create a whole lot of excitement – until the end.

"It was kind of a slow-paced game," noted Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson. "Both teams sat back in a zone, and neither team shot very well from the outside."

After a time out with seven seconds to play, Goodridge was looking to get the ball into the hands of scoring leader Chris Grabowska. But Fisher/Climax took that option away with blanket coverage. That left Scheef alone on the outside. He became the hero with his game-winner.

Earlier it was Darrin Arveson who jump-started the Goodridge offense by hitting 15-foot jumpers on three trips down the court in the third quarter to provide the Huskies with a 28-22 lead heading into the final period.

Grabowska finished with 14 points. Fisher/Climax standout Ben Hoff netted a game-high 22.

Goodridge was 15-for-43 from the field (35 percent) and 5-for-6 at the free throw line. Fisher/Climax went 14-for-38 from the floor (37 percent) and 0-for-2 at the line. The Huskies had a 32-24 rebound advantage and turned the ball over just three times. The Knights lost it 12 times.

The win put the host Huskies at 11-3 for the year.

Eagles beaten by Bears

Grygla-Gatzke put together a confidence-building comeback, but it wasn't enough to make the Eagles winners Thursday in a 60-54 boys high school basketball game against Lake of the Woods at Baudette.

The Bears enjoyed a 17-point lead at 29-12 in the second quarter of the make-up match-up. It was 43-34 at the start of the fourth quarter.

The Eagles' pulled within 54-53 with a minute to play, but Rian Berg drained a rally-killing 3-point basket for the Bears.

It was the third straight loss for the Eagles, who began the year 10-0.

"The first half we played just horrendous," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "I'm not a very good loser, but I have to say I was very happy to see the kids come back like they did. We haven't been playing very well, and it would have been easy for them to fold when we fell behind. But they hung in there."

Cornelius Matthias scored a game-high 20 points for the Bears. Alex Anderson led the Eagles with 16 points.

Grygla-Gatzke was 21-for-56 from the field (38 percent) and 7-for-14 at the free throw line. Lake of the Woods went 26-for-65 from the floor (40 percent) and 5-for-11 at the line. The Eagles had a 35-30 rebound edge, but also had almost twice as many turnovers, 22-12.

Gators turn fouls, turnovers into win

Free throws and turnovers added up Monday as Badger/Greenbush-Middle River beat Marshall County Central 56-33 in girls high school basketball.

The Gators went to the line 41 times, and converted 26 of them into points. They also capitalized on 37 Marshall County Central turnovers in posting quarter leads of 13-5, 23-15 and 34-22.

"It wasn't pretty," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "It was poorly played. I hate Monday games."

The Gators are 13-3. The Nordics fell to 1-13, but Marshall County Central coach Jerald Hagen saw some bright spots.

"We were within eight points in the third quarter before they went on a 12-15-point run," noted Hagen. "That's the second game in a row where we've played three-fourths of a pretty good game. We have to learn to finish it."

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was just 15-for-52 from the field (29 percent), but put the free throws to good use. Marshall County Central was 12-for-26 from the floor (33 percent) and 7-for-18 at the line. The Gators out-rebounded the Nordics 29-26 and turned it over 19 times.

Several thefts reported to local law enforcement

Temperatures warmed slightly, and the number of incidents reported to law enforcement officials dropped off.

Thefts. On January 31 at 4:30 p.m. police received a report that a camcorder and 35mm camera with accessories had been taken from a car. The owner was not sure where the car was parked when the equipment was stolen. Total theft loss was estimated at $1,748.

On February 3 at 7:50 a.m. a school bus driver reported seeing a Pepsi pop machine in a ditch along Highway 32 near County road 65. The sheriff's department discovered the machine had been taken from the 1300 block in Thief River Falls. The sheriff's department received another report that a coin mechanism had been discovered in a ditch near State Aid 7 and Highway 59 South. It was the coin mechanism taken from the pop machine. The pop machine and coin mechanism were taken to the law enforcement center and checked for evidence. Damage and theft loss was estimated at about $800.

On February 4 at 2:14 a.m. police received a message from Polk County about the theft of a motor vehicle from Crookston. The 1990 Honda Accord had been taken from a parking lot in downtown Crookston. The driver of the vehicle had apparently left the keys to the vehicle on the seat. While traveing south on Highway 32 a Pennington County Sheriff's deputy observed a vehicle which matched the description of the stolen vehicle and followed it into Thief River Falls. Police dispatched also verified that it was the stolen vehicle, and the sheriff's deputy stopped the vehicle. A 15-year-old male from Gentilly was taken into custody on charges of possession of stolen property. There was some damage to the vehicle.

Burglary. On February 3 at 4:30 p.m. police received a report of a burglary in the 200 block of North Arnold. A local resident reported that someone had taken about $220 in cash, a 12-pack of beer, and a bottle of rum.

Driving while intoxicated. On February 1 at 2:06 a.m. police arrested Christopher Jon Bergeson, Thief River Falls, 20, for driving while intoxicated.

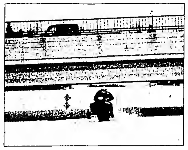
On February 2 at 12:44 a.m. police arrested Steven Allen Cote, 26, Roseau, for driving while intoxicated, refusal to test and open bottle.

Accidents. On February 2 at 1:28 p.m. police received a report of an accident in the 400 block of South Kneale. Richard Daryl Vaughn, Thief River Falls, was driving south on Kneale when he swerved to avoid people in the road and his pickup collided with a parked Bronco owned by Nathan Donald Stroh, Thief River Falls. Damages were estimated at $2,000 to each vehicle.

On January 31 at 8 p.m. the law enforcement center received a report of a snowmobile accident. Ben George Erickson, Thief River Falls, was driving a 1996 Arctic Cat ZRT away from the pumps at Petro Pumper when he lost control of the vehicle and it tipped over. There was about $500 damage to the hood of the snowmobile.

Drugs. On February 3 at 6 p.m. a local man reported that his son had purchased some marijuana from another youth. Upon investigation, a 17-year-old male faces charges for sale of a controlled substance, and a 16-year-old male faces charges of possession of a controlled substance.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.



Shannon Gust of Strathcona was the first rider in the GMC 500 from Winnipeg to Duluth to cross the finish line in Thief River Falls on the second day of the race. Gust was in 15th position after two days of racing.

Several animals held in pound

Several animals are being held in the animal pound in Thief River Falls. Each animal will be kept for a minimum of five days. Charity competed on Saturday, January 18, at the Hvidsten Hall of Music on the Concordia College campus. Charity was chosen a winner in the preliminary competition and was selected to perform as one of seven finalists in the afternoon Finalist Recital in the Christienson Recital Hall. She performed "Concerto Op. 18, No. 2, First Movement" by Sergei Rachmaninoff. Charity's accompanist is Erin Melby, 11th grade daughter of Barb and Cliff Melby of Okee. Norwest Banks named in five major publications

Five of the nation's major financial publications — Fortune, Business Week, Financial World, Smart Money and Institutional Investor — have all complimented Norwest's stock and earnings power in recent weeks.

The January Smart Money ranked Norwest as runner-up to Firstar as a regional bank stock in its cover story titled "The 6 Best Investments for '97." The magazine's other investment picks were in the communications equipment, pharmaceutical, drug store and property and casualty insurance industries and fixed income investments. Smart Money said, "with a strong position in states from Texas to Minnesota, Norwest is nothing if not reliable" and quoted an analyst saying, "Only death and taxes are as certain as Norwest earnings."

Financial World's January 21 issue features an article titled "Norwest Passage: If Any Bank Can See You Through Uncertainty, Norwest Can." The magazine says Norwest's stock looks less vulnerable to a sell-off than other financial service stocks, especially if interest rates rise. The reasons: strong performance by Norwest Mortgage and Norwest Financial.

In December, Institutional Investor reported, "Under (President and Chief Executive Officer Dick) Kovacevich, Norwest has undeniably posted better-than-solid results. The brisk revenue growth has been exceeded by earnings gains. Profits soared by more than 22 per cent annually between 1989 and 1995. They are on track to top $1.1 billion (on analysts' projected revenues of $6.2 billion) this year, 20 per cent above 1995's figure. Norwest's return on equity, hovering around 22 per cent, has stood at or near the top of the range of its peer group for most of this decade."

In its December 30, 1996, issue, Business Week cited Norwest as one of seven financial services companies' "Stocks to Bank On." The publication called Norwest a "Steady earner with a lucrative consumer finance franchise" in its subsidiary, Norwest Financial. The article also says that an analyst "sees no fireworks in financial services stocks, but says some picks, such as Norwest, will thrive." Other financial services stock predicted to outperform the market were American International Group, Chubb, Citicorp, First American of Tennessee, Great Western Financial, and Merrill Lynch.

A January 13 Fortune report on IDS New Dimensions Fund portfolio manager Gordon M. Fines' stock picks quotes Fines as saying, "And I like Norwest, a bank holding company that has substantial positions in banking, mortgages, and consumer finance. It could undergo a P/E expansion."

"It's gratifying to see market analysts recognize our business line and geographic diversity and anticipate continued strong performance," said Roger Reuter, president for Norwest Banks Thief River Falls.

Norwest Corporation is a $78.4 billion company providing banking, insurance, investment, mortgage, consumer finance, and other financial services through 3,408 stores in all 50 states, Canada, the Caribbean, Central America, and elsewhere internationally.

Kalsnes receives Young Leader award from Chamber

by Heidi Hoks

A leader with a positive impact on youth and a visionary outlook on leadership, Roberta Kalsnes was honored at the Chamber Banquet Saturday, January 25, with the Chamber Young Leader Award. Roberta (or Berta as she is commonly known) is the Youth Worker at Zion Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls. Her co-recipient of this award is Joanna Pearson, the Youth Worker at Redeemer Lutheran Church.

Berta came to Thief River Falls three years ago for the job of working directly with the youth, but her job has changed considerably since then. "My job has definitely evolved," she agrees. "I work with kids to provide a safe place to come where they know they'll be listened to and affirmed. But now I also coordinate, encourage and enable youth and adults to minister to the young people in our congregation and outside our congregation."

This leadership aspect to her job for both youth and adults is an encouraging sign to Berta. She notes that the Thief River Falls Health Community Survey affirmed the importance of building values in our youth and the importance of all agencies and organizations working together. "That's why the concept of 'family ministry' is so important," says Berta. "Youth ministry should never be separate from the family ministry. We need to work together with parents and other adults. Parents shape young people's faith the most and they have more impact on young people's faith than anyone else. We need to help parents and work with them then in helping guide youth, rather than think we can take the place of the parent in leadership with youth."

How does this happen? How do you promote values in youth? According to Berta, youth ministry goes from structured events which act as a springboard for youth to become more comfortable with each other and her and then on to relationship building. That relationship building includes relationships with other people, with the church and with God. When Berta first came to Zion three years ago she needed a project that would get the youth working together. The snow sculpture contest provided just that. "It was a great experience," she says. "We got the kids focused on goal setting and being a part of a group. It was perfect — except that it was cold!" She also notes she works with youth on the National Youth Gathering, Sunrise Service, National Synod Gathering, camps, Sunday School for grades 9-12, Confirmation program team, Junior and Senior High ski trips, and Senior High summer trips like the Houseboat and Festival of Life in Seattle. She notes that a lot of the so-called "fun" activities like the ski trips are really important for the Christian fellowship and the community and group building that goes on. "It also gives young people a chance to experience things in a safe environment. You find so many teachable moments on these trips, too. It's really important to show kids how their faith is an important part of everyday life." These trips, as well as the time Berta spends with the youth, are important times for them to see her as a role model of her faith. "I'm living my faith as an example. If you don't have a personal faith, I say don't bother working as a youth worker because you are watched as

Tax credit for gifts made to state colleges being proposed Legislation giving Minnesotans a tax credit for gifts they make to colleges and universities in the state was introduced in the state Legislature today.

The bills, written by Sen. John Hottinger, DFL-Mankato, and Rep. Gene Pelowski, DFL-Winona, would allow individuals to receive a tax credit of 50 percent of the gift amount for gifts to accredited public or private colleges and universities in Minnesota. There would be a maximum credit of $500 for individuals and $1,000 for couples. The proposed legislation will generate an estimated $6 million credits in the first year, reflecting donations of more than $12 million to Minnesota colleges and universities.

Fourteen other states currently provide tax credits for gifts to higher education. "Tax credits have worked in other states to broaden the base of support for higher education," said University of Minnesota Foundation Chair Luella Goldberg, a supporter of the bill. "The tax credit is an innovative public-private partnership to build needed support for colleges and universities, which are the lifeblood of our state's economy."

Minnesota colleges and universities enrolled 265,982 students in fall 1996. Most of these students are from Minnesota and get their first jobs within the state. "This legislation will generate private support needed to help our students pursue their educational goals," said Judith Eaton, chancellor of Minnesota State Colleges and Universities. "The tax credit can be an important tool to keep higher education affordable and accessible."

Studies have shown that investment in higher education yields a high return to the state's economy, according to David Laird, Jr., president of the Minnesota Private College Council, also a supporter of the bill. "More than at any time in the recent past," he said, "our investment in higher education in Minnesota will have a determining effect on the quality of the economy and the stability of our social structure."

Three-year-old Lillian Fox, daughter of Jeff and Missy Fox of Thief River Falls, joined her dad in blowing bubbles during the pre-school "beach party" last Tuesday at Challenger school. Various types of bubble fun were available for the youngsters to try at the event.

View from inside a bubble was enjoyed by Josh Kuznie, five-year-old son of Ben and Karen Kuznie of Thief River Falls, during the pre-school "beach party" last Tuesday at Challenger school. The bubble was formed by raising a hula hoop from a soap solution.

that with me and I can lead by example." She also notes that on the longer trips, she ties in a service project so that the youth understand the significance of service to others and that this service itself is as rewarding as the fun of the trip.

In her work with youth, Berta also conducts a number of fundraising activities. "We try to make sure our fundraising projects are also helpful to the community," she says. Such projects as the annual rummage sale and the Hunter's Dinner are awaited by non-members as well as members of Zion.

Service is important to development of leadership skills, according to Berta and so the youth of Zion also participate in a number of service projects such as the Food Shelf scavenger hunt, the Random Acts of Kindness service, Valley Home's ice cream social, Food Shelf delivery of turkeys for Thanksgiving, Christmas party for the Little Brother Little Sister program, wrapping presents for Pennington County's Christmas project, visits to nursing homes, serving a Thanksgiving Dinner for those people 70 plus in age and many other projects. Part of leading youth, notes Berta is in providing opportunities to serve others.

Berta is proud not of her accomplishments, but of the accomplishments of the Zion Lutheran Church as a whole. "My goal and that of the Youth Board from the beginning was to get the whole congregation involved with youth ministry. The Zion congregation is doing a great job of this! I'm so proud of the whole congregation!"

When asked if she has any future goals for her work, she notes, "I want to see youth involved in leadership and service and to empower family ministry — even on to multi-generational family ministry. Something we all have to remember is that we have to really listen to kids, look into their eyes and hear with your heart, not just your ears. We need to value our youth. They are our future."

THE COST OF COLD
Propane users feel the heat
Rise in crude oil prices, low summer inventories push up fuel costs
Propane increasing
What are you waiting for?

NOW is the time to switch to electric heat.

You've likely read and heard about rising propane prices. Fuel oil and natural gas prices have also increased. And these prices may be headed higher yet. Consider this: If you heat your home with propane, fuel oil or natural gas you can expect to pay $200-$300 more to heat your home this heating season compared to last winter.

Why? Low inventories and frigid cold weather mean sharp price increases. And it's difficult to predict what will happen next week, next month... or next year.

THE GOOD NEWS. Meanwhile, electric rates remain stable. In fact, your electric cooperative's off peak heating rate is 2.7¢ per kilowatt hour. Electricity is made right here in our region with homegrown coal. So your electric rates are not affected by markets, weather, and international relations. More good news: Electricity is the safest, cleanest, most reliable choice for home heating.

DON'T WAIT. Call your energy experts at 253-2168, or 1-800-245-6068 (MN only) to get the scoop on electric heat.

Hunting and Fishing License Increases.... To Be Or Not To Be?

Almost synonymous with the announcement that it would not be conducting any deer feeding efforts this winter came the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources' announcement that it will be seeking hunting and fishing license fee increases in this session of the state legislature.

Neither announcement was a surprise. It became apparent last winter when it took a special legislative appropriation to provide deer feeding assistance that the DNR had little interest in this type of wildlife intervention. It is more important from a biological standpoint, it appears, to wait until spring and count carcasses for statistical reports on natural losses.

This seems a little odd, at least from a short term general business viewpoint. This state department depends on the sale of wildlife through a licensing system for its existence, and if there is less product to sell, it stands to reason there will be fewer sales. This business basic would seem to apply to all game from upland and waterfowl to big game and to the state's fishery resource.

Cost effectiveness is probably the business rule which is being applied regarding the deer feeding question. If artificial feeding would cost more than the projected loss in license sales from a deer herd of reduced size, letting deer starve without trying to help is the way to go. And if you can count on private individuals and groups to expend their own funds to cut population losses, so much the better.

That admittedly biased opinion expressed, however, it would seem that license fee increases of some sort for the department are probably justified, especially for small game and fishing. If deer management consists primarily of letting nature take its course, it shouldn't cost a whole lot more now than it did when the last increase went into effect.

The Department of Natural Resources is really the only agency of state government which has the state's wildlife as its primary focus. Despite differences of opinion on value received for dollar spent, it is the sportsman's ally for continuance of public hunting and fishing opportunity. Most of its employees are concerned and dedicated people who believe that what they are doing is the best for the resource.

In the total scheme of things, a couple more dollars spread across the length of the fishing season or the fall hunting season probably won't be prohibitive to the bulk of fishermen and hunters. We must be concerned, however, that public hunting and fishing remain just that—not simply another sport for only the affluent who can buy in at almost any price. The price of a deer hunting license is approaching that point where it will be a hardship if not prohibitive for some.

Many sportsmen who buy licenses and pay the excise tax on sporting goods would like to see greater accountability for the money which flows to the department. In our large state with abundant public lands, it is often difficult for those in any given area to see examples of their money being put to work for wildlife.

Others are upset about the attitude displayed by some department employees in dealing with the public—albeit some members of the public are less than pleasant to deal with. A concerted effort to improve public relations should go with any acceptance of license fee increases by the department.

Don't look for the legislature to be overly receptive to the DNR's license fee increase request, however. Legislators know many of their constituents are not supportive and that some are downright hostile. They also know that the DNR is an agency of the state that takes very little direction from the legislature in carrying out its programs and gives little but lip service in response to legislative demands. This past experience is not conducive to popular support.

For people who care about the state's wildlife resources and their availability to the public well into the future, the DNR offers the only game in town. If you're gonna play, you gotta pay. And it's time to pay a little bit more.

Congratulations to the qualifiers and we wish them all good luck on February 11.

On Sunday, Corey and Marci Hanson and Marty and Michelle Levine visited with Effie and all enjoyed Sunday dinner at the Gully Cafe, together with Ed Turonne and their friends Madeline Granda and Mike Irrhak.

Effie Handy and Sanna Brovold drove over to Fosston on Saturday to see Esther Tharsson. Esther is a patient at Fosston Hospital following a few days spent at Bemidji Hospital. Esther had the misfortune of breaking her hip as she fell while hustling around at her home at the Gully Mall. If it is possible for a broken hip to mend quickly then that is our hope and wish for Esther. I'm sure she would appreciate hearing from you! Effie and Sanna also visited with Esther Rutkowski, Mavis Christopherson, Lucille Paulsen, Oscar Qualley and Josie Bjorklin.

Erick and Arlene Bergman of Clearbrook visited with Kenneth and Alice at the Forsberg home on Sunday. Afternoon and enjoyed lunch and a good cup of coffee.

Edwin Halvarsan of Hickory was reminded on Monday that it was his birthday. Stella gave him an errand to town, so she'd have a chance to make him a surprise birthday cake. When he got to Gully, Kay surprised him with a "cup cake" and a brightly burning candle on it. There wasn't one soloist in the Cafe to sing "Happy Birthday." When Edwin was my pupil in the 5th grade he was a good singer, but we couldn't ask him to sing his "own" Happy Birthday. But next year Edwin and a Happy Birthday this year.

Dan and Kim Wiertzema were pleased to announce the arrival of their son, Bryce Daniel. He arrived on Sunday, January 26 at 7:19 p.m., weighing in at 8 pounds 7 ounces and 18 1/2 inches long. His proud grandparents are Glenn and Crystal Bergerson at Gully, Larry and Lois Wiertzema of Breckenridge. 340 Attend Elks Banquet Monday

"Despite prevailing blizzard conditions, no less than 340 men and boys turned out Monday evening for the annual Fathers and Sons banquet held in the city auditorium under the sponsorship of the local Elks lodge. The feature attraction of the dinner, which was served efficiently by a group of Elks ladies and their assistants, was delicious roast beef from the 4-H Baby Beef purchased by the lodge at auction last fall for approximately $400."

Pennington County March Of Dimes Nets $4,291

"With $4,291 in the bank Wednesday afternoon and with several hundred dollars in additional receipts anticipated, present indications are that the 1947 polio fund campaign in Pennington county will net $4,500 or more when the final report is completed next week, it was announced today by Glen Carlson, chairman of the county drive. This is approximately three times the amount collected in the 1946 campaign. Carlson stated that the March of Dimes ball in the city auditorium last Friday evening was a huge success, net receipts aggregating approximately $350."

Oakland Park San Reports Rising Costs

"As was to be expected in view of recent trends, total maintenance expenses at Oakland Park sanatorium mounted to $58,904 for 1946, compared to $50,917.33 for the preceding year, it is revealed in the annual report recently completed by Dr. Baldwin Borresan, superintendent. Items contributing to maintenance costs in 1946 include administration, $4,923.38; care of patients, $13,404.01; culinary, $19,033.62; domestic, $7,858.80; and automobile expense, $316.28. Total cost per patient per day was reported at $3.57, compared to $3.24 in 1945. During the past year an aggregate of 73,583 meals were served at a total cost per meal per individual of 26 cents compared to 23.3 cents in 1945."

$2,220 Is County Red Cross Quota

"The Pennington county quota in the 1947 Red Cross roll call has been fixed at $2,220, it was announced today by Hennan A. Kjos, chairman of the county Red Cross chapter. He added that the amount asked locally this year is about half of the $3,975 quota for 1946, when the county oversubscribed its quota by 50 percent, turning in approximately $6,000."

Mercury Reaches Low Of -22 On Wednesday

"This locality experienced subzero temperatures from Saturday through Wednesday reaching a minimum of 22 below zero yesterday. A fierce gale Monday picked up loose snow and reduced visibility to a minimum. School buses did not leave Thief River Falls in the morning, and, with light attendance, classes were dismissed at noon."

Village or City

". . . Should be the issue in the spring election. Let all those who want the place swamped with debt, put up a city ticket and vote for it; if it carries, the minority will acquiesce, or move out. While on the other hand, those who believe that neither the time or occasion requires the village to be bonded for more than it is worth, can put up a village ticket, vote for it and when and how taxes shall be raised and spent and if a majority determine for this course, those who do not like it must submit or move out. Which shall it be? Village or city?"

How the city is prospering under the present government! If the administration would lay off all unnecessary officers and use the orders issued to them in helping the poor, for whose condition they are responsible, children would not be crying for bread and the poor might be enabled to purchase more than five cents worth of flour at a time."

Deb Zak

Known for her commitment to the community and its future, Deb Martin Zak has been involved in many volunteer community activities outside her work as well as the community-integrated activities within her work. Because of this and her vision for the future of Thief River Falls, she was selected by the Chamber of Commerce as the recipient of the 1997 Volunteer of the Year award.

Currently the District Director of Extension for 21 counties in northwestern Minnesota, Deb had been the Pennington County Extension leader and was with the Pennington County Extension office for 20 years. While she is now headquartered out of Crookston, she feels her work in Pennington County has simply expanded to a larger community of the 21 counties and, as such, she will still play a role in Pennington County.

Her role in Pennington County has been one of strong but quiet leadership. As she says, "I've read a lot about the servant-leader approach. I like the approach that people in leadership roles serve the people they work with. I like leading 'from the back row.' I like discovering the potential in people and linking them to opportunities. I also like bringing diverse groups of people together to share their talents and expertise. It shows them how much they can accomplish together and opens the door to new relationships in working together."

Certainly this servant-leadership style is evident in her work in the community. She served this last year as co-chair of the Centennial Recognition committee. However, she has also served on the Chamber of Commerce board of directors, served on the Convention and Visitor's Bureau board, chaired the Community Education board, chaired the Thief River Falls Telecommunications Strategic Planning Task Force, chaired the Inter-Agency Network, served on the Northwest Economic Developers Network, served as co-vice-president for programming for the local AAUW, is now a member and has been secretary of the TRF Rotary Club, served on the Holiday Fair board, served as secretary of the local chapter of Minnesota Agri Women, served as program coordinator for the Red River Valley Emerging Leadership program, served on the Minnesota Extension Service Citizens Advisory committee faculty liaison, served on the leadership team of the Info Tech Team, was a member of the Active Citizenship State Leadership Team, chaired the Extension Faculty Consultative committee in 1994, served as a trustee of the Minnesota 4-H Foundation, and served on the Thief River Falls Youth Development committee. In addition, she is called upon frequently to speak to various groups on any number of topics of local, regional and national interest.

Why is she so involved? Why not just do her job and go home at the end of the day?

As Deb puts it, "I always see possibilities. There are so many things to do to better our portion of the state and the way you get things done is to get out there, see what's important to people and what needs to be done in a community. When you listen to what really needs to be done and then work with people to get it done, so much more can be accomplished and what is accomplished is meaningful for the community."

Because of her attitude of finding out what needs to be done and then facilitating the work flow, she has seen a great number of projects to completion. Those projects have greatly benefited the community. However, she notes that she has gotten as much out of her work as she has given. She notes the most rewarding part of her job has been making a difference in someone's life, of teaching them the value of serving others and then seeing them come back to volunteer to be of service.

While she has accomplished many things in Thief River Falls, she says there are many more challenges out there waiting to be tackled. She is particularly concerned with the struggles families face when they want to maintain a farming lifestyle, but are forced off the farm and into other work because of economic issues. "It is difficult," she states, "to see someone leave the place where their heart remains. Something needs to be done." She also notes that the struggle of youth in our community remain a challenge. "While many youth are doing well," she says, "there are still those youth who are struggling. We all need to work together to try to improve the lives of these youth."

In her new position, Deb envisions the 21-county area becoming a strong force and the 21 counties helping one another. "My goal in this position," she says, "is to develop relationships throughout the area so that all our individual communities can be strengthened and that we may all speak with one voice — a strong voice for the needs, concerns and future of northwestern Minnesota."

School District 564 looks for ways to cut budget $229,000

Two-year-old Crystal Amundson helps her mother Rhonda Amundson take notes during a community forum for School District 564. During the meeting held Saturday at Challenger elementary school, the district sought input on the impending budget crisis in the district. About 35 people attended the event. Pictured to the right is Jerry Prickett.

School District 564 Board of Directors accepted the superintendent's recommendation to approve the process for development of the 1997-98 budget and the parameters for development of the budget at the school board meeting Monday night.

If the school was unable to do anything this year, they would have to cut $500,000 from its budget next year, according to Superintendent Jerry Robicheau. With the plan presented Monday night, the district will be looking at cutting $229,000, and he received approval to begin the process of reducing the expenditure side of the budget by an amount of $229,000.

Robicheau said it's not a very positive story. He added that the recommendations approved at this meeting were not written in stone. He's not sure where to cut $229,000, and the administration will have to take a much closer look at budgets. In addition, there are a number of variables that will affect the budget, including enrollment, legislation and caps.

His recommendations Monday night included a policy of $400 per pupil unit, which would allow for fund balance growth of an additional $92,556. With a fund balance projected at $1,225,996, this would allow for approximately $153,000 to be used to help balance the budget. His recommendation included a projected inflation increase of three per cent or $330,000 of the current budget. Expenses over revenue is projected to be $210,000, which assumes no changes from 96-97 to 97-98 and does not include inflation.

Robicheau and the board are anticipating that caps will be removed by legislative action this year, which would mean an additional $378,000 in revenue.

Following discussions during a public forum and review of present conditions, Robicheau recommended 4.0 FTE in teaching staff for class size reductions. A staff increase of this size would cost about $120,000. He also recommended $50,000 for staff development and $50,000 for curriculum development.

Robicheau said class size is still an issue in the district. He recommended the following class sizes ratios: Kindergarten 20-23:1 with an additional .5 FTE teaching staff, Grades 1-3 — 22-24:1; Grades 4-5 — 25-27:1, Grades 6-8 — 25-28:1, and Grades 9-12 — 28:1.

The projected budget expenditures add up to $760,000. The budget revenues which includes removal of revenue caps, and $400 per pupil unit, the projected expense over revenue is $229,000.

Robicheau encouraged the board not to go too deeply into the fund balance to try to solve the district's budget problems. He also noted that this budget does not address many issues including the co-curricular issues, vocational program issues, does not include any expansion in course offerings, does not address the Middle school concept, or account for how the district will address the graduation rule and any remedial classes needed for students who won't pass.

Robicheau said he was very pleased with turnout at the community forum last Saturday. He said about 35 people attended the event which was held at Challenger Elementary school.

Robicheau presented the following "collective statement" of the community forum participants. It addresses their expectations of School District 564.

General Expectations

ISD 564 should be visionary, look at future trends to train and teach students and staff, have high expectations for a diverse range of students; should have high expectations for students, and rigorous standards. ISD 564 should strive for a higher per cent for state requirements for graduation, and successfully meet the graduation requirements which are a benefit to the student's success. They also recommended a student to teacher ratio which allows for goals to be reached and expectations to be met. They also expected each level of ISD should prepare students for the next stage of school life.

Community Policing Block Clubs promoted to help curb crime

by David Hill
Associate Editor

The first of what is hoped to be several Community Policing Block Clubs in Thief River Falls organized Wednesday night at St. Johns Lutheran church.

Community Policing Block Clubs aren't exactly a new idea, yet in Thief River Falls it represents a slight change for law enforcement. Police Chief Ken Froschheiser explained that several years ago they realized that traditional methods of law enforcement — responding to reports, arresting individuals and imprisonment —really hasn't worked. They had also heard from others about a change in the focus of policing which involved a focus on preventing crime.

Some time ago, Thief River Falls police obtained a Federal COPs grant which helped pay for putting one and one-half officers on the streets. As part of the grant application they had outlined three goals — youth intervention, a bicycle patrol and neighborhood watch groups.

In this day of rapid change and mobility, many people do not even know their neighbors. A goal of the Community Policing Block Club is to get people together, to talk to each other, express the concerns they have for their neighborhood and make a safe and better place to live for everyone.

Block Clubs have met with relative success in Minnesota. Police Chief Ken Froschheiser cited an example from Anoka county in which an escaped juvenile was apprehended in a similarly organized Community Policing Block area called a Neighborood Crime Watch area. The juvenile said he knew he was going to get caught as soon as he ran past a Neighborhood Crime Watch sign. In an area of North St. Paul, a slow moving van was observed in a Neighborhood Crime Watch area by a member of the group. She reported the incident and four men were caught attempting to burglarize a house.

Froschheiser noted that there are 48 Community Policing Block Clubs in Moorhead.

Wednesday night was the first organizational meeting for a neighborhood watch group in Thief River Falls. It consists of residents living on Maple and Spruce Avenues from First Street south to Nora. A total of 48 invitations were sent out, and about 25 Individuals turned out for the first meeting.

According to police statistics, this area is a relatively safe and crime-free place to live in Thief River Falls. There have been only a few thefts, and some public nuisance type calls. Their most significant problems seem to consist of young teens smoking cigarettes, and occasional vandalism. Starting a neighborhood watch organization here, however, was easy because these neighbors still hold block parties in the summer and have strong leaders among them.

Arnie Geske has been appointed block captain for this area. In order to assist block clubs, officers are also being assigned to these areas. Sgt. Al Mellhye and Patrolman Scott Maslowski have been assigned to this block club. Both individuals live in or near this area.

Mellrye and Maslowski explained the programs that already exist to help local residents prevent crime — a house watch program, when owners are absent, and Operation Identification, which involves marking and recording personal property.

A Community Policing Block organization can operate in any fashion it chooses. It was suggested that a couple of block captains for each area be chosen from among residents. Any information about problems in the block or suspicious behavior is reported to block captains, who reports the problems to police.

A particularly frustrating aspect of being a police officer is receiving

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Concerns about the possibility of flooding are raising many questions about flood insurance.

One of the precautions residents can take is to obtain flood insurance. But residents should be forewarned that flood insurance doesn't go into effect until 30 days after it has been obtained.

Several other observers have expressed additional concerns as well.

Thief River Falls Community Development Director Don Stewart said his office is beginning to receive calls about flood insurance. He said he is hearing some different stories and is concerned that people understand what is and what isn't covered by flood insurance. He suggests that individuals purchasing flood insurance read the fine print.

Dan Drevlow, state farm insurance agent in Thief River Falls, said his office and several other agents have been receiving numerous calls regarding flood insurance. He said there are a few things property owners should know before contacting insurance agents, such as:

- how old the building is,
- what flood zone the property is located in,
- what the elevations are,
- whether it is occupied,
- how old the building is, whether it is pre-firm (built before 1974), and
- whether it has a finished basement.

Drevlow also suggests that property owners check their insurance policies to determine whether it covers back up of sewers and drains. Because of what is covered and what isn't covered by flood insurance, that endorsement is probably more important than flood insurance.

Property owners can find out whether their home or business is located in a floodplain by consulting the city clerk, community planning and zoning staff, watershed or county engineer. Many (not all) flood-prone communities have a floodplain delineation map published by the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) or a local water management organization.

Moisture samples taken in region

Red Lake Watershed has taken some samples to determine moisture content of snow in some areas. Two to three weeks ago, the watershed measured 4.3-inches of moisture in snow east of Grygla. Last week, the took samples in Red Lake and Pennington county in the Black River Watershed and found 5.3-inches of moisture in the snow. The Watershed considers anything over four inches to be considerable.

Moisture content, however, is just one of many factors which add to the potential for a flood. Other factors include amount of moisture in the fall, frost conditions, snowfall amounts, and spring conditions, such as colder than normal temperatures in March and April, which could lead to a faster melt later in the year and a greater potential for rainfall.

Six students from Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls received the three top places and three honorable mention awards in the Minnesota D-Day (Don't Smoke Day) writing contest and received prizes. First prize was a $35 gift certificate to Pizza Hut, second and third were $30 and $25 certificates to McDonald's and honorable mention winners received $5 certificates to Dairy Queen. Pictured from left are Kristen Napiin, honorable mention; Misty Bjugan, honorable mention; Justin Carlson, third place; Rachel Mathson, second place; Meghan Reed, first place; and Ashlee Wilson, honorable mention.

Lincoln students win top prizes for D-Day writing

Students in the ninth grade health classes at Lincoln high school earned first, second and third places plus three honorable mention awards in the Minnesota D-Day (Don't Smoke Day) letter writing competition among hundreds of students statewide.

Receiving awards of gift certificates to Pizza Hut, McDonald's and Dairy Queen were Meghan Reed, first place, Rachel Mathson, second place, Justin Carlson, third place; Misty Bjugan, Kristen Naplin and Ashlee Wilson, honorable mention.

Entries written by these six students were selected by local judges from letters written by all students in Jeff Mumm's and Helen Anderson's health classes and submitted to the Minnesota Attorney General's office for competition among entries in grades seven through nine.

This year was the 23rd annual Minnesota D-Day observance. The event was started in 1974 by publisher Lynn Smith as a creative way for smokers to find the courage to quit for just one day. Later D-Day became a national event known as the Great American Smokeout.

The competition won by the Lincoln students was a letter written to a policy or decision maker to request action or correction regarding tobacco advertising or promotion.

Meghan Reed wrote her winning letter to U.S. Senator Paul Wellstone. It reads as follows:

Dear Senator Wellstone:

My name is Meghan Reed and I am very concerned about the use of women, beautiful women, for the advertisement of cigarettes. These types of advertisements are used all over Minnesota and the nation.

In a time when being beautiful and thin puts extreme pressure upon us, ads like these don't help those of us who are concerned about our looks and insecure with our peers. We all know that smoking isn't beautiful, and it won't make you a better person, or enhance your appearance, but it's ads that involve material figures that send us mixed messages.

When you have 90% of new smokers who are teens, there is definitely a problem. I feel a heavy emphasis on the fact that these large companies think they need extravagant, beautiful people to hook us and reel us into a web of addiction and self destruction. We are vulnerable, more so than those who are legally old enough to destroy themselves.

If these ads are seen by a person my age, the immediate signal is that if we smoke, we can be beautiful—and skinny—and popular. You definitely need to look into the issues that I am addressing. There has to be alternatives to exploitative advertising. Why can't you, and other law makers prohibit corporate America from influencing young people in this damaging way?

As a society we impose laws to protect our youth from danger. Aren't parents required by law to make sure their children are buckled into a government approved safety seat? They are also required by law to expose them to a form of education to ensure their success and productive participation in our society. Yet we allow the pressures of huge money hungry tobacco companies to keep us from doing what's right for our youth. Put a stop to the debilitating effects of tobacco advertising because it's the right thing to do!

So I personally challenge you to address this issue and I would appreciate a letter of response. Senator, teens are constantly searching to find, not only themselves, but direction, meaning, and purpose for their lives. This is why I feel that the messages linking success, glamour, beauty, and happiness to the use of tobacco products are highly dangerous and especially consequential.

Sincerely,

an incomplete report, or a report which doesn't allow the officer to respond directly to the complaint.

Chief Froschheiser encouraged residents to report crimes. Information on block clubs, how to report a crime, what to look for, and how to describe suspects, was distributed to those individuals at the meeting.

In that handout, Thief River Falls Mayor Robert Reeve writes, "Crime is a social phenomenon that defies the best efforts of any individual or single organization to overcome. Only through a cooperative effort of concerned citizens and trained professionals can we hope to reach some sort of solution to the crime problem.

"The first step toward a possible solution is organizing our citizens via the crime watch block club network. Citizens that organize create an investment in their neighbors and their neighborhood. This investment ultimately culminates in a safer and richer environment in which to live and raise a family."

Mock trial team gets close win Wednesday

Lincoln high school mock trial team won its practice scrimmage against Detroit Lakes Wednesday, February 5, on a split decision in Mahnomen by a score of 159-157.

"It was a trial charged with energy," stated teacher coach Cal Lindberg. "Detroit Lakes has a very good team comprised entirely of boys and they have a very aggressive trial style. Our team, which happens to be all girls when we argue the defense side of the case, met that style head-on and did very well for itself."

Presiding judge Elroy E. Hanson, a Mahnomen attorney, scored the trial 77-76 in favor of Detroit Lakes. Scoring judge, attorney Bruce Kunz, gave Thief River Falls 83 points and Detroit Lakes 80 to provide the margin of difference.

Representing the defense in the trial, Lincoln also won the case on its merits.

"The team was very happy with its second win of the year. Although it was just a practice trial which didn't count in the standings, the competition was excellent, the experience was good and the results were satisfying," Lindberg added.

Lincoln was able to schedule the scrimmage with Detroit Lakes when Frazee, Lincoln's next scheduled opponent, withdrew from competition for the season and Barnesville forfeited its trial scheduled with Detroit Lakes.

Next official action for the Lincoln team will be on February 22 when the regional competition is held. No time nor location has yet been determined for that trial.

Lincoln's defense team includes attorneys Kate Ihle, Lesley Ihle and Sara Rasmussen and witnesses Stephanie Wiseth, Rachel Greelis and Stephanie Stanina.

In its season-opening win against Norman County East at Warren on Monday, the Lincoln plaintiff team included attorneys Paul Dehnert, Lesley Ihle and Kate Ihle and witnesses Nikolas Kotz, Jenna Tsukichi and Sara Rasmussen.

Valentine's day – a special celebration for the Bergs

Kenneth and Evelyn Berg after their wedding in 1948

Every year Kenneth and Evelyn Berg celebrate Valentine's Day with a little more enthusiasm than most couples. This is because Valentine's Day shares the spotlight with their anniversary.

Kenneth and Evelyn Berg were married on February 14, 1948 in Lake Esther on a 25 below zero day in the middle of a snow storm.

Family members from Thief River Falls were forced to take a Soo Line train to get to the wedding due to poor road conditions. Relatives from Grand Forks, ND were not even able to make it, along with their photographer.

Ken graduated from high school at the same time Evelynas was just beginningto attend. Eventually they met at a county fair sometime after Evelyn graduated. After meeting Evelyn, Ken would always stop by the cafe where she worked, "Mattie's Cafe". Finally on October 25, 1947, Ken mustered up enough courage to ask Evelyn to marry him at his cousin's double wedding.

Right away they decided on Valentine's Day, because it was thought to be a romantic day to get married. With not even four months until the wedding, there was a lot of planning to be done.

Kenneth was a farmer at the time, and they knew they had to be married in the winter when he wasn't busy farming. Valentine's Day seemed the appropriate time to marry his sweetheart.

With a small budget to work with, Ken and Evelyn managed to find bridesmaid dresses to borrow. One was yellow and one was pink. Evelyn bought her wedding gown for only $25! To celebrate Valentine's Day they had red roses for their flowers and everything was decorated with the valentine's theme. They had a large heart with their names on it decorated in red, white and pink. Their total wedding cost was less than $100.

The night of their wedding, they made it only as far as Thief River Falls in the '39 Ford Coupe due to weather. They had no heat in the car due to a practical joke played by a family member. Someone had put a chunk of cheese in the heater, so if they used it, it got really smelly inside the car.

For their honeymoon, they traveled around Minnesota. They went through Itasca State Park and to the Twin Cities. It was wintertime, so there were very few places for them to stop and enjoy the scenery. They were gone for about a week on their trip.

In 1969 they moved to Thief River Falls. He built several motels and sold real estate with his partners. He also helped develop 40 acres of housing near his home. They are currently supposed to be retired, but they still enjoy helping out with real estate.

Ken and Evelyn enjoy celebrating their anniversaries by traveling. For their 25th anniversary they went to Europe and Scandinavia. They have also gone to Australia, Cabos San Lucas and the Fiji Islands.

As much as he tries to remember their anniversary, there was one year he almost forgot. On their 45th anniversary, Kenneth and his friend were going fishing that morning, and on the way there he remembered what day it was. He decided he better send her flowers, but his friend insisted they couldn't wait for the flower shop to open. Ken called up his friend and asked him to call when the stores opened and send her flowers. The plan was pulled off and all went well.

In their spare time, they enjoy reading the newspaper and spending time together. Kenneth loves to go fishing, and Evelyn has spent many days fishing with him. They have no children, so all of their time has been devoted to each other. They hope to spend their 50th anniversary next year traveling somewhere they haven't been yet.

Ken and Evelyn Berg hold up Evelyn's dress and veil from 49 years ago. Evelyn only paid $25 for her dress at that time. Their entire wedding cost them under $100, and they even had real red roses for their flowers.

Everyone Has A Story

I believe everyone has a story to tell. It could be the next-door neighbor, the city council person, the grocery clerk, or the little boy down the street.

Each person is unique - with different talents, personalities, opinions and goals. And as a writer, I love to talk to these people to find out what makes them do what they do. I'm interested in discovering their talents and sharing them with other people. I like to hear people's stories.

On a recent trip to Belize, Central America, with Magnum Belize, a travel company located in Detroit Lakes, I had the opportunity to meet dozens of people – many from Belize and many from other countries. I listened to their stories of how they came to Belize and why they stayed.

One of the highlights of the trip was meeting a man named Emory King. He's a fixture in Belize and I felt honored to be "interviewing" him. He's a great promoter of Belize and a highly respected individual in the country. It's one of the most enjoyable evenings I've spent - listening to his tales and his humor. At the same time, the experience was mildly intimidating –writer interviewing writer.

With his trademark white straw hat and cigar, Emory leans back in his chair and talks freely about his favorite subject: Belize. He's one of the country's strongest supporters and has been since he arrived – in an unusual fashion.

Emory graduated in 1953 from Florida State University with a degree in journalism and at age 22 became a crime reporter for the Daily Times in Tampa. (I told Emory that my first real journalism job was as a farm reporter for the Marshall Independent. I admitted that I didn't have any experience on a farm, he retorted that he didn't have any experience in crime, either!)

With some reporter friends he decided to sail around the world. "I thought that's what a young writer should do," Emory says.

The boat shipwrecked off the coast of Belize near English Caye; he made it to shore and stayed. "After a couple of weeks I had fallen in love with the place," he says. "The people were so friendly and still are."

In the 40-plus years since, he met and married his wife, Elisa, and raised two children. When asked about his occupation (other than writing), he smiles and says he's "done everything." It's true. In fact, the list comprises nearly two pages of one of his books (explanations included).

He's run a hotel, been appointed Justice of the Peace, acted in two movies, sold insurance and land, been an agent for an airline, changed his nationality twice and has collected 5,000 old bottles.

But he still actively pursues his chosen career of writing. Although he admits, like many writers, that he invents reasons not to write. He combines his love of Belize with his profession by penning newspaper columns, guides and books.

"Writers write about what they know, and Belize is what I know," Emory says.

Some of the book titles include "I Spent it All in Belize", "Hey Dad, This is Belize", "How to Visit, Invest or Retire in Belize", and "Belize 1798 – The Road to Glory".

His witty sense of humor appears in his writing. One of his favorite sayings (and there are many) is: "If you come to Belize without patience you'll learn it. If you come to Belize with patience, yoo'll lose it."

He's also versed in the history of Belize and is nearly finished with a history book designed for school children.

Historian, speaker, writer, humorist are all adjectives that can describe the amiable Emory King. But one thing is for sure: He's Belize's loudest cheerleader.

Can you feel the love? You should because February 14 is almost here. Colors of pink and red clashing together shaped in crooked hearts cover the walls of houses at this time as Valentine cards are bought. Children are making their special hearts while floral shops are stocking up on flowers.

Boyfriends are planning what NOT to get their girlfriends: cheap plastic rings out of a candy machine or bouquets of flowers stolen from the local church after yesterday's funeral. If they're smart, they'll go to a real flower shop. Chocolates would be cool, but I do understand why some wouldn't think chocolates are best. I've been there. I remember all those Valentine Days I spent alone "inhaling" every particle of chocolate, pouting because I didn't have a boyfriend. I had no roses, Hallmark cards, stuffed Teddy Bears, or chocolates to show off to my friends.

To all those people that feel love stinks along with this mushy holiday, I totally understand. In fact, here was my opinion about Valentine's Day and Love. I wrote this poem last year.

STRUCK BY CUPIB'S
POISONOUS ARROW
Everybody floats around like heavenly servants in cupid's control with glowing stars twinkling in their abstract eyes and a sweet soul mate lover glued to their body.
so close together not even a CD could fit between them.
I always see them
kissing and hugging
AND groping each other—
libido's out of control!
(Not that I'm against it, just jealous!)
They stroll around with candy and flowers—
Dozens of sweet-smelling red roses or one special red rose,
Everywhere I turn.
I hear...
"I love you" or "Be mine" and
I want to scream, especially at those sickening mushy
love letters and cards...
(That I never get, not that I want them.)
It makes me want to throw up when I see those poor lives struck by cupid's poisonous arrow, wrapped around each other's pinky.
Then there are people like me...
Lonely pathetic fools who stay home in sweats and feel sorry for ourselves because cupid forgot us.
We eat gallons of Rocky Road and watch stupid love movies like "Blue Lagoon" or "Untamed Heart" and complain and complain about how LOVE STINKS along
VALENTINE'S DAY!!!

What a difference a year makes! Now, I must admit, Cupid has gotten off his high horse, and finally gave me a ride. Alas! Now I am one of those "poor lives struck by cupid's poisonous arrow," so to speak. All's well, and I am happy. Hope you have a Happy Valentine's Day too!

MN awarded $13.7 million for heating bills

Governor Arne H. Carlson announced the release of $13.7 million in federal Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program funds to help eligible Minnesotans with their heating bills due to the extremely harsh weather this winter.

"The Minnesota Department of Economic Security (MDES) has an effective system that will get this money immediately into the hands of those who urgently need it," said Governor Carlson. "These funds will be welcome relief to Minnesotans who need help staying warm, especially with this winter's extreme cold and higher fuel prices."

The energy program was allocated $38.6 million in federal funds in November and $9 million from the state's reserve account was added in mid January.

"More than 70,000 households already have applied for help and the heating season is just half over," said MDES Commissioner R. Jane Brown. "These additional federal funds will assist households having difficulty paying their heating bills and help avoid emergencies in our remaining three months of cold weather."

Applications for energy assistance will be accepted until May. A household of four people making less than $23,400 is eligible. Minnesotans who have questions or need additional information should contact their local Community Action Agency, social service agency or Indian reservation, or call MDES at 1-800-657-3805 and ask for the location of their local Energy Assistance Office.

. . . Foot In The Mouth Disease?

Sometimes famous or not-so-famous people say things that are so striking or unusual that they become well-known, like President Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, or Martin Luther King's "I have a dream!". Quotations like these are inspirations to the ordinary person and we often hear such famous statements used over and over in speeches and conversations.

But, sometimes famous or not-so-famous people say things that are so striking or unusual that they inspire us another way. They are so downright dumb that they cause us to giggle uncontrollably or guffaw loudly Best of all, hearing of these dumb quotations makes us feel that our own verbal blunders aren't so bad after all

Isn't it nice to know that we are not the only ones who put our feet in our mouths occasionally, but that the unusual feet feat is practiced as well by people who are rather well-known?

• Miss Alabama, 1994, in the Miss Universe Pageant Question: "If you could live forever, would you and why?" Answer: I would not live forever because we should not live forever, because if we were supposed to live forever, then we would live forever, but we cannot live forever, which is why I would not live forever."

• Matt Lauer on NBC's Today Show: "Researchers have discovered that chocolate produces some of the same reactions in the brain as marijuana ..the researchers also discovered other similarities between the two, but can't remember what they are "

• David Dinkins, New York City Mayor, answering accusations that he failed to pay his taxes: "I haven't committed a crime What I did was fail to comply with the law."

• Brooke Shields, during an interview to become a spokesperson for a federal anti-smoking campaign "Smoking kills. If you're killed, you've lost a very important part of your life "

• Winston Bennett, University of Kentucky basketball player "I've never had major knee surgery on any other part of my body."

• Mayor Marion Barry, Mayor of Washington DC "Outside of the killings, Washington has one of the lowest crime rates in the country."

• Dan Quayle, then Indiana Senator and Republican Vice-Presidential candidate, during a news conference in which he was asked his opinion of the Holocaust: "The Holocaust was an obscene period in our nation's history. this century's history. We all lived in this century I didn't live in this century."

• Frank Rizzo, ex-Police Chief and Mayor of Philadelphia: "The streets are safe in Philadelphia It's only the people who make them unsafe "

• Philip Streifer, Superintendent of Schools, Barrington, Rhode Island "After finding no qualified candidates for the position of principal, the school board is extremely pleased to announce the appointment of David Steele to the post "

• Mariah Carey: "Whenever I watch TV and see those poor starving kids all over the world, I can't help but cry I mean I'd love to be skinny like that but not with all those flies and death and stuff."

St. Bernard's Catholic School students Alyssa Novak and Ashley Remes demonstrate their reading abilities to residents at Valley Home during National Catholic School Week recently.

Pinaapple upside down cake was the food served at the kindergarten booth featuring Cuba during the ethnic fair at St. Bernard's school for Catholic Schools Week. The students also handed out bubble gum cigars to children in attendance.

St. Bernard's completes Catholic Schools Week

St. Bernard's Catholic school in Thief River Falls recently joined with thousands of Catholic schools across America in celebrating National Catholic Schools Week Theme of the week this year was "Schools You Can Believe In."

Purpose of the week, according to Sister Kathy Kuchar, principal at St Bernard's, is to "schedule activities that will recognize the uniqueness and valuable contributions Catholic schools make to the community they serve."

Sister Kathy said this year's theme was especially appropriate "Our students consistently score higher on national assessment tests in reading, writing and math," she said "Parents feel the smaller class size at St. Bernard's allows for more individualized instruction for the students.

"Our students are responsible, disciplined, caring and enthusiastic," she added "Combined with the strong spiritual leadership of Father Dennis and Father Bob, this offers a secure and disciplined learning environment for total education, meaning the ability to teach morals and values throughout the curriculum."

Although the campaign is in its sixth year, this was the first year for Sister Kathy in planning the activities with the assistance of staff. The schedule of activities with daily themes included the following:

Sunday—"Celebrate the Parish." Students participated in the 10:30 a.m. mass by doing the Scripture readings, gift bearing, song leading and petitions

Monday—"Celebrate the Community." Preschool, kindergarten and first graders collected and brought food to the local area food shelf. They learned how many people use the food shelf and how important it is to help others

Students in the third, fourth and fifth grades visited Valley Home where they sang for and read to the residents They enjoyed their personal contact with the senior citizens at the home.

Tuesday—"Celebrate Students." Students in all the grades brought their beach towels and sunglasses to lunch that day. A full-fledged beach party was held with music and limbo competitions

Wednesday—"National Appreciation of Catholic Schools Day." Many parents, grandparents and community leaders responded to the invitation to eat lunch with the students

Thursday—"Celebrate Volunteers." Volunteers have always played an important role in the day-to-day operations at St Bernard's A special breakfast was held to thank volunteers for their support

Friday—"National Appreciation Day for Catholic School Teachers." Students celebrated by participating in a special mass that morning and the school sponsored an Ethnic Fair that was open to the public. Nearly 400 people attended and sampled authentic dishes from Cuba, Mexico, Africa, Norway, Greece, France, Japan, Germany and Denmark

"This was an opportunity to celebrate our diversity as well as our similarities and realize the value each of us brings to the community," was a comment heard during the Ethnic Fair.

Setting Limits

As a parent (or child care provider) you need to decide what is important and what is trivial before you set limits for your children Parents who set too many rules can overwhelm their children with too many demands The limits or rules you set should reflect your deeply held convictions or values Once limits are set, commit yourself to consistently maintaining them. Before you set a limit ask yourself these questions: "Is this rule really important? Am I willing to deal with the conflicts that will naturally occur and assert my authority if my child disregards the limits?" For example, is it really necessary to insist that a child eat all his peas or wear certain clothes? Wouldn't it be more important to take issue when a child destroys a friend's toy, swears at a parent or steals money out of your purse? You are more likely to be effective if you focus on those you believe are most important.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Social Security Questions and Answers —

Q. I get Social Security retirement checks and still work for wages. For several years now I've reported my annual wages to Social Security when my W-2 form arrived but now I understand that I no longer have to. Is this true?

A: Unless you meet one of the exclusions you will not have to complete the annual report of earnings. This report, formerly completed by many still employed Social Security beneficiaries on an annual basis, has ended to a large extent. SSA has eliminated the need for most beneficiaries to file an annual report of earnings to help reduce a reporting responsibility of the public. This only involves those on Social Security retirement or survivor benefits and still employed. It does not involve those on disability. To replace the report, Social Security will automatically process the annual earnings retirement test information based on the amount of wages or net earnings from self-employment posted to the worker's earnings record.

Beginning with reporting year 1996, (annual reports due on or after April 15, 1997) Social Security will not print and mail annual report forms to beneficiaries. The annual report form has been eliminated. A mailing was sent to virtually all working beneficiaries to explain this change to the annual report process. Note that only individuals with fairly high after retirement earnings were involved with the annual earnings process anyway.

Some employed beneficiaries will still need to complete the report because exceptions exist to this process change. These exceptions will be detailed in the next article.

Q. Does the national phone number ring at the "head office" of Social Security?

A. The national toll-free telephone number, 1-800-=772-1213, is in operation from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m., local time, and is located at different sites all across the United States. Regular SSA employees are at the telephone centers with the same computer access available to local office personnel. Unless you are calling about an ongoing issue, you should call the national number. Each field office district, such as in Grand Forks, is responsible for a given geographical area and, in terms of casework processing, there is not really such a thing as a "head office" for Social Security. Local offices do work with other components across the country on a routine basis. Agency administrative headquarters are in Baltimore, MD.

Q. I am on Supplemental Security Income and know that my husband's income is used in figuring out how much SSI I receive. What would happen to my SSI if we separated or divorced?

A. Supplemental Security Income is a federal need based program funded by general revenues, not by Social Security taxes. Program benefits are for low income individuals over age 65, the disabled, and disabled children. To answer your question, if you and your husband separate you must tell Social Security because this represents a change in your living arrangements and income. Depending on the specific situation, SSI benefits would be adjusted to reflect your new circumstances. If you no longer have income from your husband your SSI benefits could potentially increase.

Q. Is it true that Social Security checks will soon have to be sent by direct deposit to a bank?

A. Yes, and this will soon be for all government checks, not only Social Security. Direct deposit, when funds are electronically sent to a financial institution has long been a popular option for Society Security clients. In fact, at present about 61 per cent of Social Security beneficiaries and 26 per cent of Supplemental Security Income (SSI) recipients use direct deposit.

Anyway, because of Public Law 104-134, commonly known as the Debt Collection Improvement Act, virtually all Social Security and SSI applications filed after July 1996, will be paid by direct deposit. By 1999 all claimants on the rolls will have been phased into use of direct deposit.

Interest in flood insurance increases as spring nears

According to the NFIP, more than 18,500 communities voluntarily participate in the NFIP. Thief River Falls is one of those communities.

Stewart said the city has a map delineating the boundaries of the flood zones and the city would be happy to help. The map, however, is very general, and in some cases, property owners will actually have to have property surveyed to determine whether or not the structure lies within the flood hazard area.

Tim Loeffler, American Family Insurance Agent in Thief River Falls, said his office has received numerous calls. As a result of these concerns, over 400 letters were sent to American Family Insurance policy holders just recently.

Loeffler is concerned that some property owners might be under the misconception that all property, including its contents, is covered by flood insurance. Flood insurance, will cover the basement of a structure and those items which keep the home functioning, like a furnace, but not the contents, such as furniture or carpeting. A number of other items in the policy also limit coverage. Seepage, for example, isn't covered.

Loeffler also said property owners should consider a number of other factors before taking out flood insurance. The premium for the policy, cost of a surveyor, if needed, and a deductible could add up to hundreds of dollars before any flood-related damage is paid for. In addition, he noted that in some instances, the insurance will also apply depreciation to the item to be replaced.

The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources also suggests that homeowners develop a pre-flood action plan, which takes into account exposure to flooding, measures that could be taken to reduce exposure to flood damage, adequate evacuation time and more than one route of evacuation, and to obtain adequate insurance coverage for structures and contents.

About Flood Insurance

Federal flood insurance is available for homes, condominiums, apartments, and commercial structures, as well as contents of insurable buildings. It is sold through the more than 98 participating insurance companies that write and service policies on a non-risk basis through a special arrangement with the Federal Insurance Administration, as well as through thousands of insurance agents throughout the country.

The average premium for an NFIP flood insurance policy, according to the NFIP is $300 per year, for approximately $98,800 worth of coverage. However, for those in lower risk areas, a flood insurance policy is available for as little as $85 per year. Nearly 25 to 38 per cent of FEMA's claims come from these lower risk areas.

The National Flood Insurance Reform Act of 1994 made several important changes to the NFIP. In addition to lengthening the waiting period for the policy to become effective, from five to 38 days, the new law also increases the maximum coverage amounts from $185,000 to $258,000 for a home, and from $60,000 to $100,000 for its contents. The maximum coverage for businesses was increased from $258,080 to $588,008 for buildings, and from $388,808 to $500,000 for contents.

There are a number of myths or misconceptions about what Federal insurance covers and doesn't cover. One of the myths is that you can't buy flood insurance if you are located in a high-risk flood area. Federal flood insurance can be purchased no matter where you live if your community belongs to the NFIP, except in Coastal Barrier Resources Systems.

Another myth is that you can't buy flood insurance immediately before or during a flood. Flood insurance coverage can be purchased at any time. There is a 30-day waiting period after application has been made and the premium paid, before the policy is effective. It is important to note, however, that there are some exceptions.

Another myth is that homeowners' insurance policies cover flooding. Unfortunately, many homeowners do not find out until it is too late that their homeowners' policies do not cover flooding.

Another myth is that flood insurance is only available for homeowners. Flood insurance is available to protect homes, condominiums, apartments and non-residential buildings, including commercial structures.

Another myth is that you can't buy flood insurance if your property has been flooded. It doesn't matter how many times your home, apartment or business has flooded. You are still eligible to purchase flood insurance, provided that your community is participating in the NFIP.

Another myth is that only residents of high-risk flood zones need to insure their property. Even if you live in an area that is not flood-prone, it's advisable to have flood insurance. Between 25 to 38 per cent of NFIP's claims come from outside high-risk flood areas.

It is a myth that NFIP does not offer any type of basement coverage. The NFIP defines a basement as any area of a building with a floor that is subgrade, or below ground level on all sides. Under NFIP building coverage, basements are insured for cleanup and items used to service the building, such as furnaces, hot-water heaters, air conditioners, utility connections, circuit breaker boxes, pumps and tanks used in solar energy systems, as well as the repair of structural damage to basement walls. Items in basements insured under NFIP contents coverage includes clothes washers and dryers, and food freezers and the food in them. Improvements to a basement, such as finished walls, floors, or ceilings, as well as personal belongings located in a basement, are not covered in either NFIP building or contents coverage.

It is a myth that Federal disaster assistance will pay for flood damage. Before a community is eligible for disaster assistance, it must be declared a Federal disaster area. Federal disaster assistance declarations are awarded in less than 50 per cent of flooding incidents. The premium for an NFIP policy, average about $300 a year, is less expensive than interest on Federal disaster loans, even though they are always granted on favorable terms. Furthermore, if you are uninsured and receive Federal disaster assistance after a flood, you must purchase flood insurance to receive disaster relief in the future.

It is a myth that NFIP does not cover flooding resulting from hurricanes or the overflow of rivers or tidal waters. The NFIP defines covered flooding as a general and temporary condition during which the surface of normally dry land is partially or complete inundated. Two adjacent properties or two or more acres must be affected. Flooding can be caused by any one of the following: the overflow of inland or tidal water; the unusual and rapid accumulation or runoff of surface water from any source, such as heavy rainfall, the incidents of mudslides or mudflows, cause by flooding, which are comparable to a river of liquid and flowing mud, the collapse or destabilization of land along the shore of a lake or other body of water, resulting from erosion or the effect of waves, or water currents exceeding normal, cyclical levels.

It is a myth that wind-driven rain is considered flooding. Rain entering through wind-damaged windows, doors or a hole in a wall or the roof, resulting in standing water or puddles, is considered windstorm, rather than flood damage. Federal flood insurance only covers damage caused by the general condition of flooding, typically caused by storm surge, wave wash, tidal waves, or the overflow of any body of water above normal, cyclical levels. Buildings that sustain this type of damage usually have a watermark, showing how high the water has risen before it subsides. Although the Standard Flood Insurance Policy specifically excludes wind and hail coverage, most homeowners' policies provide coverage.

NFIP flood insurance is sold through private insurance companies and agents, and is backed by the Federal government. For more information about the NFIP, ask your insurance agent or company, or call the NFIP's toll-free number at 1-800-611-6123, ext. 900.

School district looks for ways to cut its budget by $229,000

Curriculum Expectations

There should be a focus on a strong curriculum with a definition of what a high school diploma represents. There should be interdisciplinary curriculum relevant to real life applications. The curriculum should address morals and values within our schools and community. The district's accountability for technology, and the graduation rule, should include students, parents and teachers. Ultimately, everyone is responsible, which includes churches, business and the community. The curriculum should be well rounded in basic skills, however, it should be more than just the basics. It should also include arts, athletics, A.P., and vocational programs. Each student should be challenged. The curriculum should allow for the students to reach their full potential and should help students with social skills. There should be a common goal from birth to grade 12. Students should be prepared for life on their own. This is done by a relevant curriculum which should develop a value for life-long learning. In addition, there is a need to be responsive to various learning styles.

Structure Expectations

ISD 564 needs more unity within the school system. There needs to be continuity at all levels, elementary, middle school, high school, community and business.

Staffing Expectations

ISO 564 needs to hire talented, knowledgeable enthusiastic staff; needs to avoid burn out, and motivate staff. All staff, board, teachers, support staff, and administration need to keep a high standard of excellence in their area of expertise. Instruction needs to be provided in a caring and safe environment; an environment that is open to work for the good of all.

Parental Involvement

There needs to be substantial parent involvement. Individual student plans should be developed with parental involvement on a continual basis. There needs to be parent in-service required, if possible. There needs to be communication with parents and the community; and more parent involvement with teaching staff.

Community Participation

There needs to be partnerships established with the business community, general community with respect to the future. ISO 564 must increase credibility and trust with the community by clearly reporting issues to the population and encourage a feeling of inclusion and consensus with the community at large. It must establish community awareness between the school, business, business with school, by students and faculty being involved in the community. There needs to be more community participation by staff and all employees of the district. The district needs to build on trust, and honesty within the school community and parents. The school, county and city need to communicate, share resources and ideas. There needs to be a process of decision making by having parents more involved and not just with their own children. There needs to be good communication throughout the community to establish trust, honesty and availability. ISO 564 needs to find out community expectations and what is important. There needs to be more community involvement without talk of money.

Budget Expectations

ISO 564 needs to find grants to support education. It needs to live within the expectations within the budget, a budget controlled by student need. The citizens of ISD 564 must pass a levy referendum because education is important and a high priority. The district needs to do the best it can with what it has. ISO 564 is a dynamic changing school system and it needs to provide the tools needed to reach its goals or redefine its goals. There also needs to be a commitment to implementing long range plans, or revise present plans too. The district needs to be realistic as it institutes change and have realistic expectations. ISO 564 needs to be the best system it can be — Leaders.

The school board recognized the following: Engles Club, which donated $1,658 to the Close-Up Program; the Lincoln High school Environmental club which donated $250 to the Challenger Environmental Education Outdoor lab.

The following items from the consent agenda regarding personnel were approved: the resignation of Darla LeMoine as bus driver; the resignation of Charlotte Nilson as bus driver; the resignation of Mary Broten as District Family Advocate; a leave of absence without pay for Caroline Nicholson, kitchen helper at Challenger; a leave of absence without pay for Patricia Scramstad, kitchen helper at Challenger; the transfer of Esther Gallagher from staff development and curriculum secretary to Challenger building secretary; the employment of David Twamley as kitchen helper; the employment of Greg Monson as after-school coordinator at Franklin; mid-year step increments for Mike Collette, Elvera Cullen, Peter Solem, Mary Follett, Juneal Peterson, Beverly Dekkers, Kathleen Ouchscher, Denice Nelson, Julie O. Olson, Julie K. Olson, and Carol Tranby; lane changes for Susan Buhl, Barry Liimatainen, Carol Schmitz, and Nancy Skoim; employee assistance program services agreements with Northwest Medical Center; the request of the Shine the Light, Inc., group to use the Lincoln Auditorium drama room and dressing rooms on Sunday, April 13; and the purchase of the house owned by Roger Kezar at 219 South Duluth in Thief River Falls for $23,000.

Oklee school emphasizes reading ability

To emphasize the importance of reading and to stimulate children to read, Oklee public schools initiated a reading incentive program last fall. It is conducted through the school library for grades one through six.

Under the Accelerated Reader program, students read books from a reading list and then take a computer test. Books have a point value based on their reading level and length and students earn points based on how well they score on the comprehension tests.

Each month the students have a point goal to reach. The goals are different for each grade and are set by the elementary teachers. First graders are asked to earn four points each month and sixth graders to earn 15 points. When students reach their goals they have earned the right to attend a monthly celebration. Each month has a theme and the students earn theme rewards as they earn points throughout the month.

Clubs have been established for students to gain entrance throughout the year. First club is entered after earning 25 points and a new club is attained as each additional 25 points are earned. Some students have already reached the 200-point club.

So far the program is considered to be a great success with students increasing their reading skills by reading hundreds of books and participation exceeding expectations. Success of the program is greatly credited to volunteers who read and create tests, help at the celebrations, serve as typists or read to the younger children.

On Friday, January 24, the Oklee elementary school held an overnight lock-in for students who had met their monthly goals from the beginning of the program through December. Twenty-three students from first through sixth grade were eligible to participate. Games were donated by Nintendo Queen of Thief River Falls and movies were loaned by D&R Grocery, Rustan Grocery and Cenex, all of Oklee. A similar event is planned in May for students meeting their monthly reading goals for the last half of the school year.

In order to continue offering rewards and incentives for the students who are excelling in the program, the Oklee school library will conduct a used book sale and/or exchange Friday, February 21, from 3 to 8 p.m. at the library.

Anyone who would like to donate any used children's or adults' books can drop them off at the school library or contact Judy Schue at 796-5136 to arrange to have the books picked up. School children who wish to donate books can bring them to the library during the next two weeks. Books should be received at the school before February 20 so they can be sorted into categories. Books will be very reasonably priced.

Persons wishing to exchange books may bring them in advance (record will be kept of how many books each persons brings) or bring them along to the book sale. Those who exchange books will be charged 10 cents for each book exchanged.

Performing "Oh Lord I Know, I Must Praise God" during the Sunday liturgy at St. Bernard's Catholic church, these students opened activity for Catholic Schools Week recently.

Students from preschool, kindergarten and first grade at St. Bernard's school brought items to the Thief River Falls community food shelf on Monday during Catholic Schools Week. They learned how many people use the food shelf and how important it is to help others.

Several animals in local pound

Several cats are being held at the Thief River Falls Animal Pound. Animals at the pound can be claimed by their owner or adopted by anyone willing to care for the pet. Pound fees, license fees and any other expense incurred by the department will be assessed prior to release. Each animal being held in the animal pound will be kept for a minimum of five days from the date of impoundment.

Animals being held include: a border collie caught February 2 in Newfolden; a male orange and white cat caught February 5 west of Eighth Street; a gray cat caught February 6 in Countryside Trailer court; a white cat caught February 6 in the 800 block of South Kendall; a brown and white cat caught February 6 in Countryside Trailer court; a black cat turned over to the Law Enforcement Center on February 8; and an orange cat brought to the Law Enforcement Center on February 8.

For more information about these and other animals contact the Animal Control officer at 681-6161.

First flood forecast due out on Friday

The first conference on the flood potential for eastern North Dakota and Northwest Minnesota will be held Friday, February 14, at the National Weather Service Forecast office in Grand Forks.

Lee Anderson, meteorologist in charge of the National Weather Service office in Grand Forks, and Wendy Pearson, service hydrologist, will provide information compiled by the National Weather Service on the amount of snow pack and the potential for spring flooding in eastern North Dakota and Northwest Minnesota.

Plenty of sand bags available

Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe said he's planning to provide the same assistance he did last year when the county was hit with a flood. He said he has some concerns regarding sandbagging of certain roads, but expects to do whatever he can to help local residents if the need arises.

Sheriff Moe said he believes he has a good supply of sand bags on hand. He estimates that he has about 25,000 sand bags on hand. Last year he said he made those available to residents before the flood and expects to do the same this year.

Indian students may seek Curry scholarships

Minnesota State Board of Education received a $1 million endowment last year from the estate of Ethel Curry for scholarships for American Indian students pursuing college degrees or other postsecondary education.

Approximately eight scholarships will be awarded each year with recipients receiving $3,000 each year for undergraduate studies and $6,000 for graduate studies. Applications will be accepted annually with priority given to Ethel Curry scholars who maintain a minimum grade point average.

Based on academic merit, the scholarships are available to college juniors, seniors and graduates who are residents of Minnesota and at least one-quarter American Indian from the state's 11 Minnesota-based tribes or communities.

Tax exemption on farm equipment may be permanent

If legislation introduced by Rep. Tim Finseth of Angus is adopted, the sales tax exemption on used farm equipment will become permanent instead of renewed annually.

Current legislation includes a sunset provision that triggers an expiration date each year, but the legislature has granted a one-year extension each time the sunset date has approached.

"It makes sense to just make it permanent instead of revisiting this issue each session," Rep. Finseth said. "This is a bill that helps farmers and is good for the agriculture industry in Minnesota," Finseth said.

In addition to allowing Minnesota farmers the option of purchasing used farm machinery with no sales tax, farmers from neighboring states are allowed to purchase used equipment in Minnesota without paying the sales tax.

"It helps our economy any time someone crosses the state line into Minnesota to make a purchase," Finseth said. "This legislation helps implement dealers that sell used equipment and farmers who may have used equipment to sell."

Health curriculum committee in School District 564 has spent three years working on an updated health curriculum for kindergarten through fifth grade. Helen Anderson chaired the committee which also included Susan Olson, Susan Buhl, Jan Brailand, Danica Nelson, Jessa Comstock, Vicki Jensen and Pat Cullen. The committee developed outcomes for each grade level which were approved by the district PER committee and board of education. The school district has adopted the "Growing Healthy" curriculum which has a continuing program from one grade level to the next. A kindergarten teacher at Holdingford elementary school, Statz said "Health education is important because it impacts us every moment of our lives. Starting children at an early age to be aware of positive health practices is one of the best aspects of curriculum you can teach them."

Jan Holt, a second grade teacher at Piedmont elementary school in Hermantown, was one of the instructors in a "Growing Healthy" health curriculum workshop at Challenger elementary school in Thief River Falls. She has been using the curriculum for 14 years and says "Heath education needs to begin at the earliest moment possible." Thief River Falls wins Section 8A hockey matchup . . .

Prowlers shut out Pirates 4-0

There was nothing fancy about Thief River Falls' 4-0 high school hockey win over Crookston Saturday afternoon at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. However, when you're 14-15-1, style points are not the primary concern.

"It might not have been the most fun game to watch for the spectators," admitted Thief River Falls coach Pat Cullen. "It was just kind of workman-like. But it was a win."

Senior goalie Brian Barry got the shutout – the Prowlers' first of the year – with an 18-save performance against a Crookston team that won the first meeting of the year between the two rivals 9-4 just two weeks ago, but was never able to mount a sustained attack in the rematch.

"What you do in your end of the rink is most important," explained Cullen, "and we did a good job in our zone today – shown by the fact we held them to 18 shots."

It was a 1-0 hockey game most of the way. The Prowlers caught Crookston goalie Joe Reese going the wrong way on a point-blank tip by Jeff Rislov just 1:19 into the matinee make-up, and outside of a first period Crookston penalty, it was the only entry on the score sheet the first two periods.

Thief River Falls doubled the difference at 8:14 of the third period when Trevor Lee, after fanning on a close-in wrist shot, was still able to reach in and tap a backhand under Reese.

The Prowlers all but clinched it at 11:43 when strong rush down the ice wound up as a rebound goal for Chad Nordhagen, who was right on top of the netminder when he scored.

Nordhagen picked up a second goal to wrap things up with just three seconds left.

The Prowlers, who were scheduled to be in East Grand Forks Tuesday, will complete the regular season at home Friday with a Valentines Day game against Fergus Falls. Section 8A pairings will be determined by a vote of coaches today (Wednesday), with tournament play getting under way Feb. 18.

TRF girls edge Otters at buzzer

Kim Stenseth beat the buzzer with a base line jumper Friday to give the Thief River Falls girls a dramatic 52-50 high school basketball win at Fergus Falls.

With the game tied at 50-50, Fergus Falls elected to run the final minute-and-a-half off the clock to set up a final shot. But the Prowlers' Kim Hook dashed those plans with a steal with 10 seconds left.

Hook was fouled as she took off with the ball. But the bonus situation was not in effect, setting up an in-bounds play for the Prowlers. The Otters knocked the pass out of bounds, but the second attempt set up Stenseth inside, and she hit the winner at the buzzer.

"It was a good game," said Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "I thought both teams played well."

Thief River Falls led 13-10 at the end of the first quarter, but fell behind 27-23 at halftime. It was tied 39-39 as the third quarter ended.

Stenseth finished with 22 points on 11-for-17 shooting, and handed out five assists. Teammate Nicole Kopari scored 19 points by hitting 9 of 10 shots, and pulled down 10 rebounds. Hook had a strong floor game with four assists, pointed out Loe, and Amber Klinker came up with some key fourth quarter baskets to keep the Prowlers close.

"It was a good team effort," said Loe.

Thief River Falls turned in one of its better shooting performances of the year – a 56 percent 24-for-43 night – to complete a regular season sweep of the Otters, who lost a 49-44 decision on the road Jan. 18. The Prowlers were 4-for-9 at the line.

Fergus Falls went 20-for-47 from the field (43 percent) and 8-for-14 at the line while out-rebounding Thief River Falls 29-23. The turnovers were even at 13-apiece.

A balanced Fergus Falls offense featured Jesse DeBrito with 16 points, Lindsi Harworth 14 and Jamie Huskey 13.

Thief River Falls is 10-8.

EGF shoots down TRF 65-60

Accurate shooting, both from the field and at the free throw line, carried East Grand Forks past Thief River Falls 65-60 Friday in boys high school basketball.

The Green Wave shot 61 percent from the field (22/36) and 78 percent at the line (18/23) to hold off the Prowlers' come-from-behind efforts. Thief River Falls spotted East Grand Forks a 20-8 head start before charging back to make a game of it. The five-point final matched the biggest point spread of the second half.

"It was not a good start," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke, "but after that, I thought the kids played some good basketball. They played hard."

Thief River Falls' comeback started with a 12-3 run in the first half of the second quarter that chopped the 12-point deficit to 23-20. It stayed close the rest of the way, with East Grand Forks clinging to a 29-26 halftime lead and a 45-43 third quarter edge.

Twice the Prowlers had a lead – the second time at 47-45 on a 3-point basket by Kyle Waterworth with 7:12 to play. Three times after that they gained ties – the last one on a spinning drive to the basket by Waterworth with 2:50 to play in a 55-55 game.

After giving up a wide-open back-door lay-up to Willie Bayne that put the Green Wave up 61-57 with 40.5 seconds left, the Prowlers came back on a 3-pointer off the wing by Casey Skjerven with 24.6 seconds showing.

East Grand Forks sophomore Travis Lindgren buried two free throws with 16.6 seconds remaining to make it 63-60.

Thief River Falls saw a chance for a tie bounce away, literally, on a 3-pointer by Waterworth, whose shot with 7.5 seconds left hit the rim, bounced straight up, came back down and hit iron a couple of more times before eventually falling off.

The ball was corralled by the Green Wave, and Lindgren found himself back on the line for two more free throws with :05 showing on the clock. He made them both to cap a 20-point night.

While East Grand Forks was nailing free throws, Thief River Falls barely shot 50 percent at the line with a 14-for-27 night.

"If we make free throws, we win the game," offered Brekke.

The Prowlers shot only 38 percent from the field, but put up considerably more attempts (20/52) thanks to a sizeable 15-4 advantage on the offensive boards.

"Our kids inside – Jared (Brandt), Courtney (Skjerven) and Michael (Morris) did a great job on the boards," noted Brekke. "That kept us in the game."

Despite getting hammered on the offensive end, the Green Wave still out-rebound the Prowlers 23-21. But they also had more turnovers, 22-13.

Skjerven wound up with 14 points, Waterworth 13, Brandt 11, and Jeremy Swanson 11. Travis Lueck, a 6-4 junior, picked up 15 of his game-high 24 points in the first half.

It was the second win of the season over the 4-12 Prowlers for the 14-2 Green Wave, who won the first encounter 71-62 in overtime.

"I thought it was a good game," offered Brekke. "They have a nice team. We played them tough both times."

NCTC women split weekend series on road

Northland came back from a 61-50 Friday night loss to Vermilion at Ely with a 72-41 Saturday afternoon victory over Mesabi at Virginia in Minnesota Community College Conference women's basketball to stay in the thick of the Northern Division chase for MCCC state tournament spots.

"It's the old adage: win at home and split on the road," offered Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We held up our end of the deal. We're satisfied with it."

The Pioneers fell behind Vermilion early and never caught up. Mesabi stayed with Northland in the first half, but lost ground after intermission.

"Vermilion has a good team," noted Nikunen. "We played a really good second half, but by then we were playing catch-up. Mesabi plays hard, but they're shorthanded. They just ran out of gas in the second half, and we shot the ball well."

The Pioneers, 6-3 in the MCCC, are 12-5 overall.

Northland 50

Vermilion lost a 61-54 decision on a Jan. 11 visit to Thief River Falls, but eight 3-pointers helped reverse the outcome in the rematch, 61-50.

Northland trailed 27-18 at halftime.

Moorhead holds off TRF wrestlers 39-31

Thief River Falls spotted Moorhead an early lead Saturday afternoon and couldn't make up the difference in a 39-31 high school wrestling loss to the visiting Spuds.

Moorhead came up with points in six of the first seven matches, then clinched it with a heavyweight pin that cut off a Thief River Falls comeback.

Jon Swanson was a Thief River Falls winner at 119 pounds, but the Prowlers didn't pick up any more points until an open-weight forfeit at 145.

Successive upper-weight wins by Jeremy Houske, Luke Davis, Kyle Nelson, and Adam Kuck then pulled the Prowlers within 33-31 before Moorhead heavyweight Chris Neele ended it with a pin.

"We fell too far behind at the beginning," said Thief River Falls coach John Belyea. "The usual kids wrestled well for us."

It was the final regular season match for the Prowlers, who finished with a 3-10 dual record. They will be at the Section 8AA team tournament Saturday at Cass Lake, where they will be joined by Cass Lake/Bena/Blackduck, Red Lake County Central, Crookston, Deer River/Northland, Detroit Lakes, East Grand Forks, Fosston/Bagley, Greenway/Nashwauk-Keewatin, Mahnomen/Waubun, Park Rapids Area, Roseau, and Walker-Hackensack-Akeley/Nevis.

Small TRF team part of Grand Forks meet

A small squad made a solid showing Thursday as Thief River Falls participated in a triangular boys high school swim meet at Grand Forks.

A Grand Forks Central/Red River cooperative won the event with 138 points, while Thief River Falls and Crookston both had 72. The Prowlers took only eight swimmers to the meet.

"It was a fun meet for us," said Thief River Falls co-head coach Brian Olson. "The kids swim well. They did a nice job. We scored a lot of points with just eight kids."

Thief River Falls' lone first place finish came in the 200 freestyle relay, where Josh Engevik, Rory Hoven, Chris Pribula, and Zach Olson turned in a 1:57.87.

Huskies' balance is key in 63-49 victory

Goodridge has too many weapons for East Grand Forks Sacred Heart Friday as the Huskies beat the visiting Eagles 63-49 in boys high school basketball.

A 1-2 Goodridge inside game gave Sacred Heart fits in the first half. With the Eagles set up to defense Chris Grabowska, the Huskies' scoring leader, Darrin Arveson burned them with 9 first quarter points. When Arveson drew defensive attention, Grabowska was freed up to score 11 second quarter points.

And if the inside scoring didn't do enough damage, Benji Marquis was nailing shots from the outside.

Grabowska finished with 22 points and 10 rebounds. Arveson had 14 points and 10 rebounds, and Marquis collected 13 points as the Huskies improved to 13-3.

"They couldn't stop our big kids inside," said Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson. "And Benji was hot from the outside."

Goodridge spotted Sacred Heart a 7-0 head start and still trailed 13-12 as the first quarter ended. But the Huskies were ahead 29-21 at halftime and had a 45-34 third quarter advantage.

Joe Zavoral led Sacred Heart with 12 points.

Goodridge shot 54 percent from the field (21/39) and had a busy 16-for-32 free throw night. Sacred Heart shot only 34 percent from the floor (18/53) and went 9-for-19 at the line. The Huskies out-rebounded the Eagles 37-25. The visitors topped the turnover charts 18-17.

"We missed too many free throws, and we turned it over a few too many times," acknowledged Mickelson.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River carried the play Friday in a 72-53 boys high school basketball win over host Grygla-Gatzke.

The Gators led at the quarter stops 22-9, 41-16 and 53-32 to improve to 8-9. The Eagles, who have lost five of their last six, are 11-5.

"They just took us right out," reported Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "It wasn't close. They played real well. They came here ready to play. They were hungry."

Matt Kujava led the Gators with 19 points. Jed Geer had 12, while Adam Holmes and Daryl Wockenfuss both chipped in with 9. Derrick Gust and Shaun Verbout scored 10 points each to lead the Eagles. Jesse Lunsetter contributed 9.

"We played an excellent first quarter," acknowledged Gators coach Eldon Spachy. "Our kids played loose and went after it."

Grygla-Gatzke was just 16-for-57 from the field (28 percent), but did hit 17 of 22 free throws. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River went 24-for-57 from the floor (42 percent) and 18-for-36 at the line. The Gators out-rebounded the Eagles 48-28 and topped the turnover charts 14-12.

RLCC beats Win-E-Mac at buzzer

Matt Hruby nailed a 25-foot shot at the buzzer Thursday to give Red Lake County Central a dramatic 72-69 boys high school basketball win over Win-E-Mac.

The victory snapped an eight-game Red Lake County Central losing streak. It was a make up game from a Jan. 24 match up postponed by the weather.

"It was a great game from start to finish," said Red Lake County Central coach Ryan Sedler. "Both teams shot well. It was close the whole way. We finally put together a whole game."

Red Lake County Central started with a 17-14 first quarter lead, fell behind 38-39 at halftime and went back on top 51-49 at the end of the third quarter.

Down 69-66, Win-E-Mac gained a tie on a 3-pointer by Jay Mahlen with nine seconds left.

But overtime was avoided when Hruby drained his buzzer-beating trey.

Five Mustangs hit double figures, led by Nick Waldal with 21 points. Bob Christianson had a double-double for the winners with 10 points and 12 rebounds. Kyle Ness led the Mustangs with 21 points.

From the field, Red Lake County Central was 22-for-45 (49 percent) and Win-E-Mac made 23 of 48 (48 percent). The Mustangs were 5-for-6 from 3-point range, the Patriots 9-for-14.

Red Lake County Central also had a productive 23-for-36 night at the free throw line, where Win-E-Mac was 15-for-20.

Tri-County stops Wolverines 68-49

Tri-County made 20 of 23 free throw attempts Thursday en route to a 68-49 girls high school basketball win over Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke at Karlstad.

"They got to the free throw line, and they made their free throws," noted Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Mike Gast, who wasn't disappointed with his team's performance, despite the loss. "I thought we played four quarters pretty hard. We did some things pretty well."

Tri-County led at the quarter stops 19-15, 37-26 and 53-36.

Afton Hanson of Tri-County led all scorers with 26 points. Jenny Johnson had a 23-point night for Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke.

The Wolverines, playing without three regulars because of injuries or absences, shot 38 percent from the field (20/52), were 7-for-10 at the line and finished with a 27-20 rebound edge. The Wildcats went 24-for-55 from the field (44 percent).

Pioneers Lose two key MCCC division games

There must be a home court edge in the Minnesota Community College Conference. Back on Jan. 10-11, the Northland Community and Technical College men's basketball team opened its 1996-97 MCCC schedule by sweeping Mesabi 96-85 and Vermilion 90-86 in a Friday-Saturday series in Thief River Falls.

Results were reversed when the Pioneers met those same two teams on the road over the weekend – a 109-90 loss to Vermilion Friday night in Ely and a 110-106 double-overtime setback at the hands of Mesabi Saturday afternoon in Virginia.

Losing back-to-back games like that put a hit on Northland's bid to land one of the four Northern Division state tournament berths. The Pioneers, 8-11 overall, are 4-6 in the MCCC heading into their final two league games tonight (Wednesday) at home against Central Lakes and Monday at Fergus Falls.

Vermilion out-scored Northland 55-40 in the first half en route to a 109-90 win.

Bill Fetsch scored 18 of his game-high 30 points in the first half to stake the Ironmen to the big lead. Paul Ciochetto and Robert Lewis both scored 14 second half points to keep the Vermilion offense running.

Kenta McGaughy scored 23 points to lead the Pioneers.

Northland 106

Free throws in the extra sessions added up to a 110-106 Mesabi win over Northland that went into two overtimes.

Jon Hager kept the Pioneers in the game with 11 overtime points, including three treys. But the Norsemen won it by making 9 of 13 overtime free throws. Northland was 1-for-1 during that same span.

The Pioneers led 38-37 at halftime. It was tied 84-84 at the end of regulation time and it was still deadlocked at 94-94 at the end of the first overtime.

The game featured five players with 22 or more points. Mesabi's Jason Wefel, after netting just six first half points, led all scorers with 28. The Pioneers got 26 points from Kenta McGaughy and 25 from Jason Shofner.

Hagen, Gators turn tables on Warroad girls

Point guard Tiffany Hagen turned scorer Friday, netting 26 points to lead Badger/Greenbush-Middle River past Warroad 63-58 in a girls high school basketball game played at Badger.

It was a major turnaround from a Jan. 6 encounter won by Warroad 73-45.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River led 14-11 at the end of the first quarter, fell behind 27-26 at halftime, then went back in front 43-39 in the third quarter.

"We played zone in the first half," explained Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer, who hoped to cut down on the Gators' fouls by pulling back defensively. "We went full-court man in the second half and did a lot better."

It wound up being a free throw shooting contest, with the two teams going to the line 67 times. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River made 23 of 41 (to go along with 51 percent 20-for-39 field goal shooting), while Warroad went 11-for-26.

"It was a good win for us," noted Neibauer. "They're a good team. They beat us pretty good at their place."

Early Mustangs lead holds up, 48-46

Red Lake County Central girls grabbed an early lead, then held on for a 48-46 Thursday night high school basketball win over Win-E-Mac at Oklee.

The Mustangs were up 14-4 at the end of the first quarter and had a 31-18 halftime spread. But the Patriots chipped the difference to 39-34 by the end of the third quarter, and had a shot at a win or a tie with a game-ending possession that ended with a final-second turnover.

"We played a good first half," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koisisto, whose team improved to 6-10. "We lost our intensity in the second half."

Angie Chervestad turned in a 26-point, 18-rebound game for the winners, scoring 20 of those points in the first half.

Bears defeat MCC girls

Marshall County Central girls put up plenty of shots, but unfortunately didn't connect on enough of them to avoid a 58-47 high school basketball loss at the hands of Lake of the Woods Thursday in Baudette.

The Nordics put up 80 shots, but only hit 19 of them (24 percent). The Bears, meanwhile, went 24-for-58 from the field (41 percent) in building quarter leads of 16-12, 34-26 and 56-34.

"We had a little trouble in the third quarter, but otherwise I thought we played right with them," said Marshall County Central coach Jerald Hagen. "We cut down our turnovers, but they just out-shot us, and they beat us on the boards. They're just too big for us."

The Nordics had 14 turnovers, compared to 25 for the Bears, but Lake of the Woods won the rebound battle 46-34.

Kimi Bragdon of the Bears led all scorers with 24 points. Teammate Ellie Weibel had 19. Kristi Kilen scored 14 points and Misty Fick had 13 for the Nordics.

Strong EGF start buries MCC boys

East Grand Forks doubled Marshall County Central 20-10 in the first quarter Thursday and went on to win a 70-54 boys high school basketball game at Newfolden. It was a make-up game from a Jan. 24 weather-forced postponement.

"We got down by 10 right away, and that's where the game seemed to stay the rest of the way," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland, whose team trailed 32-22 at the half and faced a 49-33 third quarter deficit.

Travis Lueck scored 19 points and Justin Bruhn had 18 for the Green Wave. Mark Augustine netted 16 points and Phil Flickinger added 13 for the Nordics.

East Grand Forks shot 55 percent from the field (28/51) and out-rebounded Marshall County Central 37-19, with 17 of those coming on the offensive boards.

"They're a potent team inside," pointed out Ueland. "They really hurt us on the offensive boards."

The Nordics shot 40 percent from the field (19/48) and went 15-for-21 at the free throw line, where the Green Wave was 12-for-26. East Grand Forks topped the turnover charts 20-18.

Foul trouble leads to loss for B/G-MR girls

Once again stymied by foul trouble on the road, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River lost a 54-45 girls high school basketball game to Kittson Central Thursday.

It was just the fourth loss of the year for the Gators, with each one occurring on the road. "It's the same story," reported Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "We play on the road and get our our key kids in foul trouble. Our subs played more than the regulars."

The Wolfpack had quarter leads of 14-9, 27-19 and 37-32.

It was still a five-point game at the four-minute mark of the fourth quarter when the Gators were hit by a personal foul/technical foul combination that led to five Kittson Central free throws. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River never recovered.

"It's hard to win on the road around here," observed Neibauer.

Marisa Johnson of the Wolfpack and Stefanie Sparby of the Gators were the game's leading scorers with 17 and 14 points, respectively.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 16-for-37 from the field (43 percent) and 11-for-17 at the free throw line. Kittson Central made 19 of 23 free throws.

Clearbrook-Gonvick shades RLCC 65-60

Thursday, Red Lake County Central won a nail-biter, 72-69 over Win-E-Mac. Friday, the Mustangs were involved in another down-to-the-wire finish – with Clearbrook-Gonvick. But this time the Oklee/Plummer cooperative came out on the short end of a 65-60 boys high school basketball game on the Bears' court.

"You can't win them all," offered first-year Red Lake County Central coach Ryan Sedler, "but it's a lot more fun to coach when you're in it like that. It was a great game."

The winners led 15-14 at the end of the first quarter and were up 30-23 at halftime before falling behind 46-45 at the end of the third quarter. The Mustangs were within 61-60 in the final minutes when they missed the front end of a bonus free throw opportunity. Then, down 63-60, they were off-target on an open 3-pointer that could of tied it. Two free throws just before the horn wrapped it up for the Bears.

Seth Dorman of Clearbrook/Gonvick and Mark Lorenson of Red Lake County Central shared game-high scoring honors with 20 points each. Lorenson, however, and teammate Jimmy Dulka spent much of the second half on the bench in foul trouble.

Red Lake County Central enjoyed a 60 percent 24-for-60 shooting night, and made 9 of 12 free throws. Clearbrook-Gonvick shot 37 percent from the field (19/51), but cashed in on 19 of 23 free throw chances.

The Mustangs are 5-13.

Nordics lose to Ponies

A season-long pattern followed suit for the Marshall County Central girls high school basketball team Monday as the Nordics played three solid quarters of basketball, but weren't able to complete the task in a 57-35 loss to Warren-Alvarado-Oslo at Newfolden.

The Ponies found themselves trailing 13-8 at the end of the first quarter, and had just a 23-18 halftime lead. But it was 45-25 heading into the fourth quarter.

"Same story," offered Marshall County Central coach Jerald Hagen. "We played them into the third quarter."

The Nordics are 1-16.

Jami Copp and Katie Loeslie led the Ponies with 17 and 15 points, respectively. The Nordics did not have a double-figure scorer.

Marshall County Central was 14-for-45 from the field (31 percent) and 5-for-17 at the free throw line. The Ponies went 18-for-44 from the floor (41 percent) and 18-for-25 at the line. Marshall County Central had a 30-24 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 14-7.

MCC boys fall behind early in loss to Roseau

Marshall County Central boys spotted Roseau a 10-0 head start Friday and lost a 56-44 North Border Conference boys high school basketball game to the host Rams.

It was a solid defensive effort, reported Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland, but poor shooting, and a beating on the boards dropped the Nordics to 4-13. They shot 34 percent from the field (18/53) and were out-rebounded 38-18.

"That was a huge problem," said Ueland, looking at the rebound figures. "It might have been our best game defensively of the year, but we couldn't keep them off the boards. A lot of their offense came on put-backs."

Roseau had quarter leads of 15-8, 35-19 and 41-25.

The Nordics' defense limited the Rams' Isaac Lang and Matt Sjulstad to 9 and 6 points, respectively, but Tristan Sjaaheim and Erick Hallie helped pick up the slack with 11 points each. Mark Augustine of Marshall County Central led all scorers with 16 points. Phil Flickinger added 10.

Roseau was 21-for-47 from the field (45 percent) and 10-for-22 at the free throw line, where the Nordics went 6-for-9. The Rams topped the turnover charts 16-9.

Outdoor News

All unsold 1995 Minnesota waterfowl, trout and pheasant stamps held by the Department of Natural Resources after Feb. 28, 1997, will be destroyed.

The 1995 stamps will be shredded in accordance with DNR policy that makes out-of-date wildlife stamps available for purchase for a period of one year beyond their expiration date, after which, all remaining stamps are destroyed. Because the 1995 stamps expired at the end of February 1996, the window of opportunity to purchase these stamps at face value from the DNR closes at the end of February 1997.

DNR News

The snow has been great for cross country skiing throughout most of Minnesota this season. Skiers taking advantage of those snow conditions are reminded that gliding along groomed public trails is made possible in part by the purchase of Minnesota cross country ski passes. Proceeds help develop and maintain more than 200 public ski trails extending for 2,000 miles, all for $5 per year, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

The cross country ski pass must be carried by skiers ages 16 to 64 who are using public trails. Passes are available at $5 per year for an individual, $7.50 for an annual husband/wife ski pass, $14 for an individual three-year pass, and $21 for a three-year husband/wife option.

The ski pass generates about one-third of what is needed to develop, brush and groom public ski trails, according to Paul Nordell of the DNR Trails and Waterways unit. "The ski pass provides an essential, continuous source of revenue available only to the state ski program," he said.

Ski passes can be obtained at more than 300 locations statewide, including state parks, the DNR License Bureau at 500 Lafayette Road in St. Paul, at all county auditor's offices, many sporting goods outlets, and even some regional parks. Ski passes, which can be charged on VISA, MasterCard, or Discover, may be ordered over the phone by calling the DNR Information Center at (612) 296-6157 in the Twin Cities metro area, or by calling toll free in greater Minnesota 1-800-766-6000.

Snow condition reports are available by calling either of the above telephone numbers. Those reports are updated every Thursday at 2 p.m.

Violent incidents involving minors listed in law enforcement reports

Law enforcement officials responded to numerous complaints last week that involved minors.

Numerous charges are pending against a 17-year old man in Thief River Falls following a chase by car and on foot. When the youth was apprehended he was found in possession of a handgun.

On February 7 at 10:49 p.m. police received a call from an individual reporting that his car was missing from their garage. A deputy enroute to the residence observed the vehicle at First and Pennington. He signaled for the vehicle to stop but instead the driver sped away. The high speed chase lasted about five minutes. The car finally went into a snowbank where the driver got out of the car and ran away on foot. Officers followed the individual but lost track of him. He was later spotted by the former Knox Elementary school and followed to a garage at Markley and Hughes. Officers obtained permission from the owner to search the garage but they didn't find the individual inside the garage. An off-duty officer in the area who was assisting in the search spotted the individual lying down in a yard in South Markley. He was also observed holding a handgun. He put down the gun as ordered and was arrested.

The 17-year-old Thief River Falls man taken into custody faces charges of driving while intoxicated, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, driving after revocation, fleeing a police officer, and possession of a firearm by a felon. The 22 calibre handgun taken from the youth was discovered to have been taken in a burglary at a local residence between February 6 and 9. The theft loss, which included a loaded clip, and case amounted to over $240. The 17-year-old male also faces a charge of possession of stolen property.

The incident remains under investigation and there may be other charges against other individuals.

Two 16-year-old males of Thief River Falls are being charged with assault and tampering with a witness following an assault on another 16-year-old male at Lincoln High school.

According to a police spokesperson, on February 4 a youth went from the Alternative Learning Center to Lincoln High school and assaulted another 16-year-old male. The 16-year-old youth who was assaulted had been charged with possession of a small amount of marijuana earlier in the week after his father reported the youth to law enforcement. The youth had then reported who he had purchased the marijuana from. As a result, a 17-year-old youth from Thief River Falls was charged with sale of a controlled substance. The youth charged with assault on Tuesday was a friend of the 17-year-old youth who had been charged with the sale of the marijuana, and was apparently retaliating against the youth who reported the incident.

DARE Officer, and Sheriff's Deputy, Ray Kuznia said it is important that parents and adults come forward with this type of information, otherwise they won't be able to solve these crimes. He said it's equally important that all of the youth involved in the incident face the consequences and that law enforcement and school district officials take appropriate actions.

Consumption under age. On February 4 at 9:34 a.m. police received a report from Franklin Middle School that there was a 13-year-old female at the school who was intoxicated. The 13-year-old female faces charges of consumption under age.

Thefts. On February 2 the law enforcement center received another report of a drive-off at Petro Pumper. A customer had filled up their gas tank and had left without paying. This activity had happened several times before. This time they were able to provide law enforcement with a description of the vehicle and driver. A State Patrol officer observed the vehicle and along with a police officer, stopped the vehicle. The 16-year-old male from Grygla is being charged with theft and is believed responsible for several drive-offs from Petro Pumper. The total theft loss, including incidents on several different dates, was estimated at $46.

Pennington County Sheriff's department has issued citations for issuance of dishonored checks to the following: Richard Michael Columbus, 19, Thief River Falls, $36.18; Milan Wyatt Iverson, 39, Red Lake Falls, $220; Larry James Dominick, 37, Viking $48.80; Vickie Lynne Bertson, 40, Abercrombie, ND, $522.74; Carey Noel Slininger, 29, East Grand Forks, $1,644.14; Tamyra Bums, 27, Red Lake Falls, $160.67; Kristen Marie Veselka, 24, Thief River Falls, $73.88; Sharon Dixon, 24, Thief River Falls, $399.52; Kyle Herman Hilde, 28, Moorhead, $92.26; Earl Dean Butler, 25, Thief River Falls, $120; Trevor Dale Haugen, 24, Bemidji, $34.37; Lisle R. Rohlwing, 24, Lake Mills, Wi, $97.95; Krista Leigh Anderson, 19, Karlstad, $50; Diane Louise Bladow, 35, Oklee, $246.25; LaVonne Sandra Miller, 54, St. Hilaire, $264.25; Brian P. Schaufel, 37, Twin Lakes, WI, $97.27; Tammy Lynn Sorenson, 25, Thief River Falls, $565; Thomas William Huffman, 45, Thief River Falls, $293.42; Amy Louise Momerak, 19, Thief River Falls, $253.48; Dale Keith Nesdahl, 19, East Grand Forks, $30; Natalie Jean Evans, 34, Warroad, $56.89.

On December 9 police received a report of a stolen car from the Hugo's parking lot. It was 1989 Grand Prix that had been left running. It was recovered in Bemidji on February 4. According to law enforcement the vehicle was impounded on January 2 after it was stopped because it was being operated at night without headlights and the under age driver was found to have been consuming alcohol, driving without a license, and allowing open bottle. There was no apparent damage. The individual who claimed to be the owner was wanted on a warrant. Kevin Richard Bahr, Thief River Falls and International Falls, age 23. He was wanted on a charge of felony controlled substance in the fifth degree in Roseau county. At the time, he was cited for allowing an unlicensed person to drive, providing alcohol to a minor, no proof of insurance and allowing open bottle. The incident is still under investigation.

On February 4, Paul Juel Reinhart, 29, Crookston, was taken into custody on an outstanding warrant. Reinhart had gone to the law enforcement center in Thief River Falls to claim his car which had been stolen and later recovered by law enforcement in Pennington county. Reinhart was wanted on a warrant for failure to appear on a charge of issuing bad checks. His bail was paid and he was released.

Shooting. On February 4 at 6:16 p.m. law enforcement received a report of an accidental shooting in Country Estates. A 15-year-old girl accidentally bumped a B-B gun, which discharged. She was struck in the lower right stomach by a pellet which pierced the skin. She went to a neighbor's residence and was taken by ambulance to Northwest Medical Center.

Criminal damage to property. On February 5 police received a request for assistance from a resident in the 300 block of East Fourth Street. A man was breaking out a window and causing damage to a vehicle. When officers arrived they observed a woman trying to hold a man. They had apparently argued over the disposition of a vehicle and he had caused considerable damage to the vehicle. Hans Gunther Gregory 32, Thief River Falls, faces charges of criminal damage to property.

On February 8 at 8:49 a.m. police received a report of an incident at a local residence. An individual allegedly caused considerable damage to the door of the residence and items inside the residence. The damage loss was estimated at about $800. Charges of criminal damage to property are pending against Dale Timothy Villebrun, 26, Bejou.

Driving while intoxicated. On February 6 at 9:25 p.m. police arrested 74-year-old Dolores Elaine Thompson, Thief River Falls, for driving while intoxicated.

On February 8 at 10:17 p.m. Alexander Campbell III, 26, Thief River Falls, was arrested for driving while intoxicated, no driver's license, and no insurance.

On February 7 at 10:16 Dean Allan Dahl, 42, Thief River Falls, was arrested for driving while intoxicated.

On February 11 at 2:41 a.m. sheriff's department arrested Richard Ronald Reedy, 42, Thief River Falls for driving while intoxicated and refusal to test.

Accidents. On February 7 at 3:45 p.m. police received a report of an accident at the exit from the Northern State Bank walk-up teller on Third Street. Irvin Clyde Hamm, Goodridge, was driving a car east on Third Street, when Lawrence Dale Johnson, Thief River Falls, attempted to exit a lot onto Third Street in his pickup. The vehicles collided. Damages were estimated at $2,000 to the Hamm vehicle, and $500 to the Johnson vehicle.

On February 8 at 5:51 p.m. police received a report of an accident in the 100 block of North Horace. Rose Marie Nelson, Thief River Falls, was driving a pickup south when she looked down and her vehicle swerved hitting two parked vehicles. One vehicle belonging to Kathryn Aune, sustained about $3,000 damage. The other vehicle belong to Hilton McMahon, Thief River Falls, sustained about $1,500 damage. Damage to the Nelson vehicle was estimated at $5,000.

On February 10 at 3:27 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Sixth and Knight. Matthew James Formato, Thief River Falls, was driving a van west on Sixth Street, and Shelley Laura Koland, Thief River Falls, was driving a car south on Knight Avenue, entered the intersection after stopping and the vehicles collided. Damages were estimated at $4,000 to the Formato vehicle, and $5,000 to the Koland vehicle. Formato complained of an injury to his head. Koland complained of an injury to her head, and a passenger in her vehicle complained of neck pain.

Assault. On February 7 a 17-year-old male was charged with assault following an incident at a local convenience store.

Sexual assault. On February 9 at 4:22 a.m. police received a report of a sexual assault. A woman reported that she was asleep and awoke to find a man sexually assaulting her. She struggled with the man and then an altercation occurred between the man and another individual at the house. Harold Foster Eisenbarth, 33, Thief River Falls faces charges of criminal sexual assault in the third degree. Eisenbarth was arrested and is currently in custody.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

Hasselmo speaks in Warren at Agassiz Swedish Heritage meet

University of Minnesota President Dr. Nils Hasselmo, a native of Sweden, will speak on "Things Swedish" at the mid-winter meeting of Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society at Crookston, Wednesday, February 19.

Cost of the meal is $7. Registrations should be sent to Berneil Nelson, 423 Woodland, Apt. 107, Crookston, MN 56716 or call 218-281-2838, by Thursday, February 13. The main dish will be Swedish meat balls. (Swedish meat balls got their name because in Sweden beef was very expensive. The thrifty Swedes added pork and bread to the beef to extend it — probably the world's first "hamburger helper".)

The meal and meeting will be held in the Brown Dining room at the University of Minnesota Crookston conference center beginning at noon. Non-members are welcome.

President Hasselmo, who is retiring this year after heading the University of Minnesota since December 1988, will be introduced by Dr. Stanley Sahlstrom, provost and founder of UMC who is also retiring as a U of M regent this year. Dr. Sahlstrom was born and raised in a Swedish family at Mora and was a founder of Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society in 1984 which is designed to preserve the Swedish culture.

Dr. Hasselmo was born in 1931 in Kola, Sweden, very near the Sweden-Norway border. He studied at Uppsala University in East Orange, NJ, a Swedish inspired college which died several years ago. He also studied at Augustana College in Rock Island, IL, another early college founded by Swedish immigrants, and finally at Harvard University where he completed his Ph.D. in linguistics in 1961. He still speaks English with a Swedish lilt.

He taught at the University of Minnesota for 18 years where he rose to vice president for administration and planning before leaving in 1983 to serve for five years as senior vice president for academic affairs and provost at the University of Arizona. He became the 13th president of the University of Minnesota in 1988 and has presided over a five-year restructuring and reallocation plan as well as having to solve some very serious internal problems, some of which have yet to be resolved.

The annual spring meeting of the Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society will be held Saturday, April 19 at 6 p.m. in the Karlstad Senior Citizen Center. Those of Swedish ancestry are urged to attend this meeting and join the society which is trying to help Americans of Swedish descent to learn more about their heritage.

Officers and committee chairman of the society, which covers both sides of the Red River Valley from Crookston and Grand Forks to the Canadian border, include Matthew Edman of Alvarado, president; Lyndon Johnson of Hallock, vice president and program chairman; Lane Larger of Hallock, secretary; Harriet Pearson of Red Lake Falls, treasurer; Marlene Silues of Warren, membership; Evangeline Myhre of Warren, news letter editor; Einar Karlsson of Roseau and Gerald Johnson of East Grand Forks, scholarship; and Neil and Marilyn Mattson of Warren, public relations.

Ode To A Deer

A recent issue of Sportsmen's News carried a poem written by Lorence Kominek which several deer feeders in the area have appreciated seeing. We reprint it here for its general interest and the message it presents.

ODE TO A DEER
by Lorence Kominek

He lay on a hillside, in a small bunch of grass,
He saw the hunter coming and hoped he would pass.
He lay there so quiet, never blinking an eye,
As the man dressed in orange walked silently by.

Now that was last fall, and it's all in the past,
For winter has come with its bone-chilling blast!
Mother Nature has dealt him a terrible hand;
She has left him to starve in this snow-covered land.

His beautiful antlers are gone from his head,
Just two bare spots appear there instead.
He stands there half frozen with snow on his brow,
He thinks a bullet would be merciful now.

Now look, a truck stops out on the road,
A man gets out and he carries a load.
And as he gets closer, he seems to recall
That this was the same man he had seen last fall.

As the man comes walking through the deep snow
His mind tells him to run, but his body says no.
The man tramps down the snow and empties his pack,
Then goes back to the road and never looks back.

As he stands there half frozen, he knows he must go
To see what the man had left there in the snow.
There as he ate, his strength it did grow
And he thought of the mate he'd left long ago.

Then he turned back and made his way
Over the tracks he had made yesterday.
He finally found her, it made his heart sing,
And these were his fawns who had been born last spring.

Now if they could follow, he knew they would survive,
With the one his mate carried, that would be five.
They followed along through the snow and the cold
As he led them at last to that small mound of gold.
As they ate slowly, their strength did return;
It was a hard lesson they had to learn.
The man still came back, day after day
With the bag of grain and bundle of hay.

He must have known what they would need
Although he also had a family to feed.
Day after day, as his bankroll grew slim,
There was no one in the state who was going to pay him.

There are folks in the city that call us their friend,
But life would be short if on them we'd depend.
Not one of them would give a thin dime
To pay this man for his grain or his time.

There is another group called the DNR,
They say they look to the future, but they don't look far.
He thought they would feed him, but no such luck
As they drive down the road in their shiny new truck.

Though he knows these hard winters will sure come again,
He will try not to get caught south of Highway 210.
Now this story is over and he knows in the end,
The man with the gun is still his best friend.

Inspection Means More Than Just A Stamp

A news item out of Great Falls, MT, reports that federal meat inspector Bill Lehman has retired rather than take a job outside the state. He had been given an ultimatum by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to do one or the other.

Lehman apparently was considered a troublemaker in the department because he disclosed that USDA was not doing an adequate job of inspecting meat being imported from Canada. In many cases the meat was not of Canadian origin, but imported through Canada to the United States to avoid restrictions on direct import. Although paperwork for all meat imported under the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) has to be stamped as "U.S. Inspected," only a very small percentage of the actual meat itself is looked at by federal inspectors.

Lehman repeatedly warned that there would be recurring fatal outbreaks of food poisoning in the U.S. from meat contaminated with E. Coli bacteria unless far more strict inspection methods were reinstated. His concern and vigilance were rewarded with an ultimatum from USDA to take a job outside the state or retire. He apparently chose the latter course.

"Lehman has done his level best to expose the terrible inadequacies of foreign meat inspection," a Montana Farmers Union official stated, "but larger corporate interests apparently have carried the day in Washington, DC with this Administration and we and some other supporters, many of them in the domestic livestock industry, can only express our regrets and wish Lehman the best."

It is hard to believe that government or big business would have an interest in playing fast and loose with the public's health and safety, but the incentive seems to be there. The liability for such action is huge, not to mention the human factor of causing unnecessary harm to the American people. Inspection at the border should mean exactly that—not merely a stamp on paperwork that accompanies a shipment.

Second Blizzard Hits Area Friday

"The second blizzard within a week struck this area last Thursday evening and continued through Friday, tying up buses and automobile traffic as well as railroad transportation on some lines.

"Trains on the Soo Wheat Line were tied up for several days between Fordville and Kenmare, as well as the Fordville-Drake Line. The Warroad trains on the Great Northern also suspended operations until Sunday, while no Triangle Buses left the city or arrived here Friday, owing to the low visibility.

"Grade schools in Thief River Falls remained closed all day while high school classes continued in operation, although the school buses did not make their rounds. Following the storm, temperatures moderated, reaching a high of 26 above Tuesday afternoon and 32 Wednesday."

Personal Property Tax Payable Before March 1

"County Treasurer A. R. Johnsrud today reminded Pennington county residents that personal property taxes are due and payable before March 1 to avoid imposition of a penalty. A large number have already called at his office to pay their taxes."

Lions Club Views Movies Of Scouts' Winnipeg Trip

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

50 YEARS AGO • FEBRUARY 13, 1947

Editorial comments from the files of Norm A. Holen

—Everyone is agreed that these flush times can't last forever, but there is no unanimity as to the date of the coming slump.

—We might have expected those two blizzards last week. It was the week in which the Valley Winter Shows are usually held in Crookston, and the management was smart to postpone the event until the end of the month.

—If Abraham Lincoln were alive today, he might well be disturbed by the activities of the Bilbos and Talmadges.

—Local citizens deserve a bow for the splendid manner in which they responded in the recent polio fund campaign. Pennington county far outstripped others in this section of the state.

—Minneapolis papers are agreed as to the need for more taxis, but they aren't unanimous on the subject of more taxes.

—Here's something a lot of men hadn't suspected. The American Automobile association announces after a survey that women are better drivers than men.

—Rep. Harold Knutson seems to be running into a bit of difficulty in putting into effect his proposed 20-percent slash in income taxes.

—Interesting statistic: A man of 70, we read, has consumed more than 100 tons of food.

—It must have been a Scotsman they tell about who, when his wife was expecting a baby moved to the country in order to get rural free delivery.

—Random thought: The day of the individual shaving mug in the barber shop appears to be definitely on the wane.

News Items

"It is rumored that there will be a 'bond issue' soon; we think this would be a dangerous pastime. It is bad enough to issue orders for shoveling snow, that should be done by the occupants of the lots, but as this is done under the plea of providing for the poor, and the gold bugs will have to pay their share of it, there will be no complaint but not so with the attempt to issue bonds. That would be worse than obtaining goods under false pretenses."

"Red Lake County has voted to issue $10,000 of ten-year, six percent bonds, for organization purposes. They will be issued in denominations of $500 each."

Heating fuels will cost more in the region this winter
•Natural gas, fuel oil, propano all cost more than last year
Why the increase?
What are you waiting for?

NOW is the time to switch to electric heat.

You've likely read and heard about rising propane prices. Fuel oil and natural gas prices have also increased. And these prices may be headed higher yet. Consider this: If you heat your home with propane, fuel oil, or natural gas, you can expect to pay $200-$300 more to heat your home this heating season, compared to last winter.

Why? Low inventories and frigid cold weather mean sharp price increases. And it's difficult to predict what will happen next week, next month ... or next year.

THE GOOD NEWS. Meanwhile, electric rates remain stable. In fact, your electric cooperative's off peak heating rate is 2.7¢ per kilowatt hour. Electricity is made right here in our region with homegrown coal. So your electric rates are not affected by markets, weather, and international relations. More good news: Electricity is the safest, cleanest, most reliable choice for home heating.

DON'T WAIT. Call your energy experts at 253-2100, or 1-800-245-6068 (MN only) to get the scoop on electric heat.

Tobacco sales ordinance has penalties for sale to minors

Tuesday night Thief River Falls City Council adopted a new ordinance pertaining to the sale of tobacco to any person under the age of 18. The new ordinance is substantially longer, more detailed and similar in detail to that proposed at the state level.

The biggest difference, according to the City Attorney, Paul Ihle, is that it invokes civil penalties as well as criminal penalties. It also exempts individuals working with police to determine whether a store would sell tobacco products to underage customers.

Administrative civil penalties can consist of a $100 fine on the first violation, $250 on the second violation within 24 months and $500 for a third violation within 24 months. The license may also be suspended. As a criminal penalty, the sale of tobacco products to an individual under the age of 18 is considered a petty misdemeanor.

The change in the ordinance was partly in response to an experiment by Marshall County Central students. In that experiment, 14 of 15 stores in Thief River Falls tested sold cigarettes to the minors. That incident resulted in a number of meetings with local business representatives. Three representatives helped draft the new ordinance with the city.

Paul Nelson, CEO of Hartz Inc. in Thief River Falls, said all of the tobacco vending license holders were in support of the new ordinance. In addition they have implemented a new training program to address the sale of tobacco products to minors. But the ordinance also requires that every licensee have a training program for employees.

The ordinance defines tobacco as any, not limited to cigarettes, cigars, bagged, canned or packaged tobacco product.

Of particular concern to many people prior to the adoption of the ordinance was vending machines. The ordinance prohibits the sale or dispensing of any tobacco product through the use of a vending machine, unless the vending machine is electronically activated for each transaction by the license holder or employee.

The ordinance holds license holders and employees accountable for selling tobacco products to individuals under the age of 18.

The council also adopted an ordinance designating park closing hour of 11 p.m. In the past, the parks have been closed at 10 p.m. The change in the ordinance was designed to address problems related to signage and the curfew, which for youth under 16 years of age, is 11 p.m.

The 1997 Street and Sidewalk Improvement project was approved and the council called for plans and specifications to be prepared. Items in the proposed plan were deleted before approved. Those deletions were approved because Ron Lindberg, public works director, heard objections by property owners at the public hearing on February 10, and received written objections. Deletions included bituminous resurfacing of Oriole Avenue and Kendall Avenue, and bituminous resurfacing of Columbia Avenue and Riverside Avenue because of potential conflicts with the construction of the pedestrian bridge at Hartz Park.

In other business the council authorized advertisement for a volunteer firefighter, approved a salary progression for Dean Winskowski, patrol officer, approved a progression raise for Mike Puetz, patrol officer, declared a 1971 truck in the park department as surplus property, approved a progression raise for Madelyn Vigen, park and rec director, approved a progression raise for Mark Bieganek, public works employee, approved a progression raise for Ron Lindberg, public works director, and accepted the quote of Krider Equipment Company for a trencher.

Dutch elm disease claimed 81 trees in 1996, an increase from 62 the previous year, but John Johnson, city forester, said the city can expect to see more of the same in the future.

In his annual report to the Thief River Falls City Council, Johnson said 1996 started out in a fairly routine fashion regarding community forestry, but the weather and other events provided challenges.

Winter tree trimming operations began in December of 1995 on Knight Avenue and was suspended in February due to large snow banks along the boulevard; the snow bank extended five to eight feet from the curb into the street. This didn't allow the city crews to reach the entire tree for proper pruning. Trimming operations resumed in March for a few more weeks. City crews also pruned the newly planted and small trees on Main Avenue, Third Street, and the downtown parking lots. Pruning for vision obstructions at various locations throughout the city were also accomplished. Approximately 220 trees were pruned.

The 1996 Arbor Day Ceremony was held on May 3 at Floyd B. Olson Park. Thief River Falls was chosen as the DNR Region 1 Host City. The chairman of the Minnesota Shade Tree Advisory Committee presented the mayor with the Tree City USA and Arbor Day Host City plaque. In addition to the regular Arbor Day activities, the City Centennial committee recognized honorees that have contributed to the natural environment of the city.

During 1996, Dutch Elm Disease claimed 81 trees, 35 on public property and 46 on private property. In 1995, the city removed 24 trees from public property, and 38 trees from private property were removed.

In response to a question from the council, Johnson agreed that the tough winter conditions could have contributed to the loss by weakening the trees.

Johnson noted that the highest loss from Dutch Elm Disease in Thief River Falls was recorded in 1989 when 344 trees were removed. When Dutch Elm Disease has run its course through the community, Johnson said only about 20 per cent of the Dutch Elm forest will have survived.

Twenty-three other city trees were removed during the year for various reasons. Harles Tree Service of Fergus Falls removed 58 stumps and two hedges at a cost of $1,739. Three private property trees affected by Dutch Elm Disease were removed by the city's contractor, Midwest Tree Service of Wadena, at a cost of $985.48. This cost will be reimbursed through the special assessment process.

While some trees were coming down, others were being planted. Thirty-three trees were planted on city property in 1996. Sixty-one Centennial trees were planted by

Beaudoin to become bone marrow donor for teen with cancer

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Nearly four years after he was tested to be a possible donor match for a little Thief River Falls girl, Mike Beaudoin will be the donor to help a teenage boy who needs a bone marrow transplant.

A Thief River Falls resident for seven years, Beaudoin, 32, has lived in Grafton, ND, for the past year with his wife and two daughters, ages nine and 13. He manages the Grafton Square convenience store owned by Mike Barry of Thief River Falls.

Responds To Local Plea

It was June 21, 1993 when Mike and his wife Kristine responded to a plea locally to help find a donor match for Julia Baron, the two and one-half year old daughter of Jim and Sharon Baron, who was battling leukemia. They were among 259 people who registered at Franklin middle school and had their blood drawn by United Blood Services for testing.

None of the local registrants proved to have the match needed, but nearly all agreed to be placed on the National Registry of Donors which has now grown to include about 2.5 million people. Beaudoin was one who agreed to remain on the list—a computer registry which allows transplant clinics to identify potential donors who match four "markers" that indicate a likely close match.

Mike was notified by the American Red Cross in January that he might be a match for the teenager who has non-Hodgkins lymphoma. He went to a Grand Forks, ND, hospital on January 29 for some extra blood work to test for infections and on February 13 was flown to the Twin Cities for a physical examination and additional blood testing. It appears that he is the closest matching donor on the list.

There were some of the facts presented to shareholders of Hartz Foods, Inc., of Thief River Falls at the annual meeting Tuesday and Wednesday in Thief River Falls.

Directors Elected

At the annual business meeting Warren Hanestad, Thief River Falls and Tom Lucca, International Falls were reelected to the board and Mike Wiebolt, Breezy Point, was elected to succeed Rick Noreen, Portland, ND, who did not seek reelection.

Other members of the board are Mike Sande, Sheyenne, ND; Robert Johanning, Plummer; Lynette Jelle, Grygla; Paul Nelson, Thief River Falls; Robert Olson, Thief River Falls; Dale Brown, Munich, ND; and Ben Langerud, Hoople, ND. Nelson is chairman of the board as well as president and chief executive officer. Hanestad is secretary.

"In a good news-bad news scenario, the good news is that we lost a lot less money in 1996 than we did in 1995, but the bad news is that we still lost money," notes CEO Paul Nelson of the locally headquartered wholesale food distributor.

Reasons For Optimism

Despite the net loss of $434,197, Nelson continues optimistic about the future of the cooperative which is owned by its member stores.

"There are a lot of positives that provide reason to be optimistic and even enthusiastic," Nelson said.

"In the past couple of years we have chosen to put a great deal of money into a number of projects to update and upgrade the operation and get it to a sustainable situation," he said. "These major expenditures are now behind us and we should not have to face such an accumulation of updates again."

Vehicle Fleet Updated

Truck fleet update was one of the specifics mentioned by Nelson, who pointed out that in February and March the company will gain ownership on the first six of the new White/Volvo truck tractors purchased new three years ago. In December Hartz Truck Line will gain ownership on an additional two new tractors. During the three years the company has expanded its fleet from nine tractor-trailers to 17. In previous years the company had purchased used equipment.

During the past year the company also purchased four new vehicles for its retail sales force and a truck for local deliveries, completed large roofing projects on the office and warehouse, acquired an additional seven lots on the block west of the warehouse, and modernized the warehouse with re-lighting and modern racking.

In total over the past three years the company has spent in excess of a million dollars in capital expenditures. As truck tractors ownership increases, lease payments on new units will decrease. Savings will also accrue in the future in the Post Employment Benefit Obligation (health insurance cost share for early retirement under the rule of 75) and in the pension plan which is no longer open to new entries and is not expected to be reopened.

With the acquisition of the seven lots to which the company will take title on June 1, only four lots and two houses remain in other ownership on the block west of the warehouse. Future plans are to acquire these properties as they become available and convert the entire area to parking for truck trailers operated by both Hartz Foods and Hartz Truck Line.

Territory, Accounts Grow

During fiscal 1996 Hartz Foods expanded its territory west to the Montana border and east to Duluth, adding a net of 67 accounts and 15 new members. The company took advantage of several changes in the food business where it could profitably add services which other suppliers chose to discontinue.

Nelson said he is also encouraged by results for the first third of fiscal 1997 which show sales up by 7.5 percent over last year and gross profit up by 10.9 percent during that period.

From an accounting standpoint, the company was able to reduce its patronage equity obligation to $3.5 million by offering patrons an option to voluntarily claim losses on their personal taxes for equity which will not be paid. Over the past two years, exercise of this elective option reduced patronage equity by nearly $1.25 million.

The company was unable to include the tax benefit from its current year loss on its statement of operations as it has in past years, Nelson said, due to accounting rules that preclude use of these benefits in the case of companies which have had consecutive years of losses. The company's balance sheet indicates a deferred tax asset of $327,313 earned in the year ending Sept. 18, 1996. This number is not included on the statement of operations as it has been in past years.

Sales of the company in fiscal 1996 were $34,945,922 or an increase of $2,142,320 (6.53%) from 1995 sales of $32,803,602. Gross profit of $4,149,963 was up $769,020 (22.75%) from the 1995 gross profit of $3,380,943.

Operating expenses climbed $166,128 (3.66%) from $4,512,580 in 1995 to $4,708,708 in 1996. Operating loss was decreased from $1,161,637 to $558,745, a reduction of $602,892 (-51.90%) during the same period. Other income dropped $18,129 (-27.04%) from $177,977 in 1995 to $129,848 in 1996. Net loss was decreased to $434,197 in 1996 from $1,096,937 in 1995, a reduction of $662,740 (-60.42%).

Hartz Truck Line alone showed a net income of $61,759 in 1996 after a loss of $15,526 in 1995. Sales increased from $1,577,254 in 1995 to $2,113,281 in 1996 with expenses up from $1,096,937 to $2,041,909.

Beaudoin to become bone marrow donor

The potential recipient will undergo treatments to destroy his bone marrow in preparation to receive the replacement marrow supplied by Beaudoin. No date has been set for the donation and transplant to take place, and such date would not be publicly announced to protect confidentiality of donor and recipient.

Red Cross Handles Donation

Cindy Hufkes of the American Red Cross donor center in the Twin Cities said that there are over 100 donor centers which contact potential donors and conduct the white cell typing for six antigens to determine the best possible match. She said there are individual characteristics which can make bone marrow incompatible even when the match appears to be nearly perfect. The center also collects the bone marrow and sends it to the transplant center.

Beaudoin said he was surprised when he received the call in early January because so few matches are found on the donor list. Further testing has indicated he matches the recipient on all six antigens—the best chance for a successful transplant.

Two Liters Of Marrow

When the time comes to make the donation, Mike will fly to Minneapolis where two liters of bone marrow will be extracted in an outpatient procedure. He will have donated two units of blood prior to that time which he will receive during the surgery. He expects to return home the day following the donation.

Beaudoin said he didn't hesitate to be a marrow donor. "It's a replaceable commodity," he said, "and a relatively safe procedure. I don't know how difficult it is going to be, but I'm sure it is nothing compared to what the recipient has to go through."

"We Take Life For Granted..."

"We take life for granted, and if anyone has the opportunity to do something like this I think they should do it. If someone in my family needed this kind of help, I'd like to think there would be people willing to do what I'm going to do."

Persons interested in becoming a part of the National Registry of Donors may contact the American Red Cross center in Minneapolis toll-free at 1-800-874-1365 for more information.

Barons Meet Julia's Donor

Following the potential donor registration at Franklin school in June of 1993, Julia Baron received a marrow transplant in August. It was not successful, however, and Julia died in June of 1994 at three and a half years of age.

Under the donor program, the identities of donor and recipient are kept confidential from each other for at least a year after the donation has taken place. If both donor and recipient or their families agree to a contact after a year, each is provided with the other's name and location.

Jim and Sharon Baron and Julia's donor agreed to establish contact and they did so in 1994. This past summer they met for the first time. The donor, Dan Wood, was from Missouri and he stopped in Thief River Falls when coming through Minnesota. They spent some time together at the Barons' lake cabin.

"Meeting the donor worked out well for us," Sharon Baron said. "We stay in contact."

She was also pleased to learn that someone who had been tested as a possible donor for her child was able to be a matching donor for someone else. "I think its wonderful that he is doing this," she said.

Among the changes made for 1997 is the addition of selected hardware items which can be carried by Hartz Foods stores and will be delivered by Hartz trucks along with regular grocery deliveries. The service is expected to be especially beneficial to stores in smaller communities which do not have hardware stores and customers would have to travel long distances to acquire the items to be made available. The hardware booth was among the most active during the food and product show conducted Wednesday, February 13.

city residents during Arbor Week. Nine trees were given to Arbor Day Coloring Contest winners.

The residential brush pick-up service has grown from one-half day per week two years ago to one and one-half days per week now. The service is provided for residents who prune their trees, shrubs, and hedges themselves. Using the Sanitation Department pick-up schedule, brush is picked up on one side of the city one week and the other side the next. This schedule continues to alternate each week from May through mid-October. The city is picking up approximately 35 cubic yards or five to seven ton of material each week. If this material was in the regular refuse stream annual disposal costs would average $8,000.

The council accepted the annual report. A letter of thanks will be sent to the local VFW for its contribution to the purchase of pruning and tree maintenance equipment.

Sheriff Moe submits $173,099 bill for winter disaster

Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe has submitted a request for $173,099 to the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) following a winter disaster declaration for this region.

Sheriff Moe said the requests included estimates from all of the cities and townships in the county, Goodridge School District and Pennington county. He said the biggest loss was reported by Thief River Falls and Pennington County.

The request for assistance as a result of snow removal is also only for the period between January 3 and February 10.

Sheriff Moe said if the request receives final approval, FEMA will pay for 75 per cent of the estimate, and the state 15 per cent. Area agencies submitting the requests are responsible for 10 per cent of the estimate.

On January 16, a severe winter weather disaster declaration was declared for the following counties: Becker, Big Stone, Blue Earth, Brown, Chippewa, Clay, Clearwater, Cottonwood, Douglas, Faribault, Grant, Jackson, Kandiyohi, Kittson, Lac Qui Parle, Lincoln, Lyon, Mahnomen, Marshall, Martin, Murray, Nicollet, Nobles, Norman, Otter Tail, Pennington, Pipestone, Polk, Pope, Red Lake, Redwood, Renville, Rock, Roseau, Stevens, Swift, Traverse, Watonwan, Wilkin, and Yellow Medicine.

Valley Home crowned its Valentine's Day King and Queen Friday, February 14. The home's resident council selected three candidates for each position and the residents and staff voted to select the winners. Crowned at the afternoon program were Bertha Schlenker, 84 and Jay Haroldson, 87. Both are fairly recent residents of the home, Bertha arriving in September of 1996 and Jay in January of last year. Mathcounts held at UMC February 21

Seventh and eighth grade students from northwestern Minnesota will participate in this year's Mathcounts on Friday, February 21, at the University of Minnesota, Crookston (UMC).

Mathcounts, a nationwide math program, is both a coaching program and a series of competitions at regional, state and national levels. Area students who made their school math team will compete against "mathletes" from other schools at UMC. The Crookston winners will advance to state competition in March.

The program in northwestern Minnesota is sponsored by the Lake Agassiz Chapter of the Minnesota Society of Professional Engineers, several local industries, consulting engineering firms and private individuals.

National sponsors estimate participation at eight million students nationwide. The winning teams from each state will receive trips to Washington, D.C., for the national finals in May.

Coordinators for this year's Mathcounts are William Peterson, professor of mathematics at UMC and Greg Gilbertson, Minnesota Department of Transportation, Bemidji.

"By sponsoring the Mathcounts program, the engineers hope to address the importance of developing good skills among pre-college students," said Peterson.

Disability accommodations will be provided upon request. Please call 281-8261.

The Heritage Center of Thief River Falls celebrates 10th anniversary in February

In honor of the Heritage Center's 10th anniversary this month there will be numerous activities going on to celebrate this special event. February will not be the only month of activities, as there will be celebrations throughout the year.

On Monday, February 24 an open house will be held at the Heritage Center from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. with a short program at 1:30 p.m. Ray Hatland will be supplying the entertainment in the morning and Ray Berg will be in the afternoon.

Refreshments throughout the day and door prizes awarded on the hour. You must be present to win.

Shannon Olson, director of the Heritage Center, will be setting up display booths throughout the Center that will explain all of the activities the Heritage Center has to offer to the area's seniors. "The open house is to show how far we've come over the past ten years," stated Shannon.

There will be a spaghetti dinner served at 11:45 a.m., call early for reservations. Suggested donation for the meal is $4.25 per person.

On Tuesday, February 25, the Center will hold its anniversary banquet. A swiss steak dinner will begin at 5:30 p.m., make your reservations early, as there are only 130 seats available and filling fast. No walk-ins will be accepted. Cost is $5 per person. Honor students from Lincoln High School will be serving the evenings meal.

A program will immediately follow the dinner with Mayor Bob Reeves and Deanna Patenaude, director of RSVP, speaking. Master of Ceremonies for the evening will be Ray Johnson, president of the Heritage Center. There will be door prizes with two one-year memberships to be given away.

The Heritage Choir will sing under the direction of Olga Engevik, accompanied by Verna Christiansen. "The evening will be a real pleasure for the seniors. It's their celebration for they've achieved," commented Shannon Olson.

The evening is also part of the Center's annual membership drive. Active membership is $10 donation per year. Dues help the Center keep functioning. The money goes towards all of the activities that the seniors do and also the upkeep of the Center.

Shannon added that the Heritage Center really is a community place. Students from Lincoln High School help with meals and other activities to earn their hours needed to be in the honors program. The Center and the students help each other at the same time.

The Center is also used by the community for a meeting place. The city uses it for council meetings and the public may rent out the Center for events such as anniversary and birthday parties.

Along with the February anniversary activities, there will also be some fun things coming up in March. The Center will be celebrating "music in our schools month" and "poetry month" during March along with St. Patrick's Day. They will be having a pancake breakfast fund-raiser in conjunction with "national pancake month". At the end of the month they will be having an Easter egg decorating day in honor of Easter.

There are many activities for seniors to be involved in at the Heritage Center. The open house will be the perfect opportunity for any senior who has never been to the Center but would like to check it out and see what it has to offer. The open house is open to the public, and everyone is encouraged to attend and see how far the Heritage Center has come in the past 10 years.

These three seniors made it to the final round of "Hot Potatoe" at the Heritage Center's Valentine's party on held last Friday. This version of hot potatoe used boxes of Valentine's candy instead of potatoes and the winner had to give his or her prize away to someone else and say 'Happy Valentine's Day!"

Seniors at the Heritage Center's Valentine's party participated in a dice game. Over 50 seniors attended the party, which is far more than the normal 20 that usually show up for holiday parties. The large crowd is probably due to this year being their 10th anniversary. The large crowd was a wonderful suprise to Shannon Olson, director of the Heritage Center.

The Hule family is one of the five pieces on display at the "New Roots: Families who came to Minnesota" art display. The display can be seen at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls during school hours. It is located near the theater entrance in the college.

Art exhibit on display at Northland Community and Technical College

"New Roots: Families Who Came to Minnesota", a touring exhibit on loan from the Minnesota Historical Society, is now on display at Northland Community and technical College in Thief River Falls. This exhibit celebrates the first generations of five families who planted their roots in Minnesota land.

Mike Trudeau, Northland Art Department Director, invites the public to visit this historic display. Trudeau explained that Northland Community and Technical College makes an effort to recognize various ethnic groups through presentations such as this and other events sponsored throughout the academic year.

The exhibit stories are as varied as the families that include the Curries of Currie, the Lyghts of Lutsen, the Rangels of St. Paul, the Kettles of White Earth and the Huies of Duluth. From as far away as China, these families embraced their new homestate and became established business and social leaders in their adopted communities. Their pioneering efforts are familiar testimonies that recall the history of those who built Minnesota.

The exhibit consists of book-like panel displays of first generation family portraits, photographs and snapshots that are windows to life at home and in their communities. Complementing the photographic images are artistic reproductions and graphic art that illuminate the ethnicity and culture of the families. The exhibit text and photograph captions include excerpts from personal family histories and relevant topics of general Minnesota and United State history.

The exhibit is located in the NCTC theater lobby during regular school hours and will continue until February 28.

ON THE OTHER HAND

For those of you out there who take advantage of your friendships or don't think much of them, let me tell you something. You can have the best health, eat in the best possible ways, and exercise to Mars and back, but you won't be completely healthy unless you have friends. I am living proof of that.

Growing up among friends is a key to survival. Some may disagree, but take away your friends, and who can you turn to? You can't always tell your parents everything. There are just some things that you can only tell your best friend. Now, those of you reading this probably wonder where I get this idea.

Before I moved to Thief River Falls, my family lived in a town about forty-five minutes away from the cities. The town's name will remain unsaid. I was the butt of every joke, the victim of racist remarks, the victim of many kids anger and violence, and I didn't have any friends. It made my life miserable.

There were, of course, those that would be my friend for about a day because they wanted that new pencil or the candy that I had. It hurts when you want to be part of the joke, even if it is about you, and you can't because you're a different race. The kids would always tell me to "shut up" if I started laughing at something.

When I was in sixth grade, my dad got a new job here in Thief River Falls. I wasn't too thrilled at first, but then I realized that maybe I was getting a new chance at making friends.

When I moved to Thief River, I did make many friends—not the kind that only pretended to be my friend. These were the real thing. Now I can't think of my life without at least the three great friends I have today. Nik, Eeva, and Angeline have helped to pull me through many bad times and changes. Without them, I would be lost. Even though my life may be in a mess, I have to admit that it would be an even bigger mess without sympathy from Eeva, Nik's wacky sense of humor, and Angeline's advice.

The only bad thing is that those thirty-six kids at my old school have left a big scar in my life. It's very hard to get over something like that. I don't know if I ever will. Being the only victim of racism for six years in a school leaves a person wondering and confused for a long time. Now, though I have many friends and people who would stand up for me, I still wonder sometimes when I hear two people talking. In other words, I'm still a bit insecure and paranoid.

It makes life miserable to keep wondering if Bobby Sue is only pretending to like me or if Janie really did keep my secret. Most of the time, I don't have to worry about that here. I'm not one to hold grudges unless I'm given a very good reason. So I can't exactly say I hate the kids at my old school. I'm not saying it was right for them either. I'm just saying that I don't hate them. I don't understand why they did it, and probably never will, but it's in the past now.

If you are fighting with your friends, just remember that though you may have other friends, you and that friend share something that maybe you don't share with your other friends. You need that friend's support, but they need yours as well.

Although it doesn't really tie in with my article, I would still like to send my deepest sorrows to the friends and family of Crookston's Brock Olson. He was a wonderful basketball player, and I know he will be missed by those who knew and loved him.

ON MY MIND

The Games Kids Play

When it's time to play games, we don't have to "let" our six-year-old son win. He usually wins without any orchestration from us.

It's been that way since the beginning of "board" game playing. We started with the Memory game, turning the playing pieces face down on the table, the object being to find the most matches.

I use a methodical, practical approach to turning the tiles. He plays somewhat haphazardly, revealing tiles indiscriminately. And, amazingly he remembers where the objects are, while I struggle to recall where I saw not only the apple tile, but also what I was going to fix for supper.

So Memory isn't my forte', we moved on to Hi Ho! Cherry O. As he's spinning threes and fours to clean off his cherry tree, I'm repeatedly spilling my bucket or losing my hard-picked cherries to the dog.

When I got tired of losing game after game I purchased Candy Land. I thought it would be fun and help my son learn his colors. Someone should have questioned my sanity. The problem is that Candy Land doesn't seem to have an end, although I changed the rules to give it an end.

Ending the game is usually not a problem when I play with my son. We're supposed to move our colored gingerbread men around the board to get to the castle by following the directions of the colored cards. Players can move along quickly by drawing a picture card such as Gramma Nut, Goocy Gumdrops or Queen Frostine.

Of course, I don't know what the picture cards look like because I don't draw any. He picks a card off the pile and immediately gets Queen Frostine. Before I get around the first bend, he's jumped to the end.

I've even tried shuffling and reshuffling the cards before the next game and he STILL draws all the picture cards and moves swiftly to the end.

Next we graduated to Monopoly Junior. I still rarely have a chance at winning and it hinges on the "Chance" cards. In Monopoly Junior a player can receive a free ticket booth (the equivalent of a Monopoly St. property) when landing on a "Chance" card space.

As luck has it, my son generally garners the majority of free ticket booths including the pricey and coveted Roller Coaster and Loop the Loop (equal to Boardwalk and Park Place on the adult version).

I, on the other hand, have to pay cash for my booths and at the same time pay my son exorbitant fees when landing on his property. Soon, I'm out of money and I've lost the game. Again.

Thinking that a six-year-old might just be clever enough to stack the deck, I shuffle and reshuffle the "Chance" cards. It's no use because I still hand my money over to my child and the game is over.

I haven't given up on Monopoly Junior completely. On a rare day, I become the victor. But we did add Clue Junior to our game repertoire. In this game we have to discover what animal stole which toy and is hiding in the clubhouse. Players can move more quickly in solving the mystery by rolling a skateboard or magnifying glass on the dice. I don't have to belabor the point. I generally don't unearth the mystery. I leave that up to my son.

In fact, the time I tried to guess, I made a mistake, guessed incorrectly and lost the game.

Lately I've been roaming the toy aisles seeking a game I could actually win. There's a vast selection of games, but I should stick to what I do best...Go Fish!

Tech Prep grants encourage educational innovation

Nine grants totaling $700,000 to encourage educational innovation and reform have been awarded by the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU) and the Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning through their Tech Prep program.

One of the programs to receive a grant was Pine to Prairie Tech Prep, which serves 11 northwestern Minnesota school districts and Northwest Technical College. It received $90,107.

The grants will support such initiatives as new assessment methods for learners, creative uses of labor market information, partnerships with businesses and community organizations and preparation of youth for well-paying employment in technical careers (see attached list).

The awards, ranging from $60,390 to $91,500, have been presented to Tech Prep programs at local school districts, technical colleges and consolidated community and technical colleges around the state.

The awards are the result of federal and state School To Work legislation that broadens the focus of educational reform across the United States. In 1990, the U.S. Congress enacted the Carl D. Perkins Vocational and Applied Technology Act to strengthen vocational education. The legislation was intended to increase the technical skills of the workforce, integrate academic and occupational education and prepare all learners for employment in an increasingly global, technologically advanced and competitive marketplace.

The legislation created the Tech Prep program (Title III of the Perkins Act) and earmarked funds for all of the states. Minnesota receives approximately $1.7 million dollars annually for this effort.

Besides encouraging educational innovation, Tech Prep provides youth with employment and educational options other than immediate employment after high school or a four-year baccalaureate degree. Students participate in the program during their last two years of high school and the first two years of college (a "2+2" program), earning an associate of applied science degree. Built on tested curricula of applied academics in math, science and technology, the program is intended to provide students with skills for well-paying jobs in technical fields.

In Minnesota, the program is administered jointly by MnSCU and the Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning. Currently, the program provides funds to 27 consortia of technical colleges and consolidated technical and community colleges and local school districts in the state to develop articulation agreements, design curriculum, provide teachers and counselors with training and serve special populations.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

...Put Up or Shut Up

So, we're going to have the depot renovated into city offices after all. The Northern Watch stated that "several local citizens waged a last minute effort to force the issue to a vote of the citizens of Thief River Falls," but evidently the attempt failed.

I, for one, wish those local citizens had been successful. I would feel a lot better about seeing $1,286,600 spent turning the lovely old depot into city offices if I knew that the majority of residents were in favor of such an act, whether such a vote would have been "legal" or not. I wish I had been asked to sign their petition, but I wasn't.

According to The Watch, city attorney Paul Ihle expressed surprise at the controversy" at the present time, since "it has been discussed for the past two years. Frankly, it's been talked to death and anyone who hadn't heard about it by now must have had his head under his bed. Could be it was discussed so much that we turned our ears off when we heard about it.

But it seems to me that whatever I heard about the renovation always seemed to be one-sided in favor of moving the city offices. Maybe every time to negative aspects were discussed I had my head under my bed, but all I can remember hearing was how wonderful things would be when the city offices moved to the depot. I still feel like the old train engine was moved without any warning in a kind of sneaky manner and, from what I've heard, so do many other people.

The time to speak up, however, has long gone. It appears that our little town has a bad record of procrastination. No one ever seems to "put their two cents worth" in until after the fact. Why didn't we bombard our council members with our feelings about the renovation? That's what we should have done – and we should have done it long before last Tuesday's meeting. We should have written many letters to the local newspaper telling others how we felt – we should have phoned in to the local radio talk show when the mayor was on telling us how wonderful the renovation was going to be and we should have asked him some pointed questions that he couldn't have slipped out from under – we should have called our council members or stopped them on the street to tell them how we felt – we should have gone to council meetings and asked more questions and made our feelings known.

If we didn't do at least one of those things, we should shut up, because if we didn't do anything, we don't have a right to complain about how things turned out.

However, it is time to move along. The council has voted, with or without input from constituents (whether or not the councilpersons heeded the advice of their constituents is another column, isn't it?), and it looks like the renovation will be going ahead whether we like it or not.

But one thing we can do is make sure something like this never happens again. When the next election rolls around, we can make our feelings known loud and clear. Those of you who feel capable, run for a city office yourself. Those of you who feel you got the wrong end of the stick, do some poking of your own when you mark that ballot and vote for whomever you think will represent you and this city best. Don't just sit back and let others do the work for you – get out and holler and make sure you get heard. Then, if things go wrong at least you'll have the right to complain to your heart's content.

Janelle and Jason Fick received a check from Marge Steinhauer (far right) treasurer of AAL and Jeanette Reierson (far lerft) district representative. They received the check for medical expenses for their daughter, Elizabeth Brooke, who had open heart surgery.

Fick family receives check from AAL

On December 14, 1996 a pancake supper benefit was held at the Holt Nazareth Church for Elizabeth Brooke, infant daughter of Janelle and Jason Fick. She had open heart surgery in Fargo, ND.

Marge Steinhauer, treasurer of AAL, along with Jeanette Reierson, district representative, presented the family with matching funds from AAL. $3,122 was raised with half of that coming from Branches #9591 from Zion in Thief River Falls, #6397 from Zion in Warren, and #7983 from Nazareth in Holt.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

No-Lose Games For Toddlers

The following games are a sure winner with your toddlers, because there are no losers!

No-Chair Musical Chairs

Play lively music for your children as they dance around the room. When you stop the music, have your children sit down on the floor. Continue playing as long as interest lasts!

Wiggle Worm

Have your children spread out in a clear open area. As you recite the following poem, have your children pretend to be wiggle worms. Encourage them to show you how a wiggle worm moves from one place to the next.

One day while I was out playing,
I met a tiny worm.
Instead of going straight,
He squirmed and squirmed and squirmed.

Here, now, let me show you
How he got around.
He wiggled, wiggled, wiggled
All across the ground.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need a pie pan, sequins, colored foil, paper, ribbon, yarn and water.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse through its new selection of children's books including the following:

McCue, Dick. Baby Elephant's Bedtime. Ellie, the baby elephant, goes through her nighttime ritual of preparing for bed. Small preschoolers will find this board book a gentle but reassuring book and parents will find it a handy one as a bedtime story.

Waber, Bernard. A Lion Named Shirley Williamson. The other lions in the zoo are so envious of another lion's name (Shirley Williamson), that the zookeepers change her name. Shirley will have none of this and escapes to prove her point. A hilarious book sure to keep preschoolers and young school age children in stitches.

VIDEO VARIETY

Barney's Musical Adventure. With the use of imagination, TV's favorite purple dinosaur takes his child friends on a fun-filled adventure to a real castle. This video is filled with fun songs that your children are sure to enjoy singing, including "Looby Loo," "Silly Sounds," "If I Had One Wish," "Old King Cole" and more.

MAGAZINE MENTION

Coyotes once lived only in prairies and deserts of the western United States and in Mexico. Now we find them almost everywhere from forests to mountains to golf courses to farms and even in some U.S. cities. Why? Find out in the February issue of National Geographic World.

Remember that the library has preschool storytimes every Wednesday from 11:15 to 11:45 a.m. These sessions are co-sponsored by the Thief River Falls ECFE and Learning Readiness. Also remember to check out the parenting corner by the children's room for new information and helpful hints for busy parents on books, reading and much more.

Say Something Positive

"How many times do I have to tell you not to . . ."

"Don't do that! You're going to spill!"

"Now look what you did!"

Sound familiar? Do you find yourself saying some of these negative statements?

As with most things in life, we have two choices. We can choose to be positive and build up, or we can be negative and tear down. Telling children over and over that they can't makes them believe that they can't. We need to break the pattern. We can accentuate the positive. Find something good to say, no matter how hard.

Instead of "Don't spill you milk" say "Hold your glass with two hands." Instead of "Don't run in the house" say "Please walk in the house." Remember to compliment your child as soon as he/she does what you have asked him/her to do. Compliments will go a long way in making you and your child feel good. Young children naturally want to please their parents. Once they hear the positive then they will know what to do to gain your approval.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Tell your child what you want him/her to do. Be specific. Words like "behave" and "be good" may be too vague and they may not know what you mean. "Walk slowly" or "hold my hand" are easier for your child to understand.

Sparby announces new CRP program

Minnesota Farm Service Agency Executive Director Wally Sparby has announced that the Prairie Pothole Region of the upper Great Plains Region will be added to the national conservation priority areas for the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP).

Cropland located within a conservation priority area is most likely eligible to be enrolled in CRP, however, only those acres that provide significant environmental benefit will be accepted.

Conservation priority area designations are based on a judgement that retiring agricultural lands in these specific areas offers the potential for significant water quality or wildlife habitat benefits. Enrolling these lands will help achieve objectives of other federal or state environmental laws.

Benefits obtained from land enrolled in a conservation priority area include significant reductions of water pollutants, restoration of proper land drainage, improvement of soil and air quality, and enhanced wildlife habitats. Using CRP in these environmentally sensitive areas may also assist water quality managers in achieving pollution reduction goals.

Previously, the Long Island Sound, Chesapeake Bay, and Great Lakes Regions were designated as national conservation priority areas. The next general sign-up will include the Prairie Pothole Region in the upper Great Plains.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Question: Although I changed my name through marriage several years ago, I just recently updated my Social Security card to show my "new" name. How long does it take for the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) to have my new name?

Answer: This is important for those filing electronic tax returns. You should allow at least four weeks to allow time for your change of name to get from Social Security to IRS and to have IRS enter the new information onto their records.

Notice to tax preparers: A major cause of tax return rejection or other difficulty is a failure to match the persons name with the Social Security Number (SSN) or date of birth.

Special care should be used in entering the names, numbers and dates of birth information on returns to avoid transpositions of data that will result in mismatches. It is particularly important to ensure that compound last names are entered correctly.

Do not routinely refer taxpayers to SSA if a return is rejected due to a mismatch of name, SSN, or age of the taxpayer or dependent. The tax preparer should print out a copy of the return and review the name, SSN and age entries with the taxpayer, carefully comparing each entry against records already available to the taxpayer, such as the SSN card, prior tax returns, or other records. Most mismatches can be resolved directly with the taxpayer, avoiding the inconvenience and delay of a referral. The SSN card is SSA's official verification of an individual's SSN. If a tax preparer needs proof of the SSN, but the individual has lost his or her card, refer the individual to SSA for a replacement card. Receipt of the card should take about two weeks.

Dear TRF Times,

Thank you for coming on line! I truly enjoy the fact I can now connect to my hometown newspaper from far off in Seoul, South Korea. I relish the thought of now being able to catch up much faster on events from home. I must admit though I can now handle my occasional homesickness better since your publication is so much more readily available. I still have my Mom renew my Times subscription yearly but it takes about two weeks to get here. I'll definitely use both means in the future to keep up to date on events back home. Anyway, thanks again for coming up "on line".

Take care and God Bless!

Together Forever

On February 8, 1997, at Immanuel Lutheran Church of Plummer at five in the evening a candle light marriage ceremony uniting Lorna Joan Huotari and Merle James Josmo was held. The church was over flowing with family and friends. Pastor Clarence Johnson was the officiating pastor. After a solo by the bride's daughter Cindy Nielson, the groom and his best man Noll Huotari (brides son) arrived.

The procession started with the Matron of Honor Kelly Waswick (daughter of the groom) wearing a beautiful burgundy dress and then the bride looking vivacious in her ivory suit embellished with pearls and with her son Bryce Huotari as her escort.

An inspiring wedding message was given by Pastor Johnson and the brides daughter DeeAnn Egeland sang two solos. A special song was sung by the grandchildren of the bride and groom Taylor Nielson, Brett Nielson, Jorey Egeland, Marshall-Josmo, Hannah Waswick and LeeAnn Waswick. Ushers were Chad Polorsen, nephew to the bride and John Josmo nephew to the groom, organist and friend Linda Olson.

Family members and friends in wishing the very best to Lorna and Merle. After a delicious wedding dinner at the Plummer hall the couple had a wedding dance at the American Legion in Plummer. Mr. and Mrs. Josmo left Monday for a two week honeymoon in Las Vegas, NV and touring the southwest. LETTERS

Dear TRF Times:

Thank you for coming on line! I truly enjoy the fact I can now connect to my hometown newspaper from far off in Seoul, South Korea. I relish the thought of now being able to catch up much faster on events from home. I must admit though I can now handle my occasional homesickness better since your publication is so much more readily available. I still have my Mom renew my Times subscription yearly but it takes about two weeks to get here. I'll definitely use both means in the future to keep up to date on events back home. Anyway, thanks again for coming up "on line".

Take care and God Bless!

Together Forever

On February 8, 1997, at Immanuel Lutheran Church of Plummer at five in the evening a candle light marriage ceremony uniting Lorna Joan Huotari and Merle James Jesme was held. The church was over flowing with family and friends. Pastor Clarence Johnson was the officiating pastor. After a solo by the bride's daughter Cindy Nielson, the groom and his best man Neil Huotari (brides son) arrived.

The procession started with the Matron of Honor Kelly Woswick (daughter of the groom) wearing a beautiful burgundy dress and then the bride looking vivacious in her ivory suit ambellished with pearls and with her son Bryce Huotari as her escort.

An inspiring wedding message was given by Pastor Johnson and the brides daughter DeeAnn Egeland sang two solo's. A special song was sung by the grandchildren of the bride and groom Taylor Nielson, Brett Nielson, Joey Egeland, Marshall Jesme, Hannah Woswick and LeeAnn Woswick. Ushers were Chad Peterson, nephew to the bride and John Jesme nephew to the groom, organist and friend Linda Olson.

Family members and friends in wishing the very best to Lorna and Merle. After a delicious wedding dinner at the Plummer hall the couple had a wedding dance at the American Legion in Plummer. Mr. and Mrs. Jesme left Monday for a two week honeymoon in Las Vegas, NV and touring the southwest. There are so many other people that played an instrumental part in the wedding and when the couple returns they will have a write up in this paper. May there life together be blessed.

Bunny DuChamp's daughter Cathy and son-in-law Kevin Samuelson of Sniles, ND, was in Plummer for the wedding of Larna Huotari and Merle Jesme. Cathy was in charge of the flowers for the wedding. Sunday, Cathy and Kevin was off for a few days of fun in Las Vegas, ND.

Funds available from Operation Round Up plan

Organizations involved in community projects and charities are encouraged to apply for funds from Operation Round Up, a program adopted by members of Red Lake Electric Cooperative who voluntarily "round up" their monthly electric bills to the next full dollar and pay the difference into the fund.

Nearly 3,300 customers of the cooperative are choosing to fund the program and enhance their communities. The funds are donated primarily to non-profit organizations to help fund their specific projects or programs.

Since the program began in 1993, Operation Round Up has granted $73,175 to community organizations and charities. The board of Red Lake Electric Trust makes the decisions on contribution recipients and amounts. Grants are made for betterment of the community within the service area boundaries of the cooperative.

Organizations wishing to apply for funds should contact the Red Lake Electric Cooperative office in Red Lake Falls at 253-2168 or 1-800-245-6068. A short application form must be completed and submitted along with an organization finance statement. The next semi-annual meeting to determine contributions will be held in March. Grant applications are due March 15.

NORTH STAR CROSS COUNTRY RACING
ORION

Mark McDonald of Grand Forks, crosses the finish line of the Iceman 100 Sunday. Conditions on Sunday were considerably better and finish times were two to five minutes faster in most cases. Bill Slominski of Valley City, ND, was the overall winner in the Pro 440.

If there wasn't so much snow already on the ground this scene would be rather picturesque. The snow that fell on Saturday, however, delayed the start of the Iceman 100. Conditions were difficult at best. Bill Slominski of Valley City, ND, was the winner in the Pro 440.

Snowmobile racers from area drawn to TRF for Iceman 100

Bill Slominski won the Pro 440 division of the River Road Casino Iceman 100 in Thief River Falls last weekend. Slominski, Valley City, ND, won with a final time of 1:34:50.

The race got off to a slow start on Saturday. Blowing snow delayed the start. Conditions on the first day were said to be difficult because of the fresh snow and flat light. Sunday, times were generally running faster — two to five minutes faster.

National Ass'n. of Wheat Growers pleased with new CRP rules

National Association of Wheat Growers has expressed approval of U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman's announcement that expiring Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) contracts will be replaced by new enrollments in March.

"We are very pleased that the Secretary intends to continue to fully utilize the CRP to protect environmentally sensitive lands," stated NAWG president Phil McLain of North Caroline. "We are hopeful the new program will attract wheat production areas that are the most vulnerable to erosion, or that provide high quality wildlife habitat, or impact water quality."

Concern was expressed, however, that USDA will not decide which enrollment offers will be accepted until late May or June.

"Field work for fall planting will have to be started long before producers will know whether their land will be going back into production, or whether it will remain or be established in permanent cover," McLain said. He believes these farmers will not have a fair chance to participate in the program.

"For that reason," he said, "an optional one-year extension of CRP contracts which expire this fall, and which have not already been extended, would enable a more orderly transition for growers going in or out of the program and maximize the benefits of already established cover."

McLain said the CRP is "a real plus for agriculture and the environment" and Congress must ensure that adequate funding is made available to serve the goals of the program.

"Scandinavian Hunting Team" collects seven record book caribou

Six local hunters make "once in a lifetime" trip to Canada's Northwest Territories

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

In what all participants described as "the trip of a lifetime," six Thief River Falls area hunters made a 1996 fall trip to the Northwest Territories in quest of trophy Central Canada Barren Ground Caribou. They met with success beyond their expectations as seven of the 10 caribou bulls they harvested earned placement in the Boone & Crockett record book.

Caribou are plentiful in the area and four of the six-member party had licenses and permits to take two of the animals.

Making the trip were Marty Johnson, his father Wayne Johnson, Leon Johnson, Richard Anderson, William Pederson and Terry Nelson. For obvious reasons the group termed itself the "Scandinavian Hunting Team" and had caps printed with the team's logo.

Recently the hunters received the official scores on the racks of antlers they collected. The antlers have to dry to allow for shrink before being officially measured.

Three of the racks made the "All Time" portion of the record book by scoring above 345 points. William Pederson checked in with the top two of those, respectively scoring 375 6/8 and 357 3/8 points. Richard Anderson had the other with a rack that scored 353 3/8.

Making the record book in the "Awards" category with over 330 points were Leon Johnson at 342 6/8 and 330 2/8 and Marty Johnson at 332 5/8 and 332 0/8.

Points are garnered in a wide variety of areas including tip-to-tip spread, greatest spread, inside spread of main beams, number of points on each antler excluding brow, number of points on each brow, length of main beam, length of brow palm or first point, length of bez or second point, length of rear point, length of second longest top point, length of longest top point, width of brow palm, width of top palm and circumference at the smallest of four different places on the main beam.

Five of the group members left Winnipeg, Manitoba, September 5 and flew to Yellowknife, capital of the Northwest Territories, with a stop enroute at Rankin Inlet. At Yellowknife they stayed at the Igloo Inn and spent four days visiting local tourist attractions, listed by the group as including Greg Robertson's taxidermy shop, Chamber of Commerce, museum, Yellowknife prison soapstone carving display, Wolverine Sporting Goods Store, a gold mine, the Northwest Company trading post and the local Elk's club.

On September 9 Terry Nelson joined the group after taking care of some prior commitments and the next day the six-member group flew approximately 150 miles northeast of Yellowknife to Jolly Lake, located 150 miles south of the Arctic Circle.

The hunt was arranged through Caribou Pass Outfitters and the Scandinavian team members were the only hunters in camp. In addition to caribou, the group hunted ptarmigan and fished for lake trout and grayling and saw several Arctic wolves, grizzly bears and marmots. Leon Johnson also shot two wolverines.

In a narrative written about the trip, Terry Nelson notes:

"I had been fishing 600 miles north of Winnipeg near Flin Flon, so I knew what the terrain was like. However, when we landed at Rankin Inlet, I was not prepared for the absence of trees and a landscape of more water than land.

"The plane we were on was walled off about midway and we were seated in the back while freight was carried in the front. The freight included everything needed for living as Rankin Inlet is accessible only by air."

Yellowknife is a city of about 19,000 people near the famous Great Slave Lake. The hunters left there in a twin engine Otter float plane to make the flight to their hunting camp.

The camp included a 16x20 wood-framed cook house covered with a blue plastic tarp, two sleeping buildings similar in construction to the cook house but much smaller, the hunters' quarters and a meat house. The latter were made of galvanized steel as protection against night intruders such as wolves, wolverines, arctic fox and grizzly bears. The steel had been brought in on the winter road, a trail bulldozed across the tundra after freeze-up.

Hunting method consisted primarily of traveling the lake's shoreline by boat until caribou were sighted, then to go ashore, check for possible trophy bulls and, if present, attempt a stalk to get within range of a trophy.

Nelson and Pederson hunted together the first day as the hunt included one guide to two hunters. By pre-arranged agreement, Nelson was entitled to the first attempt. He had only one tag and Pederson had two.

When the first potential trophy was approached within range on the first day of a four-day hunt, Nelson declined the shot, not being sure of the rack and deciding he would wait for something better. Pederson elected to use his first tag. The bull proved to be the best trophy of the hunt.

Temperatures reached into the 60s during the day and dropped to the mid 40s at night—as perfect as the hunters could have ordered it. By the third day, everyone had filled their tags but Nelson, who had seen 3,500 to 4,000 caribou and had passed up hundreds of animals, waiting for one that his guide said "sticks out from all the rest."

On the final day the number of animals declined substantially. In the afternoon Nelson settled for a nice bull that had crossed a small river and was going up a hill. As the bull tumbled down the small hill the guide exclaimed, "Jeez! That was a long shot!" It proved to be over 500 yards.

Having experienced the hunt, would the local hunters make the trip again? Several agree with Nelson. "It was the hunt of a lifetime," he said, "...but I hope I have several lifetimes."

City crime up 11 percent

Criminal activity increased by about 11 per cent during 1996 in Thief River Falls, according to the Thief River Falls Police Department Annual Report of Activities.

Police Chief Ken Froschheiser presented the annual report to the city council Tuesday, February 11.

Froschheiser said all categories show an increase over 1995. The total reports are up 80 or six per cent. Adult arrests are up 55 or 10.6 per cent and juvenile arrests are up to 92 or 40 per cent. The department's largest area of criminal calls were of assaults, forgery and counterfeit, drugs and narcotics, disorderly related, property offenses, theft and crimes against justice.

Froschheiser reminded the council that in the classification of crimes against family and criminal sexual conduct, the juvenile officer, police department investigator, and sheriff's deputies have worked on a large percentage of calls and incidents. He said they are very time consuming, stressful investigations. He also explained that the addition of the school liaison officers has brought the department more contacts which in turn have uncovered more offenses.

Crimes against the family and disorderly related calls showed significant increases. Reported incidents of crimes against the family increased from 12 to 33. Reported disorderly related incidents increased from 86 to 147. Criminal sexual conduct calls remained about the same at 20 reported calls per year. The number of recorded incidents dropped, however from 26 to 16.

Total criminal calls were up 347 or 22 per cent and represent a smaller percentage of all calls to the police department. Most calls are for some type of assistance.

Calls for assistance, which represent the service part of the department to the public, were up 15 per cent. During 1996 there were 9,482 calls for assistance. Those types of calls include accidents, lost persons or property, suicides, alarm responses, business checks and a large number of other calls.

Thief River Falls Mayor Robert Reeve noted that the number of snowmobile related calls were down from 76 to 35.

Froschheiser explained that the success in this area can be attributed to effective enforcement, educational efforts by the SnoDrifters and local businesses, training, and simply because there has been more snow and snowmobilers tend to stay out of town when there is more snow.

Traffic violations were down 23 per cent. He said he would attribute the decrease in traffic violations to the increase in criminal activity which consumed more time of officers. Parking tickets showed a slight decrease of about one per cent.

Mayor Reeve noted that there was an increase in calendar parking tickets.

Froschheiser explained that the total number of calendar parking tickets issued also include warning tickets. He said due to the heavy snow, there was an increased emphasis on calendar parking. A large number of calendar parking tickets issued were warnings, which serve as an educational tool.

The amount of fines collected by the city increased substantially over 1995, from $56,450 to $78,004. Two-thirds of those fine monies, or $45,605 this year, were paid to the city. The total amount of fines collected from parking tickets totaled $14,200.

The largest number of complaints reported were traffic complaints; although, an adult is more likely to be arrested for a liquor law violation. Traffic complaints consist of driving while intoxicated incidents, but total 51. A total of 116 arrests were made for liquor law violations. High numbers of complaints were recorded for property offenses and thefts as well. However, there were 24 arrests for property offenses and 21 for theft. Assault complaints were fourth down the list of complaints recorded, but the number of arrests (77) were second only to liquor law violations (116).

At least in part, the increase in juvenile crime can be attributed to the city's and police department's focus on juveniles or minors. For example, another juvenile officer was added to the department, there has been a weakening of tolerance for juvenile crime, and more programs have been developed for minors.

Liquor law violations remain significant among juvenile violations, however, this year more were arrested for property offenses. There were 52 arrests in 1995 for liquor law violations and 38 this year. There were 18 arrests for property offenses in 1995, but 40 in 1996.

The animal pound is operated by the city as well. The annual report states that the number of animals impounded was up about seven per cent. The number of complaints about animals were down to under four per cent. In 1996, 239 dogs were impounded, and 92 cats. A total of 172 animals were disposed of and 110 released to owners, and 32 given away.

The number of citations for allowing an animal to run at large or cruelty to animals or a violation which required a court appearance, remained the same as it has the last two years at 20.

During 1996 a total of $3,421 was collected in pound fees.

Herds of caribou such as this one were seen by a group of six hunters from the Thief River Falls area during a trip to the Northwest Territories last fall. Hunting with two hunters to a guide, the group filled its 10 tags and placed seven of the 10 in the Boone & Crockett record book—including three in the All-Time section with 345 or more points.

National Ass'n. of Wheat Growers pleased with new CRP rules

National Association of Wheat Growers has expressed approval of U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman's announcement that expiring Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) contracts will be replaced by new enrollments in March.

"We are very pleased that the Secretary intends to continue to fully utilize the CRP to protect environmentally sensitive lands," stated NAWG president Phil McLain of North Carolina. "We are hopeful the new program will attract wheat production areas that are the most vulnerable to erosion, or that provide high quality wildlife habitat, or impact water quality."

Concern was expressed, however, that USDA will not decide which enrollment offers will be accepted until late May or June.

"Field work for fall planting will have to be started long before producers will know whether their land will be going back into production, or whether it will remain or be established in permanent cover," McLain said. He believes these farmers will not have a fair chance to participate in the program.

"For that reason," he said, "an optional one-year extension of CRP contracts which expire this fall, and which have not already been extended, would enable a more orderly transition for growers going in or out of the program and maximize the benefits of already established cover."

McLain said the CRP is "a real plus for agriculture and the environment" and Congress must ensure that adequate funding is made available to serve the goals of the program.

"Scandinavian Hunting Team" collects seven record book caribou

Six local hunters make"once in a lifetime" trip to Canada's Northwest Territories

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

In what all participants described as "the trip of a lifetime," six Thief River Falls area hunters made a 1996 fall trip to the Northwest Territories in quest of trophy Central Canada Barren Ground Caribou. They met with success beyond their expectations as seven of the 10 caribou bulls they harvested earned placement in the Boone & Crockett record book.

Caribou are plentiful in the area and four of the six-member party had licenses and permits to take two of the animals.

Making the trip were Marty Johnson, his father Wayne Johnson, Leon Johnson, Richard Anderson, William Pederson and Terry Nelson. For obvious reasons the group termed itself the "Scandinavian Hunting Team" and had caps printed with the team's logo.

Recently the hunters received the official scores on the racks of antlers they collected. The antlers have to dry to allow for shrink before being officially measured.

Three of the racks made the "All Time" portion of the record book by scoring above 345 points. William Pederson checked in with the top two of those, respectively scoring 375 6/8 and 357 3/8 points. Richard Anderson had the other with a rack that scored 353 3/8.

Making the record book in the "Awards" category with over 330 points were Leon Johnson at 342 6/8 and 330 2/8 and Marty Johnson at 332 5/8 and 332 0/8.

Points are garnered in a wide variety of areas including tip to tip spread, greatest spread, inside spread of main beams, number of points on each antler excluding brow, number of points on each brow, length of main beam, length of brow palm or first point, length of bez or second point, length of rear point, length of second longest top point, length of longest top point, width of brow palm, width of top palm and circumference at the smallest of four different places on the main beam.

Assault complaints were fourth down the list of complaints recorded, but the number of arrests (77) were second only to liquor law violations (116).

At least in part, the increase in juvenile crime can be attributed to the city's and police department's focus on juveniles or minors. For example, another juvenile officer was added to the department, there has been a weakening of tolerance for juvenile crime, and more programs have been developed for minors.

Liquor law violations remain significant among juvenile violations, however, this year more were arrested for property offenses. There were 52 arrests in 1995 for liquor law violations and 38 this year. There were 18 arrests for property offenses in 1995, but 40 in 1996.

The animal pound is operated by the city as well. The annual report states that the number of animals impounded was up about seven per cent. The number of complaints about animals were down to under four per cent. In 1996, 239 dogs were impounded, and 92 cats. A total of 172 animals were disposed of and 110 released to owners, and 32 given away.

The number of citations for allowing an animal to run at large or cruelty to animals or a violation which required a court appearance, remained the same as it has the last two years at 20.

During 1996 a total of $3,421 was collected in pound fees.

National Ass'n. of Wheat Growers pleased with new CRP rules

National Association of Wheat Growers has expressed approval of U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman's announcement that expiring Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) contracts will be replaced by new enrollments in March.

"We are very pleased that the Secretary intends to continue to fully utilize the CRP to protect environmentally sensitive lands," stated NAWG president Phil McLain of North Carolina. "We are hopeful the new program will attract wheat production areas that are the most vulnerable to erosion, or that provide high quality wildlife habitat, or impact water quality."

Concern was expressed, however, that USDA will not decide which enrollment offers will be accepted until late May or June.

"Field work for fall planting will have to be started long before producers will know whether their land will be going back into production, or whether it will remain or be established in permanent cover," McLain said. He believes these farmers will not have a fair chance to participate in the program.

"For that reason," he said, "an optional one-year extension of CRP contracts which expire this fall, and which have not already been extended, would enable a more orderly transition for growers going in or out of the program and maximize the benefits of already established cover."

McLain said the CRP is "a real plus for agriculture and the environment" and Congress must ensure that adequate funding is made available to serve the goals of the program.

"Scandinavian Hunting Team" collects seven record book caribou

Six local hunters make "once in a lifetime" trip to Canada's Northwest Territories

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

In what all participants described as "the trip of a lifetime," six Thief River Falls area hunters made a 1996 fall trip to the Northwest Territories in quest of trophy Central Canada Barren Ground Caribou. They met with success beyond their expectations as seven of the 10 caribou bulls they harvested earned placement in the Boone & Crockett record book.

Caribou are plentiful in the area and four of the six-member party had licenses and permits to take two of the animals.

Making the trip were Marty Johnson, his father Wayne Johnson, Leon Johnson, Richard Anderson, William Pederson and Terry Nelson. For obvious reasons the group termed itself the "Scandinavian Hunting Team" and had caps printed with the team's logo.

Recently the hunters received the official scores on the racks of antlers they collected. The antlers have to dry to allow for shrink before being officially measured.

Three of the racks made the "All Time" portion of the record book by scoring above 345 points. William Pederson checked in with the top two of those, respectively scoring 375 6/8 and 357 3/8 points. Richard Anderson had the other with a rack that scored 353 3/8.

Making the record book in the "Awards" category with over 330 points were Leon Johnson at 342 6/8 and 330 2/8 and Marty Johnson at 332 5/8 and 332 0/8.

Points are garnered in a wide variety of areas including tip to tip spread, greatest spread, inside spread of main beams, number of points on each antler excluding brow, number of points on each brow, length of main beam, length of brow palm or first point, length of bez or second point, length of rear point, length of second longest top point, length of longest top point, width of brow palm, width of top palm and circumference at the smallest of four different places on the main beam.

Five of the group members left Winnipeg, Manitoba, September 5 and flew to Yellowknife, capital of the Northwest Territories, with a stop enroute at Rankin Inlet. At Yellowknife they stayed at the Igloo Inn and spent four days visiting local tourist attractions, listed by the group as including Greg Robertson's taxidermy shop, Chamber of Commerce, museum, Yellowknife prison soapstone carving display, Wolverine Sporting Goods Store, a gold mine, the Northwest Company trading post and the local Elk's club.

On September 9 Terry Nelson joined the group after taking care of some prior commitments and the next day the six-member group flew approximately 150 miles northeast of Yellowknife to Jolly Lake, located 150 miles south of the Arctic Circle.

The hunt was arranged through Caribou Pass Outfitters and the Scandinavian team members were the only hunters in camp. In addition to caribou, the group hunted ptarmigan and fished for lake trout and grayling and saw several Arctic wolves, grizzly bears and marmots. Leon Johnson also shot two wolverines.

In a narrative written about the trip, Terry Nelson notes:

"I had been fishing 600 miles north of Winnipeg near Flin Flon, so I knew what the terrain was like. However, when we landed at Rankin Inlet, I was not prepared for the absence of trees and a landscape of more water than land.

"The plane we were on was walled off about midway and we were seated in the back while freight was carried in the front. The freight included everything needed for living as Rankin Inlet is accessible only by air."

Yellowknife is a city of about 19,000 people near the famous Great Slave Lake. The hunters left there in a twin engine Otter float plane to make the flight to their hunting camp.

The camp included a 16x20 wood-framed cook house covered with a blue plastic tarp, two sleeping buildings similar in construction to the cook house but much smaller, the hunters' quarters and a meat house. The latter were made of galvanized steel as protection against night intruders such as wolves, wolverines, arctic fox and grizzly bears. The steel had been brought in on the winter road, a trail bulldozed across the tundra after freeze up.

Hunting method consisted primarily of traveling the lake's shoreline by boat until caribou were sighted, then to go ashore, check for possible trophy bulls and, if present, attempt a stalk to get within range of a trophy.

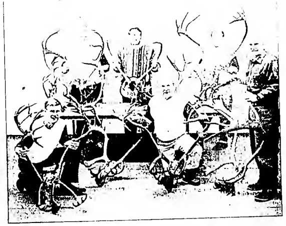
Nelson and Pederson hunted together, the first day as the hunt included one guide to two hunters. By pre-arranged agreement, Nelson was entitled to the first attempt. He had only one tag and Pederson had two.

When the first potential trophy was approached within range on the first day of a four-day hunt, Nelson declined the shot, not being sure of the rack and deciding he would wait for something better. Pederson elected to use his first tag. The bull proved to be the best trophy of the hunt.

Temperatures reached into the 60s during the day and dropped to the mid 40s at night—as perfect as the hunters could have ordered it. By the third day, everyone had filled their tags but Nelson, who had seen 3,500 to 4,000 caribou and had passed up hundreds of animals, waiting for one that his guide said "sticks out from all the rest."

On the final day the number of animals declined substantially. In the afternoon Nelson settled for a nice bull that had crossed a small river and was going up a hill. As the bull tumbled down the small hill the guide exclaimed, "Jeez! That was a long shot!" It proved to be over 500 yards.

Having experienced the hunt, would the local hunters make the trip again? Several agree with Nelson. "It was the hunt of a lifetime," he said, "...but I hope I have several lifetimes."



Thief River Falls area hunters show the caribou racks they collected on a trip last fall northeast of Yellowknife in the Northwest Territories of Canada. The six hunters had a total of 10 tags and seven of the bulls they harvested had racks that earned placement in the Boone & Crockett record book. The antlers were scored recently after a prescribed drying period. Pictured from left are (front), Wayne Johnson, Leon Johnson and Bill Pederson; back, Richard Anderson, Terry Nelson and Marty Johnson.

City crime up 11 percent

Criminal activity increased by about 11 per cent during 1996 in Thief River Falls, according to the Thief River Falls Police Department Annual Report of Activities.

Police Chief Ken Froschheiser presented the annual report to the city council Tuesday, February 11.

Froschheiser said all categories show an increase over 1995. The total reports are up 80 or six per cent. Adult arrests are up 55 or 10.6 per cent and juvenile arrests are up to 92 or 40 per cent. The department's largest area of criminal calls were of assaults, forgery and counterfeit, drugs and narcotics, disorderly related, property offenses, theft and crimes against justice.

Froschheiser reminded the council that in the classification of crimes against family and criminal sexual conduct, the juvenile officer, police department investigator, and sheriff's deputies have worked on a huge percentage of calls and incidents. He said they are very time consuming, stressful investigations. He also explained that the addition of the school liaison officers has brought the department more contacts which in turn have uncovered more offenses.

Crimes against the family and disorderly related calls showed significant increases. Reported incidents of crimes against the family increased from 12 to 33. Reported disorderly related incidents increased from 86 to 147. Criminal sexual conduct calls remained about the same at 20 reported calls per year. The number of recorded incidents dropped, however from 26 to 16.

Total criminal calls were up 347 or 22 per cent and represent a smaller percentage of all calls to the police department. Most calls are for some type of assistance.

Calls for assistance, which represent the service part of the department to the public, were up 15 per cent. During 1996 there were 9,482 calls for assistance. Those types of calls include accidents, lost persons or property, suicides, alarm responses, business checks and a large number of other calls.

Thief River Falls Mayor Robert Reeve noted that the number of snowmobile related calls were down from 76 to 35.

Froschheiser explained that the success in this area can be attributed to effective enforcement, educational efforts by the SnoDrifters and local businesses, training, and simply because there has been more snow and snowmobilers tend to stay out of town when there is more snow.

Traffic violations were down 23 per cent. He said he would attribute the decrease in traffic violations to the increase in criminal activity which consumed more time of officers. Parking tickets showed a slight decrease of about one per cent.

Mayor Reeve noted that there was no increase in calendar parking tickets.

Froschheiser explained that the total number of calendar parking tickets issued also include warning tickets. He said due to the heavy snow, there was an increased emphasis on calendar parking. A large number of calendar parking tickets issued were warnings, which serve as an educational tool.

The amount of fines collected by the city increased substantially over 1995, from $56,450 to $78,004. Two-thirds of those fine monies, or $45,605 this year, were paid to the city. The total amount of fines collected from parking tickets totaled $14,200.

The largest number of complaints reported were traffic complaints; although, an adult is more likely to be arrested for a liquor law violation. Traffic complaints consist of driving while intoxicated incidents, but total 51. A total of 116 arrests were made for liquor law violations. High numbers of complaints were recorded for property offenses and thefts as well. However, there were 24 arrests for property offenses and 21 for theft. Assault complaints were fourth down the list of complaints recorded, but the number of arrests (77) were second only to liquor law violations (116).

At least in part, the increase in juvenile crime can be attributed to the city's and police department's focus on juveniles or minors. For example, another juvenile officer was added to the department, there has been a weakening of tolerance for juvenile crime, and more programs have been developed for minors.

Liquor law violations remain significant among juvenile violations, however, this year more were arrested for property offenses. There were 52 arrests in 1995 for liquor law violations and 38 this year. There were 18 arrests for property offenses in 1995, but 40 in 1996.

The animal pound is operated by the city as well. The annual report states that the number of animals impounded was up about seven per cent. The number of complaints about animals were down in order four per cent. In 1996, 239 dogs were impounded, and 92 cats. A total of 172 animals were disposed of and 110 released to owners, and 32 given away.

The number of citations for allowing an animal to run at large or cruelty to animals in a violation which required a court appearance, remained the same as it has the last two years at 20.

During 1996 a total of $3,421 was collected in pound fees.

Herds of caribou such as this one were seen by a group of six hunters from the Thief River Falls area during a trip to the Northwest Territories last fall. Hunting with two hunters to a guide, the group filled its 10 tags and placed seven of the 10 in the Boone & Crockett record book—including three in the All-Time section with 345 or more points.

Stenseth joins 1,000-Point Club

A 20-point game put Thief River Falls senior Kim Stenseth over the 1,000-point mark for her high school basketball career Thursday, but the Prowlers still came up short on the scoreboard on the road against Kittson Central, 46-39.

The Wolfpack was in control from the start with quarter leads of 13-9, 25-15 and 36-25.

"We didn't shoot very well in the first and second quarters," said Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe, looking at the Prowlers' 25 percent, 6-for-24 first half shooting. "We came out flat. We just weren't real fired up. We played better in the second half."

Stenseth, a 5-9 senior forward/center, started the game needing 19 points to join the prestigious 1,000-Point Club. A solid, all around performer, she averages 17 points, 6.3 rebounds, 4.5 assists and 2.4 steals per game. She began her senior season with 637 career points.

A three-year starter for the Prowlers, Stenseth is the third Thief River Falls girl to surpass the 1,000-point mark, joining Jodi Kruta (1,771) and Michelle Olson (1,062) in that category.

"Kim is a very strong, very aggressive basketball player," said Loe. "She's not afraid to shoot, and when she decides to take the ball to the hole, there's not many people who can stop her."

Nicole Kopari joined Stenseth in double figures against the Wolfpack with 15 points, giving those two 35 of the Prowlers' 39 points. Sarah Erickson led Kittson Central with 12 points.

Thief River Falls was 15-for-45 from the field (33 percent) and 6-for-8 at the free throw line. Kittson Central went 19-for-56 from the floor (34 percent) and 8-for-16 at the line. The Wolfpack had a 31-23 rebound edge and topped the turnover charts 21-19.

Chervestad hits 1,000-point mark

Angie Chervestad went into Thursday's game against Fisher/Climax 30 shy of the 1,000-point plateau for her girls high school basketball career. The six-foot Red Lake County Central junior hit that figure on the nose by making two free throws with eight seconds left that helped secure a 51-46 win for the Mustangs.

She did it with a strong finishing kick, scoring 16 fourth quarter points as the winners held on to a narrow lead that was 12-8, 30-16 and 30-28 at the quarters.

It was a three-point game when Chervestad sealed it with her milestone free throws. She also pulled down 14 rebounds as the Mustangs evened their record at 9-9.

Chervestad, who broke into the starting line-up as a freshman, began the year with 638 career points. She is the fourth player in the Oklee/Plummer girls program to gain membership in the prestigious 1,000-Point Club, joining Jody Pahlen, Diane Fisher and Sarah Radniecki. Pahlen leads the group with 1,796 points.

"Angie has tremendous hands," pointed out Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto, "and she had good post-up moves."

Red Lake County Central was 19-for-52 from the floor (37 percent) and 13-for-26 at the line. Fisher/Climax was just 16-for-56 from the floor (29 percent) and 11-for-15 at the line. The Mustangs out-rebounded the Knights 45-39. Fisher/Climax had more turnovers, 24-17.

Northland women one-sided winner over Itasca, 77-39

Northland jumped out to a 20-6 lead and never looked back Saturday afternoon in a 77-39 women's basketball win over visiting Itasca.

The match-up between the Minnesota Community College Conference foes was a non-conference affair as the two teams tried to fill in for a couple of weather-forced cancellations that left them short of games this winter.

Northland led 42-19 at halftime and wound up nearly duplicating a 73-26 MCCC win over the Vikings on Jan. 24. They will close out the year against each other in a Northern Division game Friday at Itasca.

"We played well," said Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We took control right off the bat. We were able to play everybody, and the kids off the bench played as well as the starters."

The balanced Northland attack was led by Tammy Nerby with 12 points and LaVonne Nelson with 10. Carrie Soderman of Itasca led all scorers with 19 points.

"They're a good team," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We couldn't stop them. We didn't play great, but we did some good things."

Phil Flickinger scored 15 points to lead the Nordics, who where 25-for-65 from the field (38 percent) and went 5-for-11 at the free throw line, where the Rams were 12-for-22.

Section 8AA wrestling moves into individual competiton...

Prowlers lose first round match

Team-wise, it was a short post-season run for Thief River Falls. But Prowlers head coach John Belyea is looking for an extended campaign for some of his high school wrestlers as the individual portion of the 1997 Section 8AA tournament takes place at Bagley Saturday.

Matches start at 10 a.m. Top two wrestlers in each weight class will move on to the state tournament, scheduled to be held Feb 27-28 and March 1 at the St. Paul Civic Center.

"I really think we have a chance to get four kids to state," said Belyea.

That foursome includes seniors Luke Davis, Adam Kuck and Kyle Nelson, along with seventh grader Jon Swanson. Davis has dropped to 152 pounds and carries a team-best 19-4 record. Swanson is now at 112 and is 16-5; Kuck has dropped to 160 and is 16-8, and Nelson remains at 171, where he is 11-6.

"Those kids have wrestled well for us all year," said Belyea.

Thief River Falls was beaten 46-18 by Crookston Saturday in the first round of the Section 8AA team tournament at Cass Lake.

Back-to-back wins by Swanson and 112 and Philip Herman at 119 gave the Prowlers an early lead, but their only other wins came from Davis and Kuck and 152 and 160, respectively.

"We wrestled all right, I guess," offered Belyea, whose team was the No. 11 seed in the 12-team field. "All you can ask is that the kids go out and wrestle hard," he said.

Thief River Falls finished the year with a 3-11 dual meet record.

Top-seeded Cass Lake-Bena/Blackduck defeated No. 2-seeded Deer River/Northland 38-19 in the team finals to earn a state meet spot.

Storm hits TRF with 3-pointers

Stephen-Argyle erased a five-point halftime deficit with long-range shooting in the third quarter that carried the Storm past Thief River Falls 63-59 Friday in boys high school basketball.

Down 16-7 at the end of the first quarter and behind 30-25 at halftime, Stephen-Argyle hit five 3-point baskets in the third quarter in out-scoring Thief River Falls 20-8 for a 45-38 lead.

"We had a bad third quarter," admitted Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke. "We did a good job defensively against their outside shooters in the first half, but we didn't come out with the same intensity in the second half."

Five Stephen-Argyle scorers hit double figures, led by Jamie Morberg and Blair Stoltman with 18 points each. Anthony Hendricks' 15 points paced the Prowlers, who received a 14-point, 13-rebound game from Courtney Skjerven, plus another dozen rebounds from Jared Brandt.

Both teams shot 40 percent from the field, with the Prowlers hitting 24 of 60 and the Storm making 23 of 57.

"We didn't shoot real well," acknowledged Brekke. "We had opportunities to lead by more than we did in the first half, but we couldn't hit the shots. We had good looks, too, but they just wouldn't fall."

Thief River Falls was 7-for-14 at the free throw line, where Stephen-Argyle went 5-for-7. The Prowlers had a 30-24 rebound advantage and topped the turnover charts 10-8.

The loss kept the Prowlers winless on the road this winter.

B/G-MR boys climb above .500

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River went above the .500 mark for the first time this winter Friday with a 66-47 boys high school basketball win over Red Lake Falls at Middle River.

Ahead at the quarter stops 17-14, 31-24 and 48-41, the Gators went on a 12-2 run early in the fourth quarter to turn back the Eagles' challenge.

"It was a pretty decent outing for us," reported Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "Offensively we were pretty consistent all night. Defensively, we were working on a press early in the game and gave up some baskets. We tightened things up defensively in the fourth quarter."

Daryl Wockenfuss scored 14 points and Matt Kujava had 12 to lead the Gators' balanced offense. Josiah Hoefer of the Eagles shared game-high scoring honors with Wockenfuss, while Kevin Philion contributed 10.

The 10-9 Gators were 28-for-59 from the field (47 percent) and 7-for-12 at the free throw line. The Eagles went 17-for-49 from the floor (35 percent) and 7-for-17 at the line. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River had a 36-24 rebound advantage, and Red Lake Falls topped the turnover charts 27-17.

Swimmers lose final home dual Significant time drops were recorded, but Thief River Falls' numbers still came up short Thursday in a 112-68 dual meet high school swimming loss to Moorhead at the Franklin Middle School pool.

The Prowlers turned in particularly impressive performances, according to co-head coach Brian Olson, in the 200 freestyle and 200 individual medley. Zach Olson and Chris Pribula were 1-2 in the 200 freestyle, and Aaron Sjaaheim won the 200 I.M. Olson and Sjaaheim both turned in personal-best times.

Additional highlights came in the 100 backstroke, where second place Josh Engevik turned in a solid time and fourth place J.J. Efta had a sectional-qualifying performance.

The Prowlers also beat the Spuds in the 200 freestyle relay with Sjaaheim, Mickey McEnelly, Pribula and Olson.

It was the final home appearance of the 1996-97 season for the Prowlers, who finished with a 1-4 dual meet record.

MCC blanks Cougars in first half, win 53-21

Marshall County Central shut out Kittson County North in the first half Thursday en route to a 53-21 boys high school basketball win.

The visiting Nordics led 11-0 after one quarter and sat on a 16-0 halftime lead. It was 33-10 through three quarters.

While the Cougars' offensive troubles were reflected on the scoreboard, the Nordics weren't exactly lighting it up, either, over the first 16 minutes, acknowledged Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland.

"We didn't do much offensively in the first half," said Ueland. "We missed some pretty nice shots. They missed some shots, too, but our defense picked it up some in the second half and they didn't get as many good shots."

Phil Flickinger of Marshall County Central was the game's only double figure scorer, netting 13 points.

The Nordics were 21-for-46 from the field (46 percent) and 9-for-20 at the free throw line. The Cougars made just 8 of 54 field goal attempts (15 percent) and went 5-for-12 at the line. Marshall County Central had more rebounds (38-21) and more turnovers (18-11) than Kittson County North.

Injuries, Tri-County stop Gators in O.T.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River ran into turnover problems at the close of regulation time and wound up losing a 44-39 girls high school basketball game to Tri-County Thursday in overtime at Karlstad.

The Gators had four turnovers down the stretch, including one at the end of a final-minute, clock-draining possession.

"We just made too many mistakes at the end," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "We had our chances to win."

The Gators, who were down 11-10 at the end of the first quarter, up 21-18 at halftime and behind 31-29 through three quarters, never trailed in the fourth quarter that ended in a 37-37 tie. The Wildcats opened the overtime scoring and never looked back.

It was a patch-work line-up on the floor for the Gators much of the game. They began the night without the services of Nikki Wahl, and she was joined on the injury list by Tiffany Hagen, who went down with a first quarter ankle problem.

"Those are our two fastest kids," pointed out Neibauer. "You take away two of your best players, and it has to make a difference."

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River heads into the final week of the regular season (make-up games Thursday at Marshall County Central and Saturday vs. Warren-Alvarado-Oslo in Greenbush) with a 15-5 record, which includes a 5-0 mark at home, 6-0 on a neutral court and 4-5 on the opponents' floor.

Anna Bogestad scored 20 points to lead the Wildcats, getting half of those at the free throw line. Afton Hanson directed the Tri-County attack with an "exceptional" floor game, pointed out Neibauer.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 15-for-37 from the field (41 percent) and 8-for-12 at the free throw line, where Tri-County converted 14 of 23.

The Mustangs won despite turning the ball over 43 times and going 9-for-26 at the free throw line.

"It was horrendous," reported Red Lake County Central coach Rick Kovisto. "We set the game back."

But the Mustangs won to go above .500 at 10-9.

Red Lake County Central led 10-6 at the end of the first quarter, fell behind 19-18 at halftime and trailed 35-23 through three quarters before putting together a rally.

Eagles' win 72-49

Led by Alex Anderson's 16 points, Grygla-Gatzke got 34 points from its bench Friday in a 72-49 boys high school basketball win over Lake of the Woods.

"Our bench really did a nice job for us," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. Kyle Lusignan (8 points) joined Anderson in leading the contributions off the bench. Jim Engelstad made the offense go with 8 assists.

Lake of the Woods started with an 11-9 first quarter lead and maintained a 30-27 halftime edge before Grygla-Gatzke went on a 20-5 third quarter scoring blitz to go ahead 47-35.

"We made some adjustments on defense and played much better in the second half," noted Johnson, whose team improved to 13-5.

Nordics end long losing streak

Marshall County Central girls high school basketball team snapped a 13 game losing streak Monday with a 46-22 win over Kittson County North.

It was just the second win of the year for the 2-18 Nordics, and both have come against the Cougars. Marshall County Central won by a 38-31 margin when they met in the Northland Community and Technical College Invitational back on Dec. 19.

The Nordics decided the issue by out-scoring the Cougars 21-0 in the first quarter. It was 28-6 at halftime and 40-12 through three quarters.

"We came out running and did a couple of things well," said Marshall County Central coach Jerald Hagen. "We got on the scoreboard early, which hasn't always been the case. We slowed down after that, but we played good, all-round, hard defense and it paid off."

Misty Fick led the winners with 13 points. She was the game's only double figure scorer.

Marshall County Central was 19-for-60 from the field (32 percent) and 8-for-17 at the free throw line. Kittson County North made only 8 of 69 field goal attempts (12 percent) and connected on only 6 of 21 free throw chances. The Nordics had a 38-30 rebound advantage. The Cougars topped the turnover charts 15-13.

All DNR elk permits are filled

Minnesota's 1996 elk hunting season started Sept. 14 with two trophy bulls being taken on opening day, and came to an official close Nov. 25 when the last of six antlerless permits was filled – nearly a month after the season was initially scheduled to end.

It was the first elk hunt to be held in Minnesota since 1987, and only the second official elk hunt this century – the species having been protected by law in Minnesota since 1893.

The two bulls and six cows were harvested from a population of 40-plus animals, including seven or eight adult bulls, several yearling bulls, nine calves, and 20 to 25 adult cows. According to Joel Huener, assistant manager at Thief Lake Wildlife Management Area for the Department of Natural Resources, the population has reached a level where the state's elk management plan, established in 1987, allowed for another hunting season.

"The plan prescribes a pre-calving population of about 25 animals," explained Huener, "to balance the herd with its habitat; and to minimize crop depredation problems on private, agricultural lands."

To reduce the herd size toward its prescribed level, eight permits were issued to resident, two-person hunting parties last summer. A total of 1,215 valid applications were received by the July 12 deadline for the once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to hunt elk in northwest Minnesota.

A Gatzke area couple was chosen in the special permit drawing reserved for agricultural landowner/tenants in the elk management area. They opted for one of two permits issued for the Sept. 14-22 bulls-only season. The other antlered permit went to a father and son-in-law party from Benson and Olivia in southwestern Minnesota.

Other elk hunters came from communities throughout the state, including Waubun, Detroit Lakes, Aitkin, Owatonna, New Ulm, New Brighton, Pierz, Hutchinson, and New Germany.

"The September season corresponded with the height of elk rutting activity," said Huener. "Both parties filled out the first day, with nice trophy bulls."

According to Huener, both bulls were taken in the same general location where the entire herd had been grazing on a field of sunflowers located on private land next to the Grygla Wildlife Management Area, about three miles north of Grygla. While neither animal was weighed, live weight for both bulls was estimated to be in the 700 to 800 pound range.

Two antlerless hunts were scheduled for Sept. 28-Oct. 6 and Oct. 19-27, with a total of six permits – three for each hunt. By then, the herd was in the later stages of the rut, and the elk were scattered into smaller groups, which made finding an animal more challenging for the hunters.

No animals were taken until the second morning of the hunt, Sept. 29, when a mature cow – 450 to 500 pounds – was taken from a herd of seven. A second animal was not taken until the eighth day of the hunt, Oct. 5, when a yearling cow – approximately 350 to 400 pounds – was taken from another small herd. The third party was not able to take an elk, despite several trips afield.

During the second antlerless hunt, the rut was over and elk were again aggregating into larger groups. All three parties were able to take mature cows by evening of the first day, from fields on private land in the primary elk range north of Grygla – close to where the other elk were taken.

In late November, in an effort to achieve harvest goals, wildlife officials called up one, previously selected, alternate party to fill the antlerless permit that went unfilled during the first season. Facing snow depths in excess of 12 inches and sub-zero temperatures, the hunters worked for three days before intercepting a herd of 20 elk on the Grygla Wildlife Management Area. One mature cow was taken – and the 1996 hunt concluded, almost a month later than planned.

During the season, the animals occupied several square miles in the southeastern portion of the primary elk range north of Grygla. Two of the animals were taken on state land in the Grygla Wildlife Management Area, while the remainder were taken on adjacent agricultural fields on private land.

"Unlike elk habitat in western states, where elk live primarily on forested, publicly-owned land in the mountains," explained Huener, "elk habitat in northwest Minnesota is a mosaic of different habitat types and ownerships."

"There's a patchwork of woods, brush, open grasslands and croplands in public and private ownership," Huener continued. "The elk usually hide in the woods and heavy brush during the day, and come out into the open at night. They're especially active at dawn and dusk, and those were generally the most productive shooting hours as well."

Prior to the hunt, all parties were required to attend an orientation session at the Thief Lake Wildlife Management Area headquarters, where they were given information on the general location of the herd, and advice on how to prepare for the experience.

"Elk are much larger than deer, but most of the hunters came prepared to handle the larger animals," said Huener. "No elk were wounded and lost; and there were no injuries to hunters, landowners, or livestock."

"Several parties assisted each other in getting their animals out of the "fields," said Huener, "and landowners were very cooperative – both in giving parties permission to hunt and, in several cases, helping hunters retrieve their game animal."

The DNR Section of Wildlife intends to manage the elk herd within acceptable social and environmental limits, while providing opportunities for wildlife viewing and limited hunting.

According to Jim Dreyen, DNR Northwest Regional Wildlife Supervisor, hunting seasons will be used to reduce the herd gradually, over a period of two to three years, and to maintain the population goal of 25 adult animals.

"The decision on how many elk we allow to be taken during subsequent hunting seasons will be made on a yearly basis," explained Dreyen. "Right now, we are planning to hold another elk hunt in 1997, but the exact number of permits won't be determined until next spring. It all depends on the year-to-year survivability of the animals."

Information and applications for the 1997 hunt will be made available in late June, with a permit application deadline of July 18.

TRF girls defeat Fertile-Beltrami

Twenty points apiece from usual top scorers Kim Stenseth and Nicole Kopari, complemented by offensive contributions from the rest of the line-up and a solid second half defensive effort added up to a 65-55 Thief River Falls girls high school basketball win at Fertile-Beltrami Monday.

"Kim and Nicole got their points, but I was really happy to see the others scoring, too," said Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "We need contributions from them."

Fertile-Beltrami led 16-14 at the end of the first quarter and had a 35-30 halftime advantage before Thief River Falls went ahead 47-41 in the third quarter.

"We were a little sluggish in the first half," said Loe. "We picked it up in the second half. We played some pretty good defense, especially in the second half."

Thief River Falls was 25-for-54 from the field (46 percent) and 14-for-23 at the free throw line. Fertile-Beltrami went 19-for-66 from the floor (29 percent) and 17-for-28 at the line. The Falcons had a 34-32 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 20-14.

The Prowlers are 12-9.

Goodridge falls to East Grand Forks

Goodridge played East Grand Forks to a 20-20 first half tie Monday, but fell off the pace after intermission in losing a 69-49 boys high school basketball game.

The Green Wave out-scored the visiting Huskies 34-11 in the third quarter to go up 54-31.

"We played a great first half," said Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson, "but it was like the kids thought that was enough. We just didn't come out with very much intensity in the second half. They just bombed us."

Benji Marquis finished with a game-high 19 points for the Huskies, who are playing without leading scorer Chris Grabowska, sidelined by an ankle injury suffered in the first minute of Friday's 47-27 loss to Roseau.

Travis Lueck, one of four East Grand Forks scorers in double figures, finished with 16 points.

From the field, Goodridge was 20-for-54 (37 percent) while East Grand Forks went 28-for-53 (53 percent). The winners were 8-for-17 from 3-point range. It was a quiet night at the free throw line, where the Huskies were 4-for-7 and the Green Wave went 5-for-6.

East Grand Forks out-rebounded Goodridge 34-27 and topped the turnover charts 15-14.

The Huskies are 15-5.

"Outside of the third quarter, it was a respectable showing," said Mickelson.

Otters rally, top Prowlers 61-53

Fergus Falls trailed 20-6 at the end of the first quarter Monday, but came back to beat host Thief River Falls 61-53 in a boys high school basketball make-up game.

The Otters had chopped the difference to 30-27 by halftime, and went ahead 40-38 in the third quarter before pulling away down the stretch.

"We came out and played well at the start," offered Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke, "but Fergus Falls started playing some good defense against us in the second quarter. They started getting physical, and we didn't react very well."

A five-minute scoreless stretch in the fourth quarter sealed the Prowlers' fate. "We started missing shots at the end," noted Brekke.

Anthony Hendricks scored a game-high 16 points for the Prowlers, while Jeremy Swanson netted 13 and Jared Brandt had 12. Jason Drouillard scored 15 points and Nick Heintzelman had 13 for the Otters, who won by a 66-45 margin in an earlier meeting at Fergus Falls.

The loss dropped the Prowlers to 4-14.

"The kids played hard," said Brekke. "I was pleased with the effort. We threw a scare into them."

On February 12 at 4:20 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Tindolph and Greenwood. Vehicles driven by Conrad Dale Borman, Thief River Falls, and Daniel Leroy Russell of Thief River Falls collided in the intersection. The drivers could not see each other because of high snow banks. Damages were estimated at $400 to the Borman vehicle and $1,000 to the Russell vehicle.

On February 18 at 6:31 a.m. the Pennington County Sheriff's department received a report of an accident at County road 19 and State Aid 3. Shawn Allan Johnson, Thief River Falls, had pulled his pickup over to the opposite side of the road facing south, so that he could assist a driver whose vehicle had gone into the ditch. Tamra Marie Mooney, Thief River Falls, was driving west on State Aid 3 and in the early morning fog, collided with the front of the Johnson vehicle. There was an estimated $500 damage to the Johnson pickup, but the Mooney car was considered a total loss.

The charges stem from an incident on February 7.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

Polaris ends '96 year with $1,191,901,000 in net sales

Polaris Industries Inc. ended its 1996 calendar year with net sales of $1,191,901,000, an increase of seven per cent over 1995 and the eighth consecutive year of record results for the company. Net income for the year was also a record at $62,293,000.

For the fourth quarter ending December 31, sales were up five per cent to $297,672,000 and net income was up to $16,837,000. Per share earnings were 61 cents for the fourth quarter and $2.24 for the year.

CEO W. Hall Wendel said the company's strong performance in all-terrain vehicles helped offset snowmobile retail sales that were slightly below plan in some areas due to poor weather, as well as slower personal watercraft sales. He said the record results due to downturns in the two areas "demonstrated again the value of the balance we've achieved in our business through diversification into new product areas and the steady introduction of new models."

Higher promotional costs were offset by a lower tax rate, favorable Japanese yen exchange rate and profits from the company's 25 per cent interest in Polaris Acceptance, the company's joint venture with Transamerica Commercial Finance Corporation.

Polaris Acceptance provides floor plan financing and other financial services to Polaris dealers and distributors. In January the company exercised its option to increase its equity interest in Polaris Acceptance to 50 percent.

Polaris generated cash flow from operating activities of $92,241,000 during 1996, an increase of 20 percent over 1995, and ended the year with $35 million in debt, resulting in a favorable debt-to-total-capital ratio of 18 percent.

Looking ahead to 1997 Wendel said that an effort will be made to reduce inventory carrying costs for Polaris and its dealers by matching production more closely to the retail sales for each product line. Full year 1997 sales and certain quarters earnings are expected to decline from 1996 levels, but overall the company expects net income to be another record at the end of next year.

Strandquist

436-2133

Donnie, Marlys and Melanie Lefrooth were supper guests at Elsie Lefrooth's on Christmas Eve. Lorainn Anderson of Roseau, Pearl Thompson, Stefanie Stewart, Rick Anderson, Marcelyn Lindstrom, Doris and Otto Song visited Elsie earlier in the day.

I was looking out the window the other day and saw what looked like a cat sitting by a snow bank. I asked Sonny what kind of a cat that was and he said, "Mom, that's a snowcat." By the way it still looks like a fat pussycat.

Tip for this week. If it's cold today try to think how hot it was that day last summer before they sprayed for mosquitoes and you will scratch yourself warm.

Today the weather in Northwest Minnesota is almost like the weather in Northwest Montana, cloudy but not more snow according to Roy. I saw an article in the 100 year news in the Kalispell paper, that someone was spreading stories here about the Peace River country that is over a thousand miles north of Kalispell, of the wonderful fertility and advantages of the area, several folks moved up there and found that the principal crops were snowballs and blizzards. Must have been a bumper crop this year as the flathead has had too much snow and Northwest Minnesota too many blizzards.

The Strandquist seniors have plowed themselves out of the drifts and are having fun catching up on their social activities. Vance and Adrienne Lefrooth hosted their annual "lutefisk dinner" on Friday with the following guests. Clara Nelson, Ida Bruce, Mary and Donna Renstrom, and Elsie Lefrooth. I'm sorry that I missed it.

The Bethesda Lutheran Church has been very busy in spite of the weather. John Grandstrand, Lowell Lefrooth and Curtis Benson have been doing some remodeling with Vance Lefrooth as official "go for and overseer." It is remarkable to see what the church has done this year to make this world a better place for so many not privileged as we are in this area.

Debbie Evans, Ryan and Eric, Kelly Larson, Joshua and Alisa, all from Leno Lakes were weekend guests of LaVonne and Brian Johnson. They and Becky Johnson and Jake were dinner guests of Peter and Pearl Thompson on Saturday.

Chris Lindstrom of Sioux Falls, SD spent the weekend with Bob Lindstrom and visited Morris and Marcelyn Lindstrom on Sunday.

Johnny Vagle had as guests over the weekend, his daughter Una and her husband Dave Bessler of Bemidji. They had dinner on Saturday at Peter and Pearl Thompson's.

Isaac Thompsen had dinner with Geneva Nordin on her birthday last Friday at Town and Country Restaurant.

Marcelyn Lindstrom visited Lois Carlco on Friday.

Karen Zimmerman spent Monday evening and most of Tuesday at Elsie Lefrooth's domain working on WM projects. On Thursday afternoon Betsy Thompson brought her serger sewing machine and they finished six quilts to send to the Hillcrest Orphanage.

Gully Community News

268-4350

Judy Brovick stopped by to visit Patty Carlson on Friday. Patty knew there was something special at the Cafe that day so she invited Judy along for pie and coffee. Judy was really surprised that Carol Tharaldson had a nice birthday cake ready for Judy. Carol didn't know just how many candles to put on the cake so she substituted one large candle instead of fifty seven for Judy. Some of them who enjoyed birthday cake and coffee with Judy were Pearl Waine, Patty Carlson, Holly Wagner, Edna and Kay Erickson. Happy Birthday Judy and Thank You Charlie Reed for bringing Judy over to Gully on her birthday!

Geneva Rustad from Haslett, MI returned to her home last Wednesday after spending a month here visiting her sister-in-law Pearl Waine and other friends and relatives.

Carol Torgerson came over to Gully to see the home folks while her family was gone for the week. She spent time with Arnold and Sanna and at Clearwater Lake.

Les and Luke together with members of the Thief River Falls College Jazz Band left Thursday morning for Kansas City, MO. The group's first overnight stop was at Pipestone, where they put on their first concert. They gave four more concerts at various places before reaching Kansas City; there they will see a musical, visit a museum and various historical places before starting for home.

Barbara Peterson of Bagley and Alice Forsberg made a business trip to Moorhead this weekend. They also visited their sister Elsie Gale. They report snow drifts there even worse than here. Strong winds blowing snow from large open fields made drifts even with mobile home roof tops and people needed outside help to get out. February 9th at 2:30 p.m. was the day and time set for the Country Music Day at the Gully Cafe.

Entertainers and musicians were up early, some of them had a long way to travel. Listeners were also up early. They wanted to get a good spot for listening and wanted to be present for the first musical notes played. I doubt if anyone was up earlier than Edna Engdahl; she was responsible for having something ready for early breakfasts, forenoon lunches and then a meal for dinners and she knew for an afternoon snack many would like pie and coffee. She was busy making and baking pumpkin, coconut cream, banana cream and apple pies, twenty four in all.

Carole and Holly were busy waiting on the audience with whatever they wanted to eat. Vernon Wold was M.C. and did a good job of having entertainers ready and then introducing them to us. Vernon didn't only introduce and Carole didn't only do waitressing, the two of them favored us with several vocal selections. Among those entertaining us were Art Quam, June Bergerson, Carol Navy and Russell and Kathy Comer, all from Fosston. Russell and Kathy furnished the sound system. Elvin and Jewel Erickson were here from Clearbrook. Eldon Moe, Alvin Anderson and Ray Hedlund from Thief River Falls. Charles and Helen Iverberg and Arlen Powers from Bemidji, Andrean Benedict from Erskine, Hailey and Perry Grise of Waubun, Melvin Dobbs of St. Hilaire, Lee Coe Nabish, Arlen Tunheim and Bruce Elseth of Newfolden, Al and Phyllis Blomquist of Grand Forks, Edgar Miller of Goodridge, Harris Billigmeir of Fargo, ND, Walter Haugen of Plummer, Carole Tharaldson and Vern Wold of Gully.

Funeral

On Monday we bid farewell to another one of our neighbors and friends. Elmer Berg passed away Thursday, February 6th, at his home just east of Gully. Funeral services were Monday at Lund Lutheran Church of Gully with Rev. Robert Kelly officiating with Nancy Lee, organist and Adrienne Hanson, soloist.

Elmer was born in Hill River Township and spent most of his life in this area excepting four years in the U.S. Army Air Corps. While in the service he spent two years overseas in India and he and his wife Mary lived in Shreveport, LA. After his honorable discharge Elmer and Mary have claimed Gully as "Home" having lived on the farm where they were still living. Besides farming and well drilling Elmer served as substitute mail carrier for 29 years. Elmer was active and served on committees and boards of the many community organizations and projects until the very last few years of his life and his health failed and he no long had the strength to serve physically but mentally he still had the communities welfare on his mind. Flag presentation at the funeral was by the Gully American Legion Post. Besides his wife Mary, Elmer is survived by daughter Betty Berg of Grand Forks, sons Leslie of Gully and Lorry and his wife Loretta of [illegible] and two grandchildren Bobbie and Carmen Berg. Active pallbearers on Monday were Peter Hopperstad, Duane Sorenson, Marvin Berg, John Godiland, Albert Grallans and Arlie Fore. The Lund Ladies Aid served a supper after the three o'clock service.

Mrs. Ray Nelson and Callie Nelson from Longby visited Ellie Handy on Monday afternoon.

The Gully American Legion Auxiliary met on Tuesday evening at the Gully Community Center with Nancy Carlson President. The Secretary was absent but Eileen Erlandson gave the treasurer's report. Seven members were present and one junior member. Among the things decided at the business meeting was that our dues for next year will stay the same. Eileen will collect the dues. The birthday supper for the Legionnaire and their spouse will be at 6 o'clock on March 4. Crystal, Alice and Cathy will work on the menus and send out reminders. Sanna was asked to get tables ready. We will ask Vernon Wold and Carole Tharaldson for entertainment. We were reminded to save cancelled stamps, duck stamps and Betty Crocker coupons to get serving spoons for the kitchen. A letter of Thanks and appreciation was read from the President Doris Fayette was read with greetings to us and hopes for the coming year. Lunch was served by Alice Forsberg and Patty Carlson. The members of the Legion joined us for lunch.

Not Out Of The Woods, But Hartz On Right Path

Hartz Foods management and membership at the annual meeting last week were upbeat and optimistic despite a net loss for the 1996 fiscal year of nearly a half-million dollars. Optimism is derived from the fact that the previous year's loss was more than double that amount and that a number of major changes and expenditures made over the past couple of years positions the cooperative for a stronger fiscal future.

This spirit of optimism and determination to succeed is good news for the community and the area. The Hartz name has a lengthy, proud and strong history in Thief River Falls and the company continues to carry the community's name throughout a wide area of Minnesota and North Dakota. In so doing it provides steady employment for a number of residents and provides a meaningful service in supplying grocery stores of all sizes.

The future of the company appears to lie in its abilities to continue supplying this need while adapting to take advantage of its strengths, including its marketing and transportation network. Several of these adaptations contributed to the gains made by the company in 1996 and others will be contributing in fiscal 1997.

The company still has debt obligations to be met and remains in a highly competitive business where potential for larger profit margins is extremely limited. It is not out of the woods yet, but the trees are thinning and the path is getting easier to follow. If effort and dedication count for anything, a better future lies ahead.

Is A Little Censorship A Dangerous Precedent?

"Imagine working for a company whose opponents are well organized, well funded and articulate," states James J. Morgan, president and CEO of Phillip Morris U.S.A.

"Suppose (these opponents) attempt to link your products to scores of deaths and more than a million disabling injuries every year. Imagine that people claim your products foul the air and hurt innocent bystanders. Suppose your advertising seems to appeal to minors. Now, should speech promoting these products be restricted?"

One might expect a chorus of "yes!" cries to that question, given the apparent willingness of many in the nation to restrict freedoms in favor of attempting to curb what is perceived to be harmful to the public.

The product he was describing, Morgan told a luncheon of the Advertising Women of New York, was the automobile. He read copy for a recent automotive ad that proclaimed the car's powerful engine would soon have the reader "believing you're on the playground instead of the pavement."

"To the censorious mind," he said, "this ad extolling excessive horsepower gives every appearance of being directed at children. If I were a censor, and I had succeeded in restricting tobacco industry advertising by using the pretext that their advertising endangers the nation's youth, what a plump target this kind of car ad would be!"

Censorship, regardless of its good intentions and purported exclusivity, is a slippery slope that invites more censorship and eventually little if any actual freedom of speech. In the case of tobacco products, the better idea is to enforce the law that makes sales to minors illegal and leave the First Amendment alone.

Tax Fairness For Minnesota Farmers

Difficult as it is to make a successful venture of farming, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) threatened to make it tougher with the ruling last October that farmers are subject to tax liability on deferred payment contracts in the year in which the contract is signed, not the year in which payment is actually received.

Somewhat surprisingly, common sense has prevailed in Washington, DC, and the IRS has agreed to postpone enforcement of the ruling for one year. This should give Congress and the President time to prepare and adopt legislation which will officially permit farmers to use deferred payment contracts without incurring a tax penalty.

Senator Rod Grams is a strong proponent of the legislation which would clarify the farmers' right to cash-based accounting. He recognizes it is important to farmers, whose income potential can fluctuate radically from year to year.

"In Minnesota," he says, "where the climate may shift from flood to drought within a single growing season, farmers are very much at the mercy of Mother Nature. Spreading out contract payments over a period of two years helps level off the income disparities that occur when a good year is followed by a bad one. Deferring the tax liability protects the farmer from being thrust into a higher tax bracket.

"Adding further to the importance of cash-based accounting is the fact that farmers take in revenue only once or twice a year. Understandably, many farmers like to receive their payments in installments much the same way a school teacher does over the summer months. Being paid in increments can ease cash flow problems that may otherwise occur.

"To its credit, Congress has always understood these unique circumstances and has therefore always intended agriculture to have the benefit of cash-based accounting. It was certainly never the intent of Congress to subject farmers to taxes on income they have not yet received."

According to last October's IRS ruling, the situation changed when the tax code was amended in 1986—a full 10 years ago. Had this been the intent of the changes proposed to the tax code in 1986, there would have been a good deal of opposition at that time. Such was not the case.

"American agriculture is in the midst of great change," Sen. Grams writes. "Last year Congress enacted the most sweeping reforms in U.S. agriculture policy in 60 years, giving farmers the freedom to plant for the marketplace instead of the demands of Uncle Sam. But Washington's commitment to agriculture did not—and cannot —end there.

"We promised farmers regulatory reform, free and fair trade, market-oriented tools to better manage their risk, and tax relief. It doesn't help farmers feel that the government is on their side when a federal agency announces a ruling that could lead to a hefty tax increase. As much as they need tax relief, farmers also deserve tax fairness. Overturning the misguided IRS decision is an appropriate place to start."

Once again Senator Grams is right on target. And the fact that he is an original co-sponsor of legislation to reverse the IRS interpretation shows that he follows through on his opinions.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Surviving in our Wonderful White and "Wet" Wonderland:

Well, Christmas has come and gone, as well as the shortest days of the year. Our schools have been closed and our city and county employees have been overwhelmed by plowing snow. We all have had a chance to make—and break—our New Year resolutions.

Combine winter with seasonal goodies and its "pay back"—or should I say "push out?"—time, I can never figure out why this time of year my bathroom scale always malfunctions by reading off a number which seems unusually high. It's probably time to just change the scale batteries... right? Or perhaps my pants seem a little too tight in the waist. It must be my dryer shrinking the trousers again... right? Okay, it's the battle of the "belly bulge" again.

Well, I've admitted my addiction before. I don't openly brag about it, but I know it's virtually incurable. I keep coming back again, and again and again. Thanks to Franklin pool, however, I get the needed relief while controlling my addiction and winter waistline bulge problem.

Swimming has been called the best form of exercise in the world. Any time we can use all of our limbs in an environment as gentle and non-traumatic as swimming, it's close to perfection. Even just walking back and forth in the water can help stiff joints and sore backs feel better. Of course, it has the potential to do wonders for your heart and blood pressure also. Want more energy? Feel less lethargic? Sleep more soundly? Try exercising and moving. Try swimming!

So the next time your bathroom scale goes awry or your dryer overheats and shrinks your trousers, think about some fun in the water. Granted, it may be white and cold outside, but it is warm and wet in our Franklin community pool. If you have any questions call our community education program at 681-8740 or feel free to telephone me at work (681-4506) or home (681-6402). Your community pool hours are versatile enough to fit anyone's schedule and are as follows:

Open swimming: 7-9 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday and 1-5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday;

Lap swimming 6-7:30 a.m. Monday, Wednesday and Thursday and 6-7 p.m. Tuesday and Friday.

Sincerely,
Marty E. Duchscher

Funds available from Operation Round Up plan

Organizations involved in community projects and charities are encouraged to apply for funds from Operation Round Up, a program adopted by members of Red Lake Electric Cooperative who voluntarily "round up" their monthly electric bills to the next full dollar and pay the difference into the fund.

Nearly 3,300 customers of the cooperative are choosing to fund the program and enhance their communities. The funds are donated primarily to non-profit organizations to help fund their specific projects or programs.

Since the program began in 1993, Operation Round Up has granted $73,175 to community organizations and charities. The board of Red Lake Electric Trust makes the decisions on contribution recipients and amounts. Grants are made for betterment of the community within the service area boundaries of the cooperative.

Organizations wishing to apply for funds should contact the Red Lake Electric Cooperative office in Red Lake Falls at 253-2168 or 1-800-245-6068. A short application form must be completed and submitted along with an organization finance statement. The next semi-annual meeting to determine contributions will be held in March. Grant applications are due March 15.

For more information, contact general manager Ron Kennedy of Red Lake Electric Cooperative at either of the numbers listed above.

THE COST OF COLD
Propane users feel the heat
•Rise in crude oil prices, low summer inventories push up fuel costs
Propane increasing

What are you waiting for?

NOW is the time to switch to electric heat.

You've likely read and heard about rising propane prices. Fuel oil and natural gas prices have also increased. And these prices may be headed higher yet. Consider this: If you heat your home with propane, fuel oil, or natural gas, you can expect to pay $200-$300 more to heat your home this heating season, compared to last winter.

Why? Low inventories and frigid cold weather mean sharp price increases. And it's difficult to predict what will happen next week, next month... or next year.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF SHIRLEY AND WILLIS GJORGAARD
WHO PASSED AWAY, FEB. 15, 1996

One year has passed since that sad day
The ones we loved were called away
No one knows how much we miss you
No one knows the pain, heartache and loneliness we bear
Still in memory you are with us
So now we wait for that great day
When together again we can always be
Up there with God, for all eternity.

ORDINANCE NO. 280 2ND SERIES

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINNESOTA, AMENDING CITY CODE CHAPTER 6 ENTITLED "OTHER BUSINESS REGULATION AND LICENSING" BY AMENDING THE PROVISIONS RELATING TO TOBACCO AND BY ADOPTING BY REFERENCE CITY CODE CHAPTER 1 AND SECTION 6.99, WHICH, AMONG OTHER THINGS, CONTAIN PENALTY PROVISIONS

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THIEF RIVER FALLS ORDAINS:

Section 1. City Code Sec. 6.40 entitled "TOBACCO" is hereby amended to read:

Subd. 1. Definitions.

A. Self-service merchandising. Self service merchandising shall mean any open displays of tobacco products where the public has access without the intervention of an employee.

B. Tobacco means and includes tobacco in any form, including, but not limited to, cigarettes, cigars, bagged, canned, or packaged product.

Subd. 2. License Required. No person shall directly by coin machine, or otherwise, keep for retail sale, sell at retail, or otherwise dispose of any tobacco at any place in the City unless they have obtained a license therefor as provided herein.

Subd. 3. Application for License.

A. Application. Application for such license shall be made to the City Clerk and shall state the full name and address of the applicant, location of the building to be occupied by the applicant in the conduct of its business, the kind of business to be conducted, and such other information as the City Clerk may require. The license shall be granted by the City Council and issued by the City Clerk upon payment of required fee.

B. Training Program. Every person applying for a license to sell at retail any tobacco shall certify on the annual License application that the person has implemented a training program for employees regarding laws relating to sale of tobacco and has trained all employees to comply with state and local laws regarding the sale of tobacco.

C. License Fee. The fee for a license shall be $24.00 until such time as changed by City Council resolution.

D. Display. Every license shall be openly displayed in the place of business to which it has been issued.

Subd. 4. Prohibited Acts.

A. No person shall sell, give away, or otherwise furnish any tobacco or cigarette paper to any person under the age of 18 years.

B. No person shall keep for sale, sell, or dispose of any cigarette or other tobacco product containing opium, morphine, jimson weed, bella donna, strychnia, cocaine, marijuana, or any other deleterious or poisonous drug, except nicotine.

C. No person shall sell or dispense any tobacco product though the use of a vending machine unless the vending machine is electronically activated for each transaction by the licensee or a person in their employ; the vending machine is located in an area licensed for the sale of liquor and is in plain view of an employee of the licensed establishment, or the vending machine is located in an area of a bowling center licensed for the sale of liquor and is in plain view of an employee of the licensed establishment and the area is not frequented by minors.

D. No person shall offer for sale any tobacco by means of self-servicing merchandising, unless the display is in direct view of a responsible employee and meets one of the following requirements: (1) The display is on top of the checkout counter or within 10 feet of the check-out counter so that the display can be monitored at all times by an on-duty store cashier, or (2) The display is less than 12 feet from the check-out counter provided that the display is equipped with plexiglass shields or doors and registers an audible alarm when the shields or doors are opened by a customer.

E. Every licensee shall be responsible for the conduct of its employees while on the licensed premises and any sale or other disposition of tobacco by an employee to a person under 18 years of age shall be considered an act of the licensee for purposes of imposing an administrative fine, license suspension or license revocation. This does not relieve the employee of any wrong doing.

Subd. 5. Suspension or Revocation of License. No license may be suspended or revoked, or an administrative fine levied on the licensee or employee, until after a hearing is granted to the licensee and/or employee. Such hearing to be held before the City Council upon 20 days written notice to the licensee and/or employee stating the time and place of such hearing, together with a statement of the violation alleged to be the cause for the suspension or revocation of the license or administrative fine.

Subd. 6. Administrative Civil Penalties.

A. Individuals. Any person who sells any tobacco product or cigarette paper to person under the age of 18 years is subject to administrative penalty; and any person under the age of 18 who attempts to purchase a tobacco product is subject to an administrative penalty. The City Council may impose administrative penalties as follows:

2. Second violation within 24 months. The City Council may impose a civil fine not to exceed $250.00.
3. Third violation within 24 months. The City Council may impose a civil fine not to exceed $500.00.

B. Licensee. If a licensee or an employee of a licensee is found to have sold tobacco products or cigarette paper to a person under the age of 18 years, the licensee shall be subject to an administrative penalty as follows:

1. First violation. The City Council may impose a civil fine not to exceed $100.00.
2. Second violation within 24 months. The City Concil may impose a civil fine not to exceed $250.00 and/or suspend the licensee's license for a period not to exceed 29 days.
3. Third violation within 24 months. The City Council may impose a civil fine not to exceed $500.00 and/or suspend the licensee's license for a period not to exceed 30 days.

C. Defense. It is a defense to the charge of selling tobacco to a person under the age of 18 years that the licensee or employees, in making the sale, reasonably and in good faith relied upon representation of proof of age described in State Statute Section 340A.503, Subdivision 6, paragraph (a).

D. Exemption. A person no younger than 15 and no older than 17, may be enlisted to assist in the tests of compliance, provided that written consent from the person's parent or guardian has been obtained and that the person shall at all times act only under the direct supervision of a law enforcement officer or an employee of the licensing department, or in conjunction with an in-house program that has been pre-approved by the Department of Public Safety. A person who purchases or attempts to purchase tobacco-related products while in this capacity is exempt from the penalties imposed by subdivision A and C above.

Subd. 7. Criminal Penalties. Any person who violates this ordinance shall be guilty of a petty misdemeanor.

Section 2. City Code Chapter 1 entitled "General Provisions and Definitions Applicable to the Entire City Code Including Penalty for Violations" and Section 6.99 entitled "Violation A Misdemeanor" are hereby adopted in their entirety, by reference, as though repealed verbatim herein."

DHIA led by Dummer herd in December

First place herd in the Red Lake-Pennington Dairy Herd Improvement Association in December was the Richard Dummer herd of 86 cows, 88 percent of which was in milk. The cows averaged daily production of 75 pounds of milk, 2.4 pounds of butterfat and 2.3 pounds of protein.

Mylo Carlson's herd was in second place with 90 percent of the 63 cows in milk and averaging 69 pounds of milk, 2.6 pounds of butterfat and 2.2 pounds of protein.

Large cow herd of the Northwest Agricultural Experiment Station was in third place, averaging 68 pounds of milk, 2.6 pounds of butterfat and 2.2 pounds of protein. Ninety-two percent of the 68-cow herd was in production.

To give the herd owner a record of its earning power for the month, total production is averaged over all cows in the herd, including those which may not be in production. The number of dry cows will adversely affect the individual average.

Other herds in the top 15 in the association for December include the following with number of cows in the herd, percentage in milk and pounds of milk, butterfat and protein listed respectively:

Johnston Farms, 73, 85%, 66, 2.5 and 2.2; Northwest Agricultural Experiment Station (small cow herd), 63, 87%, 66, 2.5 and 2.1; Mark Hanson, 53, 92%, 64, 1.9 and 1.9; Lyle Swanson, 45, 76%, 62, 2.0 and 2.0; Walter Bros. Farm, 173, 90%, 61, 2.4 and 2.0, and Gerald and Loretta Visser, 74, 95%, 60, 2.3 and 1.9;

Also Dale and Sherri Rupprecht, nine, 100%, 56, 2.0 and 1.9; Wayne Nelson, 2, 83%, 56, 2.0 and 1.8; L&R Dairy, 190, 82, 55, 1.9 and 1.8; Kevin and Beth Roppe, 40, 88%, 54, 1.9 and 1.7; Tom Willett, 50, 78%, 54, 1.9 and 1.7; Steve Nelson, 60, 80%, 53, 2.1 and 1.7 and Warren Malwitz Dairy, 115, 85%, 53, 2.1 and 1.7 (tic).

Northwest Grain receives refund from Farmland

Northwest Grain, formerly St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator, recently received a patronage refund of $172,378.69 from Farmland Industries, Inc. of Kansas City, MO. Of the total patronage refund, one-fourth ($43,094.69) was in cash.

Northwest Grain is a member-owner of Farmland Industries, a cooperative with fiscal 1996 sales of $9.8 billion and assets totaling in excess of $2.5 billion.

Farmland supplies members such as Northwest Grain with crop nutrient and protection products, energy products, feed and animal health products and technical information to producers. It also processes and markets members' pork, beef and grain to customers around the world.

Patronage refunds represent the profits Farmland has earned on business transacted with its members. The more business a member does with the cooperative, the larger its patronage refund. Northwest Grain's refund was part of the $93.5 million that Farmland returned to its members for fiscal year 1996, of which more than $58 million was in cash.

Dead livestock pickup to be started March 15

Spring pickup service of dead livestock for the region is scheduled to begin March 15 and continue through April 15, weather permitting.

Al Gustafson of the Pembina Trail Resource Conservation and Development Association with headquarters in Red Lake Falls said that livestock owners needing this service can call 1-800-450-2482 or 218-253-2482 for more details.

Collection will be available in the counties of Pennington, Roseau, Red Lake, Kittson, Polk, Marshall, Clearwater, Beltrami and Mahnomen. There is a charge of $50 per stop, regardless of the number of animals to be collected. Red Lake, Pennington, Polk, Marshall and Roseau counties offer a 50% cost share to encourage livestock owners to properly dispose of their dead animals, thereby reducing the cost to $25 for individual producers.

The spring dead livestock collection program was started in 1993. Last year more than 200 livestock producers participated and 17 semi-trailer loads were collected and hauled to a rendering plant at Blue Earth.

Nelsons climb nation's 48 high points

Ray and Jan Nelson of Thief River Falls display the plaque they received for successfully climbing the high points in 48 states. The two belong to a club called the Highpointers. Jan displays the club flag and the United States flag they carried with them on every climb. Behind them is a map of their journeys. It took them nearly six years to complete the goal.

Associate Editor

Ray and Jan Nelson of Thief River Falls get high on life by climbing. Recently, they ascended to a level occupied by very few climbers — individuals who can claim they have climbed the highest point in the 48 contiguous states.

Four years ago the Nelsons were interviewed for a feature in The Times. At the time they had taken their enthusiasm for climbing to new heights by attaching a "rock climbing wall" to their house. It was to be used for practice because they had joined a club called the Highpointers and had set out to climb every state's highest point.

There are only 49 people in the United States who can document that they have climbed the highest point in all 50 states. Ray, 58, and Jan, 56, have completed the 48 contiguous high point climbs to become the 94th and 95th individuals and only the second couple to attain this feat.

It has been estimated that to climb 48 of the highpoints in the United States, an individual would climb 108,965 vertical feet, and fly, drive or hike over 90,000 miles. Ray and Jan agree, and add they would hate to see how many rolls of film they have shot.

The Highpointers Club was started in 1987 by Jack Longacre and is for people who have or wish to stand on the highest point of all 50 states. Members of the club are on their honor when documenting their climbs, but Ray and Jan say club members are real meticulous when it comes to record keeping. They also tend to be very goal-oriented. Ray and Jan said they document everything with pictures, written documents, and some with rocks or soil samples. Some individuals seem so goal-oriented that they have taken on other goals, such as climbing all of the high points in counties, or traveling through all counties of the United States, or going to all of the geographic low points in the United States. Ray politely calls them "real numbers people".

On August 29, 1996, the Nelsons scaled Mt. Rainier to complete their goal of ascending the high points in the 48 contiguous states. It took them just one month less than six years to complete the goal.

Roy and Jan began their love affair with climbing while hiking together on their honeymoon in the Canadian Rockies.

Ray and Jan plan most of their climbs on or near their wedding anniversary. It's something they both love and love to do together.

In 1974 they sold their home, stored their furniture, quit their jobs and with two daughters, ages 4 and 6, started traveling and hiking throughout the western United States and Canada. They were fascinated by the mountains.

Reid Froiland

Kate Ihle

Froiland, Ihle nominated for LHS AAA award

Kate Ihle and Reid Froiland, seniors at Lincoln high school, have been nominated for the Academics, Arts and Athletics (AAA) award, according to Terry Sime, principal.

Established in 1988, the award is sponsored by the Minnesota State High School League and the AAA Clubs of Minnesota. It goes to high school seniors with a 3.0 or higher grade point average who participate in League-sponsored athletic programs and fine arts activities such as theater, speech, music and debate.

The daughter of Paul and Carol Ihle, Kate is active in the National Honor Society, Knowledge Bowl, mock trial, German club, math league, Key Club, Close-Up, Project 4-Teens, speech and school play.

She is a National Merit Scholarship Corporation semi-finalist, a member of the Academic All-State tennis team, a Governor's Scholar, earned an academic letter and is an honor roll student. She participates in tennis, track and field, cross country, basketball and girls hockey and is a member of the wind ensemble, pep band and marching band.

Kate is a class officer and member of the Snofest royal court and teaches Sunday school, is a Bible school assistant and member of the church youth choir.

The son of Barry and Susan Froiland, Reid is active in the National Honor Society, Knowledge Bowl, math league, [illegible], Close-Up, Target, Project 4-Teens, technical lighting club, pep band, orchestra and wind ensemble.

He is a participant in All-State Band, All-State Jazz Band, Northland Community and Technical college honors band, U of M—Duluth honors band and northern regional science fair.

Reid is also a student Rotarian, top 5% scorer in the Minnesota AATSP Spanish exam, top school scorer in AHSME, member of the UND Culture Bowl champion team, student manager for football and boy's basketball and does lighting and technical work in school plays and musicals. He created football statistics software, is a private piano student and serves as an accompanist for church worship services and Sunday school.

The State High School League's administrative regions review the Triple A award nominees. The top two finishers in each region will be invited to a special banquet at the St. Paul Civic Center on Saturday, March 22, where league officials will announce the award winners and present the Triple A awards which include certificates, medals, plaques and a four-year $1,000 scholarship. Following the banquet, all of the award nominees will take part in an on-court awards ceremony during the championship game of the state high school boys' basketball tournament.

Nominations for the award are limited to one boy and one girl from each school. Purposes of the program are to (1) recognize and honor high school seniors who have excelled in the classroom, the arts and athletics; (2) elevate academic standards and create greater awareness of League-sponsored activities and their values; and (3) provide League member schools with an opportunity to participate in a statewide program which supports, promotes and recognizes academic and extracurricular achievements.

Activities program reviewed by district activities director

Monday night, Jim Sims, director of student activities in School District 564, presented school board members with an update on Prowler Activities. Sims outlined some of the accomplishments of the 1996-97 school year, presented a report on the number of students participating in activities, and expressed his concerns about Minnesota High School League Classifications for 1997-98.

A number of classifications will change for the 1997-98 school year including football, volleyball, and swimming. According to MSHSL, Sims said, 85 per cent of the coaches voted in favor of the additional classifications. "As I see it, it does give some a better chance of making it to state — there is a lot of pressure to win and to get the big one — job security," Sims said in his report.

Sims was also concerned about enrollment figures. Each school is classified by enrollment figures, he explained. "In Thief River Falls we count ALC students, even though there are no ALC students participating in athletics, we have some 30-ALC students from different districts attending our ALC. They do not participate, yet they are counted in the classification process. This puts our student athletes on an uneven playing field. If we did not count the ALC numbers we would be in the same classification of the Crookstons, eastsides and others who we have competed against since the time of dirt. Yet in another year we may lose that competition. MSHSL says it's the same for everyone, but it is not."

Sims said geographics don't fit into the equation. In football, for example, there were five classifications, and, now there will be six. Thief River Falls will be in Section 8-4A, which includes Alexandria, Little Falls, Fergus Falls, Detroit Lakes, Roseau, and Sauk Rapids.

School board member, Steve Young, said that students will spend more time outside the school.

Sims said yes, it's becoming worse and that's a concern of his.

Young said it sends a poor message when we're in the business of education.

Sims agreed with Young, but said it is their belief that their programs are extensions of the classroom.

Young said he wasn't concerned with the one student in one program but the students involved in multiple programs.

Sims credited teachers and staff for helping students do as well as they obviously have.

Board Chairman Carl Clark said he was concerned that the school district teams won't be able to play against the nearby schools they have played against for many years.

Sims said he hopes the district will continue to play traditional rivals.

Clark also asked about a procedure for evaluating coaches. Sims said he is working on the procedure right now and had provided School Superintendent Jerry Robicheau with some information about an evaluation procedure.

The coaching staff in the district consists of 70 positions — 18 head coaches, four cheerleading advisors and 48 assistants. Of the 18 head positions 11 are full-time teachers and seven are part-time. Of the four cheerleading advisors all are part-time. Of the 48 assistants, 26 are full-time teachers and 22 part-time. Of the 18 head positions, only six are in the building they should be in for maximum communications, opportunity and observation between student, athlete, and coach. Sims said he strongly believes that management and better use of facility would be enhanced if the coach were in the building of the facility they use.

Participation in school activities were up slightly in the fall and down slightly during winter activities. Sims said as a result, the total is exactly the same as last year — 723. He noted that the totals were the same despite a $15 user fee increase this year. The user fee is $60 at Lincoln High school and $45 at Franklin Middle school. The free and reduced lunch is $30 and $22.50.

Sims didn't think it would be fair to compare gate receipts this year with the previous two years. There have been weather problems

Student council division has convention in Grygla

Northwest Division, Minnesota Association of Student Councils held its spring convention Wednesday, February 19, at Grygla high school—the home school of 1996-97 division president Jill Schuler.

Guest speaker for the program following the noon lunch was Judy Siegle, a quadriplegic who is a social worker for MeritCare Hospital in Fargo, ND and a wheelchair racer who set a national record in the 800 meter event at the 1996 Paralympics in Atlanta, GA. Her theme was "Together We Can Make A Difference."

Maria Peterson of Greenbush-Middle River high school was elected to head the organization for 1997-98.

Other new officers elected are Jenny Ogaard, Ada-Borup, vice president; Alanna Swenson, Bemidji, secretary; Jennica Gallagher, Goodridge, treasurer; and Danny Ophein, Ada-Borup, Trevor Hins, Bemidji, Joey Safranski, Stephen-Argyle and Krista Bot, Roseau, representatives.

Retiring officers in addition to Schuler as president were Becky Hayden, Ada-Borup, vice president; Maria Peterson, Greenbush-Middle River, treasurer; Michelle Mathson, Thief River Falls, secretary; Kelli Hofstad, Oklee; Maura Stadem, Crookston; Alicie Bakken, Thief River Falls; and John Bergman, Ada-Borup, representatives.

Registration for the convention began at 8:30 a.m. with nearly 250 students from throughout the division registered. Nominations and campaign speeches took place during the morning session along with the election and the presentation and adoption of resolutions.

Many door prizes were donated to the division and awarded following the talk by the guest speaker. In a note to The Times, Jill Schuler stated:

"I realize that businesses do get approached often for donations or contributions for student activities for surrounding schools. However, as president of the Northwest Division, Minnesota Association of Student Council, I deeply appreciate the kindness and consideration shown toward me when I approached the following businesses for door prizes for the NWD-MASC convention held in Grygla February 19: Grygla Hartz, Grygla Co-op Store, Steak Knife II, Hugo's, Thief River Jobbing, Northwest Bottling, Arctic Cat Inc., Home Sweet Home, Universal Screenprint and Sjoberg's Cable TV."

Speaker Stresses Goals

In addressing the attentive and somewhat awed audience of students, Siegle drew from her own experiences to stress the values of goal setting and achievement, self worth, facing challenges and making the most of opportunities.

Siegle is a 1979 graduate of Pelican Rapids high school where she excelled in athletics and was involved in many other school activities. In the summer following her high school graduation she was in a car struck by another vehicle containing four students from a nearby school. They had been drinking and ran through a stop sign at an intersection. Two of them were killed in the accident and Siegle received a broken neck.

She went on to earn a bachelor of science degree in speech and communications from Concordia College in Moorhead and a master's

Dead livestock pickup to be started March 15

Spring pickup service of dead livestock for the region is scheduled to begin March 15 and continue through April 15, weather permitting.

Al Gustafson of the Pembina Trail Resource Conservation and Development Association with headquarters in Red Lake Falls said that livestock owners needing this service can call 1-800-450-2482 or 218-253-2482 for more details.

Collection will be available in the counties of Pennington, Roseau, Red Lake, Kittson, Polk, Marshall, Clearwater, Beltrami and Mahnomen. Young said it sends a poor message when we're in the business of education.

Sims agreed with Young, but said it is their belief that their programs are extensions of the classroom.

Young said he wasn't concerned with the one student in one program but the students involved in multiple programs.

Sims credited teachers and staff for helping students do as well as they obviously have.

Board Chairman Cal Clark said he was concerned that the school district teams won't be able to play against the nearby schools they have played against for many years.

Sims said he hopes the district will continue to play traditional rivals.

Clark also asked about a procedure for evaluating coaches. Sims said he is working on the procedure right now and had provided School Superintendent Jerry Robicheau with some information about an evaluation procedure.

The coaching staff in the district consists of 70 positions — 18 head coaches, four cheerleading advisors and 48 assistants. Of the 18 head positions 11 are full-time teachers and seven are part-time. Of the four cheerleading advisors all are part-time. Of the 48 assistants, 26 are full-time teachers and 22 part-time. Of the 18 head positions, only six are in the building they should be in for maximum communications, opportunity and observation between student, athlete, and coach. Sims said he strongly believes that management and better use of facility would be enhanced if the coach were in the building of the facility they use.

Participation in school activities were up slightly in the fall and down slightly during winter activities. Sims said as a result, the total is exactly the same as last year — 723. He noted that the totals were the same despite a $15 user fee increase this year. The user fee is $60 at Lincoln High school and $45 at Franklin Middle school. The free and reduced lunch is $30 and $22.50.

Sims didn't think it would be fair to compare gate receipts this year with the previous two years. There have been weather problems

Froiland, Ihle nominated for LHS AAA award

Kate Ihle and Reid Froiland, seniors at Lincoln high school, have been nominated for the Academics, Arts and Athletics (AAA) award, according to Terry Sollie, principal.

Established in 1988, the award is sponsored by the Minnesota State High School League and the AAA Clubs of Minnesota. It goes to high school seniors with a 3.0 or higher grade point average who participate in League-sponsored athletic programs and fine arts activities such as theatre, speech, music and debate.

The daughter of Paul and Carol Ihle, Kate is active in the National Honor Society, Knowledge Bowl, quick recall, German club, math league, Key Club, Close Up, Project 4-Teens, speech and school play.

She is a National Merit Scholarship Corporation semi-finalist, a member of the Academic All-State tennis team, a Governor's Scholar, earned an academic letter and is an honor roll student. She participates in tennis, track and field, cross country, basketball and girl's hockey and is a member of the wind ensemble, pep band and marching band.

Kate is a class officer and member of the Student royal court and teaches Sunday school, is a Bible school assistant and member of the church youth choir.

The son of Barry and Susan Froiland, Reid is active in the National Honor Society, Knowledge Bowl, math league, envirothon, Close-Up, Target, Project 4-Teens, technical lighting club, pep band, orchestra and wind ensemble.

He is a participant in All-State Band, All-State Jazz Band, North End Community and Technical college honors band, U of M-Duluth honors band and northern regional science fair.

Reid is also a student Rotarian, top 5% scorer in the Minnesota AATSP Spanish exam, top school scorer in AHSME, member of the UND Culture Bowl champion team, student manager for football and boy's basketball and does lighting and technical work in school plays and musicals. He created football statistics software, is a private piano student and serves as an accompanist for church worship services and Sunday school.

The State High School League's administrative regions review the Triple A award nominees. The top two finishers in each region will be invited to a special banquet at the St. Paul Civic Center on Saturday, March 28, where League officials will announce the award winners and present the Triple A awards which include certificates, medals, plaques and a four-year $1,000 scholarship. Following the banquet, all of the award nominees will take part in an on-court awards ceremony during the championship game of the state high school boys basketball tournament.

Nominations for the award are limited to one boy and one girl from each school. Purposes of the program are to (1) recognize and honor high school seniors who have excelled in the classroom, the arts and athletics, (2) elevate academic standards and create greater awareness of League sponsored activities and their values and (3) provide League member schools with an opportunity to participate in a statewide program which supports, promotes and recognizes academic and extracurricular achievements.

Student council division has convention in Grygla

Northwest Division, Minnesota Association of Student Councils held its spring convention Wednesday, February 19, at Grygla high school—the home school of 1996-97 division president Jill Schuler.

Guest speaker for the program following the noon lunch was Judy Siegle, a quadriplegic who is a social worker for MeritCare Hospital in Fargo, ND and a wheelchair racer who set a national record in the 800 meter event at the 1996 Paralympics in Atlanta, GA. Her theme was "Together We Can Make A Difference."

Maria Peterson of Greenbush-Middle River high school was elected to head the organization for 1997-98.

Other new officers elected are Jenny Ogaard, Ada-Borup, vice president; Alanna Swenson, [illegible], secretary; Jessica [illegible], Goodridge, treasurer; and Dianne Opheim, Ada-Borup, [illegible] Huss, Bemidji, Joey [illegible], Stephen-Argyle and Krista [illegible], Roseau, representatives.

Retiring officers in addition to Schuler as president were Becky Hayden, Ada-Borup, vice president; Maria Peterson, Greenbush-Middle River, treasurer; Michelle Mathson, Thief River Falls, secretary; Kelli Hofstad, Oklee; Maura Stadem, Crookston; Alicia Bakken, Thief River Falls; and John Bergman, Ada-Borup, representatives.

Registration for the convention began at 8:30 a.m. with nearly 250 students from throughout the division registered. Nominations and campaign speeches took place during the morning session along with the election and the presentation and adoption of resolutions.

Many door prizes were donated to the division and awarded following the talk by the guest speaker. In a note to The Times, Jill Schuler stated:

"I realize that businesses do get approached often for donations or contributions for student activities for surrounding schools. However as president of the Northwest Division, Minnesota Association of Student Council, I deeply appreciate the kindness and consideration shown toward me when I approached the following businesses for door prizes for the NWD MASC convention held in Grygla February 19: Grygla [illegible], Grygla Co-op Store, Steak Knife II, Hugo's, Thief River Jobbing, Northwest Bottling, Arctic Cat Inc., Home Sweet Home, Universal Screenprint and Sjoberg's Cable TV."

Speaker Stresses Goals

In addressing the attentive and somewhat awed audience of students, Siegle drew from her own experiences to stress the values of goal setting and achievement, self worth—facing challenges and making the most of opportunities.

Siegle is a 1979 graduate of Pelican Rapids high school where she excelled in athletics and was involved in many other school activities. In the summer following her high school graduation she was in a car struck by another vehicle containing four students from a nearby school. They had been drinking and ran through a stop sign at an intersection. Two of them were killed in the accident and Siegle received a broken neck.

She went on to earn a bachelor of science degree in speech and communications from Concordia College in Moorhead and a masters

Thief River Falls is awarded 1998 Governor's Trail Ride

At the Minnesota United Snowmobilers Association (MnUSA) recent Winter Rendezvous held in International Falls, Thief River Falls was awarded the 1998 Governor's Snowmobile Trail Ride.

Awarding of the bid was announced by MnUSA's board of directors and culminates a two year effort by the community to host the event.

The ride is sponsored by the Minnesota Office of Tourism, the Minnesota United Snowmobilers Association, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources and four snowmobile manufacturers. The event kicks off the MnUSA Winter Rendezvous February 13-15, 1998 —the annual meeting and trail ride for the statewide association of 25,000 snowmobilers.

For the past six years, Gov. Arne Carlson has participated in the event to highlight the importance of snowmobiling to Minnesota's economy and to feature the variety of more than 18,000 miles of snowmobile trails in the state.

Each year the Governor's Snowmobile Ride is hosted by a different community in the state. In 1998 the ride will provide northwestern Minnesota with an opportunity to spotlight its bounty of scenic snowmobile trails, as well as the economic impact of snowmobile manufacturing in this area of the state.

The ride will be a round trip between Thief River Falls and Gryglá with lunch and coffee stops along the route. The event begins with an evening reception Thursday, Feb. 12, 1998, in Thief River Falls.

About 400 MnUSA members are expected to ride with Governor Carlson.

For more information on the Governor's Trail Ride of MnUSA Rendezvous, contact the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce at 681-3720.

Benji Saylor (top photo) and Alex Morken, orchestra students in School District 564, will participate in the Young People's concert with the Minnesota Orchestra Thursday, February 27, at Orchestra Hall in downtown Minneapolis. Alex is a senior at Lincoln and Benji is an eighth grader at Franklin.

Students perform in state concert

Two orchestra students from School District 564 have been selected to perform with the Minnesota Orchestra's Young People's Concert "Celebrate the Modern Maestro on February 27 at Orchestra Hall in downtown Minneapolis.

Performing with the Minnesota Orchestra in the final movement of Dvorak's New World Symphony under the direction of Eiji Oue will be Alex Morken, bass and Benji Sayler, violin. Morken is a senior at Lincoln high school and Sayler is in eighth grade at Franklin middle school. Alex is the son of David and Mary Morken and Benji is the son of Ben and Marilyne Sayler.

Orchestra teachers from around the state were given the opportunity to submit names of their students for nomination, according to Derek Druse, orchestra teacher in School District 564. Two students from each participating school were selected from the nominations received.

Due to the demand for tickets, two performances will be presented Thursday, February 27. Two different groups of student musicians will be performing with the Minnesota Orchestra, one at each of the two concerts.

Rehearsal with the Minnesota Orchestra will take place Wednesday, February 26. Because of the lack of tickets for the February 27 concerts, the rehearsal is being opened to the parents of students participating in the orchestra.

Program helps women cancer patients "Look Good...Feel Better"

Imagine a place where women suffering from the side effects of cancer treatment can go to learn how to apply make-up and make themselves feel a little bit better about their appearance.

This is exactly what Look Good...Feel Better is all about. Look Good...Feel Better is a national program to help improve the self-image and self-esteem of women experiencing appearance-related side effects from cancer treatment.

It was founded in 1989, and is a partnership of the Cosmetic, Toiletry, and Frangrance Association (CTFA) Foundation – a charitable organization supported by the cosmetic industry's trade association – the American Cancer Society and the National Cosmetology Association.

Look Good...Feel Better is a one-time support service which offers hands-on, self-help instruction and education by volunteer cosmetologists. It provides a 12-step makeup guide and complimentary makeup kits to each group session participant as well as information and suggestions on wigs, turbans, scarves, nail care and other program materials.

Diane Freeman is the Look Good...Feel Better coordinator. She is in charge of setting up the meeting time, reserving a room, ordering the make-up kits from the American Cancer Society and getting names of participants from Jim Poole, chemotherapy nurse at Northwest Medical Center.

They have been holding the session at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls about three times a year, with the session lasting about one to two hours.

The women who have participated in the program have given much positive feedback about the program. "They love it. They feel like it's a cosmetic party, they can't believe all of the cosmetics they receive," stated Diane Freeman. "It's a fun night for them."

They will run the program even if there is only one person signed up to participate. They want any women suffering from the side effects of cancer treatment to be able to benefit from the program and start the process of feeling better about herself.

All counties have the availability to offer the program, it is only a matter of how active their Cancer Society is. Red Lake County is currently offering the program to its residents. Pennington County does not mind if a women from another county participates in the program offered here, they want all women to be able to take part in it.

Jim Poole coordinates the names of all the women that are undergoing chemotherapy and invites them to participate in the program. They also promote the program so that women who are receiving chemotherapy at another hospital know about it and can become involved if they wish.

Look Good...Feel Better is not only about learning how to apply make-up and looking better, it is also about meeting other women who are going through the same thing.

"It's a nice sharing time for patients. They're sitting next to someone who has been through the same thing," commented Diane Freeman. It is a way for a patient to meet other women in the community who are experiencing the same thing that they are. They can talk with each other and see the different ways women are coping with it.

Pennington County is currently looking for a local comsmotologist who is willing to volunteer her time at the programs. Currently Linda Hoffman of Red Lake Falls County has been conducting the session, but the Cancer Society would like to find someone from this county to participate.

Anyone interested in attending a Look Good...Feel Better program or would like more information may contact Diane Freeman at 681-7129.

World Day of Prayer March 7 at Zion Lutheran

Pictured above is the logo for this years World Day of Prayer which will be held on Friday, March 7 at Zion Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls at 9:30 a.m. The logo represents the seeds of hope.

The 110th annual World Day of Prayer, an international ecumenical worship service, will be celebrated on Friday, March 7. Millions of women around the globe, from tiny rural communities in developing countries to large cities in industrialized nations, will join together on this day for "informed prayer and prayerful action." The observance will take place in Thief River Falls at Zion Lutheran Church at 9:30 a.m.

Written annually by Christian women from one of the 170 participating countries, the 1997 World Day of Prayer was prepared by South Korean women on th theme, "Like a Seed Which Grows into a Tree." WDP was established in Korea in 1922. Christians in Korea comprise approximately 25 percent of the population. Through this service and prayers of the many participants throughout the world, the writers desire to plant seeds of hope, for "An yung" a korean equivalent of Shalom, or peace. They pray for healing and reunification of their country (Korea has been divided into North and South since 1953); for freedom from invasions suffered over many centuries and, in particular, equality and freedom from oppression and abuse for all the women of Korea. They have particular concern for the effects of wars on Korean women, as victims of the A-Bomb, of "comfort women" drafted into sexual slavery and discrimination against Americans.

The worship is built on parables of Jesus Christ referring to seeds: the tiny mustard seed that grows into a large shrub and the ability of a seed to grow and increase depending on the kind of soil it falls upon.

A portion of the World Day of Prayer offerings will be given to grants for projects in Korea. A small percentage is designated for the International Committee for World Day of Prayer to facilitate the writing of services and the broad work of the committee. The remainder goes toward the work and ministries of Church Women United, which serves as the National Committee for World Day of Prayer in the United States. Locally, a portion will be given to the Food Shelf, Violence Intervention Project, and Little Brother/Sister Programs.

ON MY MIND

Kim Chadwick-Quade

Internet Junkie

The saying "Time flies when you're having fun" is no longer applicable. It needs to be changed to "Time flies when you're cyber surfing." That's a clever way of saying that researching subjects on the Internet uses a lot of time that could be spent on more useful tasks like doing the laundry and scrubbing the shower.

When I first read about this supposed "information superhighway" a few years ago, I tuned it out. The technology was more than I could follow. I ignored the talk of the World Wide Web and links and electronic mail thinking that it would either go away or never affect me. I was confident I could survive without this mind-boggling technology.

Then there's the saying: Never say never. I realized this as I sat down at my computer the first day that I became an official user of the Internet; I was online and immediately lost track of time. For two hours I mindlessly clicked from one link to the next (often referred to as "surfing the net"). Soon the clock read 5 p.m. and I hadn't started supper preparations. We ordered pizza.

At first I was an Internet junkie, running to the computer every spare moment to see what cool sites I could find. I quickly discovered that one subject leads to another and another and another. By the time my "mouse" arm started to twitch from overexertion I couldn't remember where I started or what specifically I was looking for.

I started my search with one of my favorite subjects – Belize – and discovered that there were at least 10,000 entries that covered this subject. I scrolled through the first hundred or so before my eyes glazed over and I decided to quit for the night.

I've tried playing online bingo. I've searched for pasta recipes. I looked up information on silent movie stars for my dad. I've found newspapers and magazines. I've played the CNN news quiz. I've looked for "What's New" and "What's Cool." And I've searched for many-a-subject for which I have even a slight interest, just to see what people have to say.

My 6-year-old son likes to help me search for subjects on the Internet. He gives me the idea, and I type and click. Together we watch the pictures unfold on the computer screen.

His first selection was "rabbit." As a photo of a fluffy white bunny appeared on the screen he yelled, "It's Sniffles. It's Sniffles." (Sniffles is the rabbit we acquired by default last spring when he hopped, unattended, into our backyard. We kept him because we didn't know what else to do with him.) Now Sniffles, or an Angora with an uncanny resemblance, was hopping around on the computer monitor. If I ever have a rabbit care question, I now know where I can find the answer.

My son's next request was for (don't ask me why) – sewer. That's as in an underground sewage system not something to do with a needle and thread or sewing machine. According to my son, the search was unsuccessful because there weren't any pictures of what he was looking for.

He was successful on the third search which involved Batman. There were enough colored pictures of Batman, Robin and Catwoman to keep us at the computer for two weeks.

Now when I turn the computer on in the morning he asks if I'm going to search for something. He knows all the lingo and further asks if I'm online and if I'm e-mailing my sister.

I've found that e-mail is an interesting function. In an instant, a message I send on my computer from Minnesota can be transmitted to a computer anywhere in the world. It's an inexpensive way of communicating with people by not having to use long-distance. But it's strange because of who I communicate with – fourth cousins twice removed whom I see only at the family reunion every third year.

We haven't spoken with these people in months, but as soon as we're "online" we're communicating almost every day with almost nothing new to say.

The online world is interesting and amazing. And it's most likely something I can live without. Now if someone would figure out how to put a block on my computer Scrabble game we won't have to order pizza every night.

SPEAKING OF EDUCATION

by Jerry Robicheau
Superintendent
School District 564

Dear Citizens of Independent School District #564:

The last couple of weeks have been good to us as we have not had to cancel school, start late or dismiss early. We're hopeful that will continue and we'll not have to change the calendar any more for this school year. I hope that we haven't caused any inconveniences with buses traveling on plowed roads only. It allows us to concern ourselves with the safety of students and also work in cooperation with the county as they work diligently to make sure the roads are plowed so our buses can get through.

I'd like to thank those individuals who shared their expectations of ISD #564 at our Community Forum on February 8. The Times has very accurately reported what we have identified as the expectations that came out of that forum. We are going to have more of these forums with the intent of soliciting input regarding the expectations of the community for Independent School District #564. I'd like to refer you to the article in the Times where they did list the expectations that came out of the forum. I would invite any of you with questions regarding these expectations to please give me a call.

I'd like to share with you a couple of things regarding the forum. The people who attended do believe that Independent School District #564 is doing a commendable job educating students. Do we have some areas we need to improve on? Absolutely! There are ares that need to be improved and we'll be working on those over the course of the next couple of years. One we need to continue to strive for is more community and parental participation in the educational process. We will continue to solicit community and parent input into the education of students in ISD #564.

Other areas of expectation the Community Forum brought out is that we need to function within the parameters given to us regarding our fiscal responsibilities. We are striving to do that on a regular basis. Based on that expectation of fiscal responsibility, let me share with you some things that will be happening in your school system.

We have done an analysis of our budget and are looking at having to reduce our budget by $220,000. That will be done over the next couple of months. We also recognize that there were three issues that were very prevalent during our levy override: 1) class sizes that are unacceptable; 2) staff development because they want our teachers to continue to become better teachers, and 3) curriculum development. We want to keep current with our curriculum as that is an evolving process and every year there are new areas that we need to explore with students. Consequently, we still need to consider other areas as we balance the budget.

With that in mind, a process will be established in each of our respective buildings (Challenger elementary school, Franklin middle school and Lincoln high school) where we'll be inviting community and parent participation to assist in our budget development. We're looking at a procedure and process where there will be opportunities for parents and community members to react to any budget reductions that will be recommended to the school board.

The first process will be either through the respective buildings where your children are attending, or where you would have an interest in understanding the kind of budget adjustments that are being made. You will hear from the principals of those respective buildings and the leadership teams in those buildings.

Secondly, the school board will be scheduling a public hearing at which time the community will have a chance to react to any budget adjustments that are recommended. This will be an opportunity for community members and parents to give input regarding suggested budget adjustments.

There are a couple of things I'd like to let the community know that we're not able to address given the budget constraints. We will not be able to address all of the class size issues. We are not able to expand any curricular offerings such as advanced placement classes, applied classes, or vocational classes. We are not able to address an immersion class as it relates to perhaps foreign language in the elementary school. We are not able to address additional support systems for students that are having some difficulty such as programs for at-risk students. We are not able to address technology to the level we would like. We will not be able to provide all the classroom support needed. All this is based on the fact that we will not have the resources to be able to provide these programs and continue maintaining the high quality program we have in ISD #564.

In keeping with the expectations that were developed at the Community Forum, we will operate our programs within the constraints of the budget that is given to us. The other thing this budget will not do is give us the latitude to be able to address the graduation standards mandated by the Department of Education. We have students who may not meet those standards. We will need to address those standards and provide some remedial classes so the student will be able to meet them. We're not going to be able to do that in this round of budget reductions. As we take a look at where we'll be two or three years down the road, this is one of the areas we will need to address as we have an obligation to give our students the educational opportunities they deserve.

This is a very difficult time for our school district as we take a look at trying to make some budget adjustments. It's critically important that the funding of schools be more consistent. We need consistency in our funding so we can plan for three or four years down the road as it relates to curriculum, what we need to offer, the ability to provide for those students who attend our schools at the highest quality they are entitled to receive, class size, and classroom support.

We'll be considering ways to establish consistency over the course of the next several months and we'll need your support in the community for that endeavor. In subsequent articles, I will be addressing ways the district has developed a more efficient operation and some of the cost savings we've had over the last several years. These are questions that have been raised within the community and you, as citizens of ISD #564, have a right to know as we continue on this path of building relationships and opening up communications between the community and the school system.

If at any time you have a concern or question, please give me a call at 681-8711 or write to me at the School District Service Center, ISD #564, 230 South LaBree Avenue, Thief River Falls. I also invite you to provide me with suggestions you might have of ways that we can enhance our communication process. Are there other means by which you would like to receive information regarding what is happening in your school system? Please forward those suggestions to me at the address shown above. I look forward to hearing from you at your convenience.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Megan Browning
Lincoln High School

Although it took a bit of time, Lincoln's second semester finally arrived. The blustery days of January forced everything to slow down, but now school has returned to normal. However, unlike this past fall with students sonically booming about anything and everything, Lincoln's halls have developed a very peaceful atmosphere.

I don't really know what caused this change. Maybe during the cold snow days some sort of chemical change occurred in the paint. It may have entered our systems, and could, at this very moment be restricting our DNA. Some of the Science instructors may not agree with that, but it's more exciting than saying we have all come down with Dirty Snowdrift Disorder.

During the time period before school, many seniors used to sit by their lockers and put the finishing touches on their latest physics assignment. Now these poor victims can only talk about how much they hate Mondays and how great "Star Wars" was.

Valentine's day has caused a lot of people to start thinking about Prom. I hoped that Prom discussions would bring our halls out of their stupor. However, Lincoln is in a very advanced stage of the disease; we might not pull out of it. In the past the only suitable response to descriptions of Prom dresses were squeals and coos that were often known to hurt the ears of dogs in Norway. Last year, most girls were equipped with swatches of fabric in case anyone asked the color of their dress. This year, the few ambitious dress owners nonchalantly search for the closest primary color on whatever ratty notebook has survived their torturous locker chamber. It's obvious that we're in trouble since even Prom Discussions can't rev us up.

I've often heard of the destructiveness of this disease. Personally, I thought I was immune. I took all the proper precautions. I took challenging courses in order to keep me on the ball. I didn't stay up til three in the morning watching old movies and infomercials. Despite everything, I'm mired down in a relaxed, who cares mode. I have a sneaking suspicion that my Dirty Drift Disorder diagnosis will come any day.

Even more shocking than my disease is the fact that I kind of enjoy putting everything off. It's reassuring that my grades were already sent to my colleges. I know that I will be frantically scrambling to finish everything as the quarter draws its last droopy day. Right now, however, I look at the pile of text books and tell myself to get to work, but they usually lie abandoned before "Rosie" takes over the tube.

This disease claims million of high school students every year. In fact, there are about 180 reported cases at Lincoln alone. The halls are festering with irresponsibility yet growing more wonderful to be a part of everyday. The tests and assignments are still looming. The disease has numbed my brain, perhaps, in order to prevent me from going berserk over the enormous tasks ahead.

My antidote is one tablespoon "Strawberry Fields Forever," two cups "Penny Lane," three pinches of "SGT. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band," a couple pounds of "I am the Walrus," and, for good measure, grind up "A Fool on the Hill." Apply these groovy tunes every five minutes. Keep the Beatles blasting and we'll pull through just fine.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

...Armed and Rarely Dangerous

I may have a pistol, but that doesn't make me a pistol-packin' grandma. I can't pack my pistol - I don't have a permit to carry it around - yet.

I tried to get a permit when my son bought me the revolver for protection several years ago, but all I could get was a permit to purchase. Whatever would I do with a permit to purchase - I had a gun - why buy another? But I got the purchase permit anyway, figuring it was better than nothing, because when I had asked what I needed to do to be able to carry the gun with me sometimes, I was asked, "Are you a law enforcement officer?" "No," I answered. "Well, then there is no permit," I was told.

Ok, it is well and good to have a pistol for protection in my house, even if I can't carry it around. If someone should try to break into my house and rob me, at least I have something to threaten the robber with. But what about going on trips? It would be very comforting to have a pistol in my purse if a bad person tried to stop my car and rob me. I did carry the pistol in my purse on a trip or two, properly unloaded and cased, of course, right next to the only permit I had - the permit to purchase.

Today I did some calling around about carrying a firearm and learned some interesting things. I found out that the only people who can carry firearms without a permit are law enforcement officers, of course, and hunters or target shooters. All of the rest of us who want to carry pistols can be charged with a gross misdemeanor if we are carrying a firearm around without a permit. According to the county attorney, a gross misdemeanor carries a fine of $3,000 and/or 1 year in jail. Ouch!

I heard Chief Froschheiser on the radio talking about a firearms bill that is pending in the Minnesota House of Representatives, but I never did hear what he thought of it. I wish his statement hadn't aired over the weekend, because I rarely listen to the radio Saturday and Sunday. I listened Monday, but didn't hear it repeated, and I tried to call him all of Monday but couldn't reach him, so I don't know if he was pro or con on the issue. For that matter, I am not even sure he was commenting on the bill I found.

When I searched the Internet for a bill on firearms pending in the House, I found one that might be the one the chief was talking about. According to the information I dug up, the bill presented would amend the Minnesota Constitution in Article I to include, in part, "...the right of every citizen to keep and bear arms for the defense and security of the person, family, or home, or for lawful hunting, recreation, or marksmanship training is fundamental and shall not be abridged," and it is to be voted on in the 1998 general election. If the amendment comes up for a vote, I'm going to vote for it.

Why should the bad guys be the only ones carrying guns? They carry them around because they don't care about the law, but we law-abiding citizens are unable to carry weapons because we need permits that we can't get. This is not right.

But I found out I can get a permit to carry my pistol - eventually my search led me to speak to Sheriff Moe and he told me, without any hesitation, that there certainly was a permit for that purpose now and that all I had to do was fill out the papers and, if I met the qualifications, I would be able to get the permit. I'm going to get the papers tomorrow and finally be properly permitted to pop the pistol in my purse - just in case I decide to go anywhere dangerous. I'll finally be properly permitted to be packing the pistol and I'll hang on to that permit until the Minnesota Constitution is amended in 1998 (I hope).

Nominations for Acts of Kindness award sought

The "1997 Acts of Kindness Governor's Volunteer Award" seeks nominations of Minnesota volunteers of all ages who make life better for others and who give of themselves to improve their neighborhoods and communities. Created in 1995, this distinguished award program brings recognition and visibility to individuals and groups who contribute their time and talents; it also highlights the significant impact that volunteerism has in our communities.

To ensure that the "Acts of Kindness" program recognizes volunteers throughout the state, Minnesota's 87 counties have been grouped into 16 regions. One volunteer or group of volunteers will be recognized from each region.

A review committee, including representatives from the nonprofit, government and private sectors, will select the 16 award winners based on criteria such as the kind of volunteer work performed, the need addressed and the impact of the service provided. Although the Governor's Volunteer Award recognizes a small number of Minnesota's volunteers, those selected represent the spirit of volunteering that touches the lives of all Minnesotans. Winners will be honored during an award ceremony held at the 1997 Minnesota State Fair.

"Acts of Kindness" is sponsored by the Minnesota Office of Citizenship and Volunteer Services (MOCVS), Department of Administration. MOCVS provides statewide leadership and service to the volunteer community.

To nominate an outstanding volunteer from your community, contact MOCVS for an application form at 612-296-4731, 800-234-6687 or TTY 612-297-4022, 800-657-3783. Nominations must be postmarked by April 30, 1997.

ACTIVITIES

Ice Pictures

The following project is a new way for your child to explore the winter inside and outside!

You will need: a pie pan, sequins, colored foil, paper, ribbon, yarn and water.

Fill a pie pan about halfway with water. Have your child place bits of colored foil, paper, sequins and ribbon in the water. Make a yarn or ribbon loop and place one end in the water. This will be the hanger for the ice picture. Place the pie pan outside or in the freezer until it is solid. Then hang the picture outside your window. It will be fun to see how long it lasts before melting!

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need your time.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse through its new selection of children's books including the following.

Hoban, Tana. Black On White. A wonderful "first book," this book board gives the silhouettes to recognizable items and makes a great selection for young parents to share with young toddlers.

Wells, Rosemary. The Language of Doves. When a grandfather explains to his granddaughter how he came to "speak the language of doves" and make them his friends, his granddaughter feels even closer to him. His death breaks her heart, until suddenly one of her grandfather's doves flies to her window with a small note -- the last one her grandfather wrote -- which is addressed to her and gives her hope for the future.

VIDEO VARIETY

Mike Mulligan and His Steam Shovel. The new animated family special from HBO tells the story from the classic book about Mike Mulligan and his steam shovel, Mary Ann, and how they survive advances in technology.

MAGAZINE MENTION

March is Women's History Month and also the month of Linda Finch's highly anticipated reaction of Amelia Earhart's final flight 60 years ago. What better month to read more about Amelia Earhart and her daring flights than in the February issue of National Geographic World.

Remember that the Thief River Falls public library has preschool storytimes every Wednesday from 11:15 to 11:45 a.m. These are co-sponsored by the Thief River Falls ECFE and Learning Readiness. Also remember to check out the parenting corner by the children's room for new information and helpful hints for busy parents on books, reading and much more.

Help Children Feel Good About Themselves

Here are some simple ideas parents can use to help children feel good about themselves.

- Have confidence in your child. Trust in him to learn from his mistakes and to outgrow aggravating habits he may pick up as he grows. He won't always slam the screen door or leave his shoes in the middle of the room.
- Pay more attention to his strengths than to his "shortcoming." You will find you see more of whichever behavior you focus on most. So thank him when he closes the door quietly.
- Be alert to and encourage your child's natural talents. Have patience with him in the areas in which he doesn't excel. If he is good at printing, ask him to make a poster for the refrigerator door. If he has trouble with numbers, tell him you'll help him with his homework.
- Try to give him the benefit of the doubt when you find your confidence in him lacking. After all, wouldn't you like for him to have the same confidence in you?

Bill would block tobacco sales to minors in state

Endorsed by the House of Representatives in Minnesota recently was a bill that would crack down on the sale of tobacco to minors and give cities the option of taking on further regulations, according to Rep. Tim Finseth of Angus.

House File 117 would require cities and counties to license retail sales of tobacco and to fine and revoke the licenses of stores that repeatedly violate the law. It would also require that tobacco be in the "line of sight" of a store clerk and set minimum penalties for licensees."

"Limiting youth access to tobacco is vital to the health of the state," Rep. Finseth said. "With 25 percent of high school seniors smoking regularly, we need to acknowledge the problem and erect barriers between our kids and smoking-related deaths. One way to do this is to further penalize sellers and take away opportunities for kids to get to cigarettes."

Finseth said an important provision of the bill is that it will allow local governments to enact tougher laws if they choose. A similar bill last year was withdrawn by the author after a provision pre-empting local laws was removed.

"This bill will give cities a minimum standard and allow local governments to enact tougher laws if they choose," Finseth said. "It is a floor from which local communities can set penalties appropriate to the area."

The bill now goes to the senate for consideration.

In 1993 she was featured in a documentary that addresses self-esteem issues involving girls and women in sports. She also serves on the Board of Regents for Concordia College.

An intense competitor, she became interested in wheelchair racing and began competing in that sport. Last summer she participated in the Paralympics following the Olympic Games in Atlanta along with athletes from 120 countries. She took fifth place in the 200 and fourth in the 400 and 800 meter events. In the 800 she set a national record and broke the world record.

Siegle told the students of her feeling of accomplishment when she walked a mile with her walker around the Concordia fieldhouse track during her rehabilitation after her accident. She encouraged her student listeners to do "what they can, where they are, with what they have."

She said when she was urged to venture out of her wheelchair with braces and crutches that she had an intense fear of falling. Finally she came to the realization—although she never did fall, she said, that falling isn't failing, it is just a part of the process.

Everyone has challenges of one sort or another, she reminded the students, and everyone needs a time and a way to vent their emotions. While she had managed to keep her days positive, she said, her nights were filled with restlessness and nightmares. She eventually overcame that challenge as well.

Stating that self-esteem is crucial to just about everything in life, she challenged the young people to "dare to take risks, step out and stretch yourselves."

She also urged them to take care of themselves, to exercise their whole selves, both physically and mentally. She asked them to repeat with her: "A am loveable. I am capable."

"Don't stop reaching for more knowledge," she advised. "You are somebody's hero....God in His grace has given us this day to make a difference....The gift of life is precious; no one can touch the world like you.

Meeting on Highway 11

To give area residents an opportunity to share their opinions on the intersection at Highway 11 and the access road to Lake of the Woods high school, Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls and Rep. Jim Tunheim of Kennedy will conduct a public meeting Saturday, March 1, at Lake of the Woods high school west of Baudette.

Joining the legislators at the meeting will be officials from the state transportation and public safety departments.

The legislators said they have been contacted by several area people who are concerned about the intersection. As motorists increase speed when leaving Baudette on Highway 11, drivers leaving the high school are attempting to pull out onto the roadway. Although there has been only one minor accident at the intersection, there is concern that it will be only a matter of time before a major accident happens.

MnDOT has opposed previous requests to post slower speed limits on the road adjacent to the school property or place yield flashers at the intersection. The department's position is that there is not enough traffic to justify such changes, and that posting a slower speed limit could actually have an adverse effect on safety at the intersection.

Members of the public will have the opportunity to speak to the agency officials and their elected officials. Anyone interested is encouraged to attend.

Together We Can Make A Difference

Judy Siegle of Fargo, ND, a quadriplegic who has won numerous awards for her accomplishments and broke a world record in wheelchair racing at the Paralympics in Atlanta, GA, last summer, was guest speaker for the Northwest Division, Minnesota Association of Student Councils, last Wednesday in Grygla high school.

Lincoln math team finishes league season

Lincoln high school math team completed its competition in the Northern Lights division of the Minnesota Math League Monday with a fifth place finish in the year's cumulative scoring.

Bemidji high school placed first in the league and will advance to state competition. Other teams in the division are Breckenridge, Bagley, Blackduck and Kelliher. The season consisted of five meets involving all six teams in the division in individual and team competition.

Lincoln's team members were Reid Froiland (who placed third in the season's individual standings), Senja Lopac, Curtis Ness, Kate Ihle and Megan Browning. Since up to eight team members can participate in the scoring, Lincoln competed short-handed throughout the season, according to coach Sharon Bruno.

Lawmakers are working to put snow emergency relief legislation on a fast track and the measure could win final House approval this week, according to Rep. Jim Tunheim of Kennedy.

"We want to get this bill through the process as quickly as possible and get money flowing to the communities that need help coping with the effects of winter," Rep. Tunheim said.

The $20 million bill was scheduled to be heard by the House Ways & Means Committee last week. With approval there, it could be up for passage on the House floor by February 27. A three-way division of funds is provided in the bill:

• $7 million earmarked to the 49 Minnesota counties covered by the federal disaster declaration. This would help provide matching funds to let local governments receive federal disaster aid.

• $7 million available statewide to help local governments cover the cost of snow removal and other weather related emergency expenses. The aid would be distributed on a formula based on average snow removal spending in past years.

• $6 million available statewide to help local governments cope with flooding expected after the record snows melt in the spring. If all of this funding is not needed, it will be added to the snow removal aid fund.

Farmers, other individuals and small business owners who suffered damage from the weather probably will not see any direct relief from the state. However, many may be able to qualify for aid and loans under the federal disaster declaration.

Anyone with questions about this or other legislative matters may contact Rep. Tunheim at 509 State Office Building, 100 Constitution Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55155-1298, phone 612-296-9635 or on the web, rep.jim.tunheim@house.leg.state.mn.us

St. Hilaire Lions plan 14th auction

In its major fund-raising effort of the year, the St. Hilaire Lions Club will sponsor its 14th annual community auction Sunday, March 9, starting at 9:30 a.m. at the National Guard armory in Thief River Falls.

Major beneficiaries of the event are the graduates of Lincoln high school who are hosted at a post graduation party. Most of the proceeds from the auction go toward sponsoring this event, which begins around midnight on graduation night and continues with games, food and prize drawings into the early morning hours.

According to Ron McKercher, one of the organizers of the auction as well as one of the volunteer auctioneers, the sale is anticipated from year to year by many people who give items to consign or donate to it. Most of the items are consigned, he added, with the club adopting a sliding scale of commission percentage from seven to 25 percent—with the higher valued items having the lower commission rates.

Sharing the coordinator duties with McKercher are Jerry Hasnedl and Neil Peterson. Each handles a particular area of the event and the entire club membership of about 50 people is involved in one way or another.

"You can bet that if any of our members are in the area, they will be working on the auction," McKercher said. "We will have about 10 people involved with preparing and serving lunch (barbecued turkey is the specialty) and about 15 helping in the sales ring, plus clerks and cashiers and others. Members are involved in setting up the sale on Saturday and in going out to pick up items if the owners can't bring them to the armory themselves."

The latter service has been popular with some consigners, although most regulars are in the habit of hauling up their items and bringing them to the armory themselves. It isn't unusual for items to come from a 50-mile radius and by sale time there will be around 1,200 items consigned from 75 to 100 people or more.

Some of the items are new—as consignments from businesses or dealers or perhaps as unused gifts—but most of the items are "pre-owned" as the term is applied today. These will include such things already listed as three-wheel and four-wheel ATVs, lawn mowers, tools, bicycles, antiques, guns, appliances, household furniture, at least one boat (this may be the spring to have one!) and about a dozen vehicles. Always a popular item, guns will be sold at 12 noon.

The auction takes on a bit of a different twist from most auctions in that many of the larger and more salable items will be sold early in the sale.

McKercher, who will be joined by Mick Rapacz of Argyle and perhaps others as auctioneers, said that experience has shown that justice wasn't done to major items by selling lesser items first. And there are always buyers among the usual 400 to 450 registered bidders for the boxes and buckets of assorted items that will close out the sale sometime early Sunday evening.

For persons too impatient to wait for an auction item to spend their money, the Moonlighters Lioness club will conduct a rummage sale in the meeting room area of the armory. Items may be consigned or donated to that event on Saturday, March 8.

"You never know what will show up on the auction, and that's one of the things that makes it interesting and fun," McKercher said. "Over the years we've sold puppies, a Mercedes, $3,000 to $4,000 boats, slaves (designated hours of a person's time), coupons donated from businesses and other unusual items. One person took a bunch of toys out of a sandbox and tied them together expecting to get five bucks for the bunch. There was an old toy tractor in there that somebody wanted and the bids went to $200."

Although the auction posters have been prepared and advertising of specific items arranged, anyone may still consign items to the sale. Just bring them to the armory on Saturday, March 8, or call one of the sale coordinators to arrange to have the items picked up. Call Jerry Hasnedl at 964-5369, Neil Peterson at 681-7681 or Ron McKercher at 964-5548.

Carlye Schuler on dean's list at Notre Dame

Carlye Schuler, daughter of Kim and Susan Schuler of Grygla, has been named to the dean's list at the University of Notre Dame for outstanding scholarship during the fall semester.

Dean's list students have maintained a scholastic average of 3.4 or higher. Schuler is a 1995 graduate of Grygla high school and a sophomore in the university's College of Business Administration, majoring in finance and international business.

While climbing, the Nelsons make sure they take plenty of breaks. They usually bring with them whatever equipment makes them comfortable, such as these cushioned chairs that provide support for their backs. The Nelsons are members of the Highpoint Club.

At the top of Mt. Rainier, Jan and Ray Nelson of Thief River Falls, posed for this picture. The two are active climbers and members of the Highpointers club.

High above the plains a long line of climbers make their way across a snow field on their way to the top of Mt. Rainier. Jan Nelson of Thief River Falls (far right), was among those climbers.

Ray and Jan Nelson climb highest points in 48 contiguous United States

Mt. Rainier was especially impressive but their children were too young to climb it then. They knew they would return and on their 25th wedding anniversary in June of 1988, they did. Unfortunately, heavy snows kept them from reaching the summit.

Ray explained that their highpoint quest to climb the 48 high points began in September of 1990 when they climbed Mt. Whitney and several other mountains in the Sierras. The next summer they climbed Mt. Elbert and Long's Peak. In signing the registers at the mountains they noted references to "HP's". In an outdoors magazine they finally learned that the initials stood for Highpointers and they promptly joined this strange group.

"The greatest part of the club is all the friendships that we have developed," said Ray.

In the nearly six years it took to complete their odyssey, they have yet to have a serious injury. They credit good conditioning, training, and experience with keeping them out of serious trouble — yet there have been times when they have had second thoughts.

Their toughest day was on Gannett Peak in Wyoming. They climbed 6,600 vertical feet in one day, ran out of water, and weren't feeling very well. On Black Mesa in Oklahoma they got caught in a storm and hid among the rocks in rain and hail, while lightening cracked about them. On Long's Peak the wind was blowing so strong at "Keyhole", a location on the mountain, they thought they might be blown off the mountain. On one mountain they slid nearly 2,000 feet on their rears, a technique called glissading.

They are trained mountain climbers and occasionally use ropes and guides to help them on difficult climbs, but they enjoy that aspect of climbing.

Despite their success, Ray has been given the name "Krash" Nelson because of a couple of incidents in which he fell (Highpointers use "K" for crash and convention because of spelling mistakes in previous club newsletters.)

Jan explained that Ray has fallen, scratching his face or knees, at the Highpoint Konvention two years in a row. On one climb he slipped on a rock while crossing a stream at 3 a.m.

Highpoints are too many to recount, but their favorite mountain was Granite Peak in Montana (12,799 feet). It was technically their most difficult because they had to do some rock climbing.

"Every time you go out climbing, you learn something," said Jan.

Ray said the three most important things they have learned is what to take, when to turn back, and to watch the weather. Planning is very important they said.

Ray and Jan are meticulous when it comes to planning out their trips. They not only plan what to pack, but how to get there, and what to see along the way. Careful planning has allowed them to complete many of their highpoint climbs in one trip. One year they reached 17 high points during a two-and-one half week vacation. In another year, they climbed 13 high points during a vacation out east.

The Nelsons have filled several photo albums with pictures and stories about their trips. Their enjoyment of climbing will probably never end, but their pursuit of climbing all 50 might be at an end. The two remaining climbs on their list is Mauna Kea in Hawaii, and Mt. McKinley in Alaska.

Climbing Mauna Kea in Hawaii is possible, but Jan wonders whether Mt. McKinley would be worth it. Such a climb would require expensive new equipment capable of keeping them warm and safe, rescue insurance, a five-day pre-climb seminar, a training and conditioning seminar, guides and travel costs. It has been estimated that such a venture could cost $16,000. Jan said they could go trekking in Nepal for much less.

Their climbing ways worry and sometimes exasperate their daughters. Ray and Jan said their two daughters worry that one day they'll wander into the mountains and disappear forever. During a serious discussion with their daughters they asked them to spread their ashes over Granite Peak when they die. They laughed when their daughters asked if they could do it by helicopter.

Their love for each other and love of climbing has inspired them to attain their goals together. They also find inspiration in a saying of a friend — "Highpointing is bringing the hearts and minds to the top of the world.", and from Alfred Tennyson who wrote Ulysses. Jan particularly enjoys the strains:

"Tho' much is taken, much abides; and tho'
We are not now that strength which in old days
Moved earth and heaven, that which we are, we are,
One equal temper of heroic hearts,
Made weak by time and fate, but strong in will
To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield."

Activities director reviews program and a number of cancelations. He said he suspects gate receipts are down.

Donations to the activities programs were in excess of $25,000 in each of the last two years. Sims said he is worried that donations will drop soon due to some problems with pull tab operations.

Prowler activities have recorded a number of accomplishments during this year. The football team was section runner-up and state academic champion for the third year in a row. The girls tennis team was Section 8-AA academic champions and finished over 500 in dual meets. The JV team was 10-0. The girls and boys cross-country teams were section academic champions in 1996. Chelsea Haviland, a seventh grader, finished second at sections and advanced to state, which is unheard of for a seventh grader. The volleyball team finished the season 13-9 and 5-3 in tournaments. Luke Davis won the section in wrestling and has advanced to state. The hockey team finished its season Saturday night 6-16-1 and lost a record five games by one goal. The JV team had 11 losses by one goal. The boys basketball team is coming off three good performances. The girls basketball team will be entering tournaments and has a good shot at the Sectional Title. In Fine Arts, the band, choir, orchestra have had outstanding concerts and several individuals reach All-State. Mock Trial team is in the sectional finals. Kate Ihle is one of three girl finalists for Section 8-AA Triple "A" Award. The Science Fair was a huge success. The Environmental team had another outstanding year. One-act plays were outstanding and speech is in full gear. Sims apologized to the board for possibly missing some of the outstanding team and individual performances.

The job of district clinician for the Graduation Rule program is becoming a bit too much for one person. Terry Soine, principal of Lincoln High school, said many districts have two people working on the Graduation Rule. He said the district will soon need a steering committee, which might have some sub-committees. He said he's not abrogating his duties, but feels it is very complicated, time consuming, and in need of input from other people. He said he will be discussing it with the superintendent, and Glenn Chudrison.

Robicheau said Soine's responsibilities have been great. He will remain involved, especially at the high school. He added that they are looking at phasing the process.

During the meeting Monday night, Soine outlined the graduation rule, which is emersed in semantics problems. There are 62 content standards. Eighteen categories are required of all students, plus the "another language" of the high standard level in the high school and sufficient elective standards to qualify students for graduation with at lest developmental work on 24 total standards. The majority of these categories and standards will be integrated into the curriculum.

Robicheau said that when a student graduates from Lincoln High school he or she will have met the same standards all students have met from schools across Minnesota.

The School Board is considering a conversion of referendum authority. Harry Nelson, business manager, explained the school district really has no choice. The conversion involves converting the $400,000 referendum passed many years ago. As a result of some legislation it is actually somewhat less, totaling about $190,000 now. In three years, if the board has not done anything, the district would lose it all. If it acts now, which Nelson said was the "most opportune time", it would have a full 10-year period. What the conversion does is shift more of the tax burden from commercial and manufacturing properties to residential properties. He said in general it would mean about $5 on a $100,000 home, and a $9 decrease on commercial property.

The school board recognized the following accomplishments and donations: Kate Ihle was named a finalist for the 1997 National Merit Scholarship Program, the Eagles Club donated $500 to the Academic Boosters club for their Academic Letter breakfast and $100 to train volunteers for the Junior Great Books program; donations from the following for the 1997 Lincoln High School Science Fair — Pennington County Soil and Water Conservation District, Morning Kiwanis, Digi-Key, Northern State Bank, Audubon Society, American Association of University Women, Rotary, Pennington County American Cancer Society, Thief River Falls Academic Boosters, Northland Woodcrafters, Northland Retired Educators, Northwest Eye Center, Kenton Kainz, Anderson Power and Equipment, D & J Radio, First National Bank, Eagles, LHS Science Teachers, and LHS Environmental Club, the Kiwanis club donated $150 to purchase blankets to protect children in the Preschool Program in the event of fire/fire drill evacuations.

From the Consent Agenda, the school board accepted the following personnel items: the resignation of Greg Monson as After-School coordinator at Franklin, the resignation of Gerald Wilson as cleaner, the employment of Charles Walrath as sixth grade science teacher; the employment of James Johnson as temporary delivery person, the employment of Pamela Aaland as pupil/program support assistant at Challenger.

The board approved a policy on the district contingency fund.

With regret and thanks for many year's of service, the board accepted the resignation of Walt Redinger, eighth grade teacher at Franklin Middle school.

With regret and thanks for many years of service, the board accepted the resignation of Mike Lehrer, instrumental music teacher at Franklin Middle school.

The board accepted the superintendent's recommendation to establish a policy regarding licensed staff evaluations.

The board denied the grievance filed by Carolyn Haugen.

The board scheduled a meeting with the Thief River Falls City Council and Pennington County board of commissioners to hear an update on the Multi-Events Cultural Center on Monday, March 3, at 12 noon at the Evergreen Eating Emporium.

Oval racers take off from the starting line of one of the longest running snowmobile races in existance today. Last weekend, it was the 30th consecutive snowmobile race in Strathcona. It included a cross-country and oval race.

Jason Johnson of Fargo, ND, placed first in the Pro 440 oval of the 30th Annual Strathcona race held last weekend. Johnson was among the many competitors.

Arland Stenvik of Goodridge raced across the finish line at the races in Strathcona last weekend without the hood of his snowmobile. Stenvik was racing in the Fan 440 division.

Jim Wilson tries to hold his snowmobile low over a road crossing. Wilson was competing in the 30th Annual Strathcona race last weekend. Unfortunately for Wilson he ran into some trouble and was unable to finish. Wilson has repeatedly placed high in the circuit.

Strathcona hosts fast racing action

Troy Taggert of Newfolden was the winner in the Pro 440 division of the 1996 Roetin North Star Series and 30th Annual Strathcona races held last weekend. Taggert was among many other winners during the weekend of racing.

Cross-country race organizer, Jerry Erickson said the race went well and he credited the Strathcona Community Club for its success. He said the course was well marked and the weather was great. He said he was proud to be a part of the 30th consecutive race in Strathcona. It is one of the longest running races in snowmobile racing.

Dale Cloose of Thief River Falls had a serious accident during the accident. Erickson said Cloose was nearing the finish of the first lap on Sunday when his sled hit a bump and Cloose hit his face on the handle bar adjuster, breaking his nose, eye sockets and pallet of mouth. Erickson said he had talked to Cloose and he was in good condition. He was expecting to have surgery on Tuesday or Wednesday and was hoping to be out of the hospital on Thursday so he could watch the weekend snowmobile races.

■ TRF senior wins Section 8AA wrestling title

Thief River Falls senior Luke Davis is headed to the 1997 Minnesota state high school wrestling tournament after a championship performance in the individual portion of the Section 8AA tournament held Friday and Saturday at Bagley.

Davis, wrestling at 152 pounds, improved his season record to 22-4 with three Section 8AA tournament wins. He pinned Justin Wilson of Park Rapids Area in 16 seconds in the quarterfinals, handled John Geralli of Roseau 12-1 in the semifinals, and stopped T.J. Larson of Red Lake County Central 4-2 in the finals.

"He (Davis) had a good tournament," said Thief River Falls coach John Belyea. "He wrestled well, he wrestled smart."

Luke Davis is the first Thief River Falls state meet qualifier since Joel Davis, his brother, in 1992.

Two other Prowlers coming up with place finishes at the Section 8AA meet were Adam Kuck and Kyle Nelson, fifth at 160 and 171, respectively.

Belyea looked for Davis, Kuck, Nelson and John Swanson (119) to be contenders for state tournament spots that went to the top two sectional finishers. Swanson, a seventh grader, lost a first round match, Kuck, a senior, lost in the quarterfinals, and Nelson, a senior, reached the semifinals.

"John just ran into older, stronger kids," explained Belyea. "Adam and Kyle wrestled well, but they both had one bad match."

The state meet, featuring individuals and team competition in Class AAA, AA and A, will be held at the St. Paul Civic Center Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

First-day competition starts with opening round Class AA individual matches at 8 a.m., followed by Class AA individual quarterfinal round matches at 10 a.m.

Alexandria wins swimming title

Alexandria was an easy winner in the 1997 Section 8 boys high school swimming and diving championships held Friday and Saturday in the Cardinals' pool.

The champions racked up 549 points to finish well ahead of second place Brainerd/Pillager with 352, followed by Bemidji with 286, Moorhead 183, Melrose/Sauk Centre 168, Detroit Lakes/Frazee/Perham 146, Morris Area/Chokio-Alberta 137, Fergus Falls/Hillcrest Lutheran Academy 109, Thief River Falls 91, Park Rapids Area 73, Crookston/Fertile-Beltrami 57, and Little Falls/Staples-Motley/Verndale 47.

Top two finishers in each swimming event, along with the top six divers, earned state meet spots.

The Prowlers did not advance a swimmer to the state meet, scheduled to be held Friday and Saturday at the University of Minnesota Aquatic Center in Minneapolis, but Thief River Falls co-head coaches Brian Olson and Shon Thompson were satisfied with the team's performance.

"The meet went well," said Olson. "The competition was tough. Alexandria is really strong."

Top eight finishers in the Friday prelims swam in the Saturday finals, while the 9-through-12 places competed in the consolation races.

Thief River Falls' lone qualifier in the finals was freshman Zach Olson, who was fourth in the 500 freestyle.

Olson, along with seniors Chris Prihula in the 500 freestyle and Josh Engevik in the 100 backstroke, turned in strong performances, said Brian Olson, as did the 200 medley relay team of Engevik, Matt Gustafson, William Packard, and J.J. Efta.

Wolverines lose to Tri-County 76-51

A tough week for the Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke girls high school basketball team ended Thursday with a 76-51 loss to Tri-County in Grygla.

That setback came on the heels of a 57-30 defeat at the hands of East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 57-30 the previous Thursday and a 66-36 loss to Kittson Central two days later.

"We're having a real tough time right now," admitted Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Mike Gast. "We're struggling."

The Wildcats doubled the Wolverines 16-8 in the first quarter, had a 37-20 halftime cushion and opened up a 50-27 third quarter spread.

Needing 26 points to hit the 1,000-point mark for her high school basketball career, Tri-County junior Anna Bogestad hit that figure on the nose with 20 seconds left. Sophomore Dana Wiseth led the Wolverines with 16 points.

"We're playing some young kids, and they're doing a pretty decent job," noted Gast.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke shot 35 percent from the field (17/48) and made 15 of 18 free throws. Tri-County shot 48 percent from the floor (25/52) and had a busy 23-for-37 free throw night while out-rebounding the Wolverines 24-20.

TRF boys pick up first road win

Thief River Falls boys won for the first time on the road this winter Friday when the Prowlers picked up a 48-43 high school basketball victory over Warren-Alvarado-Oslo.

Anthony Hendrickson scored 15 points and Jared Brandt had 10 as the Prowlers won for the first time in eight road games.

It was close throughout. Thief River Falls led 10-8 at the end of the first quarter. The teams went into halftime tied 21-21, and Thief River Falls had a 35-33 edge at the close of the third quarter.

"It was a good basketball game," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke. "We did some good things down the stretch to win the game. We played good team defense, and we made the free throws when we really needed them. We're really happy with the results."

Jarod Steer led the Ponies with 10 points.

Thief River Falls was 15-for-38 from the field (49 percent) and 17-for-28 at the free throw line. Warren-Alvarado-Oslo went 15-for-46 from the floor (33 percent) and had a 5-for-11 free throw night. The Ponies out-rebounded the Prowlers 26-24, but also had more turnovers, 21-17.

North Sub-Section 8AAA girls slated at Concordia

Concordia College in Moorhead is playing host to the first North Sub-Section 8AAA girls high school basketball tournament this week.

Crookston was seeded No. 1 in the four-team field, followed by No. 2 Detroit Lakes, No. 3 Thief River Falls, and No. 4 Fergus Falls.

Winner will meet the South Half champion in the state tournament-qualifying Section 8AAA final Friday, March. 7, at 7 p.m. at Moorhead State University.

Thief River Falls finished the 1996-97 regular season at 12-10, which included a 3-3 record against North Sub-Section 8AAA teams. The Prowlers lost twice to Detroit Lakes, 51-46 and 64-54; swept Fergus Falls 49-44 and 52-50, and split with Crookston, losing 63-46 and winning 65-64 in overtime.

The Section 8AAA winners will face the Section 7AAA champion in a Class AAA state tournament quarterfinal game March 18 at Hibbing.

NCTC women state-bound

This one was a lot tougher than the other two, but Northland locked up a berth in the 1997 Minnesota Community College Conference women's state basketball tournament Friday with a regular season-ending 54-46 Northern Division win over Itasca in Grand Rapids.

The Pioneers, who will meet Worthington in the 1 p.m. state tournament opener at Anoka-Ramsey, beat Itasca easily in two earlier meetings – 73-26 in a Jan. 24 MCCC game and 77-39 in a more recent nonconference match-up. But both of those games were played in Thief River Falls, and neither had a state tournament berth in the balance.

Friday, the Pioneers could come up with just a four-point, 29-25 halftime lead, and were clinging to a three-point edge with a minute-and-a-half to go before finally securing the win that put them at 14-7 and extended the season another week.

"It was not a good performance," acknowledged Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We were lucky to win. They (Vikings) play much better on their home court, and we obviously didn't play that well."

Jenny Smith scored 13 points to lead the Pioneers, while Naomi Wilebski and LaVonne Nelson both netted 13. Carrie Soderman and Janice Steinkopf led the Vikings with 12 points each.

Northland was 19-for-60 from the field (32 percent) and 15-for-28 from the free throw line, where Itasca was a quiet 4-for-8. The Pioneers turned the ball over 28 times.

The Pioneers finished 7-5 in the MCCC and will go into the state tournament at the No. 3 team from the Northern Division. Worthington is 12-7 overall and 8-2 as the No. 2 finisher in the Southern Division.

"I'm a little apprehensive heading into the state tournament after the way we played the last couple of weeks," admitted Nikunen. "I'm real concerned going in. We're just not playing real well right now. But we're going to make some adjustments, and hopefully we'll be ready to go Friday."

Central Lakes is the defending state and national champion, but Nikunen looks for a competitive state tournament field this time around. "I think there's more parity this year," he said. "It'll be a case of who can put together three good games."

While the women's tournament is being conducted Friday through Sunday at Anoka-Ramsey, the MCCC men's state tournament will be run Thursday through Saturday at Minneapolis Community College. The Northland men, the defending Northern Division champions, did not make a return trip this year.

MCCC Women's Basketball

■ Northern Division - Central Lakes 12-0 (18-3 overall), Vermilion 7-5 (14-0), Northland 7-5 (14-7), Fergus Falls 6-6 (12-10), Rainy River 8-4 (13-6), Itasca 1-11 (2-19), Mesabi 1-11 (2-18)

Eagles' rally overtakes Rams

Grygla-Gatzke put together a major comeback effort Friday en route to a 66-61 boys high school basketball win over Roseau.

The Eagles spotted the visiting Rams a 19-0 head start and trailed 21-4 at the end of the first quarter. There was still a 36-23 spread at halftime, but Grygla-Gatzke was ahead 49-46 at the close of the third quarter.

Roseau hit the shots at the start of the game and Grygla-Gatzke didn't, explained Eagles coach Vern Johnson. "We just couldn't buy a basket," he said. "In the second half, we started to get shots to drop, our defense got a little tougher, and we did a lot better job rebounding."

Free throw shooting played a major part in the outcome. Grygla-Gatzke was 14-for-18 at the line, including a 7-for-8 showing in the fourth quarter to expand on a one-point lead. Roseau scored 19 points at the line, but missed another 19 free throws that could have put the game out of reach early.

"It was a very emotional win," said Johnson. "The crowd really got into it."

A balanced Grygla-Gatzke offense featured four double figure scorers, including Jim Engelstad and Shaun Verbout with 18 points each. Jesse Lunsetter 11, and Alex Anderson 10. Isaac Lang led Roseau with 21 points, while Scott Petrowski netted 16.

The Eagles' early offensive struggles disappeared into a 53 percent 25-for-47 night. The Rams shot 48 percent from the field (20/42), had a 30-25 rebound advantage and finished with fewer turnovers, 13-11. But the missed free throws caught up to the visitors.

Rams shut out Prowlers 5-0

Thief River Falls' 1996-97 high school hockey season ended just the way it started Friday – with a shutout loss at the hands of Roseau. The Rams, who beat the Prowlers 6-0 in the season opener and also won a 5-1 mid-season match up, skated to a 5-0 Section 8A tournament quarterfinal victory at Warroad to complete the series sweep.

A Thief River Falls team that outshot Indus 74-8 in winning a 24-0 first round Section 8A tournament game earlier in the week had the tables turned Friday. The Prowlers mustered mustered only seven shots on goal and never seriously challenged the shutout bid by Roseau goalie Jamie Simmons.

At the other end of the rink, Thief River Falls freshman Mike Dowers was seeing plenty of action. He kept it reasonably close with a 33-save performance.

"I thought he (Mike) played well," said Thief River Falls coach Pat Cullen. "He didn't give up any easy goals."

Roseau scoring started 3:56 into the game when Andy Lundbohm stickhandled his way through the Prowlers and lifted a close-in backhand over the sprawling Dowers.

It became 2-0 at the 12-minute mark when Paul Baumgartner scored off a 2-on-1 rush with Mike Klema – tipping a goal mouth feed under the netminder.

Roseau doubled the margin to 4-0 in the second period when Jesse Modahl scored on a waist-high deflection at 5:13 and Phillip Larson put the puck in the net with a close-in backhand at 7:17.

A third period power play goal completed the scoring as Modahl picked up a rebound in front of the net, took his time, found an opening and hit the target at 6:46.

The loss ended a 6-17-1 campaign for the Prowlers, who had played well, said Cullen, at the end of the regular season.

"It was a frustrating way to end the season," offered Cullen. "I thought we were playing pretty well at the end of the year, but tonight I didn't think we played like we had played the last five-six games. I don't know if we would have ever beat them, but I thought we would give them a better game."

"The main thing," continued Cullen, "was their speed. We couldn't get to the puck. On the big rink like this, they control things."

Scoring

First period - Roseau, Andy Lundbohm (un), 3:50; Roseau, Paul Baumgartner (Mike Klema), 12:00.

Second period - Roseau, Jesse Modahl (Sheldon Olson-Trevor Hammer), 5:13; Roseau, Philip Larson (Josh Olson-Sheldon Olson), 7:17.

Third period - Roseau, Modahl (Larson-Jacob Draeger), 6:46.

Wolverines snap losing streak

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke girls snapped a seven-game losing streak Saturday with a 67-24 high school basketball win over Kittson County North.

The rescheduled make up contest was the regular season finale for the Wolverines, who finished 7-15. Their last victory was a 69-35 decision over the same Kittson County North team back on Jan. 27.

"We played okay," said reported Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Mike Gast. "It was nice to win."

The Wolverines led only 16-10 after one quarter, opened up a 36-14 halftime spread and shut out the Cougars 14-0 in the third quarter.

"We didn't give them many good shots," noted Gast. "They had a tough time getting the ball inside."

Twelve Wolverines put their names in the scoring column, led by Kathryn Stanley with 13 points and Jenny Johnson with 11.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke was 29-for-68 from the field (43 percent) and 12-for-18 at the free throw line. Kittson County North was just 9-for-41 (22 percent) from the field and 4-for-6 at the line. The Wolverines out-rebounded the Cougars 4-19.

MCC boys lose to Storm 56-53

Marshall County Central had the edge in shooting and rebounding, Stephen-Argyle had the advantage in free throws and turnovers. The latter two categories proved decisive Friday as the Storm held off the visiting Nordics 56-53 in boys high school basketball.

It was the final regular season game for the Nordics, who finished 5-17.

The Storm led nearly the whole way, including quarter leads of 14-12, 25-24 and 43-37. The Nordics had a couple of shots for a tie at the end but missed from 3-point range.

Marshall County Central wound up with a 53 percent 25-for-47 shooting performance from the field, but had a quiet 3-for-5 free throw night. Stephen-Argyle, meanwhile, complemented a 40 percent 20-for-50 game from the field with 13-for-18 free throw shooting.

"The difference was at the line, obviously," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "Outside of turnovers, we played very well. We controlled the tempo, penetrated and had a good inside game."

The Nordics' 28-22 rebound edge was negated by 21 turnovers to 11 for the Storm.

Jamie Morberg scored a game-high 20 points for Stephen-Argyle. Mark Augustine and Phil Flickinger scored 18 points apiece to lead the Marshall County Central offense.

Deere, Wolfpack post 69-59 win over Gators

Kittson Central used a 32-point game by Josh Deere and 23-for-30 free throw shooting to beat Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 69-59 Friday in boys high school basketball.

Both teams finished with 22 field goals – with both sides hitting two 3-pointers – so the Wolfpack free throws produced the scoreboard spread over the visiting Gators, who were an accurate, but not as busy, 13-for-18 at the line.

"That was the difference in the game," pointed out Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby, whose team was also victimized by a stretch of turnovers that closed the first half and opened the second half.

The first rash of mistakes found the Gators turning it over eight times in 12 possessions to turn a 20-17 Kittson Central first quarter edge into a 36-27 halftime advantage. When the turnovers resumed at the start of the third quarter, the Gators found themselves looking at a 15-point deficit, and they never recovered.

"We played a pretty good ball game, except for those two stretches where we turned the ball over," noted Sparby.

Jeremy Vacura led the Gators with 16 points.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 22-for-55 from the field (40 percent), while Kittson Central hit 22 of 45 (49 percent). The Gators had a 33-21 rebound advantage, but also topped the turnover charts 18-15.

Spuds' balance beats TRF

Moorhead lost a 54-50 decision on a Jan. 17 visit to Thief River Falls, but a Friday rematch went the other way as the Spuds beat the visiting Prowlers 62-53 in girls high school basketball.

It was the 1996-97 regular season finale for the Prowlers, who finished 12-10.

Thief River Falls, after trailing 15-11 at the first quarter stop, took a 25-24 lead into halftime, but fell behind again in the third quarter, 43-37.

Moorhead balance withstood a game-high 25-point effort by Thief River Falls' Kim Stenseth. The Spuds countered with a 13-point game by Mandy Isabell, 12 by Beth Gilyard, 11 by Stacy Van de Loo, and 10 by Andrea Shogren.

The Prowlers played without point guard Kim Hook, sidelined by illness, and had Nicole Kopari on the bench for much of the third quarter with four fouls.

"Overall, I was pleased," said Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "We played well in the second quarter, but we lost our momentum. We stayed with them in the fourth quarter, but we just couldn't get it back."

Loe cited performances by Amber Klinker, Taya Hunt, Katie Harbott and Alicia Bakken, who helped fill the void left by Hook and Kopari. "We had some kids who came in and played well," he said.

B/G/MR girls handle Marshall Co. Central

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River beat Marshall County Central 63-36 Thursday in a girls high school basketball game that featured 50 fouls and 62 free throws.

The Gators were 27-for-42 at the line, while the Nordics made 10 of 20 free throws.

Neither team shot well from the field, with Badger/Greenbush-Middle River hitting 18 of 56 (32 percent) and Marshall County Central making 13 of 45 (29 percent).

"There were a lot of fouls, but good shooting really cleans the game up," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "We had a good floor game, but there must have been a lid on the basket."

The Gators led at the quarter stops 14-8, 29-16 and 46-22.

Nikki Wahl scored 15 points and Tiffany Hagen had 13 for the winners. Misty Fick led the Nordics with 10 points.

"They beat us pretty good," acknowledged Marshall County Central coach Jerald Hagen. "But I'm not real disappointed. We played four consistent quarters. They (Gators) have a solid team. There's a reason they've won 16 games."

The Gators had a 32-28 rebound edge and turned the ball over only five times, compared to 13 turnovers for the Nordics.

Gators finish with a victory over Ponies

Strong defense highlighted the final regular season high school basketball game for the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River girls Saturday as the Gators shut down Warren-Alvarado-Oslo 47-23.

The winners, who finished 17-5, had quarter leads of 9-6, 28-12 and 42-15.

"You hold a team to 23 points, you should be in pretty good shape to win the ball game," offered Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Nethaway. "The two middle quarters were good. We played a good floor game and we got good shots."

Stefanie Sparby netted all of her game-high 15 points in the first half for the Gators, getting 10 of them in the second quarter. Teammate Tiffany Hagen contributed 10 points.

The Gators were 21-for-46 from the field (47 percent) and 3-for-7 at the free throw line, where the Ponies were 3-for-11.

Roseau girls top MCC

Thirty-one points by Megan Taylor and 19 percent shooting by Marshall County Central added up to a one-sided 86-34 Roseau victory over the visiting Nordics Friday in regular season ending girls high school basketball.

Roseau led at the quarters 18-10, 33-18 and 66-24 as Taylor added to her record as the all-time scoring leader in Minnesota girls high school basketball.

The Nordics made it even harder on themselves by hitting just 13 of 67 field goal attempts and 7 of 19 free throws.

"We didn't shoot very well," admitted Marshall County Central coach Jerald Hagen. "We got more shots than usual, but we didn't make any more."

Roseau was 37-for-81 from the floor (46 percent), 7-for-17 at the line and out-rebounded the Nordics 56-26. Marshall County Central topped the turnover charts 19-14.

It was a make-up game from a Jan. 23 postponement.

Gators hold off Mustangs' rally

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River held off a fourth quarter Red Lake County Central rally Monday to escape from Plummer with a 62-58 boys high school basketball win.

The Gators led at the quarter stops 22-10, 38-25 and 48-33 before the Mustangs charged back. Down 61-58, Red Lake County Central set up for a potential game-tying 3-point shot in the final minute. The Mustangs got the open shot, pointed out Red Lake County Central coach Ryan Sedler, but missed and the Gators wound up tacking on a free throw on to the final.

"We set up and play and got the shot we wanted," explained Sedler, "but it just wouldn't go."

The regular season final for both sides left the Gators 12-10 and the Mustangs 5-17.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River had success against a Red Lake County Central zone in the first half, but the Mustangs' second half switch to a man-to-man defense tightened things up. "We were a little lazy in the zone in the first half," noted Sedler. "We made the change and did a much better job defensively in the second half. We made it close."

Matt Kujava scored 18 points, Jed Geer 14 and Jeremy Vacura 11 for the Gators. Mark Lorenson and Jimmy Dulka both netted 18 for the Mustangs.

Red Lake County Central was 19-for-43 from the field (44 percent) and 13-for-17 at the free throw line. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River went 21-for-55 from the floor (38 percent) and 15-for-25 at the line.

Tri-County shooting beats Grygla-Gatzke

Tri-County shooters were 8-for-11 from 3-point range Monday in a 59-51 boys high school basketball win over Grygla-Gatzke at Karlstad.

The Eagles opened with a 6-2 lead, but were then out-scored 14-0 over a nine-minute span.

Down 45-28 at one point, Grygla-Gatzke mounted a comeback similar to the rally that overcame a 19-0 deficit in a 66-61 Friday win over Roseau by chopping the difference to 47-43. But the Eagles got no closer.

"It was great to see the kids come back like that, but we just used too much energy to get to that point," offered Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "I was really impressed with Tri-County. They played well. Whenever they needed it, they came up with a big shot."

Seth Olson of Tri-County led all scorers with 19 points. Shaun Verbout had 17 to lead the Eagles.

Grygla-Gatzke was 20-for-46 from the field (43 percent) and 10-for-16 at the free throw line. Tri-County turned in a 50 percent 19-for-38 shooting performance from the field and made 13 of 18 free throws. The Eagles out-rebounded the Wildcats 28-22, but also had more turnovers, 19-11.

Grygla-Gatzke ended the regular season 15-6.

Prowlers lose to Knights 76-67 in overtime contest

Ben Hoff got Fisher/Climax into overtime, then his teammates took over Monday as the Knights rallied to beat visiting Thief River Falls 76-67 in boys high school basketball.

Hoff hit a 3-point basket with five seconds left to produce a 62-62 tie and send the game into overtime. The 6-7 senior fouled out in the first minute of the extra session, taking his game-high 41 points to the bench. The Knights, however, did not fold.

Dave Normandin took over for the winners, hitting a 3-pointer and 5 of 6 free throws in overtime.

Hoff knocked down six treys and was 7-for 8 at the free throw line. "He's a good one," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke. "We were on him all night, and he still hit the shots."

It was a frustrating setback for the 6-15 Prowlers, who led 14-9 at the end of the first quarter, had a 28-21 halftime edge and maintained a 43-36 third quarter spread.

"We just didn't execute very well down the stretch," said Brekke.

Thief River Falls tried to counter Hoff with a balanced attack that included Jared Brandt with 16 points, Anthony Hendricks 15, Kyle Waterworth 12, and Courtney Skjerven 12.

Norman County East opened the second half with three quick 3-point baskets to turn a 27-21 halftime lead into a 48-32 third quarter cushion and went on to beat Red Lake County Central 76-63 Friday in boys high school basketball at Plummer.

"It was a three point game at halftime, when all of a sudden we're down by 12," noted Red Lake County Central coach Ryan Sedler, whose team has had third quarter troubles most of the year.

The winners sealed it by hitting 17 of 18 free throws. The Mustangs were 9-for-16 at the line.

A one-two Norman County East scoring punch featured Kyle Olson with 29 points and John Gullingsrud with 23. Mark Lorenson led Red Lake County Central with 23 points.

With wins over Breckenridge and East Grand Forks Sacred Heart Saturday in Detroit Lakes, the Lincoln high school mock trial team earned advancement to the regional championship.

Lincoln will meet Fergus Falls at the Clay county courthouse in Moorhead Tuesday, March 4, at 12:30 p.m. with the winner to advance to state competition. Through an alphabetical order procedure by school name, Lincoln will represent the plaintiff in the case.

In the first trial Saturday morning at the Becker county courthouse in Detroit Lakes, Lincoln scored a 159-154 victory over a strong Breckenridge team. Representing the defense, Lincoln earned 74 points from scoring judge Bent Karlsen and 85 points from presiding judge Lynn Hummel, both of Detroit Lakes. The two judges respectively gave Breckenridge 73 and 81 points.

Defense team for Lincoln included Kate Ihle, Lesley Ihle and Sara Rasmussen as attorneys with Stephanie Wiseth, Rachel Greelis and Stephanie Stanina as witnesses.

Also in the morning East Grand Forks Sacred Heart won its trial over Perham to advance to the semifinal round against Lincoln. Thief River Falls won a coin toss and elected to represent the plaintiff in the trial against Sacred Heart, thereby giving the plaintiff team an opportunity to perform in competition.

Thief River Falls emerged from that trial with a seven-point win, 181 to 174. Scoring judge Laura Thomas gave Lincoln 89 points to 86 for Sacred Heart, while presiding judge Dennis Schurmann scored 92 to 88 in favor of Thief River Falls. Both judges are from Detroit Lakes.

Plaintiff team included Paul Delmert, Lesley Ihle and Kate Ihle as attorneys with Sara Rasmussen, Jenna Tsukichi and Nikolas Kotz as witnesses.

"The teams performed just great—the best they have all year," stated Cal Lindberg, teacher coach for the Lincoln team. "They conducted themselves in a very professional manner and showed good sportsmanship, following both trials. In fact, all the teams presented themselves very well, meeting and discussing on a friendly basis after the trials. Breckenridge and Sacred Heart both wished our team continued success."

Tuesday's trial at Moorhead will be the fifth regional championship appearance for a Lincoln team, but Thief River Falls has never advanced to the state meet—losing twice to Fergus Falls teams and twice to Virginia by a single point.

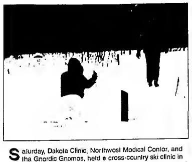
LEARNING TO SKI



Doo Larsen, Gnordic Gnome and cross-country ski instructor, said she felt good about the event, but would have liked to have spent more time with the individuals participating in the clinic. However, she was pleased to see so many of the participants stay after the clinic concluded to practice what they had learned.

Saturday, Dakota Clinic, Northwest Medical Center, and the Gnordic Gnomes, held a cross-country ski clinic in Thief River Falls. The event was held from 9 a.m. to noon and included classroom instruction and some valuable outdoor experience. At first, skiers seemed a little tentative, but by the end of the session were well on their way to experiencing a new sport.

Dee Lerson and Jan Puttbreso were the instructors for this event. The Bike and Ski Shop of Grand Forks provided ski rentals for the participants.

The outdoor session was held at Greenwood trails where members of the Gnordic Gnomes have been attempting to maintain a groomed trail system, despite snowmobile traffic.

Lerson said the participants seemed to enjoy the event. One individual said she didn't think she would enjoy it, but discovered just the opposite was true.

The Gnordic Gnomes club has been in existence for about five years. Anyone interested in participating in this club should call 681-2267.
